PREFACE

The research in this book began with an attempt to trace the ancestry of my grandparents, Joseph John and Marie Jessie Canterbury Miesen. In the process of pursuing this genealogical goal, the volume has become a microcosm of the westward movement in the United States. It documents the trials and sacrifices of our ancestors in settling this country, from the earliest immigrant on the Atlantic coast at New Netherlands, Warnaar van Hoornbeek, in 1660, to more recent descendants such as John Hubert and Lucile Shellabarger Miesen who made their homes literally on the shores of the Pacific in Depoe Bay, Oregon.

The book has been divided into two sections. Part one deals with the descendants of Asa and Margaret Hornback Canterbury dedicating a separate chapter to each of their children. Part two contains chapters dealing with some maternal lines of our ancestors.

Without the assistance and material provided by many of you, this book would not have been possible. I particularly want to thank Rosalie Vance Woerdeman, Gerald E. Collins, Irene Smith, Barbara Hope, Lea Phillips, Karna Gruber, Nancy Bennett, Elaine Hough, Sandy Ranier, James E. Regner, Tim Thompson, Shobe Fisher, and the many others who have patiently answered questions on the telephone and shared their family information.

Also I am indebted to Rosemary Wade of Des Moines County, Iowa, Genealogical Society, who provided much research regarding the descendants of Samuel E. Elliott of that county. I want to thank the many courthouse clerks who have personally assisted me or sent wills, deeds, etc., as well as the staff at various libraries including: the Carlsbad City Library, California; the Huntington Beach Library, California; the Los Angeles Public Library; the Moorefield Library in West Virginia, the Virginia State Library, and the Family History Library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Salt Lake City, Utah, and its branch library in Mission Viejo, California.

Without doubt there will be found errors and omissions in this book. Please accept my apologies. I eagerly anticipate your corrections and further contributions, either of which will be welcome. Perhaps errata can be published at a later date, or if necessary, a revised edition. Let us continue to work together to expand our knowledge of the genealogy of the Canterbury family.

EXPLANATIONS

Land Records

To acquire first title to land four steps were necessary: petition, warrant, survey or plat, and finally a patent. A land warrant was issued which entitled the bearer to a specific acreage and the right to obtain a survey. The patent could then be issued by the government or proprietor which passed title or a lease to the patentee. The lease was widely used in the Northern Neck of Virginia.

The American Land System established in 1785 and revised in 1796 created the division of land into ranges: numbered rows running from east to west, townships, numbered from a base south to north, and 36 sections, being one mile square or 640 acres, and numbered from 1 to 36, with number 1 being in the northeast corner of the township. A land description may read, for example, S32, T3, R6N, meaning section 32, township 3, range 6 north. The abbreviation, Twp., is used throughout for township.

Maps

Because many of our ancestors resided in western Virginia, and what is now, eastern West Virginia, maps of the area have been inserted in many chapters. If you have particular interest in any of the following surnames, be sure to check for maps in all these chapters: Alkire, Constant, Dieffenbach, Dyer, Harness, Hornback, Morgan, and Trumbo.

Names and Spelling

When our German and Dutch ancestors arrived in this country their names were often recorded in deeds and elsewhere by English speaking clerks who wrote the names phonetically. Therefore it cannot be assumed that in the documents of past centuries that only persons with the same spelling of the surname were related as would be true today. In other documents, such as wills, the general use of standardized spelling did not become widespread for a considerable time after the publication of Webster's dictionary in 1828, lending to them the charm of antiquity. I have preserved the original spelling when possible.

References

It would be impossible to include in this volume copies of the many primary documents, census records, deeds, surveys, wills, estate settlements, pension records, inventories, estate sales, cemetery records, and etc. in my files. Some information came from interviews, county histories, family genealogies, and other secondary sources, the accuracy of which cannot be assured. I have attempted to provide the source of my information by means of footnotes at the end of each chapter, imbedded in the text, or at the bottom of the page. A few footnotes will read intentionally omitted. These footnotes were often deleted because they contained telephone numbers or addresses, unreliable sources, or for other reasons.

Census Records

Federal census records were a valuable source of information. The first census was taken in 1790 in the thirteen original states and was repeated every ten years with new states being added each decade. The earliest census records did little more than give the name of the head of household, the number of male and female residents, and sometimes hints as to neighbors. Since 1790 progressively more information has been provided by the census. It was not until 1850 that names of wives and children, ages, places of birth, and value of property were included. Most of the 1890 census was destroyed by fire. Present day federal census records are available only through 1920. In some cases state census records provided additional information.

Heraldry

Many persons display a coat of arms in the belief that they are entitled to its use because it bears their surname. A coat of arms belongs to an individual and not to a family name. To be entitled to the use of a coat of arms one must establish uninterrupted male descent from such an individual. No one in our known ancestry possessed a coat of arms.

Double Dating

Often you will see a date such as February, 1720/1. This does not mean the date is uncertain. Before the reform of the Julian Calendar to the Gregorian Calendar the new year began on March 25th. The adoption of the new calendar in 1752 changed the new year to January lst. Therefore, dates preceding 1752 which fall between January 1st and March 25th are double dated to indicate the year on either calendar.

Dates found in Quaker records pose another difficulty. The Friends did not use Roman names for months. They employed numbers in their place as, "the third month of 1725." These dates were subject to the double dating discussed in the previous paragraph as well.

HIS DESCENDANTS

Introduction

THE CANTERBURY FAMILY

Although the surname, Canterbury, can be found in, Massachusetts as early as 1638 when William Canterbury had a fishing lot in Salem, and in Virginia as early as 1685, when John Canterbury emigrated from Devonshire, England, on the ship, John, a connection from neither of these early families to Asa Canterbury has been made. We can be certain that Asa Canterbury was of English ancestry.

Asa Canterbury first appeared in Montgomery County, Kentucky, in the year 1803 when he was apprenticed to Zebulon G. Cantrall, but did not pay taxes in that county until 1810. He was transferred to the Bath County tax rolls the following year when Bath was formed from Montgomery. No Canterbury family was located in Montgomery or Bath County at that time or in subsequent years; however, Montgomery County was formed in 1788 from Botetourt County, and in the year 1785 two Canterberry families were tax payers in the latter county where they had surveyed land on Elliott's Creek, Samuel, and William who married first Betsy Ann Lawson in 1789.

The tax rolls of Bourbon County, Kenturcky, in 1799 and 1800, listed Nimrod Canterbury, born 1775, Reuben Canterbury, born 1775, and John Canterbury, born 1774. These three Canterburys were the children of Jedithon and Nancy Franklin Canterberry of Surry County, North Carolina and were all to young to have parented Asa. Jedithon's will was proved in 1786 two years before the birth date of Asa Canterbury. The father of Jedithon was one Asa Canterbury of Dumfries, England, who settled in North Carolina in 1765. His known children were all too young to be our Asa's father.

Particular attention has been given to John Canterberry who married Nancy Lowe on October 17, 1786, in Greenbrier Co., Virginia, thus making this couple a likely candidate as parents of Asa who was born in 1788. The History of the Early Settlers of Sangamon County by Powell, page 177. stated that Asa's father died when he was a child and his mother moved to Bath County, Kentucky. If indeed Asa's father had died, John and Nancy Lowe Canterbury could not have been his parents as John did not die until October 24, 1840, at which time he was a resident of Monroe Co., (West) Virginia. Family records of descendants of John and Nancy Lowe Canterbury recognize no Asa among their children.

Still another family attracting interest was that of Samuel Canterbury who married Flora Perry. This family resided in Boone County, (West) Virginia. It must be noted that Asa Canterbury named his fifth son, Oliver Perry Canterbury.

Being unable to identify the parents of our Asa Canterbury, we will continue with his family taking up each member in turn and tracing as many descendants as possible.

Chapter I

THE FAMILY OF ASA F. CANTERBURY

First Generation

1. Asa F.[1] Canterbury. Born, 7 Mar 1788, in Botetourt Co., VA[2]. Died, 16 Oct 1856, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL[3]. Buried in Canterbury Cem., Fancy Creek Twp. Sangamon Co., IL. Census: 1810, in Montgomery Co., KY, p. 374. Census 1820: Fleming Co., KY; p. 44. Census: 1830, in Sangamon Co., IL; p. 191. Census: 1850, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL; p. 251. Occupation: farmer.

Believed to be Asa and Margaret Hornback Canterbury from The Antioch Christian Church

Asa married Margaret "Peggy" Hornback[4], daughter of Abraham Hornback and Elizabeth Trumbo, in 1809, in Aberdeen, Brown Co., OH[5]. Born, 6 Feb 1793, in Bourbon Co., KY[2]. Birth(2). 6 Feb 1791[6]. Died, 8 Jul 1857, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL[2]. Burial in Canterbury Cem., Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL.

The 1850 census informed us that Asa Canterbury's place of birth was Virginia. His date of birth is believed to have been March 7, 1788. According to The History of the Early Settlers of Sangamon County, Illinois, Asa Canterbury's father died when he was a child. A clue to his mother's maiden name has come from the middle name, Owens, which was given to Asa's first daughter, Mariah Owens Canterbury. Another family middle surname was Oliver Perry Canterbury, who may have been named for Oliver Hazard Perry, a hero of the War of 1812, famed for the quotation, "We have met the enemy and they are ours." This message was sent to Brigadier General William Henry Harrison after whom many children of the day were named, including Asa's son, Carlisle Harrison Canterbury, and William Henry Harrison Holland of this volume. Still another of Asa's children, John, had the middle name, Tecumseh, as known from cemetery records. The brother of the Indian, Tecumseh, engaged in a battle with Brigadier General H. H. Harrison. The name of "Owens" alone cannot be accounted for as honoring a famous warrior.

After the death of Asa's father when he was a child, his mother moved to Montgomery County, Kentucky. On August 22, 1803, at the age of sixteen, Asa, an orphan, was apprenticed to Zebulon G. Cantrall to become a shoemaker. This was recorded in Montgomery County, Kentucky Court Records, Volume II, page 523. The Canterbury family continued its association with the Cantrall family in Sangamon County, Illinois, where both families removed some years later. It must be stated that the parents of Asa Canterbury could not have been John and Nancy Lowe Canterbury as has been reported by many of his descendants. John lived for many years after Asa was apprenticed as an orphan.

In 1809 Asa and Margaret "Peggy" Hornback were married. Peggy, aged sixteen, could not obtain the consent of her parents to marry. Therefore the couple eloped to Aberdeen, Brown County, Ohio, just across the Ohio River where no license was required. Brown County has no marriage records for that time period.

In 1810 Asa Canterbury appeared on Montgomery County, Kentucky, tax rolls, and census lists. The following year Asa paid taxes in Bath County when it was formed from Montgomery. In 1813 the tax rolls were organized by membership in military companies, reflecting organization for the War of 1812. Asa and his wife's relatives, the Trumbos and Hornbacks, were in "Trumbo's Company", a part of the 65th regiment of Kentucky.

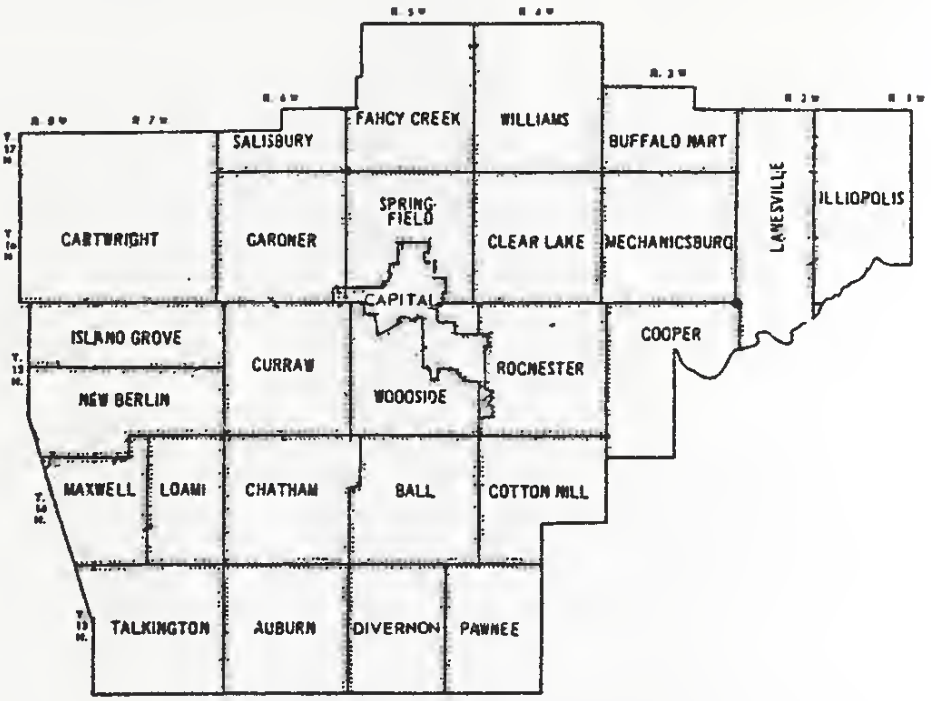
Asa's family last appeared on Bath County tax rolls in 1817. The land records of Fleming County, Kentucky, showed that Asa Canterbury purchased one hundred fifty acres on the Licking River from Josiah Carrol on August 20, 1817, as recorded in Fleming County, Kentucky Deed Book G, page 519. In 1826 this property was sold and recorded in Deed Book N, page 378. Thus Asa continued to pay taxes in Fleming County through 1826.

By 1823 Asa had purchased property in Sangamon County paying taxes there in 1823. He did not bring his family to Illinois until the fall of 1826. The lengthy journey was made by means of a wagon and a five horse team. The Canterburys made their home one mile west of the present town of Cantrall in Fancy Creek Township. In 1824 members of the Cantrall family had removed to Sangamon County, and in October of 1825, Asa's father-in-law, Abraham Hornback, had settled on Indian Creek. Among other related families who removed to Sangamon County from Bath and other counties of Kentucky were: the Alkires, Constants, Morgans, Killions, Brackens, and Trumbos.

Asa built a log cabin of one and a half stories, said to have been one of the finest structures on the prairies. It was in Illinois that the couple's last four children were born, completing their family of eleven children.

On May 15, 1820, the first church of Sangamon County was formally organized by the Reverend Stephen England as the Antioch Christian Church. He had been a Baptist preacher in Bath County, Kentucky, and had been known there by the Trumbo, Hornback, and members of the Canterbury families. The Canterbury family joined this church. Three of the grandchildren of the Reverend Stephen England married children of Asa Canterbury.

When Asa's father-in-law, Abraham Hornback, died in 1833, Asa purchased a scythe and two augers at the auction of his estate.



The original 1835 tax book of Sangamon County recorded the following land purchases for Asa Canterbury:

DATE	ACREAGE	LOCATION
7 Nov 1823	80 acres	W 1/2, NE 1/4, S25, T17, R6
18 Oct 1826	80 acres	W 1/2, NE 1/4, S18, T17, R6
19 Oct 1826	80 acres	E 1/2, NE 1/4, S18, T17, R5
19 Aug 1829	80 acres	E 1/2, SE 1/4, S18, T17, R5
7 Nov 1829	80 acres	W 1/2, NE 1/4, S25, T17, R6

Other land transactions involving Asa were:

DATE	ACREAGE	LOCATION	GRANTOR/GRANTEE
7 Jul 1835	40 acres	SW 1/4, SE 1/4, S13, T17N., R6W	Asa Canterbury from U.S.
17 Apr 1840	60 acres	part N 1/2, SW 1/4 and W 1/2, NW 1/4, S 15, T18N, R6W	Asa Canterbury to Andrew Hornback
27 Apr 1848	40 acres	N 1/2, E 1/2, SE 1/4, S13, T17N, R6W	Asa to son, Oliver P.
12 Feb 1849	20 acres		Asa to son, John T.

An 1858 map of Fancy Creek Township in Sangamon County showed Asa "F." Canterbury in section 36. not recognizing his death in 1856. Asa's daughter, Margaret Canterbury England, named her first son, Asa Francis England. Possibly Asa's middle initial "F." stood for Francis as no other Francis is known in the ancestry of Asa Francis England. Asa's son, Carlisle Harrison Canterbury. named his second son, Charles F. Canterbury, again raising the possibility of carrying on a family name of Francis. Asa Francis Canterbury, son of Stephen and Margaret Canterbury England, was about six years of age in 1858 and therefore could not have been the owner of section 36.

Asa Canterbury wrote his will on October 29, 1851. He died on October 16, 1856, reputed to have been the richest man in the vicinity of Cantrall. His will was proved, November 10, 1856, by his executors and sons, Carlisle H. Canterbury and John T. Canterbury. Below is a transcription of the will as recorded in Sangamon County, Illinois Will Book 3:

> I, Asa Canterberry of the County of Sangamon in the State of Illinois Do make and publish this my last will and Testament, in manner and form following that is to say
> First, it is my will that my funeral Expenses and all my just debts be fully paid
> Second, I give to my beloved wife Margaret Canterbury Two hundred dollars absolutely > Third, I give to the children of my son Isaac T Canterbury (deceased late of Iowa) one dollar each
> Lastly, It is my will that all money left by me at my death (not otherwise disposed of by this will) be divided among my legal heirs Carlile H. Canterhury, Mariah O. Primm, John T. Canterbury, Oliver A [1] Canterhury, Eliza Jane Cline, Martha A. Britton, Margaret England, and Juliann Ann Canterbury so that each one of the said heirs shall receive equal amounts of my entire estate - that is, it is my intention that each shall have an equal amount counting to each what he or she may have received from me before my death
>
> And further, I herehy constitute and appoint my sons Carlisle H. Canterbury and John T Canterhury to be executors for this my last will and Testament. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-ninth day of October one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one.
>
> Signed, puhlished and declared by the above named Asa Canterhury as and for his last will and Testament, in presence of us who at his request, have signed as Witnesses the same
> William D Power
> Isaac Dunlap
> Asa Canterhury

Asa's widow, Margaret, died the following year on July 8, 1857. Asa and Margaret were buried in the Canterbury Cemetery on Indian Point Road in S15/T18N/R6W of Sangamon County.

The children of Asa and Margaret Hornback were:

Isaac T. Canterbury
Mariah Owens Canterbury Carlisle Harrison Canterbury
Valentine Canterbury
John Tecumseh Canterbury
Eliza Jane Canterbury
Oliver A. or Perry Canterbury
Martha Ann Canterbury
Margaret Canterbury
Abraham B. Canterbury
Juliann Canterbury

Valentine and Abraham B. Canterbury were the only children to die in their youth. Valentine Canterbury was born December 5, 1816, in Bath County, Kentucky. He died on March 2, 1834. Abraham B. Canterbury was born on October 1, 1832, in Fancy Creek Township, Sangamon County,

[1] The will of Asa Canterbury clearly stated that the middle initial of Oliver Canterbury, was A. Every other known source stated his name to have been Oliver Perry Canterbury.

Illinois, according to the records of the Antioch Christian Church. He died on September 8, 1844. Both children were buried in the Hornback Cemetery.

Their last child, Juliann Canterbury, married Augustus J. Bronson. Juliann was born March 7, 1835 in Fancy Creek Township, Sangamon County, Illinois. Her husband was born on May 31, 1832 in New York state. The couple was located in the June 1, 1880 Census in township 18, range 4 west, Menard County, Illinois, at which time they had no children. Nothing else is known of this family.

The remaining children of Asa and Margaret Hornback Canterbury will be discussed in turn, each in his own chapter.

Chapter II

DESCENDANTS OF ISAAC T. CANTERBURY

First Generation

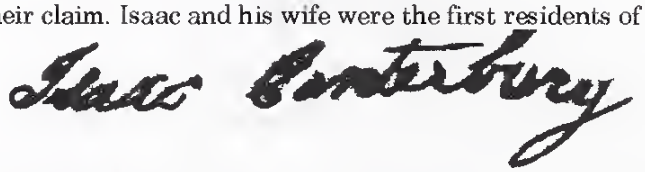
1. Isaac T.[1] Canterbury[1], son of Asa F. Canterbury and Margaret "Peggy" Hornback. Born, 29 Nov 1810, in Montgomery Co., KY[2]. Died, 21 Apr 1848, in Des Moines Co., IA[3]. Isaac married Elizabeth "Betsy" Morgan, daughter of William Morgan and Sarah Vance. 22 Jul 1830, in Springfield, Sangamon Co., IL[4]. Born, 7 May 1814, in Fayette Co., IN, near Alpine[5]. Died, 24 Dec 1902, in Otter Creek Twp., Lucas Co., IA[6]. Buried in Norwood Cem., Otter Creek Twp., Lucas Co., IA[7]. Census: 9 Oct 1850, in Danville Twp., Des Moines Co., IA; p. 423. Census: 1860, in Oskaloosa, Mahaska Co., IA; p. 118. Census: 3 Jun 1870, in Pleasant Grove Twp., Des Moines Co.. IA; p. 523. Census: 21 Jul 1880, in Decatur Twp., Decatur Co., IA; ED57 SH20[8]. Occupation: midwife.

Isaac T. Canterbury was the eldest son of Asa Canterbury and Peggy Hornback. He was born in Montgomery County, Kentucky, but his family moved to Sangamon County, Illinois, when he was about sixteen. It was there he met Elizabeth Morgan, the daughter of Judge William Morgan and Sarah Vance Morgan. Isaac and Elizabeth were married July 22, 1830. Before the Black Hawk Purchase opened in June of 1833, Isaac and Elizabeth, together with Elizabeth's father, Judge Morgan, and his married children, came into the Flint Hills area, about three miles south of present Burlington. Iowa. They had hoped to build their cabins and fences and put in spring crops before the formal opening of the territory; however, U. S. soldiers drove them off their land and back to the Illinois side of the Mississippi River, destroying cabins and crops of many settlers. The Canterburys returned when the territory opened and entered their claim. Isaac and his wife were the first residents of Union Township



The first court of the Des Moines County, Territory of Michigan, was held on April 13. 1835, with Isaac's father-in-law acting as the presiding judge. On the third day of the court a petit jury was impaneled. Isaac and his brothers-in-law, Alexander Hilleary and Lewis Watters. served on the jury.

The Portrait and Biographical Album of Des Moines County, Iowa, pages 228-229. provided us with the following biographical sketch:

> Isaac Canterbury, the father of our subject, was reared upon a farm in Sangamon County, Ill., where he grew to manhood, was united in marriage with Elizabeth Morgan, and there rented land until 1834, when he emigrated to Des Moines County, entering a claim three miles south of the present city of Burlington, then known as Flint Hills. In 1837 he sold that farm and removed to Danville Township settling near Middletown, where he entered land and developed a farm. He added to his possessions until he had 400 acres of fine land, upon which he was residing at the time of his death, which occurred April 21, 1848, at the age of thirty-eight years....Mr. Canterbury was a devoted member of the Christian Church, to which organization his wife also belonged. A public-spirited man, he always took an active interest in the affairs of the community, was a leader in his neighborhood, and aided largely in all public enterprises. Politically, he was a Whig.

Two legal transactions have been located: a deed dated October 16, 1846, to Isaac Canterbury from Jeremiah Driggs, transferred a tract in Washington County, Iowa, in the E 1/2 of NE 1/4 of section 22 and the E 1/2 of NE 1/4 of section 25, township 74N, range 7W, and a second deed dated April 3, 1848, in which Isaac signed a note "for value received" promising to pay Samuel Elliott one hundred forty-four dollars with 10% interest per annum. The grantor of the latter deed, Samuel Elliott, was a resident of Danville Township and was the grandfather of Matilda Welch who married Isaac's son, John, some years after Isaac's death.

Isaac's widow, Elizabeth, and his brother, Carlisle Harrison Canterbury, were named administrators of his estate. The debts of the estate totaled $1,077.44. Among those owed money were: his brother, Carlisle; Jonathan Morgan, who was the guardian of Sarah Isabella Morgan; Trevian H. Teas; James Watters; Samuel Elliott; and Isaac's future sons-in-law, William Woodard, and O. C. Wightman. Carlisle Harrison Canterbury and J. H. Scott were named guardians of the six minor children, but in 1850 Calvin J. Jackson was appointed guardian of John Canterbury.

Isaac's personal property was appraised on May 24, 1848, and sold the following day raising $916.69. Purchasers included: C. H. (Carlisle Harrison) Canterbury, Elizabeth Canterbury, William Morgan, William Martin, William and James Crawford, and Jonathan Morgan. Items sold included the following livestock: six pairs of steers, two spotted steers, seven sows and pigs, a line backed cow and calf, a black and white spotted cow and calf, a bay cow, five young cows, two old cows, two red cows, twelve yearling calves, three two year-old calves, twenty-nine sheep and lambs, a five year old sorrel mare, an eight year old sorrel mare, a nine year old gray mare, a three year old bay horse, a nine year old black mare, six heifers, three steers, and nine stands of bees. Other items were: farm tools, forty-two acres of Easter wheat, 1,000 bushels of corn, two wagons, saddle, bridle, and wagon harnesses.

80 acres in S20, T70, R3
78 acres in S19, T70, R3
90 acres in S24, T70, R4
90 acres in S24, T70, R4
23 acres in S23, T70, R4

Isaac was buried in the Old Middletown Cemetery where his wife's parents were later buried. An obituary appeared in the Burlington HAWK EYE on April 27, 1848, as follows:

> Died, eight miles west of Burlington at his residence, on the twenty-first day of April 1848 ISAAC T CANTERBERY, (from disease contracted in the South) a native of Kentucky. He moved from that state in youth, to Illinois, where he resided until some fifteen years past. when he came to this state he was one of the pioneers of this county. He suffered beyond all description in his last illness As a husband and father, he had but few equals; a life wholly devoted to his family appeared to be his only desire; their future welfare appeared to be on his mind during all of his sickness. As a neighbor, all will irreparably feel his death to be a great loss to this vicinity. He has left a wife, six children, extensive connexions and very many friends to mourn his sudden departure to the land of spirits. He died in the thirty-eighth year of his age Although he had scarcely passed the meridian of life he has been called from us to meet the Lord, whom he had chosen to be his God.

Two years later on the 8th of October, 1850, Elizabeth Canterbury and her children were recorded in the census as residents of Danville Township. Her eldest daughter and her son-in-law, William Woodard, and her first grandchild, Elizabeth, were living with her.

By July 2, 1860, Elizabeth was a resident of Oskaloosa Township in Mahaska County. Iowa. where her mother and father were located in the 1850 census. Her son, John, and her youngest daughter, Cynthia Ann, were still at home. Elizabeth eventually made her home with her daughter, Maria Canterbury Conrad. On November 8, 1889, Elizabeth Morgan Canterbury deposed in Norwood, Lucas County, Iowa, on behalf of her sister, Emily Morgan (Mrs. Carlisle Harrison) Canterbury, the latter applying for a dependent mother's pension following the death of her husband whose son, William, had died in the Civil War. Elizabeth was aged seventy-five at the time and could not write her name. She died on Christmas Eve, 1902, in Otter Creek Township, Lucas County, Iowa, at the age of eighty-eight, the cause of death being "old age." She was buried in the Norwood Cemetery in Otter Creek Township, Row 3 S-N.

The Portrait and Biographical Album of Des Moines County, Iowa, pages 228-229. provided us with the following biographical sketch of Carlisle Canterbury:

> Carlisle Canterbury resides on section 29, Pleasant Grove Township. When Des moines County formed part of the Territory of Michigan, when its now beautiful homes were vast prairies, when its inhabitants consisted of hut a few white people and a large number of Indians, Mr. Canterbury became a resident. In July, 1834, with his parents, he crossed the river and landed in Des Moines County. He is a native of Sangamon County, Ill., born Dec. 7, 1832.
>
> Our subject was reared on a farm in this county and received such education as could be obtained in the pioneer school-house. At the age of twenty he was united with Ann Ramsey, the ceremony being performed on the 5th of May, 1853. Mrs. Canterbury was a native of Ohio and is a daughter of Michael Ramsey, a pioneer settler of Des Moines County. The young couple began their domestic life upon a rented farm, where they remained until 1856, and then removed to Mahaska County, Iowa, where Mr. Canterbury purchased a farm on which they made their home until 1862. On the 28th of August of that year he enlisted in his country's service, becoming a member of Company E, 1st Iowa Cavalry, and serving as a private until March 12, 1866, when he received his discharge. He participated in all the battles of his regiment, and at Little Rock, Ark., was wounded by a gun-shot in the left leg, which disabled him for several months.

After his return from the war in which he had fought so noble and well, Mr. Canterbury rented a farm of 490 acres on section 29, Pleasant Grove Township, a part of which is his present home. For three years he continued to rent and then purchased 227 acres of the same farm[2] As a farmer he is energetic and systematic, and everything about his land denotes thrift and industry. Mr. Canterbury was honored by his fellow-citizens by the office of Marshal of New London, which he held for a term of three years. He was a competent and faithful officer, and during his service captured the noted horse-thief D. C. Horton. He also made the arrest of a burglar, who was concealed in a cellar and was the means of sending him to the penitentiary.

Socially, Mr. Canterbury is a member of the I.O.O.F., and politically, he is a stalwart Republican, firmly believing in the principles of that party. For fifty-four years he has been a resident of Des Moines County, during which time he has gained the entire confidence of the people.

On January 27, 1900, C. Canterbury purchased from the Henry County Land Company lot twelve in the second addition to the town of New London for the purchase price of $100.00.

The following obituary was published on August 25, 1902, by the Mt. Pleasant DAILY NEWS:

ANOTHER NEW LONDON DEATH

Carlyle Canterbury, Aged Pioneer Died Sunday Night in His Seventieth Year

New London, Aug. 25. - Carlyle Canterbury passed away last night at his home in New London. Mr. Canterbury had been in declining health for a year or more, but only for a few weeks had he been confined to the house. He was born in Sangamon county, Ill., seventy years ago, the coming December. His parents removed to Iowa when he was an infant and except for a few years in Mahaska county, his life has been spent in Des Moines and Henry counties. He was one of Des Moines county's oldest settlers. He was at one time possessed of considerable property but reverses of fortune left him in his old age a poor man. Mr. Canterbury was twice married. By his first wife who died about seventeen years ago, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mary Van Syoc, now living in Oklahoma. About sixteen years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Abbie Fuller who with several children, survives him.

The deceased was a member of Charity lodge I. O. O. F., and was a civil war veteran. The funeral will be conducted by this order at the M. P. church Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The New London JOURNAL CENTENNIAL published the following obituary:

Canterbury

Carlisle Canterbury (1832-1902) was born in Sangamon County, Illinois, the son of Isaac and Elizabeth Morgan Canterbury, and came with his parents to Des Moines County in 1834 (perhaps 1833). His grandfather William Morgan, was one of the earliest settlers in Burlington, later a judge. Both Isaac Canterbury and Colonel William Morgan were listed in the 1879 History of Henry County (page 362) as building on the present site of Burlington in February 1833, and being driven out by United States Soldiers because the land still belonged to the Indians. The 1888 Des Moines County Biographical Album listed (page 720) Isaac Canterbury as the first settler of Union Township, Des Moines County, in 1833.

In 1853, Carlisle Canterbury married Ann Ramsey, daughter of Michael Ramsey, who had built his cabin three miles east of New London in the 1830's. At the time the 1888 Biographical Album of Des Moines County was published, Ann Ramsey Canterbury had died and Carlisle and his second wife, Abbie T. Fuller, daughter of New London early settler, Joseph Fuller, were living on the farm in Pleasant Grove Township with their infant son Amos. Mary, who was Carlisle and Ann's daughter, was then Mrs. Finley Van Syoc. Estis Canterbury (1893-1959) was born at New London.

Carlisle Canterbury served in the Civil War and was wounded, and served for three years as New London's marshal thus: "He was a competent and faithful officer, and during his service captured the noted horse-thief D. C. Horton. He also made the arrest of a burglar, who was concealed in a cellar, and was the means of sending him to the penitentiary."

John Canterbury and Matilda Welch

John Canterbury was the son of Isaac T. and Elizabeth Morgan Canterbury. He was born on May 11, 17, or 27 of 1842, near Middletown, Danville Township, Des Moines County, Iowa. His death certificate gave his birth date as May 27, 1843. It also said he died aged 67 years, 7 months, 8 days. which would place his birth date as May 11th. Claquato Cemetery Association has his birth date as May 17, 1842.

John's father, Isaac. died in 1848 when he was aged five. Calvin J. Jackson was named his guardian. John began plowing at the tender age of six. By the age of thirteen he was taking the place of a full hand in the harvest. John graduated from Mt. Pleasant High School in 1858. On July 2, 1860. John was working as a farm laborer for his mother in Oskaloosa Township of Mahaska County. Iowa, but ten days later on July 12 1860, he was with his older brother, Carlisle Canterbury, aged twenty-seven, and his wife, Ann, aged twenty-five, and their daughter, Mary M., in Black Hole Township, of Mahaska County. He was listed as a student of mathematics. In 1861 he was attending law school in Keokuk, Keokuk County, Iowa.

When the Civil War began and Abraham Lincoln called for volunteers, John enlisted at Davenport, Iowa, on August 25, 1861, as a private in Company K, the 2nd Regiment of the Iowa Cavalry and served until his discharge on October 3, 1864. He appeared on the roll call of his regiment on January 20, 1862, and was admitted to the Regimental Hospital in Hamburg, Tennessee, with dysentery. He returned to active duty in October of 1862, but the following year on September 24th he was admitted again to the General Hospital at Hamburg with chronic diarrhea. Two days later he was returned to duty. On the 9th of October he returned to the hospital with compiaints of constipation and returned to duty on the 17th of the month. On the 5th of November, 1863, he again was in the hospital with a prolapsed rectum. Two days later he was returned to duty. In between hospital visits it seems likely he saw action in Tennessee at the Battle of Shiloh on April 6th and 7th in 1862, and on November 25, 1863, at Missionary Ridge.

John told his son, Arthur, that the worst battle was the Battle of the Wilderness. Service records indicated John was absent on detached service in May and June of 1864. This was the period of time in which Grant's army of 100,000 moved through the wilderness of Spotsylvania crossing the Rappahannock River near Fredericksburg to encounter General Lee. On May 5th and 6th the armies grappled in dense thickets. By May 12th Grant's army had losses of 26,000 killed and wounded. At the Spotsylvania Courthouse another 12,000 losses occurred. General Grant then crossed the James River and attacked the defenses of Petersburg from the south, holding siege to Petersburg through the winter of 1864, and causing Richmond to be abandoned which led to the surrender of Lee on April 9, 1865. Although John was mustered out of service in Davenport, Iowa, on October 3, 1864, his service contributed to the eventual defeat of Lee in the south.

After the war John married Matilda Caroline Welch. They were married by a Methodist minister, Jesse Craig, in a double ceremony with Matilda's brother, Samuel E. Welch and Mary Cline, on January 9, 1866. The ceremony was performed at Mt. Pleasant, Henry County, Iowa. Before her marriage Matilda Welch had kept a diary during the Civil War years. In it were poems and signatures of her own family members, aunts, cousins, and friends. Those relatives who could be identified as signatories in the diary have their signatures recorded in this volume. The diary was passed to Matilda's daughter, Jessie Canterbury Miesen, and in turn to Jessie's daughter, Thelma Miesen Clarke, and finally to Thelma's daughter, Carol Clarke Lewis.

One prophetic poem from the album has been quoted below:

To Miss Matilda

An hundred years from now,
Where, will this Album be
Whose hand will turn those pages
And think of her who owns it now
But then will he, no more
Who in, the quite hush of eve
Will to that, lonely spot repair
And Shed A Solitary tear upon her grave
It may be then love, meet when it shall

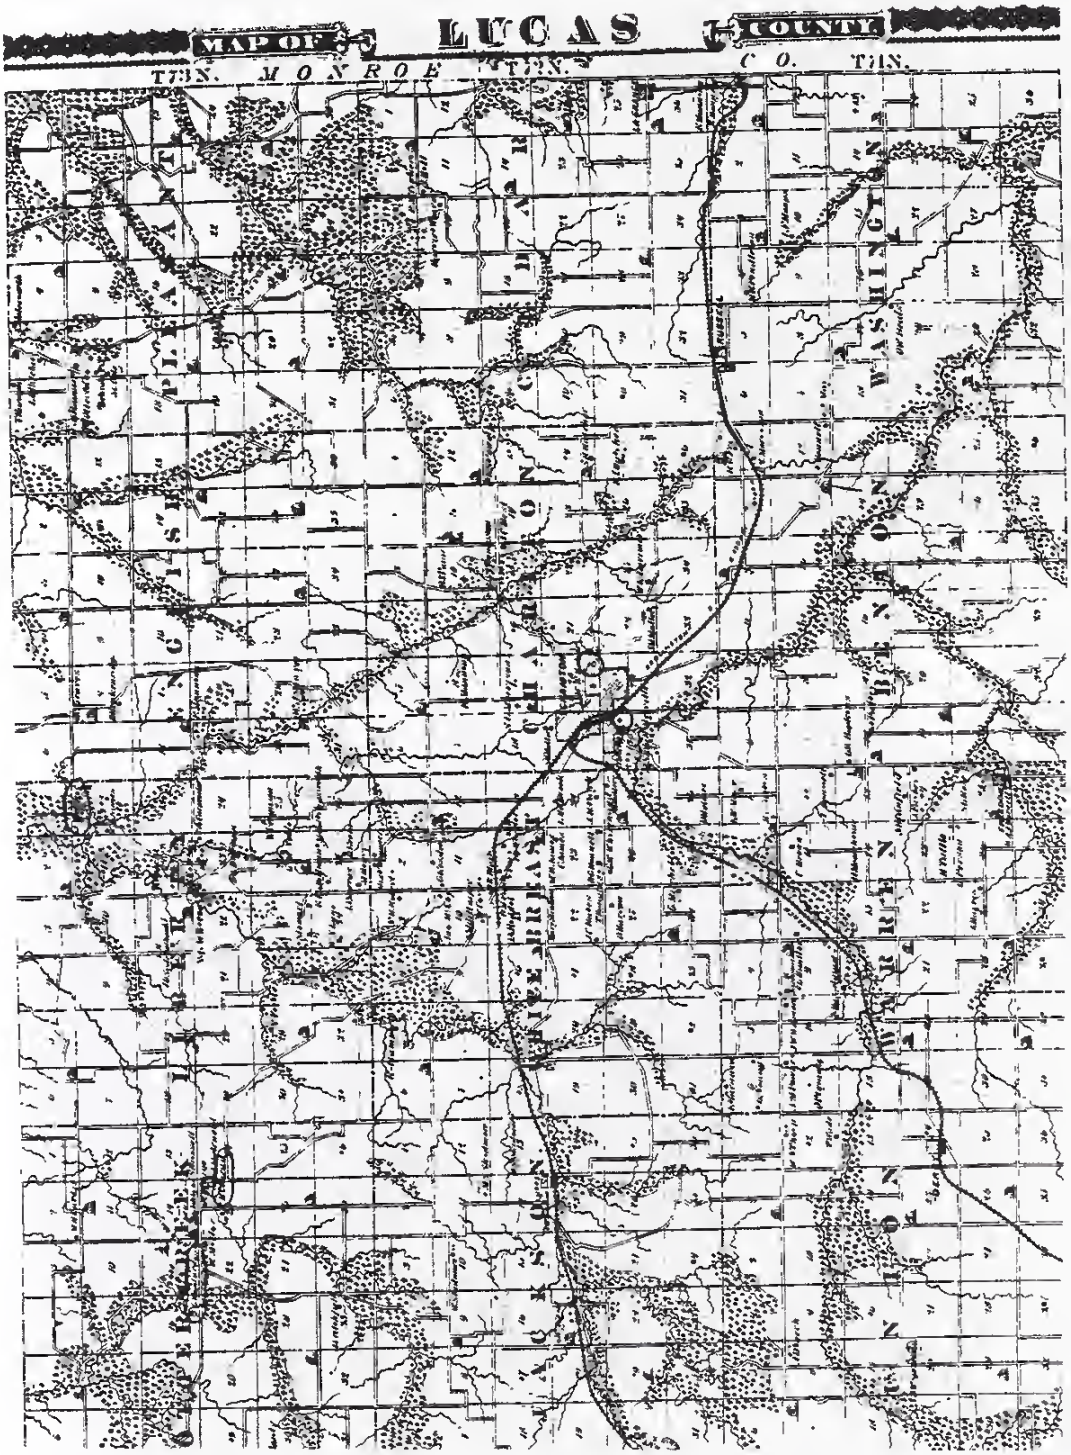
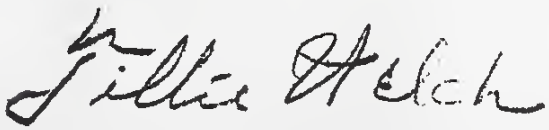
The newlyweds made their home in Otter Creek, Lucas County, Iowa, where John taught in the first district school located on a corner of his own farm. By the time of the census of August 16, 1870, the Canterburys had three children: Marquis, Albert, and Mary.



After the sale of their ninety acre farm to John's brother-in-law, Frederick Leehart, who lived across the road, John opened a butcher shop in Hamburg. This business failed due to poor credit risks some time before the 1880 census. By then John and Matilda had removed to Decatur Township. Decatur County, Iowa.

By 1889 the Canterburys were residents of Fremont County, Iowa, but in 1890 moved to Madison Township, Jasper County, Missouri. In 1893 their daughter, Jessie, married Joseph John Miesen, and settled in neighboring Barton County. That same year the Canterbury's son, Mark, died of typhoid fever, as did Bert the following year. The parents had the disease but recovered.

In 1898 sons, Arthur and Guy, moved to Washington state where they both taught school in Lewis County. They wrote home telling of the nice climate in Washington. On June 16, 1900, John and Matilda were listed in the census of Jasper County, Missouri. with five of their youngest children. Two neighbors in that census were daughter, Mary E., who had married Luther Mulford. and the A. C. Carson family, with sons, Frank, aged twenty-nine, who married Fay Canterbury six months later on January 21, 1901, and Carter, aged twenty, who married Maggie Canterbury on March 21, 1901. Maggie returned from Chehalis, Washington, for this marriage. Her residence was given as Chehalis on her Jasper County marriage license.



Matilda and John had eleven children, as is known from the 1910 census, eight of whom were surviving at that time. The names of only ten of the children are known.

In January of 1901 the Canterbury, Mulford, Carson, and Miesen families moved to Chehalis, Lewis County, Washington. The trip was made by rail. The Canterbury family settled on the "Ludwig place", west of Chehalis, where John raised produce to be peddled in town helped by his grandsons, Lloyd and Hubert. John assisted in financing his son, Guy's, dental school education. Guy set up practice in Aberdeen, Washington. Son, Arthur, became Superintendent of Schools in Lewis County. Son, Ray, became proprietor of an oyster farm in Quilcene, Washington.

A stroke caused John, then aged sixty-four, to apply for a Civil War pension on March 22, 1906. The pension papers described him as 5' 9 1/2" tall, with dark complexion, brown/gray hair, and blue eyes. He stated his birth date as May 17, 1842, which was at variance with his death record which gave his birth date as the 27th of May. As this death record was rife with error, we accept the 17th of May as his true birth date. The latter date was also the birth date on his memorial stone. In his pension papers John gave his occupation as farmer. At the time of this application he was suffering from chronic rheumatism, chronic diarrhea, piles, kidney trouble, and senile debility. On the 8th of March in the following year a second application was made. John's death probably occurred on December 19, 1908, in Chehalis. The cause of death was senile dementia. His death certificate and the drop order issued by the Department of the Interior Bureau of Pensions, certificate #386149, gave his death date as December 19, 1909. Also the application of his widow for a widow's pension stated his death date as December 19, 1909. He was buried in the Odd Fellows section of the Claquato Cemetery in Chehalis, and its records said he died on December 19, 1908.

Following John's death his widow, Matilda, applied for her own Civil War widow's pension. She listed the birth dates of the eight living children, but the years of their birth were all at variance with other records. Possibly she had assistance in making out these forms from one of the other family members, and that is why they were in error. In the 1910 census Matilda was living with her son, Ray. She died at 5 p.m. on April 4, 1923, of a cerebral hemorrhage with softening, a secondary cause of death being influenza and encephalitis. She had been living the past five years with her daughter, Maggie Carson, at 3564 South Gunnison, Tacoma, Washington. Matilda was aged seventy-nine years and two months at the time of her death. She was buried beside her husband in Chehalis.

From Past and Present of Lucas and Wayne Counties, Iowa, Volume II, pages 257-8, came the following biographical information about Fred C. Conrad:

> One of the finest country homes in Lucas county, set in a fertile tract of three hundred and eighty-three acres of choice land in Otter Creek township, bespeaks the prosperity and substantial position of Fred C. Conrad, who since infancy has been a resident of this township, where he has grown to manhood, his interests having been closely connected with the development of this region. A well educated man, he takes a deep interest in the issues and questions of the day as they affect government and general conditions, and is widely respected as one of the best informed men of his community.
>
> Fred C. Conrad was reared under the parental roof and in the acquirement of his education attended the common schools in the vicinity of his father's farm whom he helped in the work on the homestead in his leisure hours. He is now engaged in the cultivation of three hundred and eighty-three acres of choice land on sections 23, 24, and 27, Otter Creek township, which are equipped with two sets of good improvements. Mr. Conrad has just completed one of the finest country homes in Lucas county - furnace-heated, gas-lighted, with hot and cold running water, and up-to-date in every respect. He takes great pride in his home and recognizes the importance of creating a true home atmosphere so that his children, although living on a farm, may lack nothing that a city affords. For this reason he also has garnered a very complete library, and much of the time the family spend their leisure in literary pursuits.....Mr. and Mrs. Conrad, recognizing the value of a good education, give their children the best advantages that can be obtained, and in their home help in any possible way to improve the opportunities through books and study. Mrs. Conrad has taught school for five terms in her own home and her sister, Mrs. Rodgers, has the remarkable record of having taught for fifty years.
>
> Politically Mr. Conrad is a democrat and fraternally a member of Good Shepherd Lodge, No. 414, A. F. & A. M. of Lucas; and Camp No. 5040, M. W. A. of Norwood, serving at the present time as clerk of the latter. Both Mr. and Mrs. Conrad are highly esteemed and respected for their substantial qualities of character and are a valuable addition to the community, not only from a material point of view, but from the standpoint of intellectuality and morality.

Joseph John Miesen and Marie Jessie Canterbury

Joseph John Miesen was the eldest son and fifth child of his parents, John Joseph and Marie Kemper Miesen. His childhood was spent in Perry, Pike County, Illinois. There he worked in his father's carriage and wagon manufacturing business until it burned in 1882. The family then moved to Boston, Barton County, Missouri. Boston was a village through which the Missouri Pacific tracks ran. One hundred years later it is a dying hamlet which can only be reached on unpaved roads.

In Barton County Joseph's father purchased a farm on which his three sons worked. It was located not far from the Boston post office. Joseph's younger brothers, George and Robert, left the farm first. Joseph, who remained at home, had married Jessie Canterbury of Richland Township. Their marriage was performed by Elder Gnibbs of the Baptist Church on Sunday morning, May 7, 1893 at Jessie's father's home. The new family set up housekeeping in a small white house at one corner of the Miesen farm.

In 1894 Joe entered into a partnership with Sherd Barnsley and began a general store in Esrum, a small village near Boston. Joseph, having left the financial management of the store to his partner, was shocked when told the firm was bankrupt.

In his last few years in Barton County, Joe rented a farm of his own. In January of 1901, Jessie's parents, the Canterburys, and several of their daughters' families, as well as Joe's father, now a widower, moved to Chehalis, Lewis County, Washington. Jessie's brothers had removed to Washington and had encouraged their parents to join them. The journey, several days in length, was made by train.

Joe moved his family to nearby Doty, Washington, where he worked as a painter and later as a fireman in a sawmill. He soon became an engineer in charge of steam engines. Joe's brother, George, was also employed by the mill. Because the mill paid its employees in company store script, about a year later Joe returned with his family to Chehalis and his brother removed to the St. Joe River near St. Maries, Benewah County, Idaho.

Upon his return to Chehalis Joe found employment as a fireman in a shingle mill earning $2.50 for his ten hour day. In 1905 Joe began a meat business selling the beef door to door. The following year Joe's father loaned him $500.00 at 6% interest. He purchased three teams, harnesses and wagons and began a fuel business by purchasing slab wood and lumber trimmings from Brown's mill. By 1907 he had five teams, and in 1909 Joe opened the Chehalis Transfer Business which offered wood, coal, storage, and general hauling. The growth of the business was made possible by long working hours, 5 a.m. until 10 p.m., and reinvestment of his profits in the business.

Joseph and Jessie had five children; a young daughter, Fay, died at age one. When World War I began their sons, Lloyd and Hubert, were drafted into military service. Before the war the young boys had assisted their father in delivering wood, and after the war the boys returned home and again worked with their father.

Joe's long hours of work at his struggling business took a toll on the marriage. In those days grounds for divorce were limited and Jessie claimed in her suit that she had been deserted for five months by her husband. She also claimed that since 1913 her husband had been indifferent to her, never speaking to her or being at home except to take his meals. Jessie was given a divorce decree on July 21, 1919, and was awarded custody of their only minor child, Thelma. Strangely, however, at the time of the January 1920 census all of the children were living with their father at 1029 Main Street. Jessie, aged forty-two, was no longer with the family but living in Tacoma as housekeeper for Wesley B. Skidmore, boilermaker. He was a widower aged forty-five with three children ranging in age from nine to eighteen.

In November of 1919 Joe had angered the lumber powers of Chehalis by having given verbal approval of the Industrial Workers of the World who had won an eight hour day from company owners. As a result, all of Joe's lumber contracts were canceled. Having been put out of business, Joe liquidated his assets. Lloyd and Hubert each received one-fourth of the profits amounting to $5,000.00 apiece.

After the sale of the business in the summer of 1920, Lloyd, Hubert, and Thelma joined their mother in Tacoma where she bought a house at 1912 N. Anderson St. Hubert found employment in South Bend, Washington, with a road contractor. Joe took his daughter, Hazel, to Wisconsin, Missouri, and Texas to visit relatives. On this trip Joe was conned into giving some men $8,000.00 for an El Paso, Texas, investment; they absconded with Joe's funds.

Upon his return to Chehalis in late 1920, Joe began a new business hauling wood with a team and wagon. He boarded with his wife's sister, Daisy, and her husband, Walter Russell. On September 8, 1920, Joe sold lot 8, block 22 in W. M. Urquhart's Addition of Chehalis.

Lloyd Miesen provided the following account of the death of his father on September 8, 1921, in his book, As I Remember It, page 28:

> ...A few weeks later he bought a colt and was hitching it up to a wagon with another horse. The colt was a gentle farm horse.
> When he got them hitched to the wagon Dad was standing at the colt's head holding its bridle. Carl was in the wagon holding the lines. The colt reared up on its hind feet. Dad must have hung on to the bridle as he was knocked to the ground and the horse came down on him stepping on his face breaking his jaw in three places. This was about 11 o'clock. At 2 o'clock he was in the hospital, and Dr. Stricker had been called. Dad walked into the hospital without assistance from the car. He died on the operating table from shock. They said they could not give him full anesthetic because his heart would not stand it.

Son, Hubert, had come to Chehalis for supplies and viewed this accident. The official cause of death, which occurred at 2 p.m. at St. Helen's Hospital, was a blood clot in the trachea. Hubert was named administrator of Joe's estate on September 28th. The estate was valued at about $1700.00 and was distributed to his four children. Joe was buried in Mountain View Cemetery in Chehalis.

Jessie was supported thereafter by her sons and Hazel. Jessie's home in Tacoma was sold in 1937, and she made her residence in Portland at the Campbell Hotel, often visiting Lloyd, Hubert, and Hazel, all of whom were living in Portland. She suffered a stroke in 1949 and thereafter lived in a nursing home. On May 8, 1954, she died at 10:30 a.m. at the Belle Villa Sanitarium of cerebral thrombosis; antecedent causes of death were arteriosclerosis and hypertension.

Census: 2 Jun 1900, in Northfork Twp., Barton Co., MO; ED24. Census: 6 May 1910, at 944 Sitka St, Chehalis, Lewis Co. WA; ED134 SH11. Census: 12 Jan 1920, at 1029 Main St., Chehalis, Lewis Co, WA; ED126 SH5A. Occupation: fuel dealer.

Lloyd married Irene Margaret Youngbluth, 24 Apr 1924, in Los Angeles, Los Angeles Co., California. Born, 29 Jun 1900, in Washburn, Bayfield Co., WI.

Lloyd Everett Miesen was born November 9, 1894, and actually named, Everett Lloyd Miesen. His mother having developed blood poisoning at his birth, for three months he was cared for by his Aunt Daisy, his mother's sister, and his Aunt Esther, his father's sister.

Lloyd retained many childhood memories of the Boston County, Missouri, farms on which he lived the first six years of his life. Many interesting anticdotes were related in a book of family history and autobiography written in the years between 1965 and 1974 which Lloyd titled, As I Remember It.

In late January of 1901 Lloyd's parents, living grandparents, and cousins, removed to Chehalis, Washington. The journey of several days length was made by train in a coach heated by a potbellied coal stove. Food for the trip was carried in baskets, and the family slept in their seats.

After a year in nearby Doty where his father found employment, the family returned to Chehalis. Lloyd's grandfather, John Canterbury, had a vegetable farm west of Chehalis. Lloyd and his brother picked hops, beans, and peas for money for school clothes. One summer he helped in peddling the produce with his own horse and wagon.

Lloyd's mother sent him to the Baptist Sunday School in Chehalis where she was active as a teacher and in other aspects of church life. Lloyd rejected religious teaching at an early age and had a life long aversion to religion.

When Lloyd was twelve, his father began a fuel, livery, and transfer business. From then until he entered the army, Lloyd was employed by his father, learning the business from the ground up. He and his brother, Hubert, drove a team of horses with a wagon to deliver wood during summer vacations. They also learned bill collecting, taking orders, estimating charges, and dispatching delivery teams.

Lloyd attended the local schools through his junior year in high school but did not find school easy. He was pitcher for the high school baseball team for three years. When his father offered him an office job, he accepted and did not finish his senior year. At age twenty-two Lloyd attended Benke Walker Business College in Portland for a year to learn bookkeeping.

When World War I began. Lloyd was drafted in December of 1917. He became cashier for the camp at Fort Riley in Kansas. He was discharged from service in December of 1918. Lloyd received $5,000.00, one-fourth of the profits derived from the sale of his father's business in March of 1919. In 1920 Lloyd had a desire to work in a larger town and removed with his recently divorced mother to Tacoma. When his father died in 1921, Lloyd received about $425.00 from the estate. These sums helped make it possible for Lloyd to set himself up a business.

In 1922 Lloyd moved to Portland and bought the Rose City Fuel Company at East Third and Clay Street. After several years of struggle he moved the business to the Lents district to be near his supply mill. From that time on the business was profitable, and Lloyd changed the name of the company to Southwest Fuel.

While living in Tacoma Lloyd had met Irene Youngbluth, and they went together for thirteen months. Lloyd described her as "the most beautiful girl I had ever laid eyes on." After Lloyd removed to Portland, Irene went to Los Angeles in May of 1922. In the spring of 1924 Lloyd drove to Los Angeles and after several days persuaded Irene to become his wife. They were married by a Presbyterian minister to the distress of Irene's Roman Catholic mother.

Lloyd and Irene lived in several rentals until 1929 at which time they purchased their brick home at 7825 S.E. 31st Ave., in Eastmoreland, a suburb in the southwest of Portland. Lloyd lived in this home until his death sixty-three years later, and in 1997 Irene was still residing at the same address. By the time of the purchase their sons, Lloyd and Lee, had been born. Jerry was born in 1935, completing their family.

Lloyd Meesen

Meantime Lloyd's brother, Hubert, was being hit very hard by the great depression in the small town of Chehalis. In 1926 Hubert joined Lloyd in Portland and worked for a period at the Southwest operation. Fritz Forker. husband of Lloyd's sister, Hazel, was also working as foreman at a nearby mill. The three young men formed a new company in which each was one-third partner, Hubert being office manager and Fritz yard foreman. Hubert's wife, Lucile, worked in the office after their marriage. The company was christened Sunset Fuel and was located on the west side of Portland on Macadam Avenue near its supplier of wood and sawdust, Jones Lumber Company.

From 1930 through 1934 Lloyd purchased several large tracts of timber to supply his businesses. In 1937 he purchased for $12,000.00 a farm of 137 acres with an old house and barn. At one time Lloyd had one hundred twenty-five Hereford cattle and also raised crops of corn. timothy grass, fescue, and clover. Lloyd hired a manager for the farm, but it being difficult to manage both the farm and the fuel business. To his later regret he sold this farm in 1946 for $75,000.00. The state highway department eventually bought this property and built McIver Park on the site.

In 1935 Lloyd obtained a mill contract and began the Miesen Fuel Company located on Front Street. This became Lloyd's headquarters after the closure of Southeast Fuel. About 1935 Lloyd also bought out the Burnside Fuel Company and began the Apex Fuel Company. These businesses were consolidated with Sunset Fuel when Hubert sold his interest in the business after World War II.

In 1962 Sunset Fuel was moved to 3021 S.E. Powell Boulevard as Jones Lumber Company had gone out of operation in 1959. Lloyd's sons, Lloyd, Lee, and Jerry, joined their father and expanded the business to include furnace installation and air conditioning. They discontinued the sale of wood and sawdust but continued that of fuel oil.

Politically Lloyd was an avowed socialist; however, in practice, as can be seen from his biography, he was an extremely successful capitalist. He especially admired the governments of the communist countries as did many of his generation in the 1920s and 30s.

Lloyd began to reap the fruit of his labors in 1955 at which time he and Irene took their first lengthy vacation in Mexico. In 1958 they toured Europe, including a visit to Eppenberg where they saw the ancestral home of the Miesen family. In succeeding years he and Irene made numerous trips in the United States and to many foreign countries.

Lloyd gradually withdrew from the management of the business after his retirement in 1971. He continued his family research contributing enormously to a huge volume containing family group sheets as well as a history of the Miesen family. Lloyd had a true love for all his family relations, however distant, and won the gratitude of his niece, the author, for sharing his knowledge of the Canterbury family which provided her a sketch of great assistance at the beginning of her research. She remembers Lloyd as a generous, powerful, intelligent, and fascinating personality, with avid interest in everything from classical music to politics.

Lloyd died on June 9, 1992, aged ninety-seven. His gentle, soft-spoken widow, Irene, was loved by all who knew her but was loved and appreciated most of all by her husband, Lloyd.

The children of Lloyd and Irene Youngbluth Miesen were:

John Hubert Miesen was the younger son and second of five children of Joseph John and Maria Jessie Canterbury Miesen. He was born March 15, 1896, in Barton County, Missouri, on a farm near Boston. Boston no longer exists as a post office, but can be reached by gravel roads. Boston is on the railroad line south of Lamar, Missouri, the birthplace of President Harry Truman. When four years of age, Hubert's family moved to Chehalis, Washington, making the journey by train. There his father established a livery stable, fuel, and transfer business. His maternal grandparents, John and Matilda Canterbury, also came to Chehalis from neighboring Jasper County, Missouri.

As a boy Hubert helped his Grandfather Canterbury make deliveries of the vegetables raised on his nearby farm. To assist him Hubert had a special goat cart. He attended Chehalis High School and was on the football team and in the senior class play, playing the part of Ivanoff in "The Man from Home". After graduation in 1916, Hubert worked with his father for a time in Chehalis until his enlistment in the army in World War I, August 26, 1918. He served in the Quartermasters Corps doing typing and clerical work. He was stationed at Camp Lewis where he earned the rank of sergeant.

Hubert Miesen

After Hubert's discharge on Friday, the 13th of June, 1919 he returned to Chehalis and again worked with his dad as office manager of their fuel and transfer business, known as the Chehalis Transfer Company located at 1036 Park Street. On September 8, 1921, Hubert witnessed an accident which resulted in the death of his father. A horse reared up and came down crushing him. Hubert was administrator of his father's estate.

Business had become almost non-existent in Chehalis as the country approached the Great Depression, and about 1926 Hubert joined his brother, Lloyd, in Portland where Lloyd had begun a fuel business in 1922. The Sunset Fuel Company was established on the west side of Portland, and Hubert became one-third owner and office manager. The business prospered although for about six months during the depression, Hubert drew no salary.

Hubert's wife, Lucile Adelaide Shellabarger, was the younger daughter of Frank Gilbert and Anna May Billow Shellabarger. She was born at Troy, Idaho, on February 12, 1907. As a child she enjoyed the cold weather activities of ice skating and sledding. Her parents moved to Raymond, Washington, by 1919 and relocated again in Centralia, Washington. She was a high school beauty queen at Centralia High School. She attended normal school at Ellensburg, Washington, where she studied home economics. After graduation she taught in a one room school in Doty, Lewis County, Washington. Her duties there, in addition to teaching, included cleaning the classroom and starting the fire. She had to live with the parents of her students in rotation. For all this she received $85.00 a year!

Lucile met Hubert at a dance when he was a resident of Chehalis only four miles away. They were married March 9, 1929, in Vancouver, Washington, the witnesses to their marriage being Hubert's sister, Thelma, and Mrs. George Frame, wife of the officiating minister. Lucile and Hubert made their first home in a rented house on Portland's west side near Hubert's place of business on Macadam Avenue, the Sunset Fuel Company. They purchased their first home on 34th Street in the Eastmoreland development of Portland. It was a new five room house with full basement and attic, the cost being the unbelievable depression price of $3,500.00. Their only child was born May 31, 1931, and named Carmen Adelaide.

In the succeeding years Lucile assisted her husband, working in the office of Sunset Fuel Company. The Miesens owned successively three other homes in the Portland area. The homes were located at 3400 Martin Street, in Eastmoreland, a stone house on Oak Avenue in Oak Grove south of Portland, and finally on Reed College Place in Eastmoreland.

After World War II Hubert sold his third of the fuel business to his brother, Lloyd. Hubert and Lucile then purchased the Finisterre Lodges on the ocean front in Depoe Bay, Oregon, remaining there until their retirement in 1967. At that time they settled in Boulder City, Nevada, at 101 Forest Lane with a view of Lake Meade. Lucile's health was very poor, and she died of pneumonia the following year on September 20, 1968, at the age of sixty-one.

Hubert remained in Boulder City until December of 1982. At that time his home was rented, and he moved to the southern California area where his daughter, Carmen, lived. He was then in need of a board and care facility but was always near to her so visits could be made frequently back and forth. Hubert died of cancer, March 27, 1985. The ashes of Hubert and Lucile were placed in the same niche as those of Lucile's parents in the Mt. Crest Abbey, Salem, Oregon.

Hubert was five feet, six inches tall, with brown wavy hair, and blue eyes. He was an excellent dancer according to his sister-in-law, Zola. Hubert was a quiet man who enjoyed fishing, hunting, bowling, and baseball in his younger days. He had a great appreciation for nature and scenic beauty and was an excellent gardener. He enjoyed traveling after Lucile's death, revisiting his childhood home in Missouri with his brother, Lloyd, and his wife, and visiting relatives in Portland. He also toured Yellowstone Park and the Grand Canyon with his daughter and grandchildren.

There was never a more honest or principled man than Hubert. He took life and its responsibilities seriously. He was a devoted husband and father, and student of the bible. Hubert was a perfectionist; every property he owned was vastly improved during his tenancy. He had the old fashioned work ethic, putting in minimum ten hour days, six days a week, while in the fuel business and caring for his home and yard on the seventh day. If everyone were as conscientious as he, the world would be a prosperous and beautiful place indeed.

I was born on a Sunday morning at 5:31 A.M., May 31, 1931, in the Wilcox Memorial Hospital, Portland, Oregon. My parents, John "Hubert" Miesen and Lucile Adelaide Shellabarger named me, Carmen Adelaide, the middle names of my aunt, Zola Carmen, and mother, Lucile Adelaide. I weighed six and a half pounds at birth and was twenty inches long, however, I eventually achieved a height of five feet, seven inches, and weighed 110 pounds when I was married. I had blue eyes and light brown hair, and a fair complexion.

At the age of two and a half I began nursery school held in a home in Eastmoreland, a suburb of Portland. Until my retirement from the teaching profession in June of 1991, I was in school in some capacity nearly every year of my life. I entered first grade at the Gable School when four years of age. In third grade I was transferred to St. Helen's Hall, an Episcopalian school for girls, which I attended through high school graduation on May 28, 1947, three days before my sixteenth birthday. Because my parents had moved to Depoe Bay, my last year in high school was as a boarding student.

Since the age of six I had studied piano, and at Linfield College in McMinnville, Oregon, I began organ lessons. I transferred to the College of the Pacific in Stockton, California, my junior year. It was there I met my first husband, Danys Jemison. He was a candidate for a master's degree in composition. We both graduated in June of 1952, I with a Bachelor of Music in pipe organ and he with a Master of Music in composition as well as a Master of Science degree. I was a member of the honor societies: Mu Phi Epsilon, in music; Phi Kappa Phi, a scholastic society; and Pi Kappa Lambda, a scholastic music society.

Danys and I were married the following September 5th in San Francisco, at Holy Innocents Church, and coincidentally, I became organist of the same church. The following fall I took a teaching position outside of Marysville, in the Linda School District, to teach fourth grade. Three years later we moved to Fort Bragg, California, where I taught third grade and Danys was high school band director.

Our three years in beautiful Fort Bragg were a delight. I found a position playing the pipe organ at the First Presbyterian Church and continued my organ study with Bob Whitley. I gave a full recital and played hymn requests on the radio station on Sunday evenings. We bought over an acre with ocean frontage. Danys wanted to continue his education at the University of Southern California so we moved to southern California. I began teaching fourth grade in the Little Lake School District.

In August of 1959, we bought our first home on Cornishcrest Road in Whittier. Our daughter Dana, was born the following April 27th.

My teaching career came to a temporary halt, and I was delighted to be a mother. I played the organ at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in La Habra. Danys continued to attend USC, and also took a job with the Los Angeles School District teaching band. In 1962 we were divorced, and I returned to Los Angeles State University to become a speech pathologist. A year and a half later I completed my speech and hearing credential and began working in the Hudson School District in West Covina.

My second husband, David Bussard was employed by Hughes Aircraft as an engineer. We married in Las Vegas on June 20, 1966. After the birth of our son, Joel David, on December 18, 1967, we bought a home in Laguna Hills, California. We were divorced when Joel was only nine months old, and I found employment in the Saddleback Valley School District remaining there until my retirement in 1991. I continued to play the organ professionally and have enjoyed researching family history.

The only child of Danys and Carmen Miesen Jemison was:

i. Dana Lucile[6] Jemison. Born, 27 Apr 1960, in Morningside Hospital, Los Angeles. CA. Graduation: 27 May 1982, CA State University at Long beach.[169]. Graduation Dec 1994 University of Texas, MS in library science. Occupation: librarian. She married Jeffrey Brian Jackson, son of John Arthur Jackson and Ima Kathryn Lamb, 19 Nov 1994, in Austin, Texas.

Dana was given her paternal grandmother's surname, Dana, and her maternal grandmother's name, Lucile. The first six years of her life were spent in Whittier, California.

After her mother's remarriage the family moved to the Saddleback Valley, where she lived until her graduation from Saddleback Valley College. The family had homes in Laguna Hills, Mission Viejo, and El Toro. Dana attended Mission Viejo High School where she raised a steer her freshman year. She had interests in ballet and music. After receiving her Associate of Arts degree she transferred to California State College at Long Beach and received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1982 with a major in botany.

After graduation she worked as an environmental chemist in Long Beach and in the San Francisco Bay area until June of 1993. While living in Berkeley she did volunteer work at the University of California radio station becoming a director of production. Desiring a career change, she enrolled at the University of Texas in Austin where she was awarded a master's degree in library science in December of 1994.

After graduation Dana and her husband moved to the Philadelphia area where she worked at the Museum of Modern Art. The following year they removed to California and in 1997 were employed as librarians in the San Francisco Bay area.

Joel David Bussard, son of David Larry and Carmen Adelaide Miesen Bussard, was born shortly after midnight on December 18, 1967, in Daniel Freeman Hospital, Inglewood, California. His parents were divorced when he was nine months old. From the age of six months he lived and was schooled in the Saddleback Valley towns of Laguna Hills, El Toro, and Mission Viejo. At the age of five he joined the Mission Viejo Nadadores Swim Team and trained there until his senior year in high school at which time he joined the Irvine Novaquatics. By the age of nine he had placed in the top ten swimmers in the United States in the ten and under age group in a number of strokes. Joel was an All American his junior and senior years at El Toro High School. He won first place in backstroke in the southern section of the California Interscholastic Federation his senior year and was named most valuable swimmer at El Toro High School. He also swam in the United States Nationals. swimming freestyle and backstroke.

Joel received a full scholarship to attend the University of Minnesota. He returned to southern California and received his Associate of Arts at the Saddleback Junior College. In 1988 he was named Orange Empire Conference Swimmer of the Year. He then attended the University of Utah, again on full scholarship, and graduated in 1991 with a major in finance.

During his swimming years he competed in many locations in the continental United States as well as in Puerto Rico, Hawaii, and the Republic of China.

After college he spent a year with Modern Woodmen of America selling insurance. In May of 1994 he successfully took the CPA examination. His first employment as an accountant was with G. L. Howard Accounting in Los Alamitos where he was employed until January of 1997. He then transferred to the CPA firm of Genske and Mulder in Newport Beach, California, and is near completion of a master's degree in taxation from Golden State University.

The Past and Present of Menard County, Illinois, page 431, presented the following genealogy of the Primm family:

> ...The Primm family is entitled to a coat-of-arms on both sides of the house. They are descended from Alexander De La Pryme, a gentleman of the town of Ypres, who was granted a patent of gentility by the Roman pontiff for meritorious services under Philip of Alsace in the second crusade. The family having embraced the Reformed religion they were forced to leave the continent by Cardinal Richelieu after the revocation of the edict of Nantes and they settled in England. Alexander De La Pryme removed to the Isle of Man in 1725 and his second son, John, emigrated to America, settling in Virginia in 1750. In deference to the prejudice existing against French names the De La was dropped and the latter part of the surname was changed to the present form of Primm. The eldest son of the emigrator, John Primm [grandfather of William Primm], was a colonel in the Revolutionary war and in 1802 he removed westward with his family.
> ..He married Marie Angelique La Roux D'Esneval. Her father was one of four brothers of the name of La Roux D'Esneval, three of whom fled from France during the reign of terror in 1793. A portrait of one of these is in possession of the family. He was a colonel in the bodyguard of Louis XIV and was guillotined. Another went to San Domingo during one of the insurrections of the slaves. Two brothers came to Canada, where one remained, while the other one went to St. Louis and was there married to Helene, daughter of Jean Sallivit (called Lajoie) and Maria Rosa De Vialpardo, a lady of Spanish birth. The Primm coat of arms is a poinard and cross quarterly crest - a cross. The motto is "Animose certavit" (He has fought courageously.).

Thomas Primm, the father of Abram Primm [and William Primm], was a son of John Primm mentioned above. He was a native of Virginia and was married in 1807 to Elizabeth Stallings in St. Clair county, Illinois, whence they removed to Menard county in 1820. Carlisle Harrison Canterbury was born in Bath County, Kentucky, but at about the age of eleven his father moved the family to Sangamon County, Illinois. Having been born at the conclusion of the War of 1812, it seems likely his middle name was in honor of Brigadier General William Henry Harrison. Before 1836 Carlisle and his brother, Isaac, had become residents of Des Moines County, Iowa, where Carlisle married Emily L. Morgan, and Isaac married her sister, Elizabeth. At the time of the 1840 census Carlisle had a son and a daughter.

When Carlisle's brother, Isaac, died in 1848, Carlisle served as administrator of the estate. The settlement he made was protested by Isaac's widow. In 1851 Carlisle left Des Moines County, Iowa, and returned with his family to Menard County, Illinois. Carlisle and Emily joined the Antioch Christian Church at Cantrall by letter on December 7, 1851. Carlisle became an elder of the church.

Carlisle purchased about 220 1/2 acres, 130 of which were fenced and under cultivation, four of which were in orchard, and 90 in timber. Oliver Perry Canterbury deeded his brother, Carlisle Harrison Canterbury, three tracts on May 7, 1853 as recorded in Menard County, Illinois, Deed Book 7, pages 88-89. These were: 26 1/2 acres in section 7, 13 1/2 acres in section 18, and 10 acres in section 18 all of which were in township 17, range 7W. In 1858 Carlisle held property in sections 8 and 20 of Fancy Creek Township, and in section 24 of Salisbury Township, both in Sangamon County.

Carlisle's wife, Emily, filed for a Dependent Mother's Pension based on the service of her son William, who died of measles at Camp Holt, Kentucky, during the Civil War. Her request was denied.

The affidavits produced by Emily told us that her "husband was very fleshy and was never able to do anything after 1851 when he was ruptured while working with a yoke of steers." Thereafter Carlisle could not support his family. Emily testified further that the family had eight horses, six or seven cows, and perhaps five or six other cattle, twenty-five sheep, and twenty-five or thirty hogs. They owned one good wagon and an old spring wagon. They had an old framed four room house until 1865 at which time a new house was built at a cost of $10,000.00 with $5,000.00 still owing. In 1865 they had $1,000.00 at interest obtained from the sale of cattle and grain. In 1873 Carlisle went into bankruptcy and everything was sold. The farm was mortgaged to Jonathan Miller and in 1888, $5,000.00 was still owing.

W. H. H. Holland was one of the original proprietors of the village of Cantrall which was organized in October of 1872. Elaine Holland Hough, his great-granddaughter, authored the following biographical information about William Henry "Harrison" Holland which was published in Buffalo's First Century , a centennial publication published in 1984.

> Over 100 years ago, William Henry Harrison Holland, intrigued by the opportunities he saw in the rugged frontier of Wyoming Territory, decided to leave his home in Sangamon County, Illinois, and came to Buffalo to start a new life with his family.
> Born October 28, 1840, he was always called "Harrison" by the family, and later used just his initials, W. H. He was never called William. His family had followed the traditional western migration through the years, coming from Virginia to Kentucky, then on to Ohio, eventually settling in Illinois near Springfield.
>
> During the Civil War, in July 1862, when not quite 22 years old, he enlisted in Company C of the 114th Illinois Volunteers, and was in several battles and was wounded three times. In June 1864, he and his cousin Albert Cantrall, were captured by Confederate forces at the battle of Guntown, Mississippi, and they spent nine months in prison before being released. Weakened by his ordeal, Cantrall died enroute home[3]
>
> Following his discharge on July 1, 1865, Holland returned to his home in Illinois where he had a farm and also raised and traded hogs. On February 12, 1867, he was married to Ruth Ann Canterbury of Menard County, Illinois.

[3] They were imprisoned in the infamous Andersonville Prison for six months.

First coming to the Laramie Plains of Wyoming in the fall of 1879, Holland worked as a cowboy before going north to Johnson County in the winter of 1880 to look for a permanent location in which to settle.

When Holland first came to Buffalo, the military reservation extended from Fort McKinney for six miles in every direction. At the eastern edge of the reservation, a road house was operated by a man named O'Malley, and in 1880 Holland bought the relinquishment on the homestead where the road house was located and returned to Illinois that fall to arrange financing to buy cattle. He formed the Des Moines Cattle Company in partnership with a relative by marriage named Gibson who was from Des Moines.

The Holland family, which included two sons, Albert Carlisle, age 11, and Charles Turner, age 10, left their home in Illinois, traveling by train to Cheyenne where they spent their first winter in Wyoming. In the spring of 1881, the family made the trip to Buffalo in two wagons and an army ambulance, a journey which took them three weeks.

Their first home was an old log building at the O'Malley road house, and that same year, Holland went to Idaho where he purchased cattle from Mormon ranchers on the Snake River. With very few landmarks or trails to guide him, he trailed 1,000 head of cattle back to Johnson County, turning them loose on the open range near Lake DeSmet.

Tragedy struck the family that first winter in Johnson County when young Charles was killed while riding his pony to deliver a message to the Cullen Watt ranch. The horse fell on the frozen ground and the boy was killed instantly.

Holland was the first settler in Johnson County to file final proof on his homestead after complying with the eight months residence required[4]. Prospering financially, he enlarged and acquired more ranch holdings, On October 2, 1882, he was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of one of the county commissioners and that fall was elected to a full two-year term, serving from 1883-1885. Johnson County at this time included all of Johnson, Sheridan, and Big Horn counties along with portions of Washakie and Hot Springs counties. Holland was chairman of the county commissioners at the time the county courthouse was built in Buffalo in 1884 and his name appears on the cornerstone.

In 1883 Holland built a home in Buffalo on land deeded to him by Mrs. Juliet W. Hart who stipulated that the house must cost "at least $2,500." This house, constructed of handmade bricks, was the first two-story brick home in Buffalo. The Holland family moved into their new home on Christmas Day, 1883, and many family Christmas celebrations have been held there in the 100 years since.

The house, at 312 North Main, is still owned by the Holland family to which it has been "home" for five generations, and is the only pioneer home in Buffalo still owned by the original family. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Holland. Although W. H. Holland was a rancher he always lived in Buffalo after this house was constructed.

In addition to ranching, W. H. Holland planted many trees in the new, largely treeless area to which he had moved. In addition to planting a 10 acre tree claim adjoining his homestead, he also brought cottonwood trees by wagon from the sand bar of Powder River, some 40 miles away, to plant at this home in Buffalo. Three of these trees still stand in the yard there. He also was involved in the development of irrigation systems in the county.

He was a charter member of Anchor Lodge No. 7 A.F. & A.M. Goldenrod Chapter of the Eastern Star, and V.K. Post No. 74, Grand Army of the Republic.

Ownership of the ranch passed out of the Holland family in the late 1890's although Holland continued to operate the ranch until his death in December, 1906. Mrs. Holland continued to live in the family home until her death in 1917 when she was killed in one of the county's first fatal traffic accidents.

Past and Present of Menard County, Illinois by the Rev. R. D. Miller, pages 343-4, provided the following biographical information about Charles F. Canterbury:

> Charles F. Canterbury is indebted to the district-school system of Menard county for the early educational privileges which he enjoyed. Subsequently he attended the Springfield Business College and after his return to the home farm he assisted his father in its cultivation until twenty-one years of age when he assumed the entire management. He then continued the work of general farming upon the old home place until 1899, when he went to Los Angeles, California. He afterward spent one year in Buffalo, Wyoming, where he was engaged in the sheep business. He purchased a flock of three thousand head of sheep and on selling out after two years he had over four thousand head. In the first year he had also sold fourteen hundred head and in the second year five hundred and fourteen, clearing from these sales in the two years a sum of six thousand, four hundred and seventy-nine dollars and fifty-six cents. After disposing of his sheep Mr. Canterbury returned to Athens and is now conducting his farm, which is pleasantly located two and a half miles southeast of the town. It comprises two hundred and twenty acres of very rich and productive land, constituting one of the best improved farms in the county. Everything about the place is neat and thrifty in appearance and indicates the careful supervision of a practical and progressive owner. He also owns a valuable residence property in Buffalo, Wyoming.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Canterbury give their allegiance to every movement which tends to promote the moral development of their community. He is a member of the Christian church, while his wife holds membership in the Methodist Episcopal church. He is a Republican, has served as a member of the school board and is identified with Social Lodge No. 424, K. P. In his business career he has manifested strong purpose and laudable ambition and careful management, and by reason of these qualities he has gradually worked his way upward to a position of affluence.

The children of Charles Fremont and Anna O. Primm Canterbury were:

> Mr and Mrs. W. H. Holland's only surviving son, Albert C. Holland, attended school in Buffalo and followed his father into the ranching business. On May 14, 1891, he was married to Isolina Christina Campbell, daughter of Alexander and Hellen Watt Camphell, who had come to Johnson County in the early 1880's from Guelph, Ontario, Canada. Shortly after their marriage, they homesteaded on a claim in the Stillwater section of Montana where they spent a few years before returning to Buffalo where Albert again became associated in the ranching business at the original 4H Ranch, assuming management when his father died. He later homesteaded additional land in the Red Hills
> The Hollands lived on the ranch until 1920 when they moved into town. In 1923 he sold his ranch holdings and established the Pines Resort in the Big Horns. The Pines had originally been a group of summer homes under the first special use permit issued in the mountains in 1909, with Holland as one of the home owners. John married, first, Miranda M. Brittin[4], daughter of Evans Elijah Brittin and Mary "Polly" Jane England, 22 Feb 1842, in Sangamon Co., IL[5]. Born, 22 Jan 1824. in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL[6]. Birth(2): 12 Dec 1823. Died, 22 Sep 1853, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL[7]. Burial in Canterbury Cem., Fancy Creek, Sangamon Co., IL. Census: 14 Nov 1850, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL; p. 251.

John married[4], second, Harriet E. Perkins[12], 24 Sep 1854, in Menard Co., Il[13]. Born. 25 Apr 1833, in Sangamon Co., IL[2]. Birth(2): 25 Apr 1834[14]. Census: 27 Jun 1900, in Cantrall Village, Sangamon Co., IL; ED110 SH2.

John Tecumseh Canterbury's father, Asa, seemed to favor naming children for famous warriors: Harrison, Tecumseh, and Perry. Tecumseh was the son of a Shawnee chief. He formed a confederation of Indians for the purpose of protesting unfair treaties made by chiefs, giving land to the United States without the approval of the tribe. Tecumseh's brother, "The Prophet," and Tecumseh's army were defeated at the Battle of Tippecanoe by Brigadier General William Henry Harrison. During the War of 1812 Tecumseh and some of his braves joined the British army in Canada. He was defeated and killed at the Battle of the Thames.

John was commissioned as a captain in the Civil War under Governor Ford. He was a member of the Republican Party. The father of John's first wife, Evans Elijah Brittin, was born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and came to Sangamon County, Illinois, settling near present Cantrall. The Antioch Christian Church, erected its first edifice on the Brittin farm in 1823. Records of the Antioch Christian Church show John T. Canterbury as a member and contributor through February 13, 1894. After his death on October 6, 1894, his second wife, Harriet Perkins, took his place as a contributor. His first wife, Miranda Brittin, had been a member as well, her decease having been recorded in the church records on September 22, 1853.

John Canterbury farmed in section 6 of Fancy Creek Township, in Sangamon County, Illinois. He was one of the original proprietors of the village of Cantrall which was organized in October of 1872. The Petersburg Observer of 1879 related, "J. T. Canterberry, one of Cantral's old and respected citizens, was in the city Wednesday. We enjoyed a pleasant half hour's conversation with him in the Observer office."

A quote from The History of Sangamon County published in 1881 is as follows:

> Mr. C. has been identified with the county nearly all his life; has seen it from its wild and uncultivated state, to one of the finest countries in the world; came here a poor boy, but by hard work and fair dealing has made a comfortable property and home; has two hundred and forty-five acres of land, valued at $65 per acre, raises fifty acres of corn and fifty acres of wheat. He is one of the staunch Republicans of the country.

Oliver Perry Canterbury likely was named for Oliver Hazard Perry of War of 1812 fame, and was probably called Perry.

On April 27, 1848, Asa Canterbury deeded his son, Oliver, forty acres in the N1/2 of the E1/2 of SE1/4 of S13, T17N, R6W as recorded in Menard County Deed Book 3, page 437. Oliver also held property in section 18 of Fancy Creek Township in Sangamon County.

In 1879 the Petersburg OBSERVER recorded, "Mrs. O. P. Canterberry, of Cantral, who has been so dangerously ill for some time that grave doubts of her recovery were entertained by her friends, is, we are informed, slowly regaining her health."

From The History of Sangamon County, Illinois, published in 1881, we learn that Oliver Perry Canterbury was the owner of thirteen hundred acres on which he raised stock including fifty head of hogs, 300 acres of wheat, and 600 acres of corn. He and his son-in-law, William Vandagrift, were partners in a mercantile business in Cantrall. Oliver Perry Canterbury was one of the original proprietors of the village of Cantrall which was organized in October of 1872. He was a republican and member of the Christian Church, originally the Antioch Christian Church, in Cantrall. A quote from that volume was as follows, "Mr. Canterbury came to this county a poor boy, but by hard work and good management has accumulated a fine property and home and is one of the large and well-to-do farmers of the county."

On August 8, 1905, Robert Grant witnessed the pension application of William T. Vandagrift, husband of Margaret J. Canterbury Vandagrift who was his wife's sister.

The following was the obituary of Robert Grant:

> This community lost one of its most highly respected and honored citizens in the death of Robert Grant which occurred at his home near Cantrall, Monday April 6, at ten thirty o'clock a.m. He had been ill but a short time and his death was caused by taking a poison through mistake. He was suffering from an attack of the grip and he arose during the night to take his medicine and in the darkness he took the wrong bottle thinking it was the one containing the remedy left by his physician. The mistake was soon discovered and everything possible was done to relieve his sufferings but all the kind ministrations were in vain.
> Robert Grant, son of James and Alexandria McBeth Grant was born in Southerland Shire Scotland, November 12, 1843. He emigrated to Canada in 1847, and came to Illinois with his two brothers, Murdock and John in 1866. For a number of years he was engaged in teaching school. He gave up the profession of teaching for that of farming in 1878. On August 3d, 1875 he was united in marriage to Miss Mary E. Canterbury of Cantrall. To this union seven children were born, all of whom are living except one son who died in infancy.
> Mr. Grant was one of the most influential men in this section, and his fellow men recognized his sterling qualities as is attested by the fact that he was Township School Treasurer for twenty years. He was a deacon of the Church of Christ at Cantrall for many years. He resided in Sangamon County thirty five years and was well known throughout Sangamon and Menard counties. He was a man known as a lover of his home, his church and his adopted country. He was honorable in all his dealings. It can be said that he had no enemies. He was an admirer of all open, honest effort and was void of sham and pretense. In all ways it can be said of him that he was a genuine man.
>
> He united with the church at Bloomington in 1871 in a revival meeting held by the noted Evangelist, Dr. Hammond. He united with the Christian church at Cantrall in 1878 and lived an exemplary christian life. He was a member of Van Meter Lodge A. F. and A., Masons of this city. He is survived by his wife, six children--five sons--Dr. O. P. of Cantrall, Dr. W. R. of Easton, Illinois. Vernon of Sweetwater, Sidney and Ellis residing at home, and one daughter, Mrs. Samuel Cantrall of near this city. two brothers, Murdoch of Kansas City, John of Cantrall and one half-brother, Alexander McGilvery, of Washington State; two sisters, Grace Cuthbertson of California, and Mary Layton of the state of Washington and half-sister, Anna McGilvery of the same state.
>
> Funeral services were held at the Christian church at Cantrall, Wednesday, April 8, at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. W. W. Weeden of Marion officiating, assisted by the minister Lewis P. Fisher. PART TWO

ASA CANTERBURY

ALLIED MATERNAL FAMILIES

Chapter X

THE ALKIRE FAMILY

The Alkire, Harness, Dieffenbach, and Hornback families, treated in separate chapters, were all residents of the South Branch of the Potomac River. This area is presently located in Hardy County, West Virginia, but was previously in Hampshire County, Virginia, and prior to that in Augusta County, Virginia.

These four families, as well as the Trumbo family, which lived just to the east in what is now Rockingham County of Virginia, intermarried. At the same time period, just to the northeast in what is now Morgan County, West Virginia, and Frederick County, Virginia, were the Morgan, Constant, Dyer, and Welch families. After the Revolution, in which all of these ancestral families participated. the Alkire, Harness, Hornback, Trumbo, Constant, Canterbury, and Morgan families removed to newly settling Kentucky. From thence the westward migration continued, sometimes via Ohio and Indiana, into Sangamon and Menard Counties of Illinois and Des Moines County, Iowa. At each of these locations these families were among the first settlers, enduring the most primitive conditions. Members of their families supported with their materials goods and fought in the French and Indian Wars, the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Black Hawk War, and the Civil War. In Virginia and Kentucky the early pioneers were besieged by Indians who took the lives of men, women, and children. In Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa the enemy was cholera which also took many lives. Although of lesser severity than in Virginia and Kentucky, occasional problems continued with Indians om the northern states. Those of us who claim relationship to these families may be proud to be the descendants of those who had the spirit and strength of character which made possible the expansion and development of this great country which we enjoy today.

Limited information can be found in this chapter about descendants of Harmonas Alkier, the earliest known member of the family. Those of his descendants who went to Sangamon and Menard Counties, Illinois, primarily have been researched. Special thank go to James E. Remer[5] and Beverly Boyd Long[6] for their careful research and many contributions to the descendants of Leonard Alkier. Harmonas' daughter, Margaret Alkier who married Simon Hornback, and their descendants, have been presented in the Hornback family chapter. Others of Margaret's ancestors can be located in the Canterbury chapters.

First Generation

1. Harmonas[1] Alkier[1]. Born, circa 1700. Died, circa 1796, in Bourbon Co., KY[2]. Resided: before 1752, on the South Branch of the Potomac River, Augusta Co., VA.

Harmonas was believed by family tradition to have married Mary Craymore/Craemer, circa 1720.

Knowledge of the existence of a red-headed Harmonas Alkier born in 1700 comes from family tradition. Great difficulty arises from the inability to distinguish between Harmonas and his son of the same name born in 1730 when reading land, tax, or county records.

The birth place of Harmonas Alkier has been proposed as Holland, Germany, Scotland, Ireland. Pennsylvania, or Maryland. Indeed, Algire families immigrated to Pennsylvania and Maryland. It is also possible that Harmonas and his parents were part of the flood of Palatines who emigrated in 1709. Many of these families settled in Pennsylvania as did the Dieffenbach, Harness, and Trumbo families all of whom pioneered on or near the South Branch.

The given name, Harmonas, was spelled variously as: Monus, Manus, Monius, Maunis. Maunus, Mannus, Mauniss, Manis, Mannis, Maunis, Mones, Harmonas, Hermonus, Harmonis. Harmonious, and etc. in early Virginia and Kentucky records. The surname was spelled as Alkier, Alkire, Algier, and etc., with earlier generations favoring the Alkier spelling and later ones, Alkire.

A list of public service claims from Hampshire County dated Monday, October 16, 1775, stated Harmonis Alkier had provided flour for the maintenance of the army. Although this may have been the son, it is unlikely as he was involved in the Colonial Wars as a lieutenant.

Only four children have been assigned to Harmonas and Mary Craymore Alkier: Michael, John, Harmonas, Jr., and Margaret. Michael and John were found on the Hampshire County, Virginia, tax rolls of John Wilson in the years 1782 and 1784. These sons had large established families and could not have been sons of Harmonas, Sr. Harmonas, Jr., and the families of his sons, William and John with very young children, were listed on the tax rolls of Michael Stump. The researcher, James Glacking, identified other children of Harmonas, Sr., as William, Deborah, and Sarah, but no information has been located by the author to confirm their existence.

The first land tax rolls of Hardy County, 1786-1800, listed Maunus Alkire in the years 1786-1794. His son, Manis Askire, paid taxes in the year 1786, but did not appear again in the tax records. Michael Alkire joined the tax rolls in 1787 and continued to be listed through 1800. the last year for which records have been located. Michael remained in the county and died there in 1819. A Joseph Alkire whose parents are unidentified appeared on tax rolls only in the year 1794.

Family lore is that Harmonas died in 1796 in Kentucky, a questionable fact. Harmonas never appeared in Kentucky tax records nor did he leave a will or estate records. Therefore, if residing in Kentucky, he must have lived with a family member. It was very unusual to find an instance of a son making a lengthy move before the death of his elderly parents, and also unlikely a man in his nineties would have undertaken this journey when another son, Michael, still was established in the Hardy County area.

The Alkier family was closely tied to the Hornback family which was discussed in a separate chapter. Simon Hornback, son of Jacobus Hornback, married Harmonas' daughter, Margaret "Peggy" Alkier. Margaret "Peggy" Hornback, daughter of Samuel Hornback, son of Johannes Hornback, and Dorothy Harness, married Adam Alkier, son of Harmonas Alkier, Jr. They had a son, Harmonas Hornback, named for his grandfather. After Adam Alkier was widowed in about 1818, he married Barbara Hornback Cherry, daughter of Simon Hornback and Margaret "Peggy" Alkire. Adam's aunt. Adam Alkier's sister, Lydia, married Solomon Hornback. the son of Daniel and Mary Hornback. His sister, Sarah "Sally" Alkier, married first, a Crabill, and second Simon Hornback, another child of Simon Hornback and Margaret "Peggy" Alkier. Other connections were between the Alkier and Trumbo families. Harmonas Alkier's granddaughter, Deborah, whose father was Harmonas, Jr., married Jacob Trumbo, son of Andrew Trumbo and Kate Harness. The Trumbo family has been discussed in a separate chapter.

Although no proof has been found that the wife of Harmonas was Mary Craemer, Early Records of Hampshire County, Virginia by Sage and Jones, has records of families spelled Creamer, Creamour, and Creymour. Simon and Mary Earsham mortgaged 385 acres on the South Branch to Mary Creymour of Hampshire County on November 7, 1768. George Creamer was witness to a deed of Peter Bryan Bruin on April 14, 1788, the property being located on Patterson Creek, the Little Cacapeon, and on the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The children of Harmonas and Mary (Craemer) Alkier were:

2 i. Harmonas[2] Alkier.

3 ii. probably, Michael Alkier.

iii. probably, Margaret "Peggy" Alkier Born circa 1739. Margaret married Simon Hornback. She and many of her descendants will be found in the Hornback chapter.

iv. probably, John Alkier.

John Algier appeared on the 1782 tax rolls of John Wilson with seven free whites in his family. Michael Algier was on the same tax list.

Second Generation

2. Harmonas[2] Alkier (Harmonas[1])[3]. Born, circa 1730. Died, Jul 1800, in Bourbon Co., KY[4].

Harmonas married[5] Lydia Patton[6], daughter of John Patton and Sarah Rodgers, circa 1757. Born, circa 1739, in Pennsylvania. Died, after 1795, in Bourbon Co., KY[7].

On November 15, 1752, Mones Alkier, John, Jacob and William Westfall, Michael Stumph, and other residents of Frederick County, Virginia, were appointed to "view and mark and keep in repair on petition of inhabitants of the South Branch, a road from their wagon road up the South Fork to Peter Reed's Mill." This was the earliest reference to the Alkier family found in Augusta County Order Books. Hampshire County was formed from Frederick and Augusta Counties the following year. The road in question was in an area which was first settled by the Yokum, Harness, and other families before 1739. It was located south of present day Moorefield in Hardy County, West Virginia.

On May 6, 1765, Maunis Alkier was granted lot #16 containing 294 acres on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potowmack River. This transaction was recorded in Northern Neck Land Grants, Volume M, page 350. A few months later on October 3rd, Maunis and Lydia Alkier leased their neighbor, Michael Thorn, 203 of these acres as recorded in Hampshire County, Virginia Deed Book I, page 243. Witnesses to the deed were Christian Bingamon, Peter Cutright, and Adam Brown.

Harmonus Alkier was a lieutenant in Captain James Parsons Rangers during the Colonial Wars, serving 154 days for pay of 57.15.0. In his military unit was Abraham Hornback, his nephew.

Marvis Alkier was a witness to the March 17, 1778, will of Henry Sheplar whose wife was Elizabeth. When the estate was settled, Manus Algire was owed thirteen shillings, six pence as noted in a bill dated March 9, 1783.

Harmonus Alkier purchased a grindstone at the estate sale of George Rennick (wife, Mary) on April 22, 1778. A week later Hermonis Alkier's name appeared on a receipt to Anthony Baker, executor of the estate of Jacob Reed, dec'd, (wife, Ann) for three shillings and nine pence, "it being for to appraise said estate - allow'd to me." The wills of both George Rennick and Jacob Reed were proved on April 14, 1778.

Mauris Algire was security for Jacob Hankle and Martin Shobe[7], executors of the estate of Christopher Leek (wife, Sophia) whose will was proved March 10, 1780.

In 1783 Monas Alkier purchased buckwheat at the estate sale of Conrad Slagel. Conrad's will had been proved February 12, 1782. Conrad left no wife. Daniel Teverbaugh[8] was an executor and Henry Sheplar a witness to the will.

Harmanous Algier appeared in the 1782 tax records of Hampshire County, Virginia, with twelve free whites in his household. In 1784 he was listed on the rolls of Michael Stump with ten free whites, one building, and two other buildings. Harmonis had obtained a grant of 304 acres on the South Fork of the South Branch south of Moorefield on September 12, 1788, as recorded in Hardy County Deed Book 2, page 35. Harmonas' property was disposed of in two parcels. The first lot of 182 acres was sold to Daniel Tevabaugh on December 7, 1789, and the second to Abel Seymour on October 2, 1795.

Ellen Parker, an Alkier researcher, gave the following account of the removal of the Alkiers to Kentucky based upon a letter written by Benjamin Franklin Alkire, great-grandson of Harmonious, Sr., born in 1818, the son of Michael and Dorothy Phebus Alkire. It was addressed to his nephew and dated November 5, 1886.

> In 1794, they sold their Virginia land, and along with other migrants, moved by pack-horse south to the Great Nanaway River - the Kanawha - where they built a keel boat, the first ever sailed down that river. When the boat arrived at the Great Falls on the river, the goods was taken out and transferred by pack, and the boat was let over with rope and grape vines; thence down the river to the Ohio, and down it to the mouth of the Slate River, thence up it to Harrod's Station, now Harrodsburg, Kentucky.

After the revolution Harmonas' sons, John and Adam, were found on Bourbon County, Kentucky tax rolls as early as 1788 with William joining them in 1789. Harmonas and his son, Michael, had joined them in Kentucky by 1795 at which time they first appeared on the Bourbon County tax rolls with 250 to 300 acres on Huston's Fork of the Licking River. Harmonas had purchased this property from Thomas Field as recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book G, page 205. Twenty-one acres of this property were sold for $100.00 to Richard Smart by Harmonas before his death as recorded in Deed Book H, page 212. His heirs affirmed the sale on September 1, 1810, each heir being named: "William Alkire, John Alkire, Michael Alkire, Adam Alkire, Harmonius Alkire, Jr., George Alkire, Caty Alkire, Peggy Alkire, Elizabeth Mitts widow, late Elizabeth Alkire, Jacob Trumbo and, Deborah his wife, late Deborah Alkire, Solomon Hornback and Lydia his wife, late Lydia Alkire, Simon Hornback and Sally his wife, late Sally Alkire."

The will of Hammons Alkire, Sr. (who was actually Harmonas II), had been dated May 29, 1800, and proved in July. (Harmonas Alkier II had a son, Harmonas III.) Harmonas' tax records, dated July 30, 1800, indicated his property, by then 300 acres, had gone to his heirs who were the same as listed in the aforementioned deed of 1810. On September 21, 1805, Harmonas, John, Adam, George, and Michael Alkire, heirs and representatives of Harmonious Alkire, deeded property to Samuel Scott. The estate was not settled until September 21, 1814, by his executors, William Alkire and William Clarkson.

[7] The surname, Shobe, is still found in Hardy and nearby counties of West Virginia. Shobe Fisher, widow of John Fisher, was in 1995 the owner of the orginal 1739 home of Johann Michael Ernest Harness and his wife, Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach, located at Fisher, West Virginia, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River.

[8] Daniel Tevabaugh was a member of the Dieffenbach family, Tevabaugh and Tierverbaugh being variant spellings of Dieffenbach. Daniel was a security for Samuel Hornbeck an executor of the will of Michael Ernest Harness who died in 1785. He was in some way related to the wife of Michael Harness who was Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach.

The children of Harmonas and Lydia Patton Alkier were:

i. Catherine[3] Alkier. Born, circa 1758, in Hampshire Co., VA[8]. Died, 6 Mar 1842, in Pickaway Co., OH[8]. She married Francis Simms, 1 Jan 1788[9].
4 ii. Elizabeth Alkier.
5 William Alkier.
6 iv. John Alkier.
7 v. Adam Alkier.
8 vi. Deborah Alkier.
vii. Margaret Alkier. Born, circa 1770[11]. She married Elijah Staats, 1797[9].
9 viii. Lydia Alkier.
10 ix. Harmonas Alkire.
11 x. Sarah "Sally" Alkier.
12 xi. George Alkier.
13 xii. Michael Alkier.
xiii. Peter Alkier. Born, 10 Mar 1773. Died, before 1805[12]. He married Sarah Stump, daughter of George and Elizabeth Stump, 27 Apr 1796, in Hardy Co., Virginia[13].

3. Michael[2] Alkier (Harmonas[1])[14]. Born, circa 1833. Died, 1819, in Hardy Co., VA[15].

Michael married Temperance Clay, 1751[16].

Michael Algier was on the Hampshire County, Virginia, tax rolls of John Wilson in 1782 with six free whites. In 1784 he was taxed on seven free whites, a dwelling, and two other buildings. He was on the same tax rolls as John Algier. When Hardy County was formed, Michael was transferred to these tax rolls where he appeared from 1786-1800 after which time Hardy County tax records have not been reviewed by the author.

Lack of records has made it impossible to identify Michael's children. Since after 1796 Michael's was the only Alkier family in Hardy County, Barbara Alkier Iman, who was married in 1818, and John Alkire, who married Elizabeth Neff in 1825, could have been Michael's youngest children or possibly his grandchildren.

Hardy County court records of February 8, 1790, recorded the suit of Michael Alkire vs. John Painter. Judgment was for the payment by the defendant of a debt of three pounds, twelve shillings, and court costs.

An inventory was made of Michael's estate on March 10, 1819, by George Parsons, Jacob Neff, and Benjamin Shook. The value of his property was $506.39.

William continued to be listed in Bourbon County tax records. It would appear that by 1793 he had relocated his family to Kentucky as he then had three horses and twenty-one cattle. In 1794 he was taxed on 100 acres on Green Creek. He was found in 1796 with 114 acres. He had then been joined by his father, Harmonious Alkier, and his brother, Michael, and in 1796 his brother, John. William continued to be taxed in Bourbon County through 1810. The tax records of Bourbon County, Kentucky, indicated that by 1788 John and Adam Alkire were the first members of their large family to reside in Kentucky. Beginning on June 11, 1789, John Alkier served in the Kentucky Active Militia on the frontier for fifteen days under Ensign George Redding earning 16S, 6D. 1782 tax rolls in Hampshire County, Virginia, recorded that John Alkire had three whites in his family. The 1790 census showed an increase to seven whites in the family. 1793 was the first year in which John and his brothers, Adam and William, had more than one horse or cattle. In that year John was also the owner of nine blacks over twenty-one and six blacks from sixteen to twenty-one years of age. John was entered again in the tax rolls of Bourbon County in 1796 as owner of a town lot and was again a slave holder. He did not appear in the tax records of Bourbon County again.

MENARD COUNTY, ILLINOIS

In 1801 John was converted to Christianity at the Cane Ridge, Kentucky, revival of the Rev. Barton W. Stone. John removed with other family members to Madison County, Ohio, near Mt. Sterling about 1805-6. There he was active in one of the first Christian churches in Madison County.

Elder Long, one of his coverts, declared:

> He was a tall, heavy man with sandy complexion. He had a loud, strong voice with somewhat of a slow delivery, hut was very pathetic and powerful in exhortation, and great reformations followed his preaching, wherever he went. His preaching was never systematic, but his appeals were directed to the hearts of sinners.

It is believed John Alkier came to Sangamon County, Illinois, about 1818. On October 30, 1825, John Alkier, Sr., purchased eighty acres in the E 1/2 of the NE 1/4 of section 36 of Sugar Grove Precinct of Sangamon County, an area which became Menard County in 1839.

The following biographical sketch of Leonard Alkire was written in 1874:

Leonard Alkire was born December 24, 1785, on the south branch of the Potomac River, in the State of Virginia. When a few years old he emigrated to Bath County, Kentucky, where he remained until a man grown, when he emigrated to Madison County, Ohio, where at the age of twenty-one, he married Katharine Davis, who was also a Virginian. Like nearly all of the early pioneers of those States, Mr. Alkire was in humble circumstances, or rather very poor. He and his young wife, when their fortunes were blended together, as were their young hearts, were only able to furnish their rudely constructed cabin, which was of their own architecture, with a clap-board table and a few three legged stools, and a half-bed to sleep on, with a few pewter plates and a long handled gourd to drink water out of from the brook. But their determined spirit and indomitable will led them on to subdue the wilderness and better their fortune, which by untiring industry and economy they were soon enabled to do.

Mr. Alkire, a few years after his marriage, conceived the idea of buying up and collecting together of his neighbors a herd of young cattle, and grazing and feeding them to a fit condition for the Philadelphia market, which enterprise he successfully engaged in, making several successful trips, which were attended with much toil and danger. The Ohio and other large streams had to be swam. Mr. Alkire at one time made his return trip homeward at the rate of eighty miles per day on horseback, carrying the cash which he received for his drove (principally in silver) in his saddle-hags. In swimming the Ohio River, while perched on his hands and feet on top of his saddle, his sturdy and fleet roadster was stemming the rapid current with great power and speed, when upon nearing the opposite shore he suddenly went down; hut with a terrihle struggle for dear life he finally succeeded in safely landing his precious freight on terra firma, when Mr. Alkire made the discovery that his saddle-bags (filled with silver) had drifted back by the force of the current, and remained suspended hy the stirrups, the whole weight resting on the hocks of the noble animal and cramping his movements, thus jeopardizing his life as well as the life and hard-earned treasure of his master.

Mr. Alkire pursued his avocation of farmer and stock-dealer for ahout fifteen years, when hearing frequently repeated stories of the marvelous beauty as well as fertility of the Sangamon River country in Illinois, and not being fully satisfied with his present location, he resolved to see that country for himself The whole route lying through a sparsely-settled country, in fact much of it being a complete wilderness, well mounted on his now famous roadster, his leather saddle-bags containing a small amount of lunch and a considerahle amount of cash, he bid farewell to his family, striking out alone for the new Eldorado, plodding on over hills and plains, through swamps and prairies, swimming rivers, etc., often passing a whole day and night without seeing a single human habitation, himself and horse passing the night fasting, courting repose in some grove or thicket hy the wayside, with no living creature near save the hissing serpent or howling wolf. But the determination of the man was quite equal to the task He passed down through the Sangamon River country until opposite to the Sugar Grove, when, hearing that place favorahly spoken of, he turned aside to see for himself. When he entered the Grove on the south side, in a short time he approached the bluff of the little stream that passes through that grove, and upon ohtaining a favorahle view of the surrounding country, he stopped his horse and viewed the landscape with a critic's eye. When fully comprehended, he shouted out at the top of his voice, "Hurrah for Old Kentuck! the garden spot of the world!" Crossing the little stream, he soon came to the cabin of Mr James Meadows, one of the first white men to set up his wigwam in Sugar Grove, who had been located in that place for three or four years, having once or twice during that time made the round trip to St. Louis and return in his canoe, in order to obtain the necessary supplies for his family Mr Meadows had a few acres of land under cultivation, having a pre-emption right to the surrounding lands on his improvement Mr. Alkire was highly pleased with the surrounding country He soon struck a bargain with Mr Meadows for his little improvement and claim. He then hought several other little improvements, with the accompanying claims. He then returned to his family in Ohio, when he sent his young man (Mr William Engle) with a team to make a crop for him, and do some other improvement for the comfort of his family on their arrival at their new home. Meanwhile, Mr. Alkire made an advantageous sale of his farm in Ohio, and arranged for the removal of his family in the fall, Mr. Engle returning with his team, and assisting in the removal of the family to their new home in Illinois, which was effected in a large four-horse wagon and a light two-horse wagon, taking with him several head of well-hred cattle for hreeding purposes, which proved afterward to he of great advantage to the country. Mr Alkire's arrival at his new home was in the fall of 1824. On the opening of the puhlic land sales at Springfield, by the United States Government, Mr. Alkire attended, entering his several purchased claims with considerahle other lands, thus securing an indisputable title to the "garden spot of the world!" Here he continued to put forth his energy in subduing the wild country hefore him, fencing, breaking, planting, etc. In the fall of 1828, he hult himself a comfortahle two-story brick house, which was probahly the first hrick structure in what is now known as Menard County, which was a great novelty to many young people, who, though nearly grown, had scarcely ever seen a brick, let alone a hrick house.

About this time Mr. Alkire was appointed Road Supervisor hy the County Commissioners of Sangamon County, his district covering a territory which was probably nearly twice as large as Menard County. He was ordered to open a public road from near the mouth of Salt Creek in Havana on the Illinois River. The most serious difficulty in the way of travel was known as Crane Creek Swamp Mr Alkire collected together all the ahle-hodied men for a considerahle distance round, and proceeded to that place with wagons, teams, and provisions, tools, camp equipage, etc., where he set to work making rails in the nearest forest and hauling them to the swamp: then he would cut a quantity of the tall swamp grass, which grew in great profusion and luxuriance all round the horders of the swamp, with which he spread a thick hed on which to place his rails, to prevent their sinking down out of sight in the soft muck, which was of such a soft and peculiar character that a man could stand on a square of the hridge, when finished, and shake one-fourth of an acre of the surrounding surface After Mr. Alkire would lay down a few yards of his road-hed with grass and rails, he would then secure the rails from floating away with the water hy placing a heavy pole on each end of them, and then, by driving huge forks of trees down astride of his poles, would thus secure all in proper position; then he would cover the-rails with a coat of the grass, with a sort of rudely constructed mud bearer, they covered the whole with a coat of sand to the depth of several inches He thus proceeded with section after section, until the whole work was completed for the distance of near one-fourth of a mile This road made a safe and easy passage over the swamp for many years, without repair This was ahout the first bridge of any importance that was hult in Mason County, and work of considerable note

About this time horned cattle had accumulated in this part of the country to an amount beyond the necessities of the community, when, writing letters to some of his old drover friends in Ohio, and representing the opportunity as a favorable one for them to embark in. they soon sought him out, and commenced a trade with the people in this part of the country which proved highly remunerative to all parties for many succeeding years Mr. Alkire continued in raising and dealing in cattle, making it and farming his special business, which eventually made him one of the wealthiest men in the County.

Mr. Alkire was liberal to a good degree with his hard earnings, blessing the poor with his assistance, and patiently awaiting for the payment of the frequent sums of money he was called on to loan to his poor neighhors, thus aiding them in securing for themselves a little home; contrihuting largely to the cause of religion, inculcating in the minds of his family the worth of honest industry, making the love of truth and fair dealing, with frugality and economy, the main points in the character of the true man As his family grew up to manhood or womanhood, and wished to set up business for themselves. the kind-hearted father, with a liheral hand, divided out his wealth, both in lands and money, and property of whatsoever kind, leaving but a mere maintenance in the hands of his sons for himself and his wife Eventually, on the 1st of Novemher, 1872, his wife, the companion of his joys and sorrows, departed this life. Being left alone, he repaired to the house of his eldest son (Milem), where he has a comfortahle room provided, and is now enjoying reasonable health, at the advanced age of eighty-nine years.

As noted in the previous biography, Leonard Alkire was a major land patentee in portions of Sangamon County which became Menard County in 1839. Leonard came to Sangamon County with considerable resources and purchased claims from the Meadows, Grant, Wilcox and Blane families. Below are some of these early land transactions:

> ...The family is of Irish lineage and the father [George Blane], who was born in County Down. Ireland, came to America in 1818 locating at what is now known as Irish Grove He and other men of his nationality on settling in Menard county worked in the woods and thus the grove obtained its name From the government George Blane entered the land which now constitutes the farm upon which his son John P Blane resides. He prospered in his agricultural pursuits and the boundaries of his home place were extended until they surrounded six hundred and forty acres of rich land At one time he owned altogether twelve hundred acres and was justly accounted one of the representative and successful agriculturists of his community He carried forward his farm work along progressive lines and transformed the wild prairie into productive tracts which annually returned to him golden harvests He also found opportunity to aid in the promotion of public interests and he served as justice of the peace for many years, his decisions being characterized by the utmost fairness and impartiality He died upon the old homestead farm January 10, 1864, at the age of sixty-five years and his loss was deeply regretted throughout the entire community, because of the important and helpful part which he had played in business and public life.

From the History of Menard County, Illinois, pages 727-8, came the following biographical sketch of John D. Alkire:

> J. D. ALKIRE, banker, Greenview; was born in Menard Co., Ill., Feb. 10, 1832; he is the youngest son of Leonard and Catharine (Davis) Alkire, who came from Ohio to Illinois in 1823, and settled in Sugar Grove; here our subject passed his youth and early manhood on the farm of his father; he received such education as could be obtained from the schools of that early day; at the age of 19, he and his brother Leonard built a storeroom in the then newly laid-out town of Sweetwater, and put in a general stock of goods. Neither had had any experience in the mercantile business and, strange as it may seem, they succeeded beyond their most sanguine expectation; they continued in this business for a period of eight years, when they sold the store and contents to William Engle & Son; not long after, they bought out Engle & Son and continued in business for more than a year; they then sold out to a Mr. Whipp. In all of these transactions they were very successful, making money at every change they made; this was about the year 1862; then for a period of eleven years, the two brothers engaged in farming and the live-stock trade; in this, as in the mercantile business, they were very successful; about this time they went to the Far West, where they improved a large ranch, and handled a large number of sheep; at the end of two and a half years, the partnership that had existed between the brothers, for a period of twenty-four years ceased. - J. D., out subject, taking the property they owned in Menard Co., Ill., and his brother the ranch and stock in Colorado; after J. D. Alkire's return to his native state, he, and his eldest brother, Milem, started a private bank in the village of Greenview; this was the first enterprise of that kind in Eastern Menard Co.; they continued in business one year, with a capital of $100,000; at the expiration of that time they dissolved, and a new bank was started, under the name of Marbold, Alkire, & Co.; this is one of the best and safest banking-houses in the State, representing a capital of $150,000....

JOHN P. BLANE

John P. Blane is accounted one of the leading citizens of Greenview, actively connected with its business and public affairs. He is now president of the school board and in the line of commercial activity is president of Greenview Coal & Mining Company. He also has farming interests in Menard county and in the control of his business displays keen discernment, sagacity and unfaltering enterprise - qualities which always insure a fair measure of success.

..John P. Blane acquired his education in the public schools and in Eureka College and was thus well qualified for life's practical duties. On putting aside his text-books he took charge of the home farm for his father had passed away and his brother was with the Union army. In September, 1867 he built his present home and took up his abode there. He has been a feeder of cattle in connection with the raising of grain and is a member of the Farmers Elevator Company. When the Greenview Coal & Mining Company was organized he was made its president and in control of its business interests he has shown marked capability and discernment. He possesses strong purpose and gradually he has advanced in his business career until he now occupies an enviable position as a representative of agricultural and industrial interest in Menard county

..Mr. and Mrs. Blane are consistent members of the Christian church of Greenview and are worthy people who receive the friendship of many, while the hospitality of a large majority of the best homes in the locality is extended to them. Mr. Blane has served on the school board for twenty years and is now its president, the cause of education finding in him a warm and helpful friend, and he has put forth effective service in behalf of the public school system of the city. He belongs to Loyalty lodge No. 627, A. F. & A. M., and to the AntiHorse Thief Association, called the Greenview Rangers Association, of which he is the vice president. He exercises his right of franchise in support of the men and measures of the Republican party and he stands to-day as one of the representative citizens of Greenview, a man strong in his business capacity, in his successful accomplishment, in his honor and his good name.

> Edward Evert Claypool, son of William and Elizabeth Claypool, pursued his more specifically literary education in Greenview and afterward attended Brown's Business College of Jacksonville. He then returned to the farm and has since conducted a general stock business, buying and selling horses, mules and cattle, but making a specialty of the first. He ships a carload of horses and mules each week and employs three men in buying horses. His business has reached extensive proportions and is profitable, his sales annually returning to him a good income. He ships to St. Louis and Chicago, but finds the former city the best marked for mules, a larger number of mules being sold there annually than in any other market of the world. He has a barn that will contain one hundred and twenty head of horses and mules, and his other equipments on his farm are in keeping with that fine structure. He also has from one to two carloads of Aberdeen Angus cattle upon his farm all the time. In 1890 he erected a nice residence on the farm, which he now occupies.
> ...In his political affiliation Mr. Claypool is a Democrat and for two terms he served on the school board, but has never sought office as his business affairs have fully occupied his time and in the development of his business he has found ample incentive for the exercise of this powers-and the employment of his best efforts. He affiliates with the Christian church of Greenview

From the History of Nodaway County, Missouri, p. 98, came the following:

farmer and stock feeder, section 22, is a native of Menard County, Illinois, and was born on the 20th of March 1840. He spent his boyhood days and received a good education in his native state, and began his mercantile life at Sweetwater, Illinois, when at the age of fourteen years. He clerked for an uncle till he was seventeen years old, then carried on business for himself, and thus continued till 1871, when he sold out and moved to Nodaway County, Missouri, purchasing 320 acres of land, and devoting his time to the live stock interest. During nine months of the year 1875 he was engaged in the mercantile business at Graham, although his chief interests were at the farm. His reputation as a successful agriculturalist, stock raiser and feeder may be inferred from the success which has attended his career. Mr. W. has manifested a commendable public spiritedness, and has proved himself a man of good, sound judgment and of large practical experience. His neighbors and those who have dealings with him find a man honest in business, fair in transactions, social in his relations and benevolent in his disposition. He is now owner of some 900 acres of finely improved land under a high state of cultivation, with an excellent residence and out buildings.

Further biographical information concerning his days in California came from a granddaughter, Beverly Long:

In the earliest Pomona days, Mr. Whipp conducted a general store on Second Street. Receipt pads give the location as "nearly opposite Brown's Hotel."

He was a stern man, short in stature, and slight of build, successful in business, and with prospering lands. Severe in discipline of his many children, he nevertheless was very generous as they in turn, established homes of their own.

The well worn covers of his several editions testify to his devoted reading of the Bible. He belonged to the Christian church, and built, or helped to build, many churches in his lifetime, some on his own land, given for this purpose.

His ledger notes reflect his interest in elements, nature and astronomy. He spent many nights with his telescope, in the cupola of the house, observing the stars. He kept a daily log of weather conditions and temperatures, and devoted hours to maintaining a greenhouse, or tending exotic plants in the garden.

Chapter XI

THE BRADLEY FAMILY

This chapter contains the information known of the parents of Nancy Bradley who married Joseph Vance. John Bradley and Sarah "Sally" Lillard have been identified as the parents of Nancy Bradley. Information regarding Sarah's surname has come from several sources including Sanders Saga by Catherine S. McConnel, page 245. This genealogy stated that John Bradley and Sarah Lillard were married in 1768. DAR membership application #581137, submitted on June 22, 1973 by Laura Fields Kreger, stated that John's wife was Sarah Lillard. Perhaps one of the best confirmations of this information is that a granddaughter of John and Sarah Bradley, daughter of James Bradley, was named Sarah Lillard Bradley.

Two books have been written on the Lillard family. The first, Lillard, A Family of Colonial Virginia by Jacques Ephraim "Stout" Lillard, was published in 1928. Much of Stout Lillard's early information was based on family tradition. He stated that the Lillards were Huguenots of French origin and descended from Moise and Lilli Lillard of Angers and Nantes. Their son, Jean (John) Lillard, emigrated to America, settling on the James River in Virginia. It was the belief of Stout Lillard that with the exception of a Louisiana family, all American Lillards were descended from John Lillard. John Lillard was said to have married Mildred Jones in 1700. After Mildred's death in 1720 John and his son, Benjamin, located in an area near Manassas which in 1731 became part of Prince William County, and which could have been the original location of John Lillard on the James River. There John was said to have married second, Martha Littlejohn. No records have been found for these marriages; however, a will written in 1734/5 and recorded in Prince William County, and an inventory of the estate, of Martha Lillard have been located. Martha's daughter, Sarah Lillard, was named in her, will making Sarah too old to have been the wife of John Bradley but establishing Sarah as a Lillard family given name.

The second Lillard genealogy in two volumes, of the same title, published in 1991 by David Hicks Lillard, Jr., was primarily concerned with James Lillard born in Virginia about 1725 and husband of Keziah Bradley. This heavily documented book stated that the first known Lillard in this country was a Thomas Lillard of Essex County, Virginia, who in 1715 was mentioned in the estate papers of George Lloyd. In 1732 Thomas Lillard was a member of a jury in Prince William County. David Hicks Lillard speculated that this Thomas Lillard may have been the second husband of the Martha Littlejohn Lillard who died in 1734/5.

A John Lillard, tenant farmer, resided in Prince William County on Four Mile Run as early as 1726 or 1727. This area became Fairfax County in 1742. John died at that location, and his widow married a Mr. Chubb. A John Lillard was a taxpaying resident of Orange County on Mountain Run in 1737, but after that date he no longer appeared in tax records. The first well-documented Lillards have been found in the records of Bromfield Parish, Culpeper County, formed from Orange County in 1748.

Because John Bradley's father is unproved, the information in the following two paragraphs presents two possible candidates: Lawrence Bradley and John Bradley, Sr.

Lawrence Bradley resided in Bromfield Parish, Culpeper County, Virginia. In Book G, page 509, of the Northern Neck Land Grants of Virginia, was recorded a 1751 grant of 300 acres in Culpeper County on the south side of Hussers River to Lawrence Bradley. His neighbors were Lawrence Garr and William Duff. Witnesses to the June 1, 1784, will of Lawrence Bradley were William Brown, James James, Archabud Rider, and William Ambrose Brown. The will was proved on June 16, 1788. Lawrence and his wife, Elizabeth Lillard, had at least two children who married into the Lillard family, Keziah Bradley who married James Lillard, and Augustine Bradley, Sr., who married first, Elizabeth Lillard in about 1768, and second, Frances Hurt, whom he married on November 13, 1788. James Bradley was born in 1745 and died on December 15, 1832. Lawrence Bradley was said to be the father of John Bradley who married Sarah Lillard in Lillard, A Family of Colonial Virginia by David Hicks Lillard, Jr., pages 751-2. The author stated this information had been provided to him by Bradley researchers whom he did not identify.

Lacking proof for the above it must be noted that a "John Bradley, Sr.," died in 1803 in Washington County, Virginia, the location at which John Bradley, father of Nancy Bradley Vance, died in 1817. In 1804 an inventory was made of this estate and presented to the court on May 16th. Mary Bradley was administratrix of this estate. John McHenry, Niel McNiel, and George Smith were the appraisers. The estate was small. The house contained the following furniture: two bedsteads and furniture, a table, two pairs of chairs, two books, half a dozen delph plates, nine tin cups, teaware, knives and forks, irons, an oven, a flesh fork and candlestick, pewter, a wash tub, and pott trammel (a pothook for a fireplace crane). In addition to these items there were: a cow and calf, three sows, flax, a beef hide, carpenters' tools, and farm tools. On December 18, 1810, an estate settlement was made by Joseph Scott, Neel McNeel, and Joseph Pendleton. An Andrew Bradley was mentioned in this settlement as well as William Burgess and his wife. Mary Bradley, youngest daughter of our John Bradley, had married a William Burges on October 7, 1805.

The above background has been presented to readers as a basis for future research. We will now continue with the family of John and Sarah Lillard Bradley.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN BRADLEY

1. John[1] Bradley. Born, 1743[1]. Died, 1817, in Abingdon, Washington Co., VA[2]. Buried in Sinking Springs, Abingdon, Washington Co., VA[3].

John married Sarah "Sally" Lillard, possibly the daughter of Benjamin Lillard and Elizabeth Lightfoot, circa 1761. Died, 1817, in Washington Co., VA[5].

The name John Bradley is found in the records of Culpeper County, Virginia. On May 19, 1763, John and Susannah Lillard, sold a John Bradley one hundred acres in Bromfield Parish, on Thornton's line, for the sum of fifteen pounds. This sale was recorded in Culpeper County, Virginia Deed Book D, pages 233-236. This date would coincide with the approximate date of the marriage of John Bradley to Sarah Lillard. The above couple has been identified as Captain John Lillard who served in the Revolution and his wife, Susannah Ball, a cousin of George Washington. They removed to Kentucky. John Lillard married second, Ann Moore Thomas. John Lillard was also believed to be a son of Benjamin Lillard and Elizabeth Lightfoot, possible parents of Sarah Lillard.

In Culpeper County a John Bradley was paid for service in the French and Indian War, 1754-1763. This information came from Kegley's Virginia Frontier by F. B. Kegley, page 257.

The earliest records found of a John Bradley in southwest Virginia were found in Volume II of Scotch-Irish Settlement in Virginia, in which it was recorded that on August 27, 1764, in Augusta County, Virginia, a John Bradley witnessed the will of Abraham Biss who died in 1765. In 1767 a John Bradley appeared in Colonel Preston's list of tax delinquents in the same location.

During the revolution John Bradley served from Fincastle County under Captain Evan Shelby in Lord Dunsmore's Wars. A battle was fought in 1774 at Point Pleasant at the mouth of the Great Kenhawa John later lived in Washington County formed in 1776-7 from the counties of Montgomery and Fincastle, the latter county having been dissolved.

John Bradley came into possession of six tracts of land in Kentucky. John Bradley authorized Alexander Breckenridge to sell property on Green River on September 20, 1791. Virginia established its first military district south of the Green River, and only a soldier could enter a survey in the district. The Kentucky properties of John Bradley were:

The History of Southwest Virginia by Lewis Preston Summers contained several references to Reuben Bradley. On March 18, 1806, Reuben Bradley became a justice for Washington County, Virginia. In April of 1812 Captain Reuben Bradley ran for a seat in the House of Delegates receiving 314 votes. Colonel Francis Preston received 344 votes. Both men became delegates to the General Assembly of Virginia. Reuben served in this position until 1817 and again in 1821 and 1822. On December 23, 1833, Reuben Bradley became sheriff of Washington County.

Some of the land transactions in which Reuben Bradley was involved were:

Information about James Bradley can be found in the History of Southwest Virginia by Lewis Preston Summers and in Sanders Saga by Catherine S. McConnell as well as in an article in THE VIRGINIAN, dated April 27, 1911. In May of 1789, James made a purchase of 280 acres as recorded in Washington County, VA Deed Book l, page 124, from George and Joseph Colvill. His home was known as "The Meadows."

On January 17, 1791, James Bradley was named a justice of Washington County. In the years 1797 and 1798 James Bradley and Samuel Meek served as delegates to the General Assembly of Virginia from Washington County. In 1803 James Bradley became a trustee for the newly incorporated Abingdon Academy having authority to make rules and regulations and appoint and remove officers for the academy. He served on this board until removing to Huntsville, Alabama, in 1824.

James obtained two merchants' licenses in the year 1804, on March 16th and May 1st. That same year, in the tax records of Robert Campbell's precinct, it was recorded that James was a slave owner. On June 20, 1809, James was named a sheriff for Washington County. In 1823 he sold his log home to Francis Smith in preparation for his move to Huntsville, Alabama.

In 1834 Abram had purchased 500 acres from Abram Fulkerson which he devised to his son, Abram F. Bradley, together with other lands purchased from the Fulkersons. Abram Jr., also received a 200 acre tract on Beaver Creek purchased from Jacob Miller in 1837, and the 270 acres on the south side of Walker's Mountain purchased from Catherine and Peter Hanley, as well as land purchased from Samuel Smith. Altogether Abram, Jr., was bequeathed between 1,000 and 1,200 acres and six slaves.

Abram Bradley was the administrator of his father's estate. He was named a sheriff of Washington County, Virginia, on May 21, 1842. Abram's will was dated May 4, 1846. At the time of his death he resided on the 750 acres, valued at $15,000, which he willed to his son, John L. Bradley. It included the 135 acres he had purchased from John Mitchell in 1815, the 5 1/2 acres purchased from Robert Craig in 1818, and the acres purchased between 1832 and 1834 from the Andrew Willoughby estate. He was also in possession of 200 acres in Mechlenburg County, Kentucky, which he willed to his granddaughter, Louisa Barksdale, daughter of Sally who was deceased.

Below are some of the deeds recorded in Washington County in which Abram was grantor or grantee. Information in the deeds and his will indicated that Abram owned a distillery, a saw mill, much cash, and a number of slaves.

Chapter XII

THE CONSTANT FAMILY

Previous researchers of the Constant family have believed the family to have been of French Huguenot origin. An ancient coat of arms found at Lausanne, Switzerland, was reported in the Book of Crests by Fairbairn, page 129.

Our own Constant line has been traced to Baltimore County, Maryland, as early as 1722 with John and Susannah Constant. At that time the birth of their daughter, Margaret, was recorded in St. George's Parish of the Anglican Church, presently located in Harford County. Property for the erection of a parish church was conveyed to the vestry in 1718; however an earlier church may have been in existence some time between 1671 and 1681. The earliest records extant begin in 1692 as recorded in Volume I of the church registers.

The boundaries of St. George's Parish were between the Susquehanna River on the east, Chesapeake Bay on the south, the headwaters of the Bush River on the west, and the Pennsylvania line on the north; an area north of Baltimore within which the John Constant family probably resided.

No known connection has been made to a Thomas Constant who received a land grant in Nansemond County, Virginia, on October 29, 1696. Still earlier, to pay his passage to America, a John Constant was indentured to an Edward Wade of York County, Virginia, who willed John's service to his son in a document dated November, 1675. York County was at that time a large county surrounding the Rappahannock River and adjoining Nansemond County to the south. John Constant successfully sued John Williams of York County for the sum of four pounds sterling on November 24, 1688. It is of course possible that a son or grandson of one of these men settled in Baltimore County, Maryland.

When John Constant, born 1725, son of John Constant of Baltimore County, migrated west he may well have done so via a major route to the west which traversed southwest from Chester in Pennsylvania, passing through Harford County, Baltimore, Frederic, Hagerstown, and points west along the Potomac River in Maryland. He then settled on the Cacapon River which flowed northward into the Potomac just southwest of present day Berkeley Springs, Morgan County, West Virginia.

The ancestry of Martha Constant, who married John Morgan of northwestern Virginia follows, beginning with her father, John Constant.

First Generation

1. John[1] Constant (John[2])[1]. Born, 14 Aug 1725, in St. George's Parish Harford Co., MD. Died, Dec 1810, in Fleming Co., KY[2]. Census: 16 Aug 1800, from the Fleming Co., KY tax list. Resided: before 1748, in Frederick Co., VA, presently Morgan Co., WVA. Occupation: farmer.

By 1748 John Constant and his brother, William, and possibly other family members, had left Harford County, Maryland, and were residents on the Cacapehon River of Virginia. John's residence was attested to by George Washington, future president of the United States, in his Journal of My Journey Over the Mountains.

George Washington was a surveyor for Lord Fairfax, owner of all the land in the present day counties of Hardy, Hampshire, and Morgan Counties in West Virginia, and the counties of Frederick in Virginia, plus other counties totaling in all, twenty-three. Charles II granted these lands to seven proprietors who subsequently sold their rights to Lord Culpeper. From the latter these properties descended to Lord Thomas Fairfax. In 1748 George Washington, then only sixteen years of age, was named to survey the Fairfax estate. George's brother, Lawrence Washington, had married Ann, daughter of William Fairfax who was a cousin of Lord Thomas Fairfax.

On April 23, 1750, John Constant assisted George Washington as marker for the survey of 388 acres in the Fork of Cacapehon for Henry Enoch. Two days later, again with Washington, John was marker in a survey for John Newton whose property was located one mile above the fork of the Cacapehon River on North River. On the following day, April 26th, Constant helped survey 200 acres for John Parker on Little Cacapehon.

A survey was made for John Constant on June 6, 1755, in the Northern Neck of Virginia for 200 acres, the warrant having been issued on February 10, 1754. The property was obtained from his brother, William Constant, a mare and colt being part of the purchase price.

Eight years later on May 7, 1763, John Constant obtained a deed from Lord Fairfax for eighty-four acres located on both sides of the Great Cacapehon River. This property was located near the present day Fisher Bridge, north of Largent, in Morgan County, West Virginia, where Constant's Run enters the Cacapon River. On July 4, 1770, John obtained a lease/release for an additional one hundred acres from Thomas and Rebecca Mattocks. Constant's son-in-law, John Morgan who had married his daughter, Martha, was a witness to this transaction.

In Northern Neck Land Grants Book P, page 81, on October 18, 1771, it was recorded that two hundred acres had been granted to John Constant of Hampshire County, on the Cacapehon River, surveyed for Thomas Edes. The tract had been returned to the surveyor, John Mauzy, as "Edes did not comply with the advertisement of March 26, 1765 and recorded in Book N." From Frederick County, Virginia, Settlement and Some First Families of Back Creek Valley, by Wilmer L. Kerns, page 128, came the following concerning the above transactions:

> After leaving Back Creek, Eades and his wife settled along the Cacapon River several miles below the Forks of Capon in what is now Morgan County, West Virginia. According to a first-person account given by John Largent, John Constant sold land to Thomas Edes who was to pay for the land by bartering his horses and mares. Before Edes could pay for the land, Indians raided the settlement during tbe French and Indian War and killed both Edes and his wife.

A further quotation from this source is of interest in that it describes the dangerous conditions under which John Constant and other residents of the area lived:

> Kercheval told a story that supplements our knowledge about the fate of Eades and his family. It reasons that he settled on land that John Constant had sold him, "about three miles above the mouth of Capon." Eades discovered a cave on his new land and moved his wife and children into their new abode. The cave was in a large rock, and it saved him from cutting logs to build a cabin. After Eades had lived in the cave for several years, Indians began warfare against white settlers along the frontier. Neighbors took shelter in a fort in the neighborhood [Fort Enoch or Fort Cox], but Eades remained firmly in his cave. One day, Indians discovered the Eades family by trailing the children while they were driving their cows to the cave, probably for milking. The entire family was taken prisoner by the Indians, and they were never heard from again.

During the Revolution John Constant served as a soldier and his son, John, as a Captain. This was documented in the History of Kentucky, Volume I, by Lewis Collins, page 13.

William Jackson obtained a tract of sixty acres from John Constant on August 3, 1773. John Constant and his son, John, witnessed a deed on the 6th of January, 1779, of John Larew/Larue to William Jackson. Later that year John, Jr., moved to Kentucky. His father provided him with five cows and heifers and a lively young horse, and 1800 Continental dollars to buy land for his brothers, William, Isaac, and Jacob. This is known from John, Sr.'s, testimony during a lawsuit filed on May 13, 1799, in Fleming County, Kentucky, in which the amount of land due to Isaac and Jacob, the surviving boys, was in dispute because of the premature death of their brother, John.

John Constant, William McCrackin, Archibald Wiggins, and John Irwin were appraisers of the estate of Septimus Taylor in 1782. On August 10th of that year John sold to Isaac Dawson a tract of two hundred acres. Witnesses to this transaction were: John Swain, William Jackson, and John Morgan. It is interesting to note that John Constant, Jr., married Abigail Dawson. John, Jr., had returned to Virginia for a visit in 1781 and had requested that his father sell some of his holdings to buy additional land in Kentucky for his sons. John thought this over through the winter of 1781-2 before finally agreeing to do so. The purchase price of twenty pounds bought 3,000 acres in Kentucky from James McCollester.

On November 17, 1783, John Constant, William Jackson, and William Demaris appraised the estate of Lawrence Neff in Hampshire County.

On March 9, 1785 John Constant affixed his mark, J, to the appraisal of the estate of Jacob Larews. On April 3, 1785, John was witness to the will of Jacob Locks; John Morgan was security and William Jackson, "my loving friend," was executor. On April 18, 1785, John Constant witnessed a sale of 308 acres to John Aikman.

The tax lists of Hampshire County have provided further information on the family of John Constant. In 1782 there were eight white members of the household, one male over sixteen, three horses, and thirteen cattle. In 1783 John's household had one male, 21 or older, one male, from 16-21, four horses and ten cattle. On June 1, 1784, there was one male, 21 or older, three horses, and eight cattle. In 1785 there was one male over 21, two males, 16-21, three horses, and nine cattle. By 1786 John was the only male over 21, and had two horses and eight head of cattle. In 1787 there were again two males, 21 or above, as well as two horses, and seven head of cattle. In 1788 through 1790 he was listed as the only male 21 or over, with two horses. In 1791 he no longer appeared on Hampshire County tax rolls.

John Constant probably married his first wife about 1749. Her name has been said by a number of researchers to have been Sarah Hood; however, as yet, no researcher has been located with proof that this was so. On April 14, 1789, John Constant and his second wife, Elizabeth Willis, for two hundred pounds leased Jeremiah Thompson one hundred acres, part of a tract granted to Thomas Mattocks in 1766. The witnesses to this lease and release were Daniel Newcomb, William Jackson, and George Keele.

On January 12, 1790, John's daughter, Jane, married William Newcomb. The following 8th of February John leased his son-in-law for 100 pounds the eighty-four acres of the Fairfax tract he had purchased in 1763 on the west side of the Great Cacapeon. Daniel Newcomb, William Jackson, and George Keele again acted as witnesses. On August 20, 1792, these same eighty-four acres were deeded back to John Constant by William Newcomb and his wife, Jean, again for one hundred pounds. The witnesses to this transaction were William Jackson, John Swain, and Jeremiah Thompson. These eighty-four acres were sold for the last time for two hundred pounds on November 10, 1800, to Jeremiah Thompson.

Hampshire County Minute Book, 1788-1791, indicated that on November 11, 1790, James and Sarah Fields were complainants against Isaac Dawson and John Constant, defendants In Chancery, the cause not stated. When Abraham Dawson wrote his will in 1804 in Hampshire County a suit over land was mentioned against John Constant, Jeremiah Thompson, John and James Matthews, William Catlitt, and Captain Isaac Bell.

That John Constant was no saint is known from an accusation found in the Hampshire County Minute Book, 1788-1791, in June of 1791, as follows: " John Constant and Elizabeth Chrisman, wife of Conrad Chrisman, for living together acting and committing adultery by information of James Fields." Where was John's second wife, Elizabeth Willis? This was the same year their daughter, Hester, is believed to have been born.

By August 16, 1800, John Constant had removed to Kentucky and was listed on the Fleming County tax rolls, his residence being at Fleming Creek and the Licking River.

A Fayette County Circuit Court Deed Book recorded an indenture on September 8, 1806, of William Metcalf to John Constant whereby Metcalf should pay Constant $900.00 by the next January for the following property: a negro slave named John, a negro woman slave named Flora, a brown horse with cropped ears, a sorrel horse with bald face, a bay mare, a bay horse with one eye, a roan horse, a bay colt, two black horses, seven head of horned cattle, fifteen sheet, thirty head of hogs, a corn field, two wheat stacks, a wagon and gears, cupboard and desk, one dozen windsor chairs, four beds and furniture, a loom, and all other household and kitchen furniture. Apparently John was closing out his household and preparing to live with one of his children.

On August 28, 1804, John wrote his will which was recorded in Fleming County, Kentucky Will Book A, page 202. It was as follows:

In the name of God. Amen.

I John Constant of Fleming County and State of Kentucky being infirm in body but of disposing memory, calling to mind the mortality of the body, and that I must, agreeable to the course of nature, shortly die, That a proper disposition of the small estate, goods, and chattels with which it has pleased the almighty to bless me in this life may be made and done, Do hereby make such disposition in the following Will.

John lived until late 1810, his will being proved at the January Term, 1811, of the Fleming County Court.

In addition to the children named in the will John had a son, William, who appeared in the 1782 Hampshire County Tax List next to his father. William died in 1787. John's first born son, Captain John Constant, had died in 1788.

John Constant and his first wife had the following children:

i. John Constant[4]. Born, 1750, in Hampshire Co., VA. Died, 10 Oct 1788, at Constant's Station, Bourbon Co., KY[5]. Buried at Constant's Station, Bourbon Co., KY. He married Abigail Dean, circa 1776.

Captain John Constant served in the Revolutionary War in John Holder's Company in Madison County, Kentucky, at or near Boonesborough, June 10, 1779. For his military service John was granted 1,000 acres in Fayette County, Kentucky. This portion of the county became Bourbon County when it was formed in 1786 and in 1793 became a part of Clark County.

The Jefferson County, Kentucky, Deed Entries, Volume A, page 36, recorded that on April 29, 1780, John Constant was deeded 400 acres on Strodes Fork of the Licking River and 1,000 acres on the Elkhorn waterway.

An excerpt from a letter to Governor Nelson from Lexington, Kentucky, dated October 21, 1781, found in the Calendar of State Papers of Virginia, Volume 2, page 564, was as follows: "there are not magistrates enough in the County to hold a Court." It went on to suggest that Captain J. Constant be put on the Commission as recommended by Major Swearingen.

Captain John Constant was a resident of Strode's Station in his early days in Kentucky. On August 14, 1782, being the ranking military officer, he led a force which was defeated at the "Battle of Upper Blue Licks," also known as "Boyle's Defeat." In this force were Daniel Boone, John Morgan, and other Morgan and Boone family members. Because of the criticism he received following the battle, in 1783-4 John left Strode's Station and established Constant's Station on Constant's Fork of Strode's Creek, about a half mile north of Strode's Station. There were four houses at his station which were originally occupied by John Constant, Thomas Parvin, Major Andrew Hood, who had married a sister of John's wife, and Charles Stamper. In 1785 John Morgan, who had married Captain John Constant's sister, Martha, joined the group. The station was much smaller than Strode's and not built to withstand attack.

In the years 1783 and 1784 ten surveys were recorded for John Constant in Fayette County on Strode's Fork of the Licking River and on Hingston Fork of the Licking. The total acreage of these grants was 5,078. 1,000 of these acres were the above mentioned grant for military service.

The testimony in the Draper Papers of Isaac Clinkenbeard, a resident at Strode's Station, provided the following account of an attack by Indians on Constant's Station in the spring of 1785:

> ...Constant was one day, at his station, out in the field, ploughing. Joshua Stamper was also out, in an adjoining field. Only a cane running between them. Two little children of Parvins were out at the mouth of the cane. The two children were killed: whether shot, or how, I don't know. They shot at Constant, as he ran in, and broke his leg. He got in on his hands and one foot, crept in under the floor, and so into his house. Stamper got in without injury.

A second account of this attack, more detailed but somewhat confusing because of inserts in the text, was given by Henry Parvin, son of the Thomas Parvin who was living at Constant's Station at the time:

> ...Constant was ploughing corn, and my sister and myself were wanted by him to help set up the corn. He had had the measles and had gotten well, but part of the family still had them and my mother went out to get spice-wood to make some tea - heard the child cry, turned back and sent another sister and brother. They had scarcely gotten to the end of the cane when the Indians took them. Broke Constant's leg, and shot a hullet that struck right in the side of the door where mother was standing.

Constant had ploughed once from the house to the hemp-patch towards the end of the cane, which came hetween him and where the Indians were and was going towards the hemp-patch a second time. We stopped and looked at the alarm and called "Indians." We saw them, a parcel of swarthy, yellow looking things, with shining pieces of silver on, and we thought they had killed a snake, and thought of going to see what kind of one it was. They were gathered round, taking them to he a parcel of mulattos. Constant called "Indians" again, and when we saw him turn and run, then we ran too. He was shot as he went in. Had first got to the end of the row of corn at the yard fence, he crawled along a few panels, and came to the yard gate, and came in. The house was underpinned, and he crept under, and was taken in hy a place opened with the lifting up of a puncheon. I followed him. Sister went round the house, and ran in at our door.

Father was teaching school at the time at Stroud's Station, and was just crossing the fence with two of Mr. Constant's children, Henry and Elizaheth, just after dinner, when he heard the gun crack. Saw us run. Said he thought it was some of their foolishness. Went on and called school. Children were massacred. They would have done much mischief if the children hadn't come out. We had heen to school in the morning, and he had heen ploughing. Came to my father for us after dinner. But Isaac Constant, a hrother of John, and I, after getting John Constant upstairs to hed, stayed up there guard.

About half an hour after this we heard a gun fire towards Hood's Station ahout two miles farther down hut not on the creek. Two men were out from Stroud's Station and returning, one of them saw a red hird, and thought he would see how near he could come taking off its head. Presently they came and set on the yard fence. Isaac Constant told what had happened and of their danger, which they at first were not disposed to helieve, hut when they did, slipped in, in haste. An express was then sent on to the fort, and ahout thirty pursued in a very short time, hut the Indians got away down among the knohs and escaped. We had thought those were Indians at Hood's. This same spring we went there. My father moved then up to Stroud's, convenient to his school. Constant and Stamper still remained there.

Still a third account came from the testimony of Isaac's brother, William Clinkenbeard, as reprinted in the History Quarterly, April, 1928, pages 122-123:

...Attack on Constant's Station,:[spring, 1785] Lane ran clear down to the creek, [Strode's Creek], excepting at the hank where a fence could not he made; was right across, up and down, towards the creek. Not over, or much over, thirty yards from the house (Constant's) to the lane. House and Constant's cornfield were on one side of the lane [south], and Stamper's corn field on the other [north]. House was hetween Strode's Station and the lane. Constant's house was 150 yards from the creek[and one mile from Strode's Station]. Constant lived where Moore does now. Stamper's house was north of Constant's, right hetween it and the lane, a douhle house and [Thomas] Parvin had a part in it. It was partitioned in the middle, inside. Then there was another house, John Morgan's that married Constant's sister. That was east of Stamper's and Parvin's house. (Don't know whether it went farther out towards the lane or not. Don't think it did though.) Then old Major Hood came and huilt out east of Constant's door; this hefore he ever went to his own Station. When Hood first come he had to purchase (because too late to take up land there). When the children were killed there were only the three families living there, Constant's Parvin's, and Stamper's.

Hood was from the Red-Stone country, at least came down the river; was a pretty good hand after Indians; expect he had heen accustomed to them. Constant came from Capon, and he and Hood had married sisters there [daughters of Rev. Shadrach Willis of Staunton, Virginia]. Hood cut out the road clear to Virginia; undertook it and it like to have hroken him up.

Before this that the Indians came [to Constant's Station]. Constant had been over in Madison [County] and given $1.00 for a quart of Blue-grass seed to sow in that pasture [west of his house]. It was the first Blue-grass I ever heard of on this > side of the [Kentucky] river. Constant was out in his, and Stamper in his cornfield ploughing. Some of the other children had the measles, and these two had heen sent to the mouth of the lane (just big enough to do such an errand) 120 or 130 yards from the house, to hreak some spice bushes. Those two poor children did look dreadful, I think they were tomahawked; pretty nigh cut their heads off. Mrs. Constant ran to the door to see (it was warm weather, I suppose it was open) and a ball struck the cheek of the door, it, or the end of a log right at the door; saw the bullet hole many a time. Old daddy Stamper heard the noise and got in. Constant might also have gotten in without hurt [a shot broke his leg], hut he couldn't get two other of Parvin's children that were with him in the field, hoeing corn, to take the alarm and run. A little gate from the house went into the corn field; rather from the end of the house yard, or that lane - not lane, it was lower down. The house was a new log house on uneven ground and hadn't been underpinned all along. Was open [underneath] except at the corners. Constant came out at the little gate and came along under the lower side [toward the creek] of the house, and his wife took up a puncheon and let him up from under the floor. Would have been fair [shot] to the Indians had he gone along the side of the house to the door and then there was a porch there, too. Constant died [later] at his old place of St. Anthony's fire. We never could track the Indians that did this mischief. Where we did see their tracks, they were twenty or thirty yards apart. They got out on the poor barren hills, and there we lost sight of them altogether I think it was after this [that] news came to Strode's Station that an army of Indians were coming to attack it. Constant then moved into Strode's Station for a while, but it was all false news. He went back [to Constant's Station], and when he went, I went with him and lived in the upper end and Morgan in the lower end of the house next to the lane. I had my family there. This Constant was John Constant; his hrother Isaac had the measles and ran to the fort (Strode's Station) and gave the alarm.

In other testimony from William Clinkenbeard it was learned that Captain Constant took part in the recapture of stolen horses of William's father, and in the process captured some of the offending Indians:

> Captain Constant and myself rode in pursuit of one; had been after him for some time, when Constant jumped down from his horse and fired at him. The Indian fell down flat as if he had been shot; though, in truth, he hadn't been touched. Constant, not knowing but that he had hit him, told me I had hetter get down and shoot him, he might get away.

The Indian made a getaway and William who had pursued was struggling with him for the recovery of his gun with which he had meant to hit the Indian, but which the Indian had grabbed by the barrel. "Captain Constant came up, caught him by the shoulder and jerked him down." Jimmy Beeth came up and shot the Indian.

On another occasion the Indians stole a racing mare from John for which he had given 700 acres of land. William Clinkenbeard stated that, "Old Major Hood and John Constant were as good as wolves to track Indians."

The 1786 May court of Bourbon County appointed John Strode, John Constant, Edward Wilson, and Van Swearingen or any three of them to appraise the slaves and personal estate of Joshua Bennet.

John only lived until October 10, 1788, at which time he was about age thirty-eight. His death was from "St. Anthony's Fire," erysipelas, as a result of the arrowhead having remained in his leg.

John had appeared in the first Bourbon County tax lists in May, 1787, with two horses and thirteen cattle, but in 1788 his widow, Abigail, was listed with only three horses and cattle combined. She was again on the rolls in the years 1789, 1790, and 1792. At that time she had 561 acres, five horses, and twenty-one cattle. The heirs and sons of John Constant, who died intestate, were enumerated in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book M, pages 356-59, in a series of deeds written on January 30, 1817, which divided 325 acres of John Constant's land.

In 1793 Clark County was formed from Bourbon County. In 1794 Abigail Constant began appearing on its tax rolls. Her property included 3,220 acres on Strode's Creek and 804 acres on the Licking River. A breakdown of her numerous properties held in 1800 was as follows:

300 acres on Strodes in Clark County
450 acres on Strodes
841 acres on Strodes
273 acres on Putty Run
500 acres on Red River
528 acres on Stoner in Bourbon County
494 acres on Stoner
49 acres on Hingston
467 acres on the Licking in Fleming County
209 acres on the Licking

The children of John and Abigail Dean Constant were:

iv. Isaac Constant. Born, circa 1755, in Hampshire Co., VA. Resided, 1812, in Fleming Co., KY. He married Lydia Mooney.

Isaac Constant was in residence at Constant's Station when it was attacked in the spring of 1785. He appeared in the first Bourbon County, Kentucky tax lists in May of 1787 at which time he had two horses and three cattle. He appeared in these records again in 1788, 1789, and 1790 and thereafter was no longer listed in these records as the county split in 1789 to become Mason and split again in 1798 to become Fleming.

On August 19, 1788, John Morgan and William Clinkenbeard deposed before the court of Bourbon County and swore that before his death they had heard John Constant say that Isaac and his brother, Jacob, were to have their choice of 256 acres from his land on the north side of the Licking River or the south side of the Kentucky River due to his indebtedness to them.

Isaac and Lydia Constant deeded Jacob Dawson 186 acres on September 20, 1812, as recorded in Fleming County, Kentucky Deed Book E, page 129.

v. Jane Constant. Born, circa 1758, in Hampshire Co., VA. Died in Monroe Co., IN. She married Thomas William Newcomb, son of Daniel and Juda Newcomb, 12 Jan 1790, in Berkeley Co., VA[8].

He married Eleanor H. Clinkenbeard[9], daughter of William Clinkenbeard. circa 1789. Eleanor was born in 1769 and died on 4 Sep 1835.

Jacob Constant had joined his brothers, John and Isaac Constant, prior to 1788 as indicated by the Bourbon County, Kentucky tax lists. He appeared on the tax rolls through 1791.

On August 19, 1788, John Morgan and William Clinkenbeard deposed that before his death, John Constant had acknowledged his indebtedness to Jacob and Isaac Constant and had promised them their choice of 256 acres each of land lying on the north side of the Licking River or the south side of the Kentucky River. This was recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book A, pages 201-201.

Jacob Constant's will was dated, September 1, 1828 and proved on September 21st. Pages 218-225 of History of the Early Settlers of Sangamon County, Illinois, by J. C. Powell, provided much of the information concerning the children of Jacob and Eleanor Clinkenbeard Constant who were:

She married John Strode, Jr., son of John Stroud and Mary "Polly" Boyle, 27 Nov 1790, or on 3 Dec 1791, in Bourbon Co., KY[13].

From the testimony of William Clinkenbeard in the Draper Papers it was learned that John Strode/Stroud, Sr., came to Kentucky County, Virginia, in 1776 where he had a pre-emption on 1,000 acres of land on which he built a cabin. In 1779 he raised a corn crop for which he received an additional 400 acres. He was the proprietor of Strode's Station located at the head of Strode's Creek, a branch of Stoner Creek which was in Fayette County, Kentucky, when it was formed from Kentucky County, Virginia in 1780. The area became a part of Bourbon County when it was formed in 1786, and finally was transferred to Clark County when it was formed in1793. Strode's Station was the most prominent point in that section of land. Before Winchester was established, the first Bourbon County court sessions were held at Strode's Station. Clinkenbeard stated that, "Old man Strode [Sr.] was pretty much of a coward. He left in the spring of 1780 and never came out again for three or four years after."

Early inhabitants of Strode's station included: John Douglass and his wife, Jimmy Beeth and his family, Granny West, Joshua Stamper, Matthias Spohr, Stephen Biles, Dumpford, Pressly Anderson, John Rice, Captain John Constant, Patrick Donnalson, Joshua Bennett, John Hart, Joe Dark, Captain James Duncan, Baker, and Barney Mitchell.

Strode's Station was attacked on March 1, 1781, and the cattle and all the sheep but one were killed. Donnalson and Spohr also were killed.

On December 3, 1791, John Strode, Jr., married Ruth Constant, sister of the proprietor of Constant's Station, Captain John Constant, Jr.

The children of John and Ruth Constant Strode were:

i. John Strode. Born, 8 Jan 1793, in Clark Co., KY. He married Eleanor Lafferty, 18 Jun 1812.

John and Elizabeth Willis Constant had two children:

x. John Constant. Born, 1789, in Hampshire Co., VA[17]. Died, Aug 1822, in Fleming Co., KY. He married Sarah Holland, 30 Jan 1810, in Fleming Co., KY.

On September 14, 1819, John and Sarah Constant deeded Daniel Peck a portion of an 800 acre tract surveyed by William Goar, 150 acres of which were inherited from his father.

xi. Hester Malinda Constant. Born, 1791, in Clark Co., KY[17]. Died, 27 Jun 1824.

Second Generation

2. John[2] Constant. Resided, 1722, in St. George's Parish, Baltimore Co., MD.

John is believed to have married Susannah[2] (Grafton) (William[3]). Died, 22 Mar 1736/7, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD.

It seems almost certain that John and Susannah Constant of St. George's Parish, Baltimore County, Maryland, presently Harford County, were the parents of John Constant of Hampshire County, Virginia. The name Constant was also spelled Constante and Constance in these church records.

The name Constant was very rare in early 18th century records. The birth date of the couple's son, John, Jr., seems to fit perfectly as the correct age for John Constant, Jr., of Virginia. Their son, William, also appeared in northwestern Virginia with John, Jr. The records of this family began in 1722 and ceased after December 31, 1740, at which time Margaret Constance married William Brown. A death record for Susannah Constant was recorded on March 22, 1726/7. This was most likely John's wife rather than his daughter as in other parish death records children were identified with their parents. Also, no further birth records were recorded after the death of Susannah. Whether John, Sr., remained in Maryland or removed with his sons to Virginia is unknown, no estate record having been located in either locality.

In 1726 William Grafton of Baltimore Co., Maryland, deeded John and Susannah Constant, Sr., planter, one hundred acres which were patented to him in 1723. This was a gift which was to remain with them during their natural lives and thereafter belong to their children. Witness to this deed was Thomas Sheredine. This deed, recorded in Baltimore County, Deeds, Liber I.S. No. H, 1724-1726, makes it very likely that Susannah Constant was the daughter of William and Margaret Grafton. Note that John and Susannah named their first child, Margaret, and their second son, William.

i. Margaret[1] Constant. Born, 30 Mar 1722, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD. She married William Brown, 31 Dec 1740, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD.

ii. Suzanne Constant. Born, 3 May 1724, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD.

1 iii. John Constant.

iv. William Constant. Born, 23 May 1727, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD.

v. Elizabeth Constant. Born, 10 May 1733, in St. George's Parish, Harford Co., MD.

Third Generation

4. William[3] Grafton. Died, circa 26 Oct 1767, in Baltimore Co., MD[18].

William married Margaret, surname unknown. Died, before October 4, 1767.

In 1722 William Grafton received a patent on one hundred acres in Baltimore, County, Maryland, which in 1726 he deeded as a gift to John and Susannah Constant, Sr., during their natural lives and thereafter to their children. His will mentioned none of the Constant family, however, Susannah had died in 1737, and her sons, John, Jr., and William, had removed to northern Virginia. The residences of her daughters and of her husband, John Constant, Sr., are unknown.

William Amos and William Grafton witnessed a deed of James Tracy, planter of Baltimore County, to George Hitchcock, planter, on November 4, 1724. The latter paid thirty pounds for one hundred acres.

On June 5, 1725, William Grafton paid fifteen pounds to Thomas and Elizabeth Preston, planter of Baltimore County. The nature of the transaction is unknown. In November of 1735, William and his wife, Margaret, sold part of the tract, "Antioch," to their son-in-law, Maurice Baker.

In 1737 William Grafton was a petit juror in Baltimore County. William and his son, William, were also found on the Baltimore County 1737 tax lists.

From the will of William Grafton we know that although he could not write, he was a very wealthy man with much land and more than sixteen slaves.

William Grafton, Sr's., will may be found in folio 36; page 175, in Baltimore County, Maryland. It read as follows:

Chapter XIII

THE DIEFFENBACH FAMILY

The Dieffenbach family had its origins in villages of Hesse-Marburg and Wieslach, Grand Duchy of Baden in the Rhineland of present Germany. When Anglicized from the German the common substitutions of t/d and f/v are found in the various spellings some of which were: Tieffenbach, Tiverbaugh, Tieverbaugh, Teverbaugh, Tephebo, Dieffenbach, Dievenbach, Diffenbach. and Dieffebach. The will of Johann Conrad Dieffenbach employed the spelling Tiffebogh which phonetically is identical with the Tephebo which was attested to by a descendant of Elizabeth Dieffenbach Harness. The variations in spelling arose from the fact that English speaking persons without knowledge of German recorded the names and did so employing a phonetic approach. Those who bore the names were often illiterate and standardized spelling was unknown.

From the Defenbaugh Reunion News, published between 1940s through the 1960s, came the information provided by Ray Jacob Dieffenbach on the first three generations of the Dieffenbach family in Germany, probably obtained from original source material in the church records of Marburg and surrounding villages.

Johann Conrad Dieffenbach was the first member of his family to remove to America as part of the massive emigration from the Palatinate, which began in 1709. Although the Thirty Years War had ended in 1648, unrest continued in the area which lay between France and the German principalities. Conrad Dieffenbach reached maturity during the turbulent years of 1688-9 in which the Grand Monarch of France laid waste to the Palatinate whose inhabitants were primarily of the Lutheran or Reformed denominations. In May of 1707, Marshal Villars terrorized the Palatinate which included the states of Wurtemberg, Baden, Alsace, Lorraine, Mainz and Treves, plundering the inhabitants and burning towns to maintain his army and send money to his native France. In addition to this devastation the winter of 1708/9 was extremely harsh. The above factors together with the advertisements of William Penn and other land speculators, and the offer of the British government to pay their transportation costs from Rotterdam to America, caused many of the persecuted and oppressed Protestant inhabitants of the Rhine Valley to prepare to flee to the New World.

The trip down the Rhine to Rotterdam itself was filled with misery and peril. In order to pass through the various principalities and duchies fees and tolls were demanded. Warring factions of the French and Austrian armies were located on either side of the river. Boats were overcrowded with scarcely room to sit, much less to lie down. Passengers were exposed to cold. wind. and rain. At night the emigrants encamped on islands in the Rhine. Kind settlers along the river often came to their relief with gifts of food and clothing.

At the time of the huge emigration in 1709, Governor Hunter of New York was in London. He requested that the colonists be sent to his colony in America. Although the British government paid the fare of these emigrants, those transported were required to agree to the repayment of the cost of their expenses by guaranteeing their labor in New York. Immigrants were called "Servants to the Crown." Upon repaying its debt each family was to receive forty acres, farming tools, and five pounds.

Nearly thirteen thousand poor and destitute fugitives arrived in England in 1709 encamping there in London parks. The first three thousand or more persons departed from England for America in ten small vessels about Christmas Day of 1709. No official register was kept. By mid June of 1710 seven ships had arrived in New York, another was lost, and one landed on Long Island. The passage was conducted by ship captains noted for cruelty and indifference to the suffering of their charges. Food was often both scanty and poor, and the water filled with worms. Storms buffeted the ships, and cold and exposure added to the suffering of the passengers. As a result of these factors many passengers became ill, and many died en route or in the succeeding months. Estimates were that twenty-five percent of the passengers who embarked in 1709 died. The most accurate number is believed to have been eight hundred fifty-nine persons.

After a sojourn of approximately thirteen years in the Hudson and Schoharie Valleys of New York, the Dieffenbachs settled in the Tulpehocken region near the Swatara Creek of Pennsylvania. The Tulpehocken region was a part of Lancaster County until 1752 when Berks County was formed.

A cluster of four churches was erected in Marion and Tulpehocken Townships. The first Lutheran Meeting House, Reith's or Reed's Church, was organized in 1723 and erected before September, 1727, near Stouchsburg, in Marion Township. Pastor John Casper Stoever, a pastor in the 1730's and 40's, served the church. The first records of Reed's Church began in 1742 when Moravian missionaries came to the area and took charge of the church. As a result, in May of 1743 one hundred and sixty members of the congregation split away and established Christ Church one half mile west of Stouchsburg in Marion Township. This is generally considered to be the Tulpehocken Church. A second edifice, Christ Church, known as Little Tulpehocken, was erected in Tulpehocken Township, presently located one and a half miles southwest of Bernville in Jefferson Township. Its records dating from 1730 were kept by the Reverend John Casper Stoever. The fourth Evangelical Lutheran church, Host, was begun in October of 1727, and in 1733 an edifice was erected four miles north of Womelsdorf in Tulpehocken Township. Its earliest records began in 1748.

Elizabeth, a daughter of Conrad Dieffenbach, married Johann Michael Ernest Harness, and the family removed to the South Branch of the Potomac River in Virginia, which is presently near Fisher, a hamlet in Hardy County, West Virginia, as did two of her siblings. Elizabeth's ancestry has been traced in this chapter beginning with her great-great-grandfather, Michael Dieffenbach and his known descendants.

Third Generation

3. Johann Conrad[3] Dieffenbach (Martin[2], Michael[1]). Baptized, 24 Feb 1633/4, Marburg, Hesse. Died, before 1709.

Johann Conrad Dieffenbach married Anna whose surname is unknown. Born, circa 1635, in Germany. Died, circa 1713, in Livingston Manor, Hudson River Valley, Colony of New York. Emigration, 11 June 1709 from Rotterdam on John Sewell's ship with her son, Johann Conrad Dieffenbach, Jr.

Johann Conrad and Anna Dieffenbach had a son:

4 i. Johann Conrad[4] Dieffenbach. Not proved to be a son of Johann Conrad Dieffenbach, Sr., but almost certainly the grandson of Martin and Maria Rubesamen Dieffenbach.

Fourth Generation

4. Johann Conrad[4] Tiffebogh/Dieffenbach (Johann Conrad[3], Martin[2], Michael[1])[1]. Born, circa 1659, in Wiesloch, Grand Duchy of Baden, 10k South of Heidelberg[2]. Died, 1738, in Strausstown, Lancaster Co., PA[3]. Passenger List: 11 Jun 1709, in John Sewell's ship, from Rotterdam, to London. Immigration: 1710, in Livingston Manor, Hudson River Valley, Colony of NewYork. Occupation: cooper.

The first wife of Johann Conrad Tiffebogh is unknown. Hans Conrad Tiffebogh, widower, married, second, Maria Barbara Christler, daughter of John Jacob Christler "auf der Schweitz im Obern Siebenthal an d. Lenk," Switzerland, 25 Oct 1702, in Wiesloch, Heidelberg, Grand Duchy of, Baden. Christened in Lenkim Simmenthal, Canton Bern, Switzerland[5]. Died, after 1737, in Stouchsburg, Berks Co., PA.

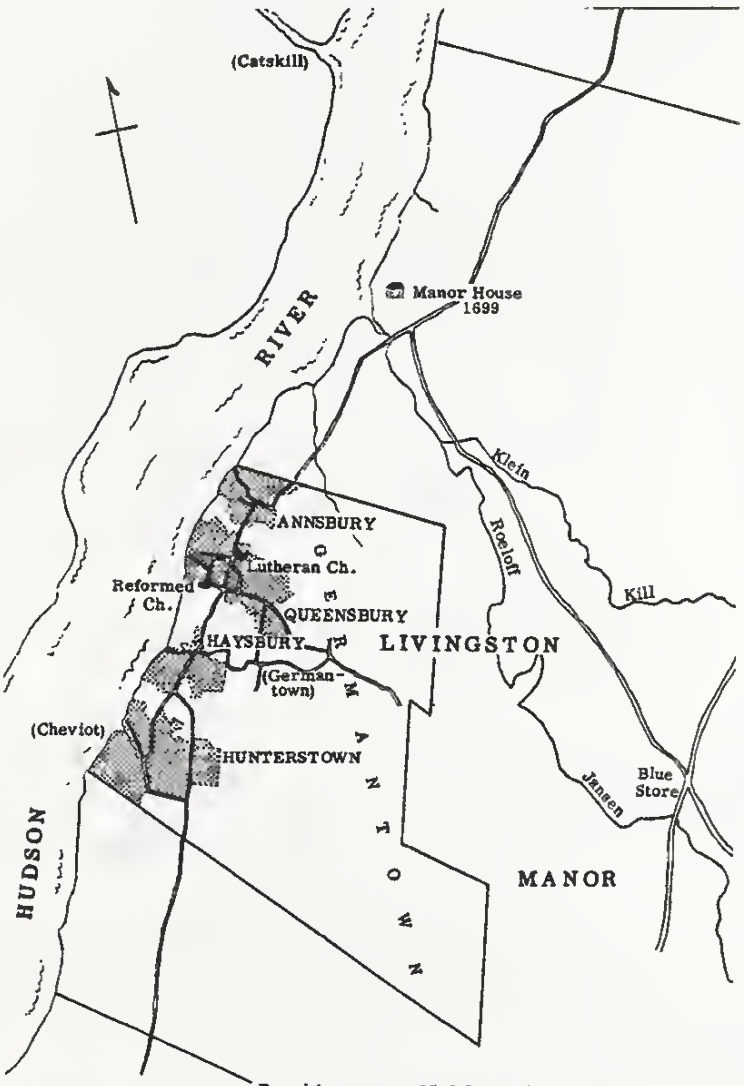
Johann Conrad Tiffebogh and his family emigrated from the Grand Duchy of Baden on May 15, 1709, according to a note in the Wiesloch Churchbook, in company with the family of Georg Bleichardt Hauck (Plaichard Haug) bound for England, the West Indies (America), and the Island of Carolina. At Rotterdam Hans Koenraad Thirffenbach, a cooper, aged 50, reformed Lutheran, his wife, and children, aged 11, 4, and 1, boarded a ship whose master was Captain John Sewell. Conrad's mother, Anna Tieffenbach, a widow aged 74, was in the same group. Next to him on the list was Burchard Leasch, aged 28. They arrived at St. Catherine's dock in England on June 11, 1709, where they were listed on Upon arrival in New York, Conrad Dievenbach and his mother, Anna, received subsistence between 1710 and 1712 in the Hudson River settlement of Livingston Manor. Their names appeared on a list of debtors to the British government for their support. A fourth child was born to Conrad by October 4, 1710, and by March 25, 1712/3 still another child had been added to the family.

Livingstone Manor was the area to which the impoverished immigrants were taken. There they erected small houses for the winter of 1710. In the spring they were sent by Governor Hunter into the woods to make pitch and tar for naval supplies. The land being found unsuited to this purpose, they were then asked to clear and improve the properties of private citizens. Their conditions due to their indebtedness to the colony equaled virtual enslavement. For these reasons many families resolved to move to the Schoharie Valley.



East Camp

In 1712 a daring forty or fifty families cut a road from Schnectady to the Schoharie Valley about forty miles west of Albany, New York, and the following spring an additional one hundred fifty families followed, Conrad's possibly being one of this group. Johann Coenraet Jefbach was naturalized in Albany, New York on January 31, 1716/17. In the year 1717 Ulrich Simmendinger, an immigrant of 1709, returned to Germany taking with him an account of Palatine families still living in New York. On this list were Conrad Dieffenbach, his wife, Maria Barbara, and five children living in Schmidsdorf or by its German name, Neu-Ansberg, in the Schoharie Valley, two miles north of present Middleburgh. On December 18th of the following year a Dievbak appeared on the Livingston Debt Lists as a Palatine debtor residing in one of four villages located on the Hudson River.

The Schoharie Valley, where Conrad Dieffenbach resided, had previously been patented to Adam Vrooman and others, so in effect, the Palatines, who had not obtained patents for their seven settlements but had purchased land directly from the Indians, were trespassing. When the rightful owners arrived to take possession of their land, conflict ensued. To resolve the matter the governor of the colony, then numbering 3,000, that they must lease the land from the owners or move. Being unhappy with this resolution, which failed to compensate the Palatines for improvements they had made, delegates were sent to London in 1718 where they made an unsuccessful appeal to the king. Having failed in this attempt, some families purchased land from the original owners, some moved east to Stone Arabia in the Mohawk Valley, and still others traveled down the Susquehanna River to the Tulpehocken region in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, the first fifteen of whom arrived in 1723 and established Rieth's Church. In 1725 an additional thirty-five families arrived in Tulpehocken with fifty others expected. The family of Conrad Tiffebogh was probably among this group.

Conrad Tiffebogh had certainly arrived in Tulpehocken before September of 1727 at which time he signed a petition presented to the Colonial Court of Quarter Sessions at Philadelphia for a road from Boone's Meeting House at Oley to the Lutheran Meeting House at Tulpehocken. By 1732 he had become a land owner. Conrad's son, John Adam Diffebach, appeared first on a list of the early settlers of the region which was compiled by I. Daniel Rupp in 1744.

Conrad wrote his will on July 22, 1737, and it was probated the October 11, 1738, and recorded in Philadelphia County Will Book N, page 322. It was translated from the German on June 19, 1739, and read as follows:

> Tulpehocken, 22 of July 1737 In the name of God Amen: Since I am yet in good mind and memory & consider my end & that I must die, therefore I will and order my Heirs, How it shall be Kept & ruled after my decease. So at first I recommend my Soul to my Creator and my body into the earth till to a general resurrection. next I chus for my Executors my wife Maria Barbara Tiffebogh & Jacob Etshbergher that they what is mentioned in this my will bringed all to a perfect execution. Thus I bequeath unto my wife the fourth part or share of all what my son John Adam Tiffebogh by the Plantation produces of all what is or hais in Fences at present, it be on Rye, Wheat or Barley & like wise to sow a peck & a half of Flax Sead upon good ground, also a Quarter of and Acre of Indian Corn, & the half of the garden and also is she to live in my house in which I dwell now for all her life time, & also I devise unto her all the moveables in household stuff as long as she lives but after her decease. the remains of the Sd moveables is to go unto my Two daughters Maria Elizabeth Ernst & Anna Dorothea Hoek to part them in equal shares between them I do also give or bequeath unto my son, John Adam Tiffebogh the Plantation and the fourty pound which he has paid upon and the halfe of the banded Wagons, the two horses which he has in the present use, and also a cow & the plough which is in the present use, likewise all the geers or tacklings belonging to the horses. But if my son John Adam Tiffebogh should not perform his duty as a child to his mother ought to do & dos not keep her as his mother & not deliver unto her all that what I in this my last will have made unto her then she shall have the full power over all the things till he demeans or proves himself again as a child unto his mother ought to do. As for my two childers of my first wife namely Jacob Tiffebogh and Catharina Margaretha Reeth to which I have assigned their Hereditary Share & have got their part but yet to prevent trubel & grief in the future unto my wife of the lats Marrage & my three childers; I give unto my son Jacob Tiffebogh an Engl Shilling & to my daughter Catharina Margaretha Reeth also one Engl. Shilling. This is my last will & Testament unto which I have subscribed with my hand & confirmed with my seal.

The children of John Conrad Tiffebogh and his first wife were:

i. Johann Jacob Dieffenbach. Born, circa 1685, near Wiesloch, Heidelberg, Grand Duchy of Baden. Married Anna Margaretha, widow of Hans Georg Wyn, 1 Jan 1706/7, at Wiesloch, Grand Duchy of Baden.

Jacob Dieffenbach did not come to America with his father and step-mother. He may have been the Jacob Diffebach who came to America on the ship, Love and Unity, commanded by Captain Lobb. The ship sailed from Rotterdam bound for Philadelphia in May of 1731 with more than one hundred and fifty Palatine emigrants. They did not arrive at Philadelphia but were landed on Martha's Vineyard off the coast of Massachusetts. The arrival of thirty-four immigrants in America was recorded in the Philadelphia GAZETTE on May 18, 1732.

The following letter, addressed to the Reverend Michael Weiss, a German Reformed minister in Philadelphia, was written by Johannes Gohr, Jacob Diffebach, Jonas Daner, Jacob Kuntz, and Samuel Schwachhamer from Martha's Vineyard and dated February, 1732. It was printed in the Gentleman's Magazine. Volume II, April 1732, page 727, as follows:

> Captain Lobb, a wicked murderer of souls, thought to starve us, not having provided provisions enough, according to agreement: and thus got possession of our goods; for during the voyage of the last eight weeks, five persons were only allowed one pint of coarse meal per day, and a quart of water to each person. We were twenty-four weeks coming from Rotterdam to Martha's Vineyard. There were at first more than one hundred and fifty persons - more than one hundred perished.
>
> To keep from starving, we had to eat rats and mice. We paid from eight pence to two shillings for a mouse; four pence for a quart of water.
>
> In one night several persons miserably perished and were thrown naked overboard; no sand was allowed to be used to sink the bodies but they floated. We paid for a loaf of Indian corn eight shillings. Our misery was so great that we often begged the captain to put us on land that we might buy provisions. He put us off from day to day for eight weeks, until at last it pleased Almighty God, to send us a sloop, which brought us to Home's Hole, Martha's Vineyard.
>
> Had he detained four days longer every one of us would have famished, for none had it in his power to hand another a drop of water.
>
> All our chests were broken open.
>
> The captain constrained us to pay the whole freight of the dead and living, as if he had landed us at Philadelphia, and we agreed in writing to do so, not understanding what we signed; but we are not able to comply, for if we are to pay for the dead, we should have taken the goods of the dead; but in discharging the vessel, we found that most of their chests were broken open and plundered.
>
> The captain however, has determined, that we shall pay him in three weeks; we, therefore, desire you to instantly assist us as much as is in your power. For if we have to pay, the wicked captain will make us all beggars.
> We would have sent two or three men with this letter, but none of us is yet able to stir, for we are weak and feeble; but as soon as there shall be two or three of us able to travel they will follow.

On August 18, 1748, his name, Jacob Wavebought, appeared on a list of inhabitants in South Branch Manor. Johann Jacob and Anna Wyn Dieffenbach may have been the parents of Daniel Tieverbaugh of Hampshire/Hardy Counties. It is known that Daniel Teverbaugh was executor of the estate of Conrad Slagle in 1782. As Daniel Tieverbaugh he was a witness in 1785 to the will of Michael Ernest Harness whose wife was Maria Elizabetha Dieffenbach Harness, half sister of Jacob.

5 ii. Catharina Margaretha[5] Dieffenbach.

iii. Johann Ludwig Dieffenbach. Christened, 10 Sep 1704, at Beyerthal as recorded in the Wiesloch Churchbook[6]. Died, before 1737[7].

iv. Maria Elizabetha Dieffenbach. Christened, 8 Jul; 1705, as recorded in the Wiesloch Churchbook. Died, Mar 1785, on the South Branch of the Potomac River, Hardy Co., VA. Married Johann Michael Ernest Harness, son of Ernst Ludwig Herner/Hoerner, circa 1723, probably in the Schoharie Valley, New Ansburg, NY.

This family has beens treated in detail in the Harness Family chapter.

v. Anna Elizabetha Dieffenbach. Christened 5 Aug 1708, as recorded in the Wiesloch Churchbook[8]. Died, before 1737[9].

6 vi. Johann Adam Dieffenbach.

Fifth Generation

5. Catharina Margaretha[5] Dieffenbach (Johann Conrad[4], Johann Conrad[3], Martin[2], Michael[1]). Born, circa 1698, near in Wiesloch, Heidelberg, Grand Duchy of Baden[4]. Died in Virginia.

Catharina married Johann Georg Rieth/Reed/Rith. son of Hans Georg Riedt and Anna Catharina Bern. Christened, 4 Jan 1693/4, at Steinwenden, near Kaiserslautern. Died. before 2 Aug 1745, in Berks Co., PA.

The will of George Rieth was dated, April 29, 1741, failing to name his children. His wife and brother, Michael Rith, were named as executors. From a deed for property located on Tulpehocken Creek executed by Caspar Wistar to Christian Lower, dated December 11, 1741, came the following: "a tract...bounded by ....other land of Caspar Wistar (late in possession of George Reed), land intended to be granted to Adam Defenbach." From this it would seem that George Reed died between the date of the will and that of the deed. Fortunately, the children of George and Catharine Margaret Rith were named in a Berks County deed, dated August 2, 1745, following the death of George. in which Catharine and each of the children sold their plantation of 148 acres, buildings, and improvements to the same Christian Lower of Tulpehocken.

After the death of her husband and the sale of her Berks County property Catharine joined her half-sister, Elisabetha, who had married Michael Ernest Herner, and her half-brother, Johann Jacob Dieffenbach, on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Virginia. A widow Reid was a resident of South Branch Manor on August 18, 1748. Many Reed/Reid/Reidt families were residents of Hampshire County, Virginia, in succeeding years. Much further research would be needed to sort out these families. It is interesting, however, to note that Samuel Hornback whose wife was Dorothea Harness, niece of Catharina Dieffenbach Rieth, made a coffin in 1778 for Captain Jacob Reed. The children of Jacob and Ann Reed were: Solomon, Charles, James and Mary Reed Knave. Witnesses to his will included a George Reed. Samuel Hornback also built a mill in 1787 in Kentucky assisted by his son-in-law, John Reid and John Reid, Sr.

The children of George and Catharina Rieth were:

i. Leonard Rith.
ii. Catharine Barbara Rith. Catharine married Henry Shepler of Tulpehocken Twp. A Henry Shepler died in Hampshire County, Virginia, in 1778; however, his wife was named Elizabeth.
iii. John Casper Rith.
iv. Mary Elizabeth Rith.
v. Johannes Rith.
8 vi. John Jacob Rith. Died, 1778. Jacob married Ann, surname unknown. Their children were:
vii. George Peter Rith.

6. Johann Adam[5] Dieffenbach (Johann Conrad[4], Johann Conrad[3], Martin[2], Michael[1]). Born, 1711, in New York. Died, 1777, in Tulpehocken, Berks Co., PA[12].

Adam married Maria Sybilla Koebel[13], daughter of Jacob and Anna Maria Koboel, 13 Aug 1734, by John Caspar Stoever in Christ Lutheran Church, Stouchsburg, Marion Twp., Berks Co., PA[14]. Born, 1711, in East Camp, Livingston Manor, Hudson River Valley, NY. Died, 1807.

The homestead of Johann Adam Dieffenbach was located in Fells Manor, north of the Tulpehocken, as was that of Adam Stupp, Casper Rieth, George Rieth, Adam's brother-in-law, and George Zeh (See), all names connected to the Harness or Dieffenbach families and/or later found in Virginia. From Adam's property and that of Jonas Kitzmiller, a large acreage was donated to the Tulpehocken Reformed congregation. Adam was a charter member of Christ Lutheran Church, Stouchsburg, Marion Twp., Berks County, Pennsylvania, when it was organized in May of 1743.

Adam witnessed a deed of Catharine Margaret Rith, widow of George Rith, to Christian Lower of Tulpehocken for 148 acres, the buildings and improvements.

On March 25, 1755, Adam Diefebach, George Reed, Christian Louer. and Jacob Etzberger, were appointed to appraise the real estate of Adam Shuts, deceased.

The six year French and Indian Wars created a terrifying threat to the settlers of Tulpehocken. A local leader, Peter Spycher addressed a letter to Conrad Weiser of Philadelphia which read as follows:

> I have this account from those above named and from Peter Anspach, John Caderman, Christopher Noacre, Leonard Walborn, George Dollinger and Adam Diffenbach. We are, at present, in imminent danger to lose our lives or estates. Pray, therefore, for help, or else whole Tulpebocken will be laid waste by the Indians in a very short time --all the buildings will be burned, the people scalped. Do, therefore, lose no time to get us assistance. The assembly may learn from this work what kind and fine friends the Indians are! We hope members of the assembly will get their eyes opened and manifest tender hears towards us; and the governor the same. They are, it is hoped, true subjects to our King George II of Great Britain, or are they willing to deliver us into the bands of these cruel and merciless creatures?

Berks County, Docket 1, Orphans Court Abstracts showed that on August 13, 1762. Adam Diefebach was appointed to be a guardian of the children of Philip Weiser together with Philip's widow, Sophia. The children were: Conrad, Peter, Jacbetz, and Philippina, all under the age of fourteen.

The children of Johann Adam and Maria Sybilla Kobel Dieffenbach were:

7. Anna Dorothea[5] Dieffenbach., (Johann Conrad[4] , Johann Conrad[3], Martin[2], Michael[1]). Born, 27 Jul 1714, in New York[10]. Her birth was recorded in the West Camp Lutheran Churchbook.

Anna married first, Johannes Hauch[11], son of Georg Bleichardt and Anna Elisabeth Hauch/Hauck/Haak/Haug/Haag. 12 Apr 1755, Warwick Twp., Lancaster Co., PA. She married second, Jacob Kroeninger.

In May of 1743 the Christ Lutheran Church of Strouchsburg, Berks County, Pennsylvania, was organized. The name John Haak appeared on a list of its charter members. On October 9, 1743, Anna Dorothea was a witness to the baptism of Dorothea Harness, daughter of her sister, Maria Elizabetha Harness, which took place on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Virginia.

The Widow Dorothea Haag purchased 170 acres in Heidelberg Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania on June 5, 1755. This property was sold to Christian Bollinger by Dorothea Greeninger, formerly Haag, on June 8, 1761.

Dorothea's second husband, Jacob Kroeninger, purchased 250 acres in Heidelberg Township on May 7, 1756.

THE DYER FAMILY

We can be certain from the 1815 will of John Dyer of Frederick County, Virginia, that he was the father of Margaret Dyer who married Dennis Welch; however, in seeking the ancestry of John Dyer there is much more difficulty. Marriage records, land records, and wills or probates are either unavailable or are of no assistance in establishing anything but circumstantial evidence.

It may be said that the name of Dyer in Frederick County was rather rare. A James Dyer was found in the parent county, Orange County, in 1734 when he was granted 150 acres. James Dyer of Ireland took an oath of allegiance at Winchester on February 17, 1735. In 1754 an Elisha Dyer of Boston, gave power of attorney to John Handin of Winchester, Frederick County, Virginia. Many Dyer families had residence in neighboring Rockingham County.

The name, John Dyer, first appeared in Orange County in the year 1737. John Dyer, Sr., was born about 1702. The John who died in 1815 is referred to as John Dyer II. John Dyer II named one of his sons, John Dyer. John Dyer III was also an owner of land in Frederick County.

The best clues to assigning the correct records to the correct John Dyer is the location of property and the names of their wives. John Dyer I had a wife named Elizabeth. John Dyer II had a first wife, Hannah Oldacre as is known from the will of her father, and a second wife whose name is unknown. John Dyer III had a wife named Mary. Based on this information I have attempted to sort out the three John Dyers and have made the assumption that John Dyer I named his son, John, Jr. We are certain that John Dyer III was the son of John Dyer II, from the will of 1815.

Please accept the information in this chapter with this caveat: no definite proof has been found that John and Elizabeth Dyer were the parents of the John Dyer who died in 1815.

First Generation

1. John[1] Dyer II (John[2]). Born, 15 May 1730, in Frederick Co., VA[1]. Died, 20 Nov 1815, in Frederick Co., VA[2]. Buried, Mt. Carmel Church, John married first, Hannah Oldacre, daughter of Henry and Eleanor Oldacre, Sr.. circa 1753. She probably died before 1773, on Dyer Farm near Dyer's Cave, Hampshire Co., VA. He married second, an unknown woman who died, before 1815, in Frederick Co., VA[3]. Census: 1810, in Frederick Co., VA; p. 365.

John Dyer (II) may have been the son of John and Elizabeth Dyer although definite proof has not been found. There were very few Dyers in Frederick County. A James Dyer, immigrant from Ireland, was in Orange County, parent of Frederick County, before February 17, 1735/6. James was referred to as "late of Orange County" when Henry Downs in November of 1742 recovered costs of a suit by attachment against the Dyer estate, and the 180 acres of land of James Dyer were sold by the sheriff at public auction on March 15, 1745. James' probable wife, Elizabeth Dyer, granted her son, Andrew Campbell Dyer, a parcel of land in Frederick County on March 5, 1747, which she had purchased from the widow of Jonathan Teacocks. It would therefore appear that John Dyer I was the only possible father for John Dyer II.

John Dyer II was on a 28th of October, 1757, muster roll, under the command of Captain Jacob Bowman serving in the French and Indian War. James Morgan was also in this unit. On October 28, 1758, at a Frederick County court martial, John Dyer was fined ten shillings for absenting himself from a general muster within the past twelve months. John later served in the Revolution.

John Dyer gave a deposition on October 9th, 1813, at the store house of Joseph Carr in Upperville, Loudoun County Virginia in the case of the Carter/Green land dispute. He stated his age in this testimony, and that he resided in 1761 on 30 or 40 acres purchased from Daniel Allen. He lived there while raising a couple of crops after which he sold the land to the Widow Gibson. The deed was from Daniel Allen to the Widow Gibson because John Dyer had obtained no deed.

On March 17, 1769, George Washington leased 227 acres to John Dyer near present Upperville in parts of Loudon and Fauquier Counties. The deed was for the natural life of John Dyer and his two sons, William and Abraham Dyer. On December 25, 1775, John leased Ezekiel Phillips 227 acres leased to him by George Washington.

A deed of John Snapp of Frederick County on Hoggs Creek and Cedar Creek named John Dyer's property as adjacent to the Fairfax tract. On April 19, 1775, a deed to Isaac Zane on Hogue Creek named John Dyer as a neighbor.

On November 3, 1792, the Reverend Denny Fairfax leased John Dyer, of Frederick County, Virginia, lot 441, part of the Manor of Leeds, and bounded by a survey made by George Bell containing 123 acres for 48 shillings a year. The property was located on the line of Marney and located in present Clarke County, Virginia. This lease was to extend for the natural life of his three children: Rochell, Abigal, and Elizabeth. Witnesses to the deed were: John Dyer, Jun., Moses Green, and George Bell. This interesting deed, a standard form, required John to build a house 20' by 16', with a brick or stone chimney, and to plant one hundred apple trees. This deed was recorded on December 4, 1792 in Frederick County, Virginia Deed Book 23, page 474.

On February 5, 1793, John Dyer's (II or III) property line was on the west side of Little North Mountain in Frederick County.

Frederick County court records indicated that on October 7, 1797, John Dyer was an appraiser with John Morgan and Jesse O'Rear of the estate of William Alexander. On February 28, 1798, John Dyer was a witness to the will of Moses Green.

The 1810 Virginia Census enumerated John Dyer with two sons and four daughters still at home.

John Dyer's will was dated January 18, 1815, and proved on January 1, 1816. The will, recorded in Frederick County, Virginia Will Book 9, pages 499-500, read as follow:

> I John Dyer of Frederick County and State of Virginia do make ordain and appoint this my last word and testament (first) I will and Direct that all my Just Debts and funeral Expenses should be paid by my Executor as soon after my Decease as can be Done with Convenience (Secondly) I give and hequeath to Each of my sons to wit Abraham Dyer John Dyer Jacob Dyer one shilling Each as also to the Representatives of my Daughter Molley one Shilling as their full Share of my Estate (thirdly) I give and hequeath to my Son Isaac Dyer twenty five Dollars also to my son Israel Dyer twenty five dollars to be paid when he arrives to the age of twenty one years (fourthly) I give and hequeath to my Daughter Rebecca Dyer one feather bed and furniture and one cow and fifty Dollars also to my Daughter Selah one feather bed and furniture and one cow also to my Daughter Mary Ann Dyer one feather bed and furniture and Cow and fifty Dollars Cash to be paid her when she arrives to the age of Eighteen years I also give to my son James Dyer one horse and Saddle worth at least forty Dollars when he arrives to the age of twenty one years (fifthly) I will and Direct that the Residue of my Estate of any Discription as well what lease hold Land I may die possessed or as any other property shall be Equally Divided among my children Susannah Graves Rachel Morgan Betsey Timmons Sarah Fridly Peggy Welch Seleah Dyer and James Dyer Each to Receive an Equal Share when they arrive to the age of twenty one years (Sixthly) I appoint my Son Isaac Dyer and my son in Law John Morgan my Executors to Execute this my will and Seventhly and Lastly I appoint Benjamin O'Rear to see the same Executed I Do hereby Disannull all former Wills made by me and acknowledged this my last will and testament Dated this 18th Day of January 1815

The will was proved on January 1, 1816. John Morgan, Sr., was the executor. An inventory of John's personal property was made on January 17, 1816, by the appraisers who were James Lyons, John Ferguson, and James Marshall.

The estate sale was held on February 5, 1816. The following items were sold at this sale: a black horse and brown mare, a sow and 5 pigs, a sow and 4 pigs, flax seed, 7 barrels of corn, scythes and cradle, a knife, an auger and wedge, plows, 1 flax hackle, flax in the straw, a flax brake, a grindstone, 25 bushels of rye, 2 bushels of buckwheat, 4 bushels of potatoes, a weeding hoe, an axe, a spade a saddle, a meat axe and bread hoe, a log chain, and a lot of old iron.

The lease of land mentioned in the will was sold to Jesse O'Rear, Jr., for $560.00.

Also in the inventory were items with which the home of John Dyer was furnished: 3 bedsteads. a table, 2 wheels, a large tea kettle, a pair of flat irons, a washtub, 2 candle stocks, 1 candle stand, pewter and tin, a big wheel, pot racks, a small table, a small pot and kettle, a walnut chest, a bureau. and a bookcase.

Fifteen children were named in John's will. It is very difficult to establish birth dates based on census records of 1810. The birth order given may be incorrect, and all birth dates except those of Isaac, Jacob, and Peggy are estimated.

The children of John and Hannah Oldacre were:

i. William Dyer. Born, circa 1760. Probably died in the Revolution.

ii. Abraham Dyer. Born, before 1769.

iii. John Dyer III. Born, in Hampshire Co., VA. He married Mary, (Cornwell), before 1782, in Frederick Co., VA. Estate appraised: 30 Apr 1823, Hardy Co., VA.

On October 15, 1787, 370 acres were deeded to John Dyer (II or III) on Sinking Creek of the Greenbrier River.

On November 3, 1792 John Dyer, Jr., purchased lot 112 in Frederick County, bounded by a survey of George Bell containing 86 acres for a yearly rent of three pounds, fifteen shillings. The property was on the lines of John Dyer, Sen., Benjamin O'Rear, and Oscar Thomas, and at a corner of Moses Green. This lease was to continue through the natural lives of John, Mary, his wife, and William, his son. The deed was witnessed by Thomas Berry, John Dyer, and Moses Green and recorded in Frederick County, Virginia Deed Book 23, page 526, on December 4, 1792.

Probable children of John Dyer and his second wife were:

iv. Susannah Dyer. Born, circa 1774, in Frederick Co., VA. She married Joseph Graves, 15 Jan 1793, in Frederick Co., VA.

v. Isaac Dyer. Born, circa 1776, in Frederick Co., VA[4]. Died, after 1850, in Madison Twp., Fayette Co., OH. Census: 1810, in Frederick Co., VA; p. 370. In 1810 Isaac had three sons and four daughters.

Above is a map of a portion of Frederick County, Virginia in which John Dyer I. and John Dyer II resided. It was taken from Pioneers of Old Frederick County, Virginia, bu Cecil O'Dell. John Dyer I resided in tract 137D in the year 1739. John Dyer (II) resided in property adjoining Isaac Zane, Jr., an ironmaster, which was located in 137C in 1775. In 1793 John Dyer (II or III) was said to be living on the west side of Little North Mountain.

Second Generation

2. John[2] Dyer I. Born, circa 1704[17]. Died, after 1763, in Frederick Co., VA.

3. John married Elizabeth, surname unknown. Died, after 1763, in Frederick Co., VA.

By the year 1736, John Dyer had settled in Orange County, Virginia. The earliest mention of John Dyer I was found in the records of the Orange County, Virginia Court which recorded a petition by residents on July 23, 1737, complaining about a wagon road through the Blue Ridge in Chester's Gap at a place which they felt to be unsuitable for the purpose. Their complaint continued that they had come "a great way here and undergone great hardships and have wasted great part of out estates in coming and can scarce get bread for our children for want of land clear'd." Signatures to this petition included John Dyer, James Vance, Jost Hite, Thomas Branson, Jr. and Sr., and John Branson (son of Thomas, Sr.).

In 1738 Frederick County was formed from Orange County. The following references were to the same John Dyer as can be seen from the appearance of the names of Branson, Hite, and James Vance. In May of 1739 John Diar's name appeared in Frederick County, Virginia, on a list of persons requesting reimbursement for wood taken by surveyors for the erection of sign posts. Thomas and John Branson appeared next to John Diar's name as well as Jost and John Hite and James Vance.

On June 28-29, 1739, John Dyer purchased 115 acres on Cedar Creek and Mulberry Run in Orange County, Virginia, from John Branson, who had received a 1,000 acre grant on Cedar Creek on October 3, 1734, from the Colony of Virginia. This property was located in an area which is now on highway 600 in Shenandoah County, one-half mile southwest of Marlboro, Virginia. On June 23-24, 1743, John Dyer sold the aforementioned tract to George Logmiller for 30 pounds. Witnesses to the deed were Just and John Hite and Joseph Vance. The deed was recorded in Orange County, Virginia Deed Book 3, page 278.

Apparently John Dyer remained on the property as a renter as he was listed on the rental rolls of Frederick County, Virginia, in 1746 and taxed on 115 acres which he had rented from William Crisp. On July 15, 1750, John was a neighbor of William Russell on a tract of 100 acres on Cedar Creek and the north side of Duck Run in present Frederick County. He was granted a deed to this property on January 8, 1752, by Lord Fairfax. The deed was recorded in Northern Neck Land Grants Book H, page 87. This property was located on present highway 600 south of the town of Mountain Falls. John Dyer and Elizabeth, his wife, sold the property on January 27-28, 1863, to their neighbor, William Russell, for fifty pounds. The sale was recorded in Frederick County, Virginia Deed Book 8, page 218.

It seems likely that John and Elizabeth Dyer removed to Spotsylvania County after this sale. On December 1, 1766, John and Elizabeth Dyer of Spotsylvania County sold Andrew Ross 100 acres on the lines of Crag and Robinson. They sold John Mitchel 133 acres for 35£ in March of 1771.

John and Elizabeth Dyer were believed to have been the parents of:

1 i. John[1] Dyer II.

Chapter XV

THE ELLIOTT FAMILY

Like so many Quaker families of North Carolina, the Elliott family had roots in Pennsylvania. The earliest member of the Elliott family to be identified was Samuel E. Elliott who married Mary Page in Randolph County, North Carolina. Many Elliott families were residents of Randolph County and of neighboring Guilford County, from which Randolph County had been formed in 1779, and were members of the Society of Friends; however, no record has been found in Quaker monthly meetings of Samuel Elliott.

The central counties of North Carolina had been settled by Quakers of Pennsylvania by the late 1740's. Families made the lengthy journey which required three months of travel by means of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Their incentive to reestablish themselves in a new area was the cheap land; the price of one acre of land in southeastern Pennsylvania would buy several acres in North Carolina. In addition a longer growing season gave promise of larger crops to those who migrated south.

During the Revolution Quakers, being firmly opposed to military action, were allowed by the government of North Carolina to pay a heavy tax in lieu of direct military service. After the Revolution a great migration of Quakers left North Carolina for Ohio, Indiana, and points west. Among them were Samuel E. and Mary Elliott who went first to Indiana and then to Iowa. The ancestry of Mary Page Elliott may be found in the Page and Hastings Family chapters as well as additional information concerning Quakers.

1. Samuel E.[1] Elliott. Born, 12 Feb 1783, in Randolph Co., NC[1]. Died, 18 May 1864, in Middletown, Danville Twp., Des Moines Co., IA[2]. Buried in Elliott Cem., Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA[3]. Census: 1820, in Wabash Co., IN. Census: 1830, in Morgan Co., IN; p. 244. Census: 1840, in Des Moines Co., IA; p. 110. Samuel married, first, Mary Page, daughter of Jacob Page and Sarah Hastings, 10 Sep 1805, in Randolph Co., NC[4]. Born, 5 Nov 1787, in Randolph Co., NC[5]. Died, 6 Oct 1844, in Des Moines Co., IA[6]. Buried in Elliott Cem., Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA[3].

Samuel married, second, Eliza Ann Brown, daughter of John and Mary Brown, 20 Apr 1852, in Des Moines Co., IA[11]. Marriage license, 2 Apr 1852, in Des Moines Co., IA. Born, 4 Feb 1808, in Virginia[12]. Died, 2 Jun 1875, in Middletown, Des Moines Co., IA[13]. Buried in Spring Creek Cem, Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. Census: 26 Oct 1850, in Augusta Twp., Des Moines Co., IA; p. 454[14]. Census: 27 Jul 1860, in Middletown, Des Moines Co., IA; p. 99. Census: 5 Jul 1870, in Middletown, Des Moines Co., IA; p. 465[15].

According to unsubstantiated family lore some part of the Elliott family originated in South Grand, Pennsylvania. The location of South Grand is unknown. The parents of Samuel E. Elliott have not been identified.

Samuel was born in North Carolina, possibly in Randolph County, on February 12, 1783. A candidate for his father would be the Samuel Elliott listed in the 1790 census in the Hillsborough District of Randolph County. He had one male child under sixteen and three females in his family. The 1800 census enumerated a Samuel Elliott of Randolph County with one male, 28-45, two males, under 10, and two 10-16. There were three females aged 26-45, 16-26, and under 10. The 1810 census listed two Samuels in Randolph County, one as Samuel, Jr.

On December 7, 1793, a Samuel Elliott received grant #1448 for 100 acres on Deep River at Joseph (Lionig's) corner on (Dillin's) line. The purchase price was thirty shillings. This grant was registered April 18, 1801, and sold to William Dennis on April 2, 1810, for $100.00 the witnesses being Frederick Dawson and Hezekiah Elliott. As Samuel was only ten years old at this time this could not have been his deed though possibly that of his father.

On January 26, 1803, a Samuel Elliott paid twenty shillings for a grant of forty acres, #2089, also located on Deep River beginning at a black oak with mention of Rawley's line. At this time Samuel was twenty years of age so this may have been his property.

Samuel Elliott married Mary Page, on September 10, 1805, as recorded in Marriages Through 1820, Randolph County, North Carolina, by Nancy W. Simpson. Mary Page was the daughter of Jacob Page and Sarah Hastings. Sarah was of a Quaker family which had come into Dobbs County, the parent of Wayne County, North Carolina, in 1779. Her mother had married out of her faith for which violation of Quaker law she was dismissed from the Great Contentnea congregation on February 11, 1786.

Jacob, Mary's father, died in September or October of 1789 shortly after Mary's birth in 1787 on Little River in Wayne County. His will provided for her "schooling," left her a number of animals and household items for her immediate use, and made her heiress of his estate if her mother died or remarried. Mary's mother must have been reinstated with her church after the death of her husband, as she was given transfer papers to Back Creek Monthly Meeting in Randolph County on November 11, 1797, but once again she was dismissed for marrying out of unity on January 25, 1800, this time to a a Mr. Hays. This Sarah Page must have been Mary's mother, as Mary Page inherited her father, Jacob Page's properties on Little River in Wayne County and began disposing of them in 1804 when she sold sixty acres just after her seventeenth birthday.

The property which Mary Page inherited had been granted to her father on July ll, 1788. Richard Cox, husband of Mary's aunt, Easter Hastings Cox, purchased this property on August 24, 1809, for 280 pounds from Samuel and Mary Elliott before their departure for Indiana. Witnesses to this transaction were R. W. Kinni, Charles Everett, and B. Collier. On October 13, 1809, Mary Elliott acknowledged that she had executed the deed freely of her own accord before the witnesses: Seth Wade, Abraham Peacock, and Whitlock Arnold. On the same day in August, 1809, the Elliotts sold Anthony Fulghum a tract of land for $240.00 containing 87 1/2 acres in Wayne County. This land was described as beginning at a pine and black jack and another piece beginning at a red oak on the river bank with mentions of Brewer's corner and Fulghum's corner. At the time of this sale Mary was unable to travel from her home in Randolph County to be examined; therefore persons were appointed by the court to go to her for this purpose. Two other tracts containing 87 1/2 acres were sold on this same date went to Anthony Fulghum, the Fulghums being long time neighbors of the Page family since their early days in Isle of Wight County, Virginia, in the 1600s.

Like her mother, Mary "married out of unity" and was dismissed by the elders on October 26, 1805, from the Back Creek Monthly Meeting following her marriage on September 10th. Although many of the Elliotts in the area were Quaker, apparently Samuel was not. The eldest known child of the Elliotts, Jacob, is believed to have been born August 4, 1805. From information in Samuel's will we know that Samuel and Mary had five daughters and one son living on June 15, 1863, when his will was written. They had two deceased daughters, Jane Elliott Mize and Nancy Elliott Williams.

According to the obituary of the Elliott's daughter, Elizabeth, the family removed to Indiana in 1811, prior to Samuel's service in the War of 1812, where they first resided at New Albany in Harrison County. In November of 1813 Samuel volunteered to serve in the War of 1812 at Corydon, Harrison County, Indiana, as a private in the company of Captain Herman C. Boone, part of the 5th regiment commanded by Colonel Tipton. He served for fourteen days to guard the frontiers. He was discharged about December 13, 1813, at Fredonia. This information was found in an application for bounty land made on April 3, 1855, when Samuel was aged seventy-two and then a resident of Danville Township, Des Moines County, Iowa. His signature was affixed to this document and witnessed by his son-in-law, Mathias Bartcherer. A William, James, and John Elliott also enlisted from Harrison County. John and William served in the same regiment as Samuel.

Other information about Samuel's places of residence in Indiana came from a 1920 application for membership in the Society of Indiana Pioneers made by Mary Black, a granddaughter of Samuel, and child of Robert C. and Matilda Elliott Black. Matilda Black avowed that her mother had been born in Martinsville, Washington Township, Morgan County, Indiana, on September 24, 1826. She also named her grandfather, Samuel, and grandmother, Mary Page, stating that they first came to New Albany, Harrison County, Indiana, in 1809. If that is so, Samuel must have made a preliminary trip to Indiana before removing his family as they still appeared in 1810 census records in Randoph County, North Carolina.

In the early spring of 1820, a number of pioneer families entered Washington Township to pre-empt claims before the land office had officially opened. At that time the township was covered with choice native forest through which many wild animals roamed including bears and panthers. On the fourth of September the land was thrown open for sale, and Samuel Elliott entered his claim. In the 1830 census Samuel, then between forty and fifty years of age, was located in Morgan County, Indiana, with a wife of the same age, one son, and seven females. His daughter, Sarah, was with her husband, Sterling Stafford, in the same county. Therefore one extra female, aged 20-29, appeared in this census. She may have been the wife of their son, Jacob.

An obituary of another daughter of Samuel and Mary, Elizabeth Elliott Heizer, stated that in 1836 her father had left Morgan County and removed to Mercer County, Illinois, near New Boston, and that in the spring of 1838 he had come to Des Moines County, Iowa, settling near Augusta. The Long Creek Cemetery records stated that Hester Elliott, daughter of Samuel, came to Iowa in 1839.

Whether in 1838 or 1839, but at least by the time of the 1840 census, Samuel had relocated to Washington County, Iowa. With him were his wife and five females ranging in age from five to thirty, a son, thirty to forty, and a very young male under five. It would seem possible that Samuel and Mary had a son or daughter living at home. Nearby were two of the married daughters, Mrs. William F. Cartwright and Mrs. Milton Mize. On October 7, 1840, Samuel's daughter, Mary Elizabeth, married John Dyer Welch. John and his parents, Dennis and Margaret Dyer Welch, were pioneer residents of Washington County.

On September 20, 1842, Samuel and Mary Elliott sold a lot in Burlington to Philander Goodrich for $50.00. Mary affixed her mark to this document. On the 22nd of October, 1846, Samuel and his wife sold their daughter, Elizabeth Bartcherer, for one dollar and love and affection, lot #192 in the city of Burlington. On August 3, 1847, Samuel Elliott purchased lots 7 and 8 in block 6, in Crawfordsville, Washington County, Iowa, from Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell.

Samuel sold his son-in-law, John Dyer Welch, a tract of land in section 80, township 69 north, range 3 west, and other descriptions which are indecipherable, for $2,500.00, on July 9, 1849. The parcels were located in Danville, Des Moines County.

Mary Page Elliott died on October 6, 1844. Following her death Samuel made his residence with his daughter, Hester, and her husband, William Lamme, of Augusta Township. At the time of the 1850 census Samuel was sixty-eight years of age, and his occupation was harnessmaker. Next door to the Lamme's was the family of John Brown which had a daughter, Eliza Brown, aged forty-three. Two years later on April 2, 1852, Samuel Elliott and Eliza Ann Brown took out a marriage license and were in fact married on April 20, 1852, by Rufus E. Bennett.

A very interesting and mysterious bill of sale was made by Alexander McCall of Washington County, Iowa, to D. W. French, releasing all his right from the estate of Thomas McCall deceased of (Northampton) County, Pennsylvania, dated May 20, ????, filed June 25th, 1851. William Jenkins was recorder of the deed from Samuel Elliott to Alexander McCall, both parties of Washington County, Iowa. The land in question was again lots 7 and 8 in block 6 at Crawfordsville. The edges of this deed were cut off so all words were not clear. This could be a clue to the Pennsylvania origins of the Elliotts. No estate records could be located in Northampton County, Pennsylvania, for Thomas McCall.

Samuel's next land transaction was a sale to Alexander Lee on June 26, 1851, of lots 6 and 7 in block 6 of Crawfordsville. This same piece of property had been sold twice by Samuel, but there seems to be no record of a repurchase by Samuel.

By the July 27, 1860 census Samuel, aged seventy-eight, and his second wife, Eliza Ann. aged fifty-seven, had become residents of Middletown, Danville Township, Des Moines County, Iowa. In the household was Eliza Ann's sister, Lucinda Brown, aged forty-five.

Samuel wrote his will on June 15, 1863, from Middletown. The will has been reproduced below with original spelling:

> I Samuel Elliott of the county of Des Moins and State of Iowa make publish and declare this to be my last Will and testament in manor and form as follows

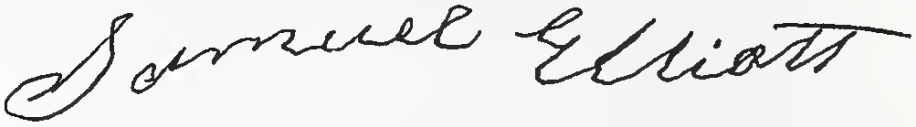
heirs of Jane Mise are to have one fourth interest of the remainder of my estate as described in this Sixth article each interest herein described to be paid in Money of Such Kind and denomination as May be considered best by my executor I appoint J. K. Scott My executor who is herehy autorized to Sell any & all real or personal estate owned by me & not devised by this instrument at puhlic or private Sale as he my think best and at Such time as he may consider for the best of the heirs and pay off the legatees as described in this My last will & testament Given under My hand this 15 day of June AD 1863



Samuel signed this document in a very shaky hand in the presence of J. T. Crawford and John Jefferson. On February 10, 1865, George Chandler, J. W. Worthington, and Charles Waterhouse, were appointed to appraise the estate. The inventory was filed March 27, 1865. An accounting of the estate was filed three days later. The will was proved on July 6, 1864. Samuel named J. K. Scott as his executor, but Scott died before March 30, 1868, on which date Samuel's son-in-law, William Lamme, was appointed executor.

$22.00 was paid for Samuel's coffin and $8.00 for the hire of horses presumably to draw the coffin to the Elliott Cemetery where he was laid to rest beside his first wife in a stone enclosure three feet high and three feet wide. This cemetery is in Union Township of Des Moines County and within the Iowa Army Ammunition Plant Area. Permission is needed to enter the cemetery.

After Samuel's death, his widow, Eliza Ann, contested the will's provisions and claimed her dower right of one-third of the estate as recorded in Book G, pages 77-78, in Des Moines County. The document contesting the will mentioned Andrew Elliott, deceased, his daughter, Sarah Amelia Badley, deceased, and her surviving husband, Uriah Badley, and their child, Hana Josephine Badley, a minor. It also mentioned Mary Elizabeth Elliott, surviving widow of Thomas Elliott, deceased, a son of Andrew Elliott. These three persons, who felt omitted or shorted in the will, were claiming their rights of inheritance. The above mentioned Andrew Elliott's estate had been probated on November 22, 1851, as recorded in Des Moines County, Iowa Will Book C, page 70. Hugh Elliott, eldest son of Andrew, was his administrator. The other children of Andrew Elliott were not mentioned in this suit, but only those who had no other means of support. That Andrew Elliott was a son of Samuel Elliott cannot be confirmed by early census records which in 1830 indicated that Samuel had only one son. Andrew Elliott had been a resident of Pennsylvania where his children were born.

On May 4, 1865, Samuel's widow, Eliza Ann, sold lot 192 in Burlington for $1885.00 to Charles O'Brien. Eliza A. Elliott received $2,753.00 from the estate of Samuel E. Elliott after contesting the will.

The estate settlement of Samuel Elliott was presented by William Lamme, his executor, on April 21, 1866. It listed Samuel's heirs and bequests:

The will was proved on June 4, 1875. Samuel E. Welch served as Eliza's witness and administrator. He was the eldest son of John Dyer and Mary Elizabeth Elliott Welch and grandson of Samuel E. Elliott. Samuel E. Welch's wife was Mary Jane Cline whose parents were Wilson S. and Maria Brown Cline. A total of $38.29 was paid for Eliza Ann's burial expenses on September 4, 1875. Samuel E. Welch billed the administrator, Henry Brown, $35.00 for the casket and $3.29 in related expenses.

The children of Samuel E. and Mary Page Elliott were:

i. Jacob[2] Elliott. Born, 4 Aug 1806, in Rono, Randolph Co., NC[7]. Died, 18 Feb 1881, at 2 A.M., in Des Moines Co., IA[8]. A death record found in Des Moines County, Iowa Death Book #1 indicated that Jacob was born in Rono, North Carolina, and first came to Iowa in about 1837. According to the same source, Jacob was a widower although no other evidence of a marriage has been found. He lived at various times with his sisters, Hester Lamme, Elizabeth Heizer, and Sarah Cartwright. A guardianship was established on July 21, 1874, for Jacob Elliott. On December 15, 1875, at the age of 68, he was declared insane. His estate was probated on March 15, 1881, and located in Box A125. Other records are in Des Moines County, Iowa Will Book N, pages. 136 and 587, and in Book S, page 443 and etc.

At the time of his death Jacob owned 361 acres in section 7, township 69, range 3, and 13 & 82/100 acres in section 12, township 69, range 4.

Jacob died of general paralysis. The administrator of his estate was his brother-in-law, William Lamme.

William was Steward of the Methodist Episcopal Church and according to the Portrait and Biographical Album of Des Moines County, Iowa, page 514, was, "one of the leading men of his day and in all social, educational and religious matters. he took a great interest."

Sarah was not living with her third husband two years later at the time of the 1856 Iowa State Census, as they had been divorced the previous year. Sarah filed for divorce and alimony on July 10, 1855. Her grounds for divorce were mental and physical abuse.

Sarah's divorce petition revealed that William Cartwright was a large land holder in Des Moines County. Sixteen tracts were delineated in her petition all located in sections 24, 14, 13, 8, 7, and 18 of township 69 north. Her household furniture, which she took to the residence of Mr. Cartwright upon her marriage, was listed as follows: 4 feather beds, 3 bedsteads, a cooking stove, a wardrobe, a bureau, 3 tables, a stand, 2 rocking chairs, 1/2 dozen Windsor chairs, 1/2 dozen kitchen chairs, a mantle clock, a looking glass, a "lot of carpeting," and a cupboard and kitchen ware,

The grandparents of William Lamme were Nathan and Nancy Ralston Lamme on his father's side, and John and Martha Constant Morgan on his mother's side.

Nathan Lamme was born in 1745 in Virginia. About 1767 he married Nancy Ralston in Pennsylvania. He served as a captain in the Lord Dunsmore War, recognized as the first battle of the Revolutionary War. For this service he received four thousand acres in the Virginia Military District in Kentucky and Ohio. Nathan Lamme was enumerated in the tax lists of Bourbon County, Kentucky, for the first time in 1800. Very soon thereafter he became a resident of the Northwest Territory in an area which in 1803 became Sugarcreek Township, Greene County, Ohio. His property was located in sections 27 and 33 on the Little Miami River northeast of Bellbrook. On January 26, 1802, Nathan Lamme subscribed to a memorial for John Cleves Symmes. Nathan was the first sheriff of Greene County, serving until his resignation on December 7, 1803. Ruth Lamme died in 1814, and Nathan died in 1834 in Bellbrook, where they were buried in the Pioneer Cemetery.

Nathan's son, William Lamme, Sr., was born about 1782 in Kentucky. William married Ruth Morgan Boyer on January 12, 1809, in Greene County, Ohio. Ruth was the daughter of John and Martha Constant Morgan. She was married first to John Boyer on March 15, 1806, but within a year or two became a widow with two sons. Descendants of the Boyer family were treated in detail in The Ruth Morgan Family by Gerald E. Collins and Ann D. Tuophy. Details on the Morgan and Constant families may be found in separate chapters of this volume.

William Lamme, Sr., served in the War of 1812 in the company of Captain Ammi Maltbie from August 25, 1812, until September 29, 1812. On Saturday, November 8, 1823, William Lamme purchased property at the Springfield, Illinois, land office. The property patented to him was located in the west 1/2 of the NE quarter of section 33, township 16, range 26. On November 4, 1826, William purchased additional property in section 6 of township 17 in range 10, an area located north of Jacksonville which is now in Cass County. In 1833 William Lamme and his wife, Ruth Morgan Lamme, came to the newly established territory of Iowa as did Ruth's brother, Judge William Morgan.

Their son, William Lamme, Jr., as a young man served in the Company of Captain Thomas Carlin, volunteering at Carrolton, Illinois, for service in the Mounted Volunteer Spies in the Black Hawk War. In his company were William and Evan Morgan, possibly sons of Jonathan Morgan, his brother-in-law. William Lamme had 320 acres in Union Township, Des Moines County, Iowa, resided in section 12 of Augusta Township, and finally retired in Danville. In 1874 he became an Iowa state legislator in the House of Representatives from Des Moines County.

The Burlington HAWK-EYE of Sunday, November 7, 1886, provided the following obituary giving us a sketch of the life of William Lamme, Jr.

Hon. Wm. Lamme Died at Mt. Pleasant
Yesterday Morning

Another of Iowa's earliest pioneers is gone. The telephone brought us intelligence yesterday that Hon. Wm. Lamme died at the place named at 8 a.m. He was ill but a day or so and his sudden death was a sad surprise to his family and friends.

Mr. Lamme was born in the east in 1814 and came to Iowa in 1833, one of the very first actual settlers to tread its soil in this region. He settled in the then unbroken wilderness in what is now Union township near the middle Augusta road and proceeded to open a farm. Here he lived in quiet, gradually accumulating a modest property and rearing his family in comfort. He continued to reside on the farm until three years ago when he removed to the home of his son William Lamme, jr. [William Lamme III], about three miles from Mt. Pleasant, where he spent his declining days and where his death occurred. He was an ardent republican and was elected by that party to the 15th general assembly of Iowa and filled his place with ability and honor. He was a kind accommodating neighbor and a friend to all in distress and need and possessed the confidence and esteem of his neighbors in a marked degree. He leaves to mourn him his widow, a daughter of Samuel Elliott, another Iowa pioneer, and three children, the son at whose home he died and two daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Seamans and Mrs Frank Blakeway. His funeral will be held this afternoon at three o'clock from the Long Creek church on the Agency road, the sanctuary which he always attended while living at his old home.

From the Burlington HAWK-EYE, Tuesday, December 25, 1894, came the following death notice for Hester Lamme:

> Mrs. William Lamme died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. B. Seamans, in this city last night about 11 o'clock, after an illness of several week's duration. There will be short services at the house to-morrow morning, conducted by Rev. W. P. Nicholas of the Presbyterian church, and Rev W P Stoddard, of the Methodist church. The body will be taken across the country to the Long Creek church, on the Danville charge, where the funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. L. P. Rowley of the Congregational church at Danville. The deceased was an old settler of Des Moines county and had resided there most of her life.

The children of William and Hester Elliott Lamme were:

12 i. Mary Jane[3] Lamme.
ii. David P. Lamme. Born, circa 1842, in Augusta Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. Died, before 1860, in Augusta Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. Census: 26 Oct 1850, in Augusta Twp., Des Moines Co., IA; p. 454.
13 iii. William H. Lamme.
14 iv. Clarissa "Clara" Lamme.

5. Nancy[2] Elliott (Samuel E.[1]). Born, circa 1821. Died, before 1864, in Mahaska Co., IA.

Nancy married Henry H. Williams, 17 Apr 1838, in Des Moines Co., Territory of Michigan.[38]. Marriage license, 15 Apr 1838.

Three of the children of Henry H. and Nancy Elliott Williams were named In the estate settlement of Samuel E. Elliott as Rufus, Mary, and Samuel Williams. The entire family consisted of:

The History of Yellow Springs and Huron Township, by J. W. Merrill, page 89, provided the following biographical information concerning Frederick Heizer:

> Frederick, the oldest, was born in 1807. He married Margaret Willgis in Ohio. His wife died in 1856. She left him two sons and five daughters. They are James C., John W., Elizabeth, wife of N. R. Leonard; Mary, wife of Rev. Willington Wright; Susan married L. F. Pierce; died in 1891: Rebecca married John Harper; died in 1878; Carrie wife of Ed. Rex. In 1860 Mr. Heizer married Mrs. Elizabeth Bartscherer, by whom he had two sons. Henry P., of Chicago and Frank who lives near Kossuth.
>
> Mr. Heizer was a man of marked influence in the township. Always foremost in the religious, educational and business enterprises of the township, and always alive to the interests of his village, his open purse, his willing hand and voice was always ready to help on with every project for the public good. He owned an interest in Kossuth mills for many years, retiring from the firm a short time before his death, which occurred in 1880. His widow resides in Mediapolis.

The following obituary appeared in the March 2, 1880, edition of the Daily Hawk Eye:

Death of Frederick Heizer

> Died, Sunday, February 29th, of pneumonia, at his home, in Kossuth, in this county, Frederick Heizer, aged about seventy-three years. Mr. Heizer was one of the old settlers, and nearly forty years ago came from Virginia and located in Des Moines county. Settling in Yellow Springs township in 1842, he spent his subsequent life there as farmer and miller, retiring from active business in 1873. He represented his county in the board of supervisors, and was from many years a justice of the peace. A republican in politics, he held a leading position in his locality and with patriotism and political integrity, above mere partisan success, he stood for purity in public service. Mr. Heizer married Mrs. Elizabeth Bartscher, his second wife, in 1860, who survives him. His sons are Henry and Frank by this marriage, J. C., and J. W. Heizer. Mrs. Leonard of Iowa City, Mrs. Wellington Wright, Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Rex, his daughters, survive him also, we think. Mr. Heizer was not only one of the oldest, he was also one of the best, most upright and highly respected of that generation of good men who in the early days gave Des Moines county its character for industry, integrity, temperance, intelligence and patriotism. The funeral takes place from the residence of the family at 2:00 a.m. today.

The following obituary for Elizabeth Elliott Heizer appeared in the NEW ERA of Mediapolis, Iowa:

> Elizabeth Elliott was born January 29, 1824 in Morgan County, near Martinsville, Indiana. She died July 2, 1909, at the residence of her son Henry P. Heizer in Morgan Park, Illinois, with whom she had been since last September. She was the daughter of Samuel and Mary Page Elliott, who removed about 1811 from Randolph County, North Carolina, with their two oldest children to Indiana. Her parents were descendants of the early Quaker emigrants to Pennsylvania and North Carolina. In the spring of 1836 her parents removed to Mercer County, Illinois, near New Boston, and in the spring of 1836 to this county and settled several miles west of Burlington, near Augusta. She was a resident of this county, with the exception of visits to her son, continuously since the spring of 1888. In 1845 she was married to Mathias Bartscherer and made her home in Burlington. Only two of the five children of this marriage reached maturity, John M. Bartscherer, now of Los Angeles, California, who served as private in Company K, 2nd Iowa Cavalry during the War of the Rebellion, and Samuel M., who died at Kossuth in 1876. Remaining a widow several years, she in 1860 married Frederick Heizer, who died February 29, 1880. Henry P. Heizer, an attorney of Chicago, and Frank Heizer of this township were the only children of this marriage. Mrs. Heizer was the last of a family of seven. But few survive her of the pioneer settlers of this county, and we believe she is the last mother residing in this township of the many patriotic mothers who gave their sons to the service of their country in the dark days of the Rebellion.
> The remains arrived here on Saturday night and were taken to the home of her son, Frank Heizer.
> The funeral services were held Sunday at the Kossuth Presbyterian church and were conducted by her pastor Rev. Bruce, of Mediapolis, assisted by Rev. Ollerenshaw of Kossuth.

Two obituaries appeared in Burlington, Iowa, newspapers, the first in the Burlington HAWK-EYE, March 14, 1901, and the second on March 15th. They read as follows:

DEATH OF B. B.SEAMANS

Supposed to be the First White Child Born in Iowa Death Occurred in Rosendale, Mo., Yesterday Morning - Was with John Born in Kansas - Father of Bert Seamans

Benjamin B. Seamans, supposed to he the oldest white person horn in this county, if not in the state of Iowa, passed away yesterday morning after a long illness at Rosendale, Missouri.

The deceased was horn in what is known as the Hunt settlement, July 12, 1835, and though he had lived in several different cities he had always called Burlington his home and his last years were spent here. Mr. Seamans was a quiet, retiring man, who though always proud of heing the "oldest hoy in the county" and later the oldest native of the county, talked hut little ahout his early life and therefore in the ahsence of his family it is impossihle to ohtain a history of his early life.

Mr. Seamans was the son of Benjamin B. Seamans, who was horn in Virginia, in 1799, and Mrs. Jane Crawford Seamans, of the same state. His parents came to "Flint Hills" in 1834, and settled a few miles west of our present city. Benjamin Seamans, Jr., was horn the following year and was one of a family of nine children. At an early age he went with his parents to Baxter Springs, Kansas, and was engaged with John Brown and Jim Lane in the Kansas trouhle, that give the name of Bleeding Kansas to that state. Mr. Seamans came hack to Des Moines county after the civil war and after living a short time in Mr. Pleasant, came again to Burlington and with his wife lived at No. 538 South Central avenue.

For some years his health has heen failing and many years ago he retired from active life. Some months ago upon the advice of his physician, he went to Rosendale, Missouri, where his death occurred yesterday.

Benjamin B. Seaman's death takes another sturdy, upright man from the rapidly thinning ranks of Des Moines county's old citizens and Iowa's pioneers. He was a man of whom nothing but good can be said and whose loss is deeply felt by all who know him.

His son, Officer Bert B. Seamans, was at his father's bedside when death came, and will bring the remains back to Burlington to-day. The funeral announcement will be made later.

B. B. SEAMANS

Arrival of the Remains - Sketch of the Life Career of Deceased

The remains of the late B. B. Seamans arrived in the city yesterday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Seamans, her sons, Charles B., of St. Joseph Missouri, and Bert, of this city, and her daugbter, Mrs Hattie Walts of Rosendale, Missouri. From them the particulars of Mr. Seaman's illness and death were obtained. He was first taken witb a severe cold, congestion of the liver set in, and pneumonia followed, his sickness lasting only eight days. The end came last Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock. He suffered considerably during the week, but retained consciousness to the last, and passed in the Beyond peacefully like one falling asleep.

The evening before Mr. Seamans died he said to his son Bert, who was at his bedside: "I won't live through the night." From the beginning of his sickness he felt that it was to be his last.

Benjamin Bardyne Seamans was born in Des Moines county, July 12, 1835, on his father's farm, six miles west of this city. Here he remained until 1856, when he went to California and engaged in gold mining for two years. Returning home, he later visited Kansas in time to espouse tbe cause of John Brown and served with him and General Lane and Colonel Montgomery as a volunteer in the free soil tronble. In 1859 he came back to Burlington, and in that year was married to Miss Mary J. Lamme. whose father's farm was about seven miles west of town, and who also, is a native of this county. For eighteen years following Mr. Seamans remained on his farm. He then purchased one in Henry county and moved to it, and which he farmed for two years and retired, moving into the town of Mt. Pleasant where he resided for seven years. He left there for Utah, where he lived two years, part of the time in Provo City, and partly on the Ulnta Indian reservation, where he served as assistant to the agent.

In 1894 be came to Burlington once more, purchased property on South Hill and settled down, as he thought for good. But in October, 1900, failing health caused Mr. and Mrs. Seamans to break up housekeeping and they moved to St. Joseph, Missouri, where their son Charles lives.

When the final illness came npon him Mr. Seamans was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Hattie Walts, of Rosendale, Missouri.

Anotber married daughter, Mrs. Etta Smith, resides in Provo City, Utah. Of his father's family, Mr. Seamans was the last of seven brothers. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. M. B. Calkins, of 814 South Fourteenth street, in this city, and Mrs. N. L. Elliott, of Zanesville, Ohio.

Deceased was said to be the first white child born in Iowa. During his boyhood days he imbibed the spirit of republicanism from a sturdy father, whose home was a station on the underground railway for fugitive slaves, and be remained a staunch republican all his life. While not affiliated with any church organization, his leanings were toward the Presbyterian faith. At one time be belonged to the I.O.O.F., but dropped out of membership some years ago.

A man of strict integrity, of shrewd business faculties and untiring industry, he acquired a competence while in social life he was a genial companion and liked nothing better than the company of kindred spirits.

The lot in which he will rest was purchased while Iowa was yet a territory, and was tbe second sold in the cemetery.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from the Home of Officer Bert Seamans, No. 1229 Sonth Tenth street. Services at the home will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Salter. Friends are invited. The interment in Aspen Grove will be private.

Volume 8, pages 213-226 of the Kansas Historical Collection, 1903-1904, provided much detail concerning the attempted rescue of John Brown from the Charlestown, Virginia, jail. A summary of Benjamin Seamans participation in this effort is as follows:

On November 2, 1859, the abolitionist, John Brown, was sentenced to be hung on December 2nd for his leadership in the attack upon a federal armory at Harpersville Ferry during which two of his twenty children were killed as were ten of his followers. The U. S. Marines under Robert E. Lee and a local militia lost five and had nine wounded in this skirmish.

In Kansas, where five of Brown's sons had settled, a group of men including the brother of Benjamin Seamans, Henry C. Seamans, conspired to rescue Brown. At Harrisburg they were joined by Benjamin Seamans of Iowa and others. Henry Seamans and Silas Soule were responsible for the majority of planning of the campaign. The former went into Martinsburg to scout the layout of the area. Soule and others made contact with Brown and learned that he had refused to be rescued. He stated he was, "worth more to die than to live." At this point the undertaking was abandoned and the conspirators returned home. Henry Seamans became a captain in the Civil War.

John Brown achieved his intent. Although Abraham Lincoln did not approve the action of Brown, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry David Thoreau felt he was a hero and a saint. During the ensuing war, the song, "John Brown's Body" was sung by northern troops and Brown became a legendary martyr to the cause of emancipation.

The following is an article from the November 19, 1901, issue of the Burlington HAWK-EYE:

MRS. B. B. SEAMANS
Mother of the Popular Police Officer Injured in a Railroad Wreck

Officer Bert Seamans received word Sunday that his mother had suffered serious injuries in a railroad wreck, which occurred between Newcomersburg and Columbus, Ohio, last Friday. Little definite is known here concerning the old lady's condition, but it is feared that she has suffered internal injuries

Bert Seamans [her son] was called to Des moines on official business yesterday and will hasten to his mother's bedside as soon as he returns, unless in the meantime word if received that she is improving rapidly. Mrs. Seamans left here a week ago to visit a married daughter at Columbus. her many friends hope that she may soon be completely restored to health.

A second account of the accident occurred in the paper five days later:

MRS. SEAMAN'S CONDITION

Seems to Have Suffered Internal Injuries but Physicians are Quite Hopeful

The Hawk-Eye has received the following from Newcomerstown. O., which will interest the hundreds of friends of the good woman:

Mrs. Seamens left, Burlington, November 14th for Newcomerstown, O., to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. S. H. Watts [or Walts], and family, who have recently moved to that place. On Friday morning as the train was leaving Columbus it ran into a stock train. Mrs. Seamens was lifted up out of her seat and thrown across the back of the seat in front of her falling on her chest. The train was taken back to the depot and physicians summoned. Three attended her there. They were anxious that she should go to the hospital but her wish was to go on to her daughter. Two physicians accompanied her the remainder of her trip some ninety miles. At Newark the train was held long enough to permit two other physicians to make an examination, also the same at Coshoeton. Three physicians here have been in attendance and cannot find that any bones have been broken, but as to her being injured internally there is no question as she has had a number of hemorrhages and is in a helpless condition. Her left arm and hand is quite numb, and she is in pain all the time, although not quite as acute as at first.

The doctors speak quite hopefully, but they are unable to tell how serious her injuries are

A number of others were injured but none so seriously as Mrs. Seamans.

On April 28, 1908, Mary J. Seamans wrote her will which read as follows:

Mayst thou live in joy for ever
Nought from thee true pleasure sever
From thy heart arise no sigh
And no tear hedew thine eye
Joys he many cares be few Smooth the path thou shalt pursue
And heavens richest hlessings shine
Ever on hoth thee and thine
Round thy path may fairest flowers
As in amaranthene howers
Bloom and hlossom hright and fair
Load with sweets the ambient air
Be thy path with roses strewn
And thy hours to care unknown
Sorrow cloud thy pathway never
And hapeness be thine forever

Report Death As Suicide

Larry Allen Farnsworth, 24, of 601 Roosevelt, was found dead Sunday in the front seat of a car parked in a rural driveway.

Sheriff's officers said Farnsworth was found by Richard Gorrell, Rt. 1, in whose drive the car was parked.

Sheriff Merritt Quick said Farnsworth's death was "an apparent suicide". He was found lying across the front seat with a 22 caliber pistol between his legs.

Des Moines County Medical Examiner Dr. Evan Peterson said X-rays were scheduled Monday afternoon to determine whether Farnsworth died of a gunshot wound.

Quick said there was a wound behind Farnworth's right ear. The pistol was fully loaded with the exception of one spent cartridge.

Earlier Threat

Mrs. Farnsworth told officers that her husband had made earlier statements about taking his own life.

Farnsworth's car had been parked in the Gorrell drive throughout the afternoon. Quick said Farnsworth probably died sometime between 1-2 p.m.

The body was taken to the Elliott chapel at New London.

The following day the HAWK-EYE published a follow-up article:

Bullet Fatal, X-rays Show

Dr. Evan Peterson, Des Moines county medical examiner, confirmed Tuesday that Larry Allen Farnsworth, 24, of 601 Roosevelt, died of a gunshot wound inflicted by a 22-caliber bullet. "X-rays of the wound showed fragments of the skull attached to a bullet of this caliber," Dr. Peterson said.

Sheriff Merritt Quick said Farnsworth's death was "an apparent suicide." He was found lying across the front seat of his car with a 22 caliber pistol between his legs.

Sandra Elliott Ranier provided the following biography of Clyde Paul Elliott:

Clyde Elliott was born May 7, 1890, to William Jessie and Jessie (Colhurn) Elliott in Savannah, Missouri. He was raised on the family farm with his brothers and sisters. Clyde's personal appearance was said to he more similar to his father than his mother. He had red hair, freckles, and a lazy eye.

Clyde married Mary Alice "Mazzie" Seamans, September 4, 1912. After their honeymoon they moved in with Mazzie's parents, Charles and Minnie Seamans, on the Seamans' farm. Clyde and Mazzie's first two sons, James Paul and Charles Glen, were born in Savannah, Andrew County, Missouri, before they moved to California with Mazzie's parents.

After a long train ride west the Elliotts made their first home at 514 South Broadway in Santa Ana, California. They lived there from 1919 to 1920 and then moved to 518 Ross Street in Santa Ana. It was also while living on Ross Street that their third and last son, William Duayne Elliott, was born on June 17, 1924. Clyde seems to have been involved in many ventures from here on out. It appears he did some land speculation with his father-in-law, Charles Seamans. They bought and sold ranches making a couple of thousand dollars each time they turned them over. This could have been how Clyde acquired the citrus groves he had in and around Orange and Tustin. In fact I helieve the Elliott family lived in a farm house at the end of MacFadden Avenue in Tustin on one of these citrus farms.

Clyde also hought into a feed and grain store partnership in Tustin. Later Clyde sold his half of the feed and grain store and opened his first furniture store near the Circle in Orange. I believe the store was called "Elliott and Johnson" and the Elliott family lived above the store. Eventually Clyde went into partnership with a fellow named Martin, and they opened "Martin and Elliott Furniture" at 1210 S. Main Street, Santa Ana. Clyde later bought Martin's half and was then joined by two of his sons, James and Bill, in the management of the store. The name was changed to "Elliott's Furniture" and later to "Elliott's Interiors." The husiness thrived for many years at the Main Street address.

In 1948 an income tax return showed the Elliotts residing at 316 South Santa Clara Avenue in Santa Ana. During the 1950's Clyde and Mazzie lived at 2420 Fairmont in Santa Ana. Their son, Charles, lived a few houses away. They were living on Greenbriar Lane when Mazzie died. After Mazzie's death Clyde bought a mohile home on Tustin Avenue where he lived for the remainder of his days.

Clyde died January 11, 1968, of heart disease at St. Joseph's Hospital in Orange. He was interred next to his wife at Melrose Abhey in Orange.

THE HARNESS FAMILY

The Harness family had its origin in Unter-Owisheim, Wurtemberg. The introduction to the Dieffenbach chapter provides background material concerning the emigration and immigration of Palatine families. After a short period of time in New York and in Pennsylvania the family removed to the South Branch of the Potomac River which was first explored in 1725 by John Van Meter, a trader from New York, in the company of a Delaware Indian war party. The South Branch of the Potomac flows north for over one hundred fifty miles, covering parts of present Grant (1866), Pendleton (1787), Hardy (1785), and Hampshire (1753) Counties of West Virginia. The southern portion or headwaters of the South Branch below Moorefield in Hardy County forks into three branches: the South Branch, the Moorefield River, and the North Fork of the Potomac. The Harness Family settled on the South Branch about four miles below Moorefield and near the present hamlet of Fisher in Hardy County, West Virginia. This site, being near the river, has been subject periodically over the past two hundred and sixty years to severe flooding.

In 1725 this area was known as West Augusta County. In that year new treaties with the Indians allowed colonization beyond the Blue Ridge Mountains into the Shenandoah Valley, but forbade settlement beyond the Alleghenies in the South Branch area which was still reserved to the Indians. Because this agreement was breached by colonists, including the Harness, Trumbo, Alkire and related families, the resulting wrath of Indian tribes endangered those who had settled in both valleys during the French and Indian Wars between 1754-1763. The South Branch was plagued by three tribes of hostile Indians: the Catawba, Delaware, and Algonquins.

To offer the inhabitants some measure of protection during Indians attacks, "forts" were established at various locations where settlers could "fort up." A map of Hampshire County in 1758 showed the location of some of these forts; however, there were many other forts which were little more than homes designed for defense. Fort Harness, also called Fort Blizzard, does not appear on this map. Fort Holland and Fort Buttermilk may have been one and the same.

In 1748 George Washington, aged sixteen, visited the South Branch as a member of a surveying team headed by George Fairfax whose mission was to survey the six million acres owned by Lord Fairfax and known as the "Manor of Wappacomo" or "South Branch Manor." On August 18, 1748, a list of the inhabitants of the South Branch was made. The journals of the youthful George Washington contained none too flattering references to the inhabitants of the South Branch. Our ancestors may have been included among the latter as it is believed they spoke German or Dutch. Passages from these journals appear below:

> ...roaming over spurs of the Alleghenies, alive to nature, and sometimes spending the best of the day in admiring the trees and the richness of the land; among skin clad savages, with their scalps and their rattles, or uncouth emigrants that would never speak English.

Monday April 4, 1748, from Hardy County - This morning Mr. Fairfax left us with Intent to go down to the Mouth of the Branch. We did 2 Lots and was attended by a great Company of People - Men, Women and Children that attended us through the woods as we went, showing their Antic tricks. I really think they seemed to be as Ignorant a Set of People as the Indians. They would never speak English, but when spoken to they speak all Dutch.

The Indians were never compensated for the use of the lands of the South Branch and as the number of settlers increased, they did not take kindly to the intrusion into their hunting grounds. After the defeat of Braddock on July 9, 1754, whose army was to defend areas west of the Alleghenies from the French and Indians, the Virginia frontier was without protection. On July 18, 1755, George Washington who had been part of the Braddock army, wrote to Governor Dinwiddie stating, "I tremble at the consequences that his defeat may have upon our back settlers, who, I suppose, will all leave their habitations unless there are proper measures taken for their security."

Again on October 11, 1755, Governor Dinwiddie was advised by Washington that, "70 or near it of our People are kill'd and missing and several Houses and Plantations are destroyed ..." and the people were "frightened out of their senses."

By 1756 a company of militia had been sent to the area headed by Colonel Talliaferro. George Washington recorded information in his journal in respect to the number of men to be posted at the various forts along the South Branch and South Fork. Included therein were the following references to Harness' Fort:

May 14, 1756	1 Capt., 1 Lieut., 2 Srgts., and 35 men
May 15, 1756	Lieutenant Hedgman, 2 sergeants, and thirty private men
May 16, 1756	Captain Thomas Waggener was advised that a part of the Stafford Militia had been ordered to Harnesses Fort and would march the following day. Waggener was ordered to make out a Pay-Roll for Cockes, Harnesses, and "your upper Fort."
May 17, 1756	To Captain James Hamilton, located at Pearsall's Fort: "I also beg leave to observe here that the Fort at the Upper Tract, notwithstanding it is more in the Indian pass of the mountains, is too high up; since numbers of the inhabitants from those parts, if I am rightly informed, are lately moved down about Harness's and a place called Butter-Milk-Fort; which renders it necessary to place the troops, or at least a principal part of them, there also; to protect the Inhabitants in sowing and gathering their Crops, &c."
June 15, 1757	Colonel Stanwix and Governor Dinwiddie advised as follows: At Harness's Fort, 27 men 90 miles from Fort Loudoun where Washington was stationed.

Although these pioneers endured hard labor and suffered the loss of property and family members in Indian raids, these conditions bred strong character traits passed on to succeeding generations: independence, courage, industry, and strong family ties. The children and grandchildren of these earliest pioneers supported the American Revolution with supplies from their farms and volunteer soldiers for the armies. Members of the Harness, Trumbo, Alkier, Morgan, Constant and Hornback families, all residents of the western regions of Virginia, were strong supporters of the cause of freedom.

We will now continue with the ancestry of Margaretha Katherine "Grate" Harness who married H. Jacob Trumbo.

1. Johann Michael Ernest[1] Harness (Ludwig Ernst[2])[1]. Born, 1 Jan 1700/1, in Unter-Owisheim, Kingdom of Wuertemberg[2]. Died, Mar 1785, in the South Branch Valley of the Potomac River, Hardy Co., VA[3].

Johann married Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach[5], daughter of Johann Conrad Dieffenbach and Marie Barbara Christler, circa 1723, probably in the Schoharie Valley, New Ansburg, NY[6]. Christened, 8 Jul 1705, in Wiesloch, Grand Duchy of Baden[7]. Died, circa 1802, in the South Branch Valley of the Potomac River, Hardy Co., VA.

Johann Michael Ernst Herner, son of Ludwig Ernst Herner, was born January 1, 1700/1701, at Unter-Owisheim, Kingdom of Wuertemberg. His family sailed from Rotterdam to England in 1709 and by summer of 1710 had arrived in the colony of New York. His father died shortly thereafter.[1]

Michael Ernst Herner removed to the Tulpehocken settlement which is discussed in detail in the introduction to the Dieffenbach Family. In 1725 Michael's name was on a tax list, and on a list dated September of 1727, taken from a petition for a road from Olney to Tulpehocken, a settlement at Strausstown, Lancaster County (Berks County in 1752), Pennsylvania, which was presented to the Court of Quarter Sessions at Philadelphia. He became a land owner in 1732 of property on Tulpehocken Creek, and in 1733 he witnessed a baptism at Ried Lutheran Church.

Michael received no formal education as he was unable to write. His mark was quite unique, not being a simple X such as that which was used by his son, Michael, Jr. Michael's name came to be Anglicized as Michael Ernest Harness.

Michael's wife was Maria "Elisabetha" Dieffenbach. Elisabetha's father's will stated his name to be Johann Conrad Tiffebogh. Maria Elisabetha was named in this will as Maria Elizabeth "Ernst." In Michael's own will his name was signed Michael Ernest, with his mark, M E, and in the margin was written Harness. Signing his name as "Ernest" is a strong indication that he was the son of an Ernest. A letter which follows, written in 1878 by Mrs. Black, aged eighty, stated that Michael's wife was a Tephebogh, and that both she and Michael had come from Pennsylvania, as many Hampshire County residents did. Although the name was spelled slightly differently, it sounds very much the same when pronounced.

The South Branch Valley was first explored in 1725 by John Van Meter, a trader from New York, who came in the company of a Delaware Indian war party. The South Branch of the Potomac flows north for over one hundred fifty miles, covering parts of present Grant, Pendleton, Hardy, and Hampshire Counties of West Virginia.

In 1734 or 1735 four Irish families settled near the present town of Springfield to the north of present Romney in Hampshire County. In 1736 other families moved south to the Moorefield area in present Hardy County. In 1737 deputies of Lord Fairfax sent four scouts into the South Branch Valley,

[1] Harold Duncan Harness, author of A Glimpse of the Past, the Harness Family History, was of the belief that Michael was a grandson of William and Susan Harness who on July 2, 1649, obtained a grant of 400 acres on the west side of the Chesapeake Bay and on the north side of the South River. William and Susan came to America with two sons, William and Isaac. A daughter, Elizabeth, and son, Jacob were born in this country, the latter of whom he believed to have been the father of Michael Ernest Harness.

Another researcher stated that Michael Harness was the grandson of Michael and Elizabeth Jasper Harness, he a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, Holland. They had two sons, William and Peter. Peter married Barbara Devries, and they were residents of York County, Pennsylvania. Harold Duncan Harness was unable to locate this family in York County records.

one of whom was Philip Powell Yoakum who eventually married Elizabeth Harness. He returned to Pennsylvania and New York with news of the South Branch.

In the Draper Papers the testimony of George Yocum, born in 1763, detailed the entrance into the South Branch Valley by his grandfather, Michael Harness, as quoted below:

> My grandfather, Matthias Yocum, Michael Harness, and Geo. Stump, were the 1st 3 owners that ever bro't waggons down to the South Branch. [The Stumpff family was an early resident of Tulpehocken.] They came by way of Winchester; then up Big-Capon; Lost River; and to the mountains. Crossing over the mountain they came to the south fork of the South Branch. Grandfather Yocum settled about a half a mile from the mouth of the South-fork. Michael Harness moved down on to the main South Branch: 4 ms. above the fork, or where now Moorfield is. Had a station there. Michael Harness went down from his father's, H's, to Vanmetre's fort, and was shot on the road as he was riding horse. The Cunninghams aftwds. lived above the Harness' on the South-Branch. What was called Buttermilk Station was in a flat of land at the conjunction of the south-fork and south-Branch. The Coffmans, Hornbacks, and Cutwrights were there. ...They called this part of the S. Branch, Holland. Most of the people were low Dutch. from Holland.

A letter written by Helen Black has been widely abstracted by various researchers. It was as follows:

Honey Grove, Hardin Co.
Tex

Mr. Jesse Cunningham

Dr Sir - I have drawn a short sketch of them you spring from and herewith enclose it to you. Michael Harness was married to Elizabeth Tephebogh from Pennsylvania both born there, what her mother's maiden name was I have forgotten but had descended from the Royal blood of Europe. They were of Dutch descent. Lord Fairfax had a grant from the King of England he Lord Fairfax was a woman hater he made it known among the people of Pennsylvania that all who would go to the South Branch of the Potomac River, and then settle and make a "Tomahawk mark" around what land they wanted and their terms were almost nothing as well as my memory serves me it was at the end of 99 years they were to pay 1/2 cent per acre. The Dutch selected from among them four reliable men to go and look at the country and Lord Fairfax gave the latitude and longitude as boundaries and they traveled by a pocket Compass. After the return of the men they reported so favorably about the Country that Michael Harness started in the spring time enough to plant a crop on this Fairfax grant, Winchester was the nearest town & Phil Powell Yoakum was called to Winchester to report his knowledge of this river and he stated the S B Potomac was the name given by the Indians, on reaching the country this name was established. Elizabeth Harness a daughter of Michael Harness at the age of eleven years left the wagons with Punk steel & Tomahawk in hand led the way from Capon Mt & leaving the road so that the wagons could pass went to the S B River, built a fire had it in readiness when the men got there. Consequently you will see that the said Elizabeth was the first white woman that ever trod this glorious soil of the S B of Potomac a country of which all have been so proud. Michael Harness raised 13 children to be men & women grown. 9 sons and four daughters, Elizabeth the eldest married P P Yoakum Rebecca married Michael See Grate Harness (married) Andy Trumbo [&] went to Kentucky, Dolly Harness married Samuel Hornback also went to Kentucky. Jno Harness married Miss Pettie her mother was Bogart. George Harness md 1st Marie Elizabeth Yoakum, Adam Harness dont remember. Leonard (Harness) married a Hatch & went to Illinois, Peter Harness married Susan _____ & went to Ohio. Coonrad Mar'd Molly _____ Michael H _____ Jacob 1st died from bleeding at the town where he married Jacob 2nd married Miss Pettie the niece of your great grand mother Harness, the second marriage was to Elizabeth Roarrabou. Michael Adam & Coonrad were killed and scalped by the Indians & carried to the Harness Fort & there died in the presence of their mother but not all in the same year - Coonrads wife & only child were killed at the same time he was. The wife & childs remains were found three years to a day by a mulatto woman & her gold purse clasp and gold scissors chain (but) the silk was rotted from the purse and the money gone. Your Great grand father Harness [1st] raised ten children, 5 sons & 5 daughters Jemima married William Cunningham, Elizabeth married Michael Welton Rebecca married John Cunningham Hannah married Henry Hall, Sallie married Jno Cunningham & went to Kentucky Their last two were twins. George married Rebecca Casey, Joseph married R Williams, Adam married Elizabeth Baker, Solomon married Catherine Saps, Jno married Hannah Inskeep. My father & Mother were second Cousins, Barbara See was my mothers Grand Mother: Consequently I had two great Grand Mothers and one grand mother who were Harnesses. Elizabeth Yoakum was eleven years old when he came to this county and died at 77 (years of age) I was 7 years old at her death & I was horn in 1797 Elizaheth Tapheby - was I think a relative of Wm. Penn. I have now given you all the particulars as near as I can recollect hoping that it will all he satisfactory I remain yours etc.

It had been necessary to dismantle the wagons and pack the parts on horses for a portion of the journey to South Branch as only primitive trails were in existence. Whether Elizabeth was indeed the first woman to set foot in the South Branch Valley is questionable.

On the South Branch Michael built Fort Harness on property obtained from Lord Fairfax in a ninety-nine year lease. Michael built his home on the South Branch about a mile and a half north of the fort. The date of 1739 was inscribed on a beam in the attic of Fort Harness. The fort was constructed from hand-hewn white oak logs. The original fireplace was of handmade brick. The home was called, "Hawthorne," but is now known as "Water Edge." The home has had two additions made during the 1800s. Nearby was a burial ground in existence in 1976 but which by 1981 had disappeared in a flood. Today the fort is located near the hamlet of Fisher below the town of Moorefield in Hardy County, West Virginia. There were thirteen children born to Michael and Elizabeth, the last six in Virginia. In 1743 one of Michael's children was baptized at South Branch, Virginia, by Pastor John Casper Stoever as recorded in the Stoever Churchbooks, a reformed Lutheran congregation in the Tulpehocken Valley. This definitely provided the South Branch-Tulpehocken connection.

On the last day of December in 1742, the following petition signed by Michael Herness and forty other settlers was presented to the Orange County Court:

To the Worshipful Court of Orange County

Humhle petition of ye Enhabitence of ye South Branch of Poetomack river Humhly Sheweth That whereas your petitioners heing put to a great Disconveneance for want of a road from Cos place on ye said hranch called Hayard's Town Down ye said branch to John Uptons Mill and from thence ye nearest and Best Way to ye North river of Cap Capon and thence ye nearest and Best Way to James Codys ford on Great Cap Capon into ye other road Which Road Will be Great Incoragement for ye Settling the said Branch and very Conveneant for ye said Settlers... And appoynt Andrew Clements, Jacoh Westfall/Vestall, Henry Dowland and James Cody to vew and Lay off ye said Road....

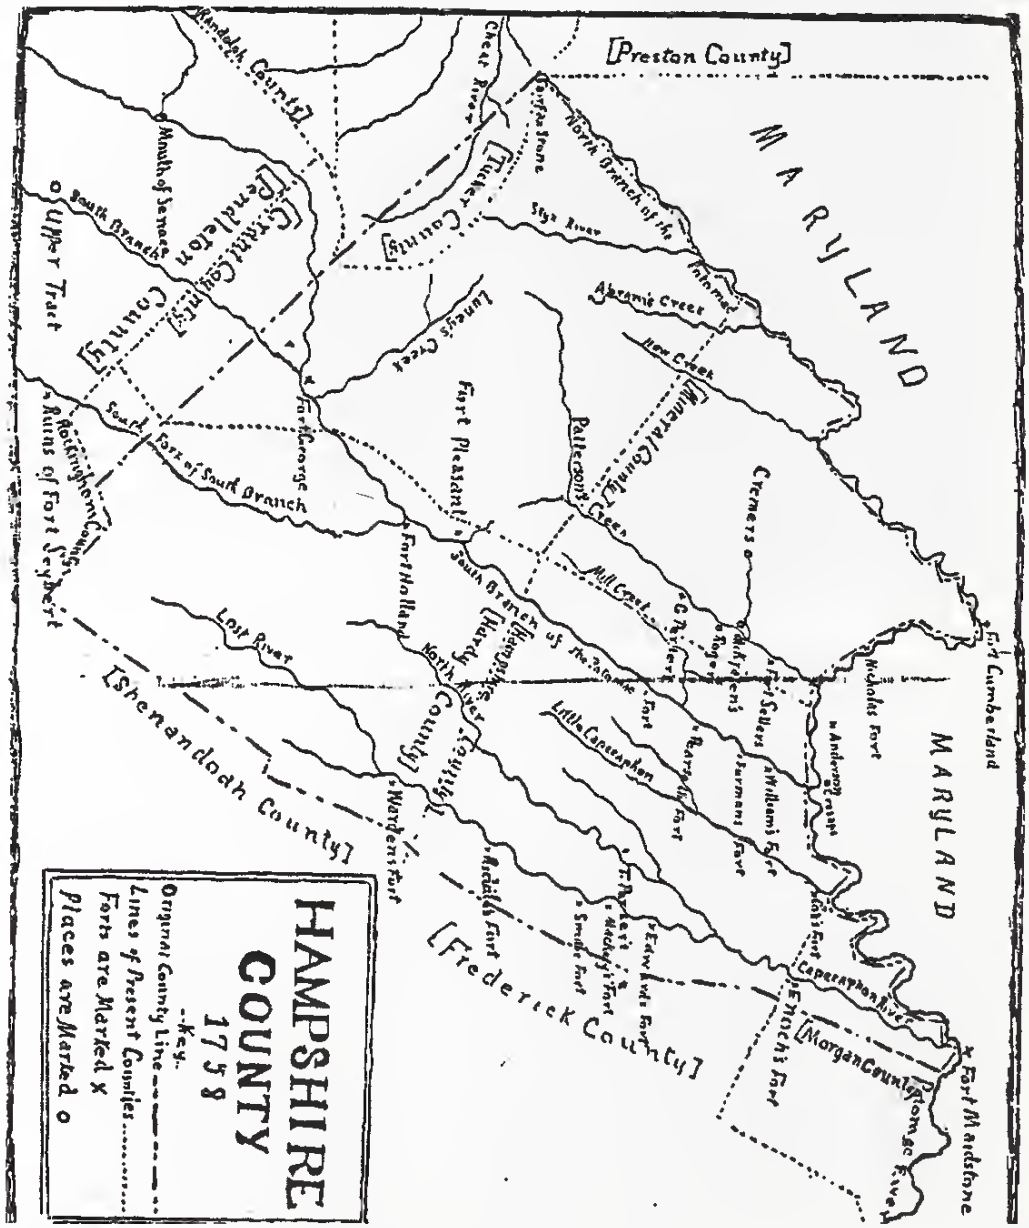
This road when completed was known as the "Waggon Road to Romney." It continued south from Romney and ended near present Moorefield and the fort of Michael Harness.

The Augusta County Order Book I recorded that on June 18, 1747, Michael Harnis, Michael Stump and James Simpson were appraisers of the estate of John Bogard. On August 18, 1748, the name of Michael Harness and his son, "Coonrat," appeared on a list of inhabitants on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Augusta County, Virginia[4]. On June 22, 1751, the estate of John Miles was appraised by James Simpson, Michael Harnis, and Jacob Westfall. on March 22, 1753, Michael Harness was a surety for the bond of Benjamin Scott, administrator of the estate of James Scot. On April 27, 1753, Charles Simpson, Michael Harness, and Coonrad Harness were appraisers of the estate of Henry Thorn.

The Harness Fort, also known as the Blizzard Fort, was manned by a garrison of fifty men by May of 1756. Up to seventy-five men came to the fort to guard it during the summer. Among these men was Andrew Trumbo. It was there he met Margaretha Katherine Harness, youngest daughter of Michael, and married her on April 22, 1768, Andrew's twenty-fifth birthday.

Biographical information about Michael Harness came from an interview with George Trumbo, son of Margaretha and Andrew Trumbo, in the Draper Papers. A quote follows:

I was born Septemher 29, 1769 on the South Branch of the Potomac. My grandfather, old Michael Harness, was one of the first settlers there. Seventy-five men used to come up from old Virginia to guard him every year. My grandfather Harness was born January 1, 1700. [Until 1752 the New Year did not hegin until March 24th, and therefore this was actually a double dated year, 1700/01.] He died in March and if he had lived till new year, he would have heen eighty-five. He went to the South Branch a young man. His fort was ahout three miles from Moorefield on the Main South Branch.



The French and Indian Wars between 1754 and 1763 took a heavy toll on the residents of the South Branch and particularly on the Harness family, famous as Indian fighters. Their son, Coonrad, his wife and infant daughter, were returning home from a party in 1763 when attacked by Indians. Their child was killed by dashing her against a tree. Michael's eldest son, John, was shot in the hand by Indians. Son, Adam, was killed and scalped by Indians, as well as son, Michael, who met the same fate in 1765. Michael, Jr., and his wife were taken by the Indians to the Harness fort, and there Michael was scalped before his mother. Michael, Jr.'s., wife may have met the same fate. A story has survived that while the men were absent from home and on patrol, Michael, Sr's, wife, killed an Indian with an axe as he came through her door .

This summer kitchen is behind Fort Harness.

An interesting account appeared in the VIRGINIA GAZETTE, the October 28, 1763 edition, of a girl who found refuge at the Harness Fort. It read as follows:

> One Eleanor Ryan, [the daughter of John Ryan] taken prisoner hy the Indians on the 23rd of August last, near Stony Creek, and who made her escape, gives the following account, viz.: That she was carried to the Cacapon River, where a scouting party, hy talking, discovered themselves to the Indians, three of whom advanced to the rear with cocked flintlocks, to fire on the party, while two stood hy her and her hrother [John Ryan, Jr.], who was taken with her, with their tomahawks ready to dispatch them if they made any noise; the Indians ohserving the party to he too strong for them, let them pass, and proceeded through the woods to the South Branch, passing the forts in the night, towards the Allegheny Mountains; they killed several horses for their hells; and coming on the tracks of some of our scouting parties, they were much afraid, and turned off through the most rugged mountains they could find, to prevent heing tracked, first tomahawking all the horses they had taken. After traveling twelve days they had got on one of the south hranches of the Monongahela; and expecting to he tomahawked the next day, as she was quite exhausted, and unahle to go much further (Indians murdered any captives who hecame too ill or too exhausted to travel), she took a resolution with her hrother, to attempt escape that night.
> And accordingly heing sent for firewood, as usual, they carried in several turns to camp, and, under pretense of hringing more, they went into a laurel thicket, and hid themselves until the Indians had given over pursuit of them. After traveling in the mountains for fifteen days, her hrother perished from hunger; and in five days afterwards, she got into Harness' Fort on the South Branch, almost starved to death.

On August 3, 1773, Lord Fairfax gave Michael a lease to lot 49 West in South Branch Manor.

Michael's contribution to the Revolution was documented in Hampshire County, Court Booklet, page two, of public service claims. He contributed 621 pound of beef at a price of seven pounds, fifteen shillings, three pence. His daughter, Elizabeth Yoakum, donated 218 pounds of flour to the cause.

The Hampshire County tax rolls of 1782 indicated that Michael Harness was the owner of twelve blacks. There were only three whites in the family at the time.

Michael wrote his will in 1779, no day or month given. The original spelling has been preserved; note the "d" and "t" substitutions which were also found in the spelling of Dieffenbach. His will was as follows:

The will was proved on March 8, 1785, by the oaths of Joseph Petty and Jacob Yoakum. Bond was posted by the administrators, Jacob Yoakum and Daniel Tevirbough. Elizabeth Harness' will was probated in 1802.

The children of Johann Michael Ernest and Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach were:

i. Coonrad Harness[8]. Born, circa 1724, in Stouchsburg, Lancaster Co., PA. Died, 1757, on the South Branch, Potomac River, Hampshire Co., VA[9]. Burial in Fort Harness Burial Ground, Hampshire Co., VA. He married Molly Yoakum, before 1757, probably the daughter of Philip Paul Yoakum..

Coonrat Harness appeared on a list dated August 18, 1748, of residents of the Fairfax manor of Wappacomo. As Conrad Hoerner he and his father served on a jury inquiring into the death of Samuel Decker by penknife.

On April 27, 1753, Coonrad and his father were appraisers of the estate of Henry Thorn in Augusta County, Virginia. On March 22, 1753/4 Conrad Harness qualified as Lieutenant of Foot in Augusta County.

The testimony of George Trumbo in the Draper Papers tells us that Coonrad was shot under the chin and his wife and child were also killed as they were returning from church. He noted they were not Lutherans.

Michael Harness was administrator of Conrad's estate. A bond of 200 pounds was posted December 14, 1757, in Hampshire County, Virginia. Conrad's estate was appraised by Thomas Parsons, George Lee and James (Tadle?). The estate was large for a young man. It included household furnishings of: two tables, a chest, two looking glasses, a pair of sheets and a table cloth, pewter, a spinning wheel, a basket, a warming pan, a new iron, three pots, a warming pan and kettle, wooden ware, knives and forks, a teakettle, old kettles and jugs, and a set of measures. Many items of clothing were listed: two woman's gowns, four pettycoats, linen, cambrick, shirts and stockings, caps and aprons, a shift and aprons, black silk, calico for a quilt, and three gowns.

Livestock listed were: a steer and bull, two heffers, a black mare and colt, a bay mare and two colts, one black horse and a gray, one pig, two calves, a black mare, five mare, another black mare, a brown mare, and old gray mare, a red cow, a brown horse, and four sows and pigs.

Other items of interest were carpenter's tools, a pair of plow irons, two saddles and saddle bags, a tobacco box, 25 pounds of tallow, 600? pounds of "flower", 60? gallons of rum, and cash.

ii. John Harness[8,10]. Born, circa 1725, in Stouchsburg, Lancaster Co., PA. Died, 28 Apr 1810, in Hardy Co., VA[11]. Tax Rolls: 1782, in Hampshire Co., VA. He married[8] Eunice Pettit[12], 1757.

From the testimony of George Yocum in the Draper Papers it is known that John Harness was wounded in 1756 by Indians during the French and Indian Wars at the Battle of the Trough. This battle was fought between pioneers of the South Branch Valley and the Shawnee Indians who were led by Chief Killbuck. All but three of the whites were annihilated. Further testimony by George Trumbo was that John Harness was shot in the hand at the time of the attack on Fort Blizzard, also known as the Harness Fort.

In Shenandoah Valley Pioneers and Their Descendants by Cartmell is the following account as related by Dr. Charles A. Turley detailing John's activity subsequent to an attack by Killbuck and his warriors in which Mrs. Brake and Mrs. Neff were carried away:

> The former was Tomahawked and scalped. The latter escaped and gave the alarm, and a body of men from "Buttermilk Fort" led by John Harness. The pursuit led to the battle at The Trough.

Captain John Harness served the Revolutionary War effort. A list of names on his company's rolls has survived showing he served for 56 days as the leader of his rangers receiving pay of 28 pounds. He also provided the cause with six hundred pounds of beef valued at seven pounds, ten shillings and in February of 1781, one hundred pounds of flour, and five casks.

Captain John Harness was an executor of the estate of Gaissbert Bogart whose will was dated February 14, 1776, and proved May 12, 1778.

The Hampshire County tax rolls of 1782, indicated that there were fourteen whites in the family of John Harness as well as two blacks.

The known children of John and Eunice Pettit Harness were:

Born, 26 Apr 1778. Died, 11 Jul 1858.

Jacob received his father's lease to lot 49 West, 249 acres, on December 23, 1780. Jacob was also heir to his father's slaves, farm tools, livestock, and real property aside from his mother's share which was to revert to him upon her death. The only exceptions were a slave given to Peter and cash to other children.

On August 10, 1784, Jacob purchased 202 acres from his brother, Leonard, on Looney's Creek in Hampshire County.

The children of Jacob and Eunice Pettit Harness were:

i. Mary Ann Harness. Born, 1 May 1790. Died, 28 Dec 1881. She married George Fisher. Born, 1 Aug 1788. Died, 21 Nov 1864.

Christened, 17 Nov 1728, Kingston, Ulster Co., NY. Died, after 1804, Knox Co., IN.

The testimony of George Yocum in the Draper Papers related that Michael Harness, Jr., was shot on the road when riding a horse from his father's place to Vanmeter's Fort which was located twelve miles north of present Moorefield. George Trumbo reported that Michael, Jr., was shot and scalped while drawing wood at home.

The appraisal of the estate of Michael Harness, Jr., on June 11, 1765, produced a lengthy list of personal property. Livestock included: one bald Eagle Horse, one black mare, black horse, one roane mare, one bay horse, one bay mare colt, one brown colt, one white horse, a dark brown mare and colt, 16 head of sheep, 9 cows and calves, 6 yearling calves, 14 head of cattle, and 14 head of hogs. Two slaves were listed: a lad named Will, and a lad named Roger, valued at 60 pounds each. Michael had a rifle gun, powder horn, and shot pouch. Among his tools were: an old beaver trap, a silver hatch, a hand screw, a brewing kettle, 2 pitch forks, a warming pan, 2 riddles (possibly used for separating grain from chaff), a set of carpenter's tools, iron wedges, a dung fork, scythes, hackles (used to comb hemp or flax), 2 chissels, hoes, a spreader, an old plow and plow irons, 4 bells, and other items.

Michael's home was furnished with: nine books, 2 old books and 2 bibles, 1 teapot, 2 cups and saucers, 2 cannisters, knives and forks, Sunday sort of pewter, 3 buckets and sundry sorts of wooden ware, 1 box iron and 1 flat iron, 4 iron pots and 2 trammels (a pot hook for a crane), iron tongs, 2 churns, 4 tubs, a pan, 1 table, 2 chairs, a grind stone, beds, bedding and bedstead, a bed and furniture, bedding furniture and bedstead, 3 chests, box and basket, four tablecloths and 4 glass bottles, 3 pairs of scissors, a weaver's loom and tackling, bed clothes and 5 hides, an old spinning wheel, and other indecipherable items.

Cash was listed as 73 pounds, 5 shillings and 5 pence by the appraisers: Felix Seymour, William Cunningham, and John Westfall, the latter of whom could not write. This appears to be an unusually large amount of property for a young man.

The widow, Catrina, was administratrix of the estate which was settled on February 12, 1782.

Michael's widow married Abraham Kuykendall, son of Jacob Kuykendall and Sarah Westfall.

The children of Michael and Catrina Westvall Harness were:

i. Michael Harness. Born, circa 1761. He married Catherine Pancake.
ii. Elizabeth Harness. She married Joseph Robinson, 1 Apr 1804.
iii. Sarah Harness. Born, circa 1763. She married Luke Decker.

On February 10, 1781, Elizabeth Yoakum received one certificate for her donation of 218 pounds of flour to the revolutionary cause. The tax rolls of 1782 indicated that Philip Yoakum was the owner of a slave.

The children of Philip Powell and Elizabeth Harness Yoakum were:

i. John Yoakum. Born, circa 1751, South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Augusta Co., VA. Died, circa 1842. He married Magdalena Neff.
ii. Jacob Yoakum. Born, 10 Dec 1753, South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Hampshire Co., VA. Died, 18 May 1838. He married the widow of Solomon Welton who died in 1778, Mary Magdalena Stump.

Michael See was the owner of a slave and the father of seven children at the time of the 1782 tax accessment in Hampshire County.

vii. Leonard Harness[8]. Born, 14 Apr 1734, in Stouchsburg, Lancaster Co., PA. Died, 1808, in Kaskaskia District, St. Clair Co., IL[17]. Tax rolls: 1782, in Hampshire Co., VA. Tax Rolls: 1784, in Hampshire Co., VA. He may have married Rachel Catherine Heath[8], circa 1758[8].

Leonard took part in Dunsmore's War in 1774, which was considered the first battle of the Revolution. He was in Stephen Ashby's company.

On April 13, 1778, Leonard Harness was leased two tracts by Adam Harness and Abraham and Catherine Kuykendall as recorded in Hampshire County Deed Book 4, pages 202-203. 202 acres of this property had been purchased by Michael Harness, Jr., from David Craig about 1762, before his death the following year.

Leonard Harness sold Daniel Richardson 140 acres on the South Branch on November 4, 1780. On August 10, 1784, he sold his brother. Jacob, 202 acres on Looney's Creek in Hampshire County, a portion of his 1778 lease.

On December 5, 1788, Leonard was granted 89 acres as recorded in Northern Neck Land Grants Book T, page 256. Page 246 of the same volume recorded a grant of 216 acres on the North Fork of Luney's Creek including the Widow Hawk's improvement.

Leonard settled his family in St. Clair County, presently Monroe County, Illinois. He served in the militia of Prairie DuPont, St. Clair County, Illinois, and obtained a militia land grant for this service which occurred some time between 1783 and 1790.

The tax rolls of 1784 indicated five children in the family. The children of Leonard and Rachel Catherine Heath Harness were.

i. Rebecca Harness. Born, circa 1760. Died, circa 1763. Killed by Indians.
ii. Catherine Harness. Born, circa 1766, South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Hampshire Co., VA. She married a cousin, George Yoakum, son of Philip Powell Yoakum and Elizabeth Harness, 3 Mar 1796.

The testimony of George Trumbo, in the Draper Papers, previously quoted. was that Adam was cutting hay at the time, and the Indians chased and caught him three times before killing him.

Michael Harness, Sr., was administrator of his son's estate. Michael Harness, Jr. and Sr. and Henry Lan???, posted 200 pounds bond at Hampshire Court on February 14, 1759, the same date as that posted for Jacob Harness. The signatures to this document are interesting in that they make it possible to compare the signatures of father and son, Michael, Senior's mark was ME, for Michael Ernest.

ix. Peter Harness[8]. Born, circa 1738, in Pennsylvania, or Virginia. Died, 21 Feb 1825, in Fayette Co., OH[20]. Tax Rolls: 1782, in Hampshire Co., VA; 6 whites, 1 black. He married[8] Susan Vause[8], circa 1767, in Hampshire Co., VA.

Peter leased 232 acres on the South Branch in Hampshire County, Virginia, from his brother-in-law and sister, Andrew and Margaret Harness Trumbo, on August 22, 1781. The 1782 tax rolls indicated that there were six whites in the household as well as one slave.

The children of Peter and Susan Vause Harness were:

ix. Michael Harness. Born, circa 1783. He married Nancy Spahr.
x. Jacob Harness. Born, 3 Apr 1785. Died, 6 Apr 1840. He married Christinia Smith.

Possibly two other children, William and Elizabeth Harness.

x. George Harness[21]. Born, 2 Jan 1742/3, in South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Augusta Co., VA[22]. Birth(2): 2 Jan 1739/0. Died, 7 Apr 1823, in Hardy Co., VA[23]. He married[8] Elizabeth Ann Yoakum[21], daughter of George Yoakum and Catherine Vanderpool, Augusta Co., VA. Born, 1743. Died, 2 Mar 1815.

George Harness owned lot 51 west on the South Branch. In 1777 George Harness was granted a tract in Hampshire County by S. Kuykendall and Adam Harness as recorded in Deed Book 4, pages 208-9.

George Harness provided five hundred pounds of beef to the armies of the Revolution for which he was owed six pounds, five shillings, as recorded in Public Service records.

At the time of the 1782 census, George was the owner of two blacks. There were six whites in the family at the time. By 1790 the tax rolls indicated there were six whites in the family, one dwelling and two other buildings.

On June 24, 1793, George was issued a warrant for 12,390 acres. The survey was made on October 15, 1795, of an enormous tract on the South Branch at the conjunction of North Mill Creek containing 11,000 acres. The property was on the line that divided Hardy and Pendleton Counties.

The children of George and Elizabeth Ann Yoakum were:

i. George Harness.
ii. Parmelia Harness. She married Abraham Carper.
iii. Elizabeth Harness. Born, circa 1770. Hampshire Co., VA. She married Jacob Hutton, before 1823, Hardy Co., VA.

She married[24] Samuel Hornback[8], son of Johannes Hornbeck and Orseltjen "Urselje" Westbroek in Augusta Co., VA.

This family has been treated in detail in the Hornback chapter.

xii. Jacob Harness[25]. Born, circa 1748, in South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Augusta Co., VA[26]. Died, circa 1836[26]. He married[8], first, Eunice Pettice[8], circa 1789. He married[8], second, Elizabeth Rohrabough[8], daughter of John Rohrabough, 14 Oct 1801, in Hardy Co., VA.

Jacob Harness, the second son of that name, may have adopted the name Jacob after the death of his brother in 1759, the family strongly wanting a child of that name. The only other possibility for a second Jacob in the Harness family would be that the Jacob Harness who died in 1759 and whose estate papers were signed by Michael Harness, Jr. and Sr., was not a son of Michael, Sr., but of some other relationship.

Jacob Harness was deeded 249 acres on South Branch by his father on December 23, 1780, as recorded in Hampshire County Deed Book 5, page 158. His brother, Leonard, deeded him 202 acres on Looney's Creek on August 10, 1784, recorded in Deed Book 6, page 144.

The children of Jacob and Eunice Pettice Harness were:

i. Mary Ann Harness. Born, 1 May 1790, Hardy Co., VA. Died, 28 Dec 1881. She married George Fisher.

The children of Jacob and Elizabeth Rohrabough Harness were:

v. Conrad Harness. Born, 27 Mar 1811, Hardy Co., VA. Died, 29 Mar 1898, Cooper Co., MO. He married Elizabeth Tucker, 9 Apr 1835.

xiii. Margaretha Katherine "Grate" Harness[27]. Born, 16 May 1749, in South Branch Valley of Potomac River, Hardy Co., VA. Died, 15 Oct 1827, in Wyoming, Bourbon Co., (Bath Co.), KY. She married[28] Andrew "Andy" Trumbo[29], son of H. Jacob and Mary Trumbo, 22 Apr 1768, in Augusta Co., VA. Marriage(2): 22 Apr 1769.

This family has been treated in detail in the Trumbo chapter.

Second Generation

2. Ludwig Ernst[2] Herner/Hoerner. Born in Unter Owisheim, Wurttemberg. Died, 1710, probably in Hudson River Valley, NY[30]. Immigration: 1710, at New York[31].

The homeland of the Herner family is believed to have been Unter Owisheim in the Kingdom of Wurttemberg. The surname was spelled variously as Hoerner, Horner, Herner, Herners, and etc. It became Anglicized as Harness. Ernst was Anglicized as Ernest.

Ludwig Ernst Herner, appeared on a list of persons who had received subsistence in the Hudson River settlements from their landing between the years 1710 and September of 1712. The Herner family was in debt to the British government for this aid. On July 1, 1710, Ludwig Ernst Herner was listed as head of a family with four persons over ten and one under. On August 4, 1710, he appeared again as head of the family. It would seem therefore that Ernst died between August 4th and October 4th of 1710 as Ludwig's young son, Johann Conrad Mattheus Horner, was named head of the family on the latter date.

The children of Ludwig Ernst Herner were:

i. Anna Margaretha Herner. Born, Unter-Owisheim, Wurttemberg. She married Johannes Keyser, son of Maria Keyser, 5 Sep 1710, in the West Camp Lutheran Church, (Hurley), NY[32].

Both Anna and Johannes were immigrants in 1710. Johannes volunteered as a soldier to invade French Canada. He pledged allegiance to his new homeland in 1715. The family removed to the Schoharie Valley by the fall of 1712. When the families were told they must pay for their land or leave, they resettled at Stone Arabia in present day Mohawk Valley, Montgomery County, New York. Johannes was a trustee of the Stone Arabia Lutheran Church. In 1763 he was a freeholder.

The children of Johannes and Anna Margareta Herner Keyser were:

i. Bernhard "Barend" Keyser. Born, circa 1712, New York. Died, 13 Nov 1716, New York.
ii. Anna Margaretha Keyser. Born, 13 Nov 1716, New York.
iii. Christina Keyser.
iv. Maria Keyser. She married Peter Nicolaus Sommer, 16 May 1744, Schoharie Valley, New Ansburg, NY.
v. infant Keyser.
vi. (Elisabetha) Barbara Keyser.
vii. Johann Michael Keyser. He married Dorothea Elisabetha Jung. viii. Elisabetha Keyser.
ix. Johann Georg Keyser.
x. Johannes Keyser. He married Anna Margaretha Crems, 6 Nov 1759. Stone Arabia, Albany Co., NY.

ii. Johann Conrad Mattheus[1] Herner. Born, circa 1695.

Fifteen year old Conrad Mattheus Herner was named head of the family of three persons over ten and one child under ten years of age on October 4, 1710.

The New York Council of 20 June 1710 ordered the following:

There haveing beene severall Proposalls made for the takeing many of the Palatine Children for a Terme of Yeares and there being many Orphans who are unable to take care of themselves to work, and many who by sickness are Rendered uncapable of doeing any service for some time and in that condition would be a great expence and there being noe Prospect of Settleing them this sumer by reason its soe much advanced His Excellency does appoint Doctor Staats & Mr Van Dam or either of them to take such Proposalls for Placing out the Orphans and other Children whose Parents have a numberous ffamily Entring into an Instrument in Writing to Cloath Victuall and use them well and to deliver them to the Government when called for.

Persuant to this order John Coenrt Mat. Horner, aged 15, an orphan, was bound to Enoch Ffreeland of New York on November 23, 1710.

Chapter XVII

THE HASTINGS FAMILY

The Hastings families originated in England. Thomas Hastings was the earliest known of that name in America appearing in New England in the year 1635. Members of the family were shipwrights. Thomas may have been the father of Henry Hastings who was a land-owner on the Delaware twelve miles above the site of Philadelphia. The name, Joshua Hastings, was found as early as September 12, 1682, when he served on a grand jury in Chester County, Pennsylvania, with his brother, John. He received 1,000 acres from William Penn on October 11, 1681, after his emigration from Swarford County of Oxon Yeom, England. He was of the Quaker faith. He died on March 7, 1724. in Philadelphia. He and his wife, Elizabeth, had four known children, but no male descendants are known to exist.

Some researchers believe that our Joshua Hastings was the son of John Hastings who wrote his will on April 1 1736. The will was proved the following January, 1736/7. His wife was named Sarah. Guardians of his three children, Joshua, John, and Elizabeth, were Samuel Hastings and James Parroch.

The following material also includes Edgerton families. The Edgerton family in America was also of the Quaker faith. The author of Meet the Edgertons, J. Howard Binns, was unable to trace American Edgertons to Europe although he found a number of Egerton families in England. He related "an old family tradition that our first known American Edgerton ancestor was the grandson or heir of English nobility who, on account of marrying a Quaker miss, so disgraced his family that he was thereupon disowned and disinherited by them."

We now continue with the ancestry of Sarah Hastings who married Jacob Page.

First Generation

1. Sarah[1] Hastings (Joshua[2], John[3]). Born in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs Co., NC.

Sarah married, first, Jacob Page, son of John Page , Jr. and Elizabeth Busby, Jan 1786, in Wayne Co., NC[1]. Born, before 1739, in Bertie Co., NC. Died, Oct 1789, in Wayne Co., NC[2]. Occupation: planter. She married, second, Mr. Hayes, Jan 1800 in Randolph Co., NC[7].

See the Page chapter for many details regarding Sarah and Jacob Page. The only child of Jacob and Sarah Hastings Page was:

i. Mary Page. Born, 5 Nov 1787, in Randolph Co., NC[3]. Died, 6 Oct 1844, in Des Moines Co., IA[4]. Buried in Elliott Cem., Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA[5]. She married Samuel E. Elliott, 10 Sep 1805, in Randolph Co., NC[6]. This family is discussed in the Elliott chapter.

Second Generation

2. Joshua[2] Hastings (John[3]). Born, 17 Feb 1734/5, in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia[8]. Died, 2 Jun 1816, in West Grove, Wayne Co., IN[8]. Buried in Friends Cem., West Grove, Wayne Co., IN. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC.

3. Joshua married first, Ann[2] Edgerton (Thomas[3]), 13 May 1758, in Swedes' Church, Philadelphia, PA[8]. Born, 18 Mar 1738/9, in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia[8]. Died, 31 Jul 1789, in Wayne Co., NC. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC. Joshua married, second, Ann Pearson, daughter of Peter Pearson and Ann Morgan, 16 Jun 1790, at Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Wayne Co., NC[16]. Died, 21 Jan 1851[17].

On May 13, 1758, Joshua Hastings married Ann Edgerton in Old Swede's Church, at Wicaco near Philadelphia. This large edifice, which had replaced an earlier structure of logs, was also known as Gloria Dei Church. It was constructed at a cost of 400 pounds by a Swedish Colony which came to the Delaware River in 1636. The church was begun on May 28, 1698 and was dedicated on July 2, 1700. The edifice built in 1700 was sold to a brewer, and another church was built at Wicaco.

The Philadelphia Monthly Meeting, where Ann's parents had transferred in 1749 and Joshua himself was a member, recorded that Joshua and Ann were condemned for marrying contrary to discipline. Despite this censure the couple remained members of the congregation, and on September 24, 1779, they and their seven children were granted a certificate of transfer to Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting in Dobbs County, North Carolina. This area had become Wayne County when it was formed that same year from Dobbs County.

GLORIA DEI (OLD SWEDES) PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA
Built before 1700

The men's records of Great Contentnea prior to 1814 were lost, but the women's records of Contentnea Monthly Meeting recorded the receipt of the transfer on December 1, 1779 of Ann Hastings and her four daughters. This gap in dates informs us that nearly three months had elapsed in making the journey from Pennsylvania to North Carolina.

Easter, daughter of Joshua and Ann, was dismissed for marrying out of unity in 1783 as was their daughter, Sarah, who married Jacob Page in 1786. Ann's death was recorded as having occurred on July 31, 1789. Joshua was married a second time to Ann Pearson on June 16, 1790, at Great Contentnea Meeting House. The following were the vows exchanged:

> And the said Joshua Hastings taking the said Ann Pearson by the hand did declare as follows "I take this my friend Ann Pearson to be my wife promising through Divine assistance to be unto her a true and loving husband until death separate us." And then the said Ann Pearson having John Hastings by the hand did declare in the like manner. "I take this my friend Joshua Hastings to be my husband promising through Divine assistance to be unto him a true and loving wife until death separate us "

Attending this marriage were Joshua and Ann's children: Joshua Hastings, Jur., William Hastings, Joseph Hastings, Sarah Page, and Esther (Easter) Saint. Daughters Mary and Ann Hastings did not sign the marriage certificate.

Back Creek Monthly Meeting in Randolph County, to the west of Wayne County in central North Carolina, recorded the transfer of Joshua and his second wife, Ann, from Contentnea by a certificate dated November 11, 1797. The date of receival was December 30, 1797. Ann and her daughter, Sarah Hastings Page, and granddaughter, Mary, were received on the same day. Her son, William, and daughter-in-law, Sarah Evans, were other members of this congregation. Her son, Joseph, was dismissed for marrying out of unity in 1804 as were her daughter, Mary Hastings Page Hayes, and granddaughter, Mary Page Elliott, who married in 1805.

On March 30, 1797/8, as recorded in Wayne County, North Carolina Deed Book 5E, page 548, Joshua and Ann Hastings and Beanoni Pearson, jointly sold 100 acres fomerly granted to Benjamin Sharred, deceased, to Joel Bryan.

On July 29, 1815, the Hastings family again received certificates of transfer, this time to White Water Monthly Meeting in Wayne County, Indiana. Joshua lived less than a year after this journey was undertaken, dying on June 21, 1816.

Joshua served as executor for James Musgrave.

The children of Joshua and Ann Edgerton Hastings were:

ii. Easter Hastings. Born in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Died, circa 1785, in Wayne Co., NC. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC. She married Richard Cox[9], son of Thomas Cox and Phoebe Fellows, 14 Oct 1780, at Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC.

iii. Ann Hastings. Born in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Resided: 24 Sep 1779. near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC[10].

iv. Joshua Hastings. Born in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Resided, 27 Jul 1815, in White Water, Wayne Co., In. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC[11].

v. William Hastings. Born, 31 Jan 1773, in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Died, 30 Aug 1845, in White Water, Wayne Co., In. Burial: 1845, in West Grove Cem., Wayne Co., IN. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meetomg, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC[12]. He married Sarah Evans, 9 Feb 1798, in Stokes Co., NC.

vi. Mary Hastings. Born in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC. She married John Hinshaw, son of Thomas Hinshaw and Rebecca Marshall, 18 Feb 1808, in Randolph Co., NC[13].

vii. Joseph Hastings. Born, before 1779, in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. Resided: 24 Sep 1779, near Great Contentnea Monthly Meeting, Dobbs County, (Wayne Co.), NC[14]. He married Elizabeth Harvey, daughter of Michael Harvey, 26 Apr 1807, in Randolph Co., NC[15].

Third Generation

4. John[3] Hastings. Born, circa 1700, in Dublin, Ireland. Died, 23 Aug 1763, in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co., PA[18].

Joshua married Sarah[3] Powell, 5 Aug 1734, in Christ Church, Philadelphia, PA.

Joshua and Sarah Powell Hastings had a son:

2 i. Joshua[2] Hastings.

Christ Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

5. Thomas[3] Edgerton. Born, before 1710, in County Wexford, Ireland. Died, 1768, in Haddonfield, Gloucester Co., NJ[19].

Thomas married, first, Sarah Stephens[20], daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Stephens, 20 Oct 1733, in Newton, Gloucester Co., NJ[21]. Born, 1708. Died, before 1738. in Newton Twp., Gloucester Co., NJ[22]. Immigration: circa 1730, in Gloucester Co., NJ, from Ireland.

Thomas married second, Mrs. Esther[3] Bate, 1738, in Haddonfield, Gloucester Co., NJ[25]. Died, 19 Dec 1760, in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co., PA[26].

Thomas Edgerton of Colledine, Ireland, applied to the Haddonfield, New Jersey, Monthly Meeting of Friends to marry Sarah Stephens in 1733. Before the marriage could take place a Certificate of Transfer was required from the Colledine Meeting in Wexford County, Ireland. The marriage took place on 10-20-1733, December 20, 1733.

Sarah Stephens Edgerton was a cousin of Grace Varman who married Joseph Edgerton of Newton, Gloucester County, New Jersey, in Leacock Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in 1742. Joseph Edgerton was probably a younger brother of Thomas. Another probable brother was William Edgerton who signed Thomas' marriage certificate. Thomas Edgerton, Jr., whose mother, Sarah Stephens Edgerton had died before 1738, was called cousin, meaning nephew, in the wills of his "Stephens uncles."

The witnesses to the marriage of Thomas Edgerton and Sarah Stephens were Elizabeth and Robert Stephens, who signed in the usual place for the bride's parents, Katherine Stephens, James Stephens, Samuel Stephens, and Mary Stephens as well as William Edgerton were other witnesses.

Thomas married his second wife, Mrs. Esther Bates, in 1738. She was a widow with children, however, Ann Edgerton could not have been one of these children as she was born after their marriage. There is no proof that Ann Edgerton was the daughter of Thomas Edgerton; however, her second daughter was named, Easter Hastings, probably for her mother, Esther Bate. The author of Meet the Edgertons reported that Thomas Edgerton and Esther Bate had a daughter named Hannah. She is not known to have married, but it seems probable that Hannah was the Ann who married Joshua Hastings.

Thomas and Esther Edgerton received a transfer from Haddonfield Monthly Meeting to Philadelphia Monthly Meeting on June 30, 1749. Thomas was dismissed from the Philadelphia Monthly Meeting on February 28, 1759/60.

Thomas became a tenant in the "upper house and lot" of the widow, Elizabeth Estaugh, as known from her will dated November 30, 1761. Elizabeth and John Estaugh had witnessed the first marriage of Thomas Edgerton. Thomas died in Haddonfield in 1768.

Thomas and Sarah Stephens Edgerton had a son:

i. Thomas[2] Edgerton. Born, circa 1735, in Haddonfield, Gloucester Co., NJ[23]. Died, 24 Apr 1794, in Wayne Co., NC[24]. He married, first, Elizabeth Saint, 27 Apr 1759, in Haddonfield, Gloucester Co., NJ. He married, second, Sarah Cox, daughter of Thomas Cox and Phoebe Fellows, 21 May 1778, in Dobbs Co., NC, home Richard Cox, on Neuse River[23].

Thomas and Elizabeth Saint Edgerton were censured for marrying out of unity. They wrote the following apology to the Haddonfield Monthly Meeting in New Jersey:

> To ye monthly Meeting beld at Haddonfield ye 10tb of ye 11tb mo, 1760, Loving frds We Ye Subscribers for want of Due regard to ye rules Established amongst frds bave gone out in our marriage contrary thereto & ye present Trouble of mind at our Disunited State Engages us to offer this as our Sincere acknowledgement Earnestly Desiring to be received into unity again.
>
> Elizabetb Edgerton

Thomas and Elizabeth lived in Haddonfield until her death in 1775. They had five children born there. Thomas was transferred on September 8, 1777, to Contentnea Monthly Meeting, North Carolina.

At that location Thomas married Sarah Cox on May 21, 1778. An additional five children were born to Thomas and his second wife. He died in Wayne County on April 24, 1794.

The children of Thomas and Mrs. Esther Bate Edgerton were:

3 ii. Hannah (Ann?) Edgerton.
iii. William Edgerton. Died, before 1800. He married Tabitha Henston/Heuson, 22 Jun 1775, in Haddonfield Monthly Meeting, Gloucester Co., NJ.

Chapter XVIII

THE HORNBACK FAMILY

The Centraal Bureau Voor Genealogie of the Netherlands has searched its collections and believes that Joos van Hoornbeecke and his wife, Sara Warnaar, who were married in 1635 in Amsterdam, were the parents of Warnaar van Hoornbeeck, our earliest ancestor in the New World. Although no baptism was recorded for Warnaar in the Amsterdam parish, it would appear that Joos and Sarah gave the very rare name of Warnaar to their son in honor of Sarah's father, Warnaar. The family of Joos van Hoornbeecke apparently left Amsterdam before the birth of Warnaar and after the birth of their second child, Jacob, in 1637/8.

The Hoornbeeck family first appeared in America in present day New York State then known as New Netherland. In 1609 Henry Hudson explored one hundred fifty miles up the Hudson River near the present site of Albany. In the year 1614 the Dutch East India Company established a trading post at Albany and produced a map of the area in which the word, Esopus, appeared in an area on the east side of the Hudson at about the latitude of present Catskill, about halfway between present Kingston and Albany. The area was inhabited by the Waroneck Indian tribe.

The earliest permanent settlement by the Dutch in America was sponsored by the Dutch West India Company at New Orange, present day Albany, established in 1624 by eighteen families as a fur trading post. In 1626 Peter Minuit purchased Manhattan Island and set up a fort at the lower end of the island, the settlement being known as New Amsterdam. In 1629 the Patroon Kilian van Rensselaer developed an estate near present Albany, leasing the land to colonists and controlling the residents like a feudal lord. The residents had to use his mills, sell their goods to him, and buy hunting and fishing licenses from him. During these early years peace with the Indians was very uneasy. The first destructive Indian War was in 1644/45. There being no fort for protection, inhabitants fled to New Orange for security. By 1652 sixty or seventy settlers, many having come from Rensselaerwyck, inhabited the Esopus Valley area where they could own independent farms called bouweries. The village that was established at Esopus was called Wiltwyck.

In September of 1655 settlers in Wyltwyck and other small outlying settlements again were attacked by Indians. They abandoned their crops and fled to the fort at New Amsterdam. Because of continued Indian activity, in 1658 Wyltwyck settlers built their own stockade with a garrison of fifty men for its defense. On September 1, 1659, still another war began with the Indians burning houses, barns, cornstacks, and killing farm animals and settlers as well as taking prisoners. The terrified Esopus settlers were under siege in their new fort for three weeks. A peace treaty was concluded in the spring of 1660 by Governor Stuyvesant who promised presents to the Indians. On June 7, 1663, after two years of peace during which the town of New Dorp was established, the treaty was broken. The attack was provoked by the failure of Governor Stuyvesant to provide the Indians the promised presents. There was severe property damage and a heavy loss of life in this attack. Captives, nearly all women and children, were taken and held at the Indian fort located on Indian Hill on what became the homestead property of John C. Hoornbeek. New Dorp was completely destroyed. Governor Stuyvesant ordered that no one was to leave the stockade without military escort, an order violated by many residents including Waarnar van Hoornbeeck. A new peace treaty was concluded on May 15, 1664, after the return of the captives.

A few months later on September 8, 1664, the English seized New Amsterdam and took possession of the entire area renaming New Amsterdam, New York; Wiltwyck, Kingston; New Orange, Albany; and New Dorp, Hurley. Hurley and Wawarsing, like other "towns" in New York, were more like townships and included several villages and outlying farms. Adjoining Hurley were Marbletown and Rochester, other "towns" in Ulster County, New York. References to Rochester in Kingston marriage and birth records referred to the "town" of Rochester in Ulster County.

Despite the political turmoil and periodic Indian troubles, in times of peace the settlers of Esopus were a good-natured and merry people. Due to their habits of industry and thrift, food was plentiful from crops of grain, flax, potatoes, onions, squash, cabbage, apples, pumpkin, and nuts. Hard cider, beer, brandy, cattle, sheep, hogs, and wild game of turkey, deer, and bear were all available. Thatched roofed cottages were snug, and stone houses later replaced the original dwellings. Every man had his pipe and tobacco. The Dutch made Christmas a merry celebration in contrast to the New England Puritans who failed to observe the day. New Year was celebrated with a parade and feasting.

Religious services, christenings and marriages, were held and/or recorded at the Old Dutch Church at Wiltwyck (Kingston) beginning in 1660. These records were excellent and of great help in establishing genealogical lines, particularly because the Dutch wives did not change surnames at the time of their marriages. Another aid to researchers was that sponsors for christenings were recorded. Counteracting these benefits was the use of Patronymics, a naming system which applied the father's given name as a surname to the son or daughter's given name. There was no continuous surname or family name as the surname changed in each generation. For example, Johannes, son of Jacobus, would become Johannes Jacobsen. Dutch names often were preceded by van or de meaning from or of. This syllable was not an actual part of the name but was employed to establish rights in relation to property.

We will now trace the descendants of the earliest member of the Hornback family. Joos van Hoornbeek and of his probable son, Warnaar van Hoornbeeck, and only Warnaar's sons, Johannes and Jacobus who removed from New York to Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, and Illinois. As successive generations appeared in America the name was spelled variously as Hornbeck and Hornback. The descendants of Margaret "Peggy" Hornback who married Asa Canterbury were detailed in the Canterbury chapters, but have been omitted here. For those who are primarily interested in the ancestry of Margaret Hornback Canterbury, her father was Abraham Hornback, #16; grandfather, Simon Hornback, #14; great-grandfather, Jacobus Hornback, #7; her great-great-grandfather, Warnaar van Hoornbeeck, #2; and her probable great-great-great grandfather, (Joos van Hoornbeeke), #1. The Alkire, Trumbo, and Harness and Dieffenbach families related to the Hornbacks, have been treated in separate chapters, but because of family intermarriage some members of these families will be found in this chapter as well.

Special thanks must be given to Mrs. Shirley Hornbeck, author of Hornbeck Hunting (the book) and Descendants of Warnaar Hornbeck Born C1645. Thanks also to Mrs. Ralph H. Sayre, co-author and niece of Duffy C. Hornbeck, Sr., of Warnaar Hornbeck Descendants, 1977, without whose work my own would have been much more difficult if not impossible.

First Generation

1. (Joos[1] van Hoornbeeke). Born, circa 1604, in Gent (Flanders).

Joos married Sara Warnaar, 21 Jan 1634/5, in Sloterdijk, now Amsterdam, The Netherlands. Marriage Banns, 5 Jan 1634/5. Born, circa 1617, in Stoick, The Netherlands.

The children of Joos van Hoornbeeke and Sara Warnaar were:

i. Francois van[2] Hoornbeeke. Christened, 16 Dec 1635, in Amsterdam, The Netherlands.
ii. Jacob van Hoornbeeke. Christened, 25 Jan 1636/7, in Amsterdam, The Netherlands.
2 iii. Warnaar van Hoornbeeck. No proof exists that Warnaar was a child of Joos.

Second Generation

2. Warnaar van Hoornbeeck (Joos[1])[1]. Born, circa 1645, in (The Netherlands). Died, circa 1715, Rochester, Ulster Co., NY. Occupation: farmer, wagonmaker.

Warnaar married, first, Anneken de Hooges[2], daughter of Anthony de Hooges and Eva Albertse "Effje" Bratt, circa 1669, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY. Born, circa 1650, in Albany, Albany Co., NY. Died, before 1692, in Wawarsing, Ulster Co., NY. Warnaar married, second, Margreit "Grietje" Tyssen (Dent Kruis)[15], circa 1692, in New York[16]. Born, circa 1671. Died, after 1708, in Rochester, Ulster Co., NY.

From at least November of 1660 Warnaar was an employee of Jacob Jansen Stoutenburg who resided in the Esopus. On October 23, 1663, Warnaar was a farm hand in the employ of the widow of Jacob Jansen Stol, Geertrude Andriessen Bratt, a daughter of Andries Bratt. The court on that date found Warnaar guilty of violating an ordinance against leaving the stockade. Warnaar's defense was that he had been ordered by his employer to drive a wagon into the fields. When charged with the violation, she said she had requested a convoy which had been denied her, and that it was necessary that the crops be harvested to avoid rain damage. She was fined for two violations of the ordinance and for carrying a gun into the field. She was also fined for carrying fodder for her horses on a Sunday.

New York Historical Manuscripts: Dutch, Kingston Papers, Volumes I and II, provided us with a translation of the Kingston Secretary's Papers and Court Records covering the years 1664 to 1675. Warnaar Hornbeeck, spelled various ways, appeared in these records on November 14, 1662, when he was the plaintiff vx. Jacob Jansen Stoutenburg for back payment of two years of wages.

The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, Volume LXVIII, page 6, indicated that the first wife of Warner Hornbeek was Anna de Hooges and that the couple were married about 1650, probably at Wiltwyck or present day Kingston. Anna was the daughter of Anthony de Hooges and Eva Albertse Bratt who were married in October of 1647 at Albany, New York. Anthony was business manager for the colony of Rensselaerswyck from 1644 until 1648. From then until his death he was secretary of the colony. After the death of her husband which occurred about October 11, 1655, Eva remarried Roelof Swartwout on October 11, 1657. Anna de Hooges had three sisters: Maria, who married first Hendrick Bries and second Jacob Lookerman; Catrina, who married Harmanus Rutgers; and Eleanora. She also had a brother Johannes who married Margarita Post. Some of these names may be found as witnesses to the baptisms of Warnaar's children.

The parents of Warnaar van Hoornbeek are believed by the Centraal Bureau Vppr Genealogies in the Netherlands to have been Joos van Hoornbeeke and his wife, Sara Warnaar. There is no birth or other record known at this time to prove this hypothesus, but the naming of the children of Warnaar would seem to confirm this. Warnaar and Anna named their first two probable children, Antoni and Eva, apparently to honor Anna's parents. The fourth and fifth children were named Sara and Joost, to honor the parents of Warnaar.

Warnaar and Anna made their home in the Esopus Colony and in Hurley after it was settled in 1662. Hurley was southwest of Wyltwyck, the latter renamed Kingtown/Kingston by the English in 1664. Hurley was nearly destroyed by Indians in 1663, and by 1700 still only housed about thirty families. On September 9, 1665, W. Hoorenbeeck purchased for 32 guilders a new gray hat at the estate sale of Mr. Gysbert van Imbrock, surgeon of Wildwyck. Warnaar and Anna sold a tract of "meadow ground," lot 14 in Hurley, on March 30, 1686, to Louis Dubois. Their neighbors had been Mathys Blanshan and Roelof Swartwout, the latter's wife being Warnaar's mother-in-law.

While living in Hurley, the Kingston Court Records, cited above, had numerous references to Warnaar in which he was plaintiff or defendent in request for payment. On November 22, 1666, Warnaer received an order for two new wagons, establishing his occupation. This same reference showed the mark of Warnaar as ⊕, which he also employed on the 1686 deed mentioned above. Distinctive marks were usual for those who could not write. Another reference was to a dispute between Warnaer and Reynier Van Coelen in which Warnaar complained that Van Coelen had called him a "rascal and a thief." Perhaps the most interesting reference, in that it reveals condition of the time, was as follows:

> On this January 3, 1671/2, Roelof Swardtwoudt informs the hon. court that he, Warnaer Hoorenheecq, Johannes De Hoogens and Daniel Pruine, while returning from Marhleton, hetween Hurly and Marhletown, found a fire on a wood path and near it four savages, husy cooking something, and judging from their language they were southern savages, which they themselves acknowledged. They asked Swardtwoudt and the whole company whence they came, and Johannes De Hoogens answered, "from Waewaersink," and the aforesaid savages said they also intended to go to Waewaersink, and after much talk they said to the savages, "Go with us to the Dutch houses," whereupon the savages said, "We shall follow yon." And for the purpose of making the savages follow them, they took one of their rifles. And they, seeing that the savages did not follow them, returned right away to the spot and found the savages gone, and they could see hy the hurning of the fire that the savages had departed shortly after them, and maintain that the savages are planning mischief, and therfore informed the hon. court....

A list of Hurley soldiers which included Warenaar Hoorenbeek, together with soldiers from Marbletown were members of a company of militia formed on April 4, 1670, and drilled under Captain Pawling the following day as recorded in the History of Ulster County, New York, 1880. The same source in describing a land dispute between Hurley, Kingston, and Marbletown mentioned a survey "beginning near the house of old Joost, by the high road at Marbletown and Hurley." On September 1, 1680, the same source, recorded that all male inhabitants of Ulster were called to take an oath of allegiance to the crown. Warner Hornebeak was on a list of those who did not appear.

In 1685, Warnaar removed to Wawarsing southwest of Hurley. A description of the property transaction made by Warnaar came from the History of Ulster County:

> Feh. 11, 1685, Peter Jacohsen of Alhany, let hy attorney to Warrenaer Hoornheck, of Hurley, a tract of 30 morgans land at Wawarsink for ten years, to fence and huild a house on, 30 hy 24, with thatched roof, two rooms, one window in each, and a chimney in the middle; also a harn, 28 hy 40, with 3 linters, and a rent of 4 hushels of winter wheat.

Anna's death probably occurred between 1690 and 1692, sometime after the birth of their ninth child, Annetjen. Warnaar's second marriage to "Grietje" (Meg or Peggy) Tyssen Dent Kruis occurred before the birth of Mathys who was baptized on November 14, 1693. In the baptismal records of their children she was called variously: Grietje Tysse, Grietje Tyssen, Grietje Thysse, and once as Grietje Dent Kruis. The parentage of Grietje has not been proved. Eight additional children were the fruits of this second marriage, all, with the probable exception of Mathys, born at Rochester in Ulster County.

On November 7, 1692 Warnaer Hoornbeeck signed a pledge to pay four shipples of wheat annually for the maintenance of the Dutch Reformed Minister at Kingston.

When his ten year lease at Wawarsing expired, Warnaar removed with his family to Rochester where Tobias was born in 1695 as is known from the marriage record of Tobias. Warnaar died in 1715 according to Warnaar Hornbeck Descendants by Mrs. Ralph H. Sayre and Duffy C. Hornbeck, Sr.

Of Warnaar's children, two half brothers, Johannes and Jacobus, left New York to settle in what is now Hardy County, West Virginia. Members from two of Warnaar's daughters' families also made this move, Cornelius and Eva Bogart and Jacob and Rachel Decker. Those who left New York settled in an area called Fort Buttermilk or Fort Holland where Moorefield, West Virginia, is now located, which George Washington in 1748 called "Holland" because the residents were speaking Dutch.

On December 17, 1717, Johannes appeared on a quit rent list in Rochester.

A Johannes helped found the Old Dutch Church of Wawarsing in 1742, but was likely not our Johannes. On December 31st of that year the name of John Hornback and forty other inhabitants appeared on a petition presented to the Orange County, Virginia Court requesting a road from the Capon Bridge to the South Branch Road at Romney. When completed this road ended near Moorefield on the South Branch. Orange County was a parent county of Augusta County, Augusta being the parent of Hampshire County.

A Johannes Hornbeck was a member of the Ulster County, New York, Foot Militia as early as 1715. In 1717 he volunteered in Queen Ann's War to join an expedition to Canada. He was mustered out of service in 1758 as a Lieutenant Colonel. If this was the same Johannes, there is an apparent conflict in the dates he was on the South Branch in Virginia and in Ulster County, New York. It is possible the New York records were for a different John, or that he traveled between these two locations.

In 1766 Johannes' estate records may be found in envelope 7 in Romney, Hampshire County, West Virginia. His will, written in 1766, was as follows:

> IN THE NAME OF GOD AMEN, I, John Hornbeck of Hampshire County, Colony of Virginia, farmer, being sick and weak of body but of perfect mind and memory thanks be given unto God. therefore calling unto mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for man once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament. >
> In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this fourth day of August one thousand seven hundred and sixty six.

The will was signed by a mark and was witnessed by William Cunningham, Michael Hornbeck. and John Tuckwell and proved on March 8, 1768, by Daniel Hornbeck, Isaac Hornbeck, and Samuel Hornbeck. Henry Shipler and William Cunningham were securities for the executors.

The children of Johannes Hoornbeck and Orseltjen Westbroek were:

Abraham Hornback is believed to have been killed at the fall of Fort Seybert. The fort also was known as the Dyer Settlement and Blizzard Fort. It was erected in 1756 and was located on the west side of the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River on an elevation about thirty-five miles from the mouth of the South Fork. It consisted of a two story block house surrounded by a circular stockade. The fort was surrendered after its inhabitants were assured by the treacherous Indians that those within would be spared. Seventeen persons were massacred and few escaped. The remainder of those who had sought refuge in the fort were carried into captivity from which some later escaped.

Abraham Hornback's widow, Hannah, was administratrix of his estate and on December 13, 1757, requested that an inventory of the estate be made. Hannah Hornbeck, James Simpson, and John Westfall were sureties, posting a bond to the Hampshire Court of two hundred pounds.

The appraisal of the personal effects of Abram Hornback was made on February 13, 1758, by Abel Randall and Moses Hutton.

The household items were: a table and tubs, a bed and bed "cloaths", a pot and pan, a chest, an old wheel, some pewter, a churn, a testament, and a sifter.

Farm animals were: two mares and "coults", five hogs, two "coults", three cows, a cow and calf, a sow and pigs, a hog, a mare, and three sows and pigs.

Total value was 27 pounds, 14 shillings, and 3 pence.

ix. Isaac Hornback. Twin of Abraham. Baptized, 17 Sep 1732, Rochester and recorded in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[29]. Died, 23 Feb 1799, in Floyd's Ford, Little Miami, Northwest Territory[38]. He married Elizabeth, surname unknown.

On February 14, 1776, Isaac Hornbeck was witness to the will of Gaisbert Bogart, probably the son of Isaac's aunt, Eva Hornbeck, daughter of Warnaar Van Hornbeek, who married Cornelis Bogard. Isaac was appraiser of the estate of Thomas Schoonover on August 11, 1778.

On February 10, 1781, Isaac Hornback was granted one certificate for the donation of 706 pounds of flour and 3 casks to the Revolutionary cause.

On August 6, 1785, Isaac Hornbeck sold Edward Williams 235 acres on the South Branch of the Potomac. On the 20th of September he and his wife, Elizabeth, sold Edward Williams an additional 222 acres on the South Branch.

In the years 1793 and 1794 Isaac first paid tax on 100 acres on Green Creek in Bourbon County, Kentucky.

x. Eleanor "Lena" Hornback. Baptized, 10 Feb 1733/4, Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[29]. She married Cornelius Cutteract.

The children of Thobyas Hornbeck and Elizabeth Pietersze Louw were:

Jacobus married Margrita Helm, daughter of Peter Helm and Anna Engel Jung[49]. Marriage Banns, 16 Sep 1733, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[8]. Born, circa 1713, in Dutchess Co., NY[46].

Jacobus Hornback was born in Rochester, Ulster County, New York. His parents were Warnaar Hoornbeeck and Grietje Tyssen. His baptism was recorded in Kingston with Bernardus Swartwoud and Rachel Schepmoes were his sponsors. His name is properly translated as James although it seems he was often called Jacob.

On September 16, 1733 his marriage bonds were registered in Kingston. His prospective wife was Margrita Helm, born in Dutchess County. The Palatine Families of New York, 1710, Volume I, pages 151-152, provided the following information about Margrieta's family:

Margrita's father was Peter Helm the son of John Helm. He was born in Winnweiler in the Palatine located 17 kilometers northeast of Kaiserslautern and at Alsenborn, 12 kilometers northeast of Kaiserslautern.

A Peter Helm was a miller when he sponsored another 1709 emigrant, Georg Riedt[2], at Otterberg in 1682. Before 1694 Peter married Anna Engel Jung. In 1704 Peter was called a resin-burner at the smelter pool. He was a shepherd at Horingen in 1706 as recorded in the Winnweiler church book.

[2] Probably the Hans Georg Riedt who married Anna Catharina Bern. See #5 in the Dieffenbach chapter.

The introduction to the Dieffenbach chapter contains a brief account of the history of the Palatine prior to 1709 and the causes of the great emigration which began in 1709. In 1709 Peter Helm, laborer, was on the second passenger list (Rotterdam Lists) from Rotterdam to England with his wife and six children aged 15, 11, 9, 6, 4, and 3 months.

The Hunter Lists, so named from records by Governor Hunter of New York, provided a record of many of the new immigrants. Peter Helm and his family appeared on these list as follows:

August 4, 1710: two persons over ten years and two persons under ten.
October 4, 1710: three persons over ten and one under ten.
December 31, 1710: another person under ten was added.
June 24, 1711: four persons over ten and one under ten.
March 25, 1712: two persons over ten and one under ten June 24, 1712: two persons over ten and two persons under ten.

Peter Helm was a witness to baptisms at Kingston on August 23, 1724, April 27, 1729, and March 25, 1733.

The children of Peter and Anna Engel Jung Helm were:

i Leonhardt Helm. Born, circa 1694, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland (Germany). Passenger list, 1709, Rotterdam to England.

ii. Simon Helm. Born, circa 1699, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland. Passenger list, 1709, Rotterdam to England. Resided: Hurley, Ulster County, NY. He married Johanna Schaefer.

On June 2, 1711, at age twelve, he was apprenticed to John Rutsen of Kingston. In 1738 he was in the foot militia of Hurley in Ulster County. The baptisms of eleven of his children were recorded in the Kingston church books.

iii. Peter Helm, Jr. Born, circa 1700, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland. Passenger list, 1709, Rotterdam to England. He married, first, Elisabeth Schinckel, 5 Nov, 1725, in Old Dutch Church, Kingston, NY. He may have married, second, Maria Rous.

The records of the town of Rochester in Ulster County show that on September 10, 1767, Peter Helm was paid 16 shillings, 4 pence for entertaining the assessors.

iv. Michael Helm. Born, circa 1703, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland. Passenger list, 1709, Holland to England. Resided, 1728, in Wawarsing. He married Johanna Louw, 28 Jun 1728, Old Dutch Church, Kingston, NY; Marriage Banns: 9 Jun 1728.

v. female Helm. Born, 21 May 1704, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland. She married Hans Heinrich Hager.

vi. male Helm. Born, 4 Dec 1706, in Winnweiler, Hoogduytsland. He married, first, Velten Weber. He married, second, Anna Catherina Kuhn.

vii. Jacob Helm. Christened, 5 May 1709, in Alsenborn, Palatine. Resided, in Hurley, Ulster Co., NY. He married Margriet Schmidt, 14 Oct 1748, in Old Dutch Church, Kingston, Ulster Co., NY

7 viii. Margaretha Helm. Born, circa 1713, in Dutchess County. She married Jacobus Hornback, 1733. Marriage Banns, 16 Sep 1733, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY.

Both Margaretha Helm and Jacobus Hornback were residents of Rochester at the time their intention to marry was published. The baptisms of three of their children were recorded in Kingston including that of Simon Hornback. The baptismal records, which named the mother and father of the child, confirmed that the marriage did occur. A total of five of their children are known.

As a young man Jacobus performed military service in the Foot Company of the Militia of Rochester, Ulster County, New York. In 1738 he served under the command of Captain Cornelius Hornbeck who was his cousin, son of Lodewyck Hornbeck.

In 1745 Jacobus and his brothers contributed labor for the construction of the Wawarsing Dutch Reformed Church.

Jacobus' name appeared on a June 3, 1740, list of voters in the election of trustees for Rochester. On May 19, 1751, Henry Beekman, one of the first trustees of Rochester, wrote a letter to, "Mr. Jacob Hornbeck, in the behalf of the Trustees of Rochester." This letter dealt with a dispute for settling the boundaries between Rochester and Marble Townships. Mr. Beekman made the following suggestion:

> It would not be amiss if a good hand as Jacob Hornbeck should take a review and Remark the General Course thereof, & what hills turn therefrom Eastward. He should have two or three Good Indians and two or three whites along with him to see whether the Hills do go so far South as to meet the North west line from the Sand Bergh....I desire Mr. Jacob Hornbeck will write out & send me the true courses as run along the sides of the Blue Hills.

It would appear that Jacobus was an expert surveyor and perhaps this occupation had taken him into the area west of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

At any rate, by the year 1757 Jacobus Hornbeck had moved west as determined by the purchases which he and his son, Simon, made at an estate sale in Augusta County, Virginia. The testimony of George Yocum in the Draper Papers was that the Hornbacks lived on flat land at the conjunction of the South Fork and the South Branch of the Potomac in present Hardy County, West Virginia, near Moorefield. Their home was called Buttermilk Station or "Holland" because most of the residents were low Dutch.

In Bourbon County, Kentucky, in the year, 1788, a Jacob Hornback signed a petition together with Simon and Simon's sons, John and Abraham Hornback. It is possible that this was actually Jacobus with his son and grandsons. This Jacob could not have been his grandson, Jacob, as he was only fourteen years of age at that time.

The children of Jacobus Hoornbeek and Margrita Helm were:

14 i. Simon[4] Hornback.

ii. Margrita Hornbeck. Born, in Rochester, Ulster Co., NY. Christened: 13 Feb 1736/7, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[50]. She married John Artman circa 1762.

iii. Anthony Hornbeck. Born, 1741, in Rochester, Ulster Co., NY[51]. Died, 1787, in Hardy Co., VA[52]. Christened, 21 Jun 1741, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY. Resided: before 1770, in Hampshire Co., VA. He married Margaret, surname unknown.

The will of Daniel Hornbeck was as follows:

The will was witnessed by Simon Hornbeck and Samuel C. Curtright.

The children of Daniel and Mary Hornback were:

i. Solomon[5] Hornback. Resided: 1804, in Bourbon Co., KY. He married Lydia Alkire, daughter of Harmonas Alkire and Lydia Patton.

ii. Magdalene Hornback. Born, before 1750.

iii. James Hornback. Born, circa 1750. Resided, 1785, on South Fork of the Branch of the Potomac River, Hardy Co., VA. Resided: 1803, in Strode's Creek, Bourbon Co., KY. He married Rebecca, surname unknown.

James Hornback inherited three tracts of land from his father's estate in 1784. One tract had 32 1/3 acres, another 25 and 1/3 acres, and a third 11 and 2/3 acres.

On September 20th, 1785, James Hornback sold 9 1/2 acres to his uncle, Samuel, located on the South Branch of the Potomac River.

16 iv. Abraham Hornback.

Daniel and Magdalene Hornback had a daughter:

v. Margaret Hornback. Born, circa 1776.

12. Samuel[4] Hornback (Johannes[3], Warnaar[2], Joos[1])[65]. Born, circa 1728, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[66]. Died, 15 Nov 1815, in Bourbon Co., KY[67]. Census: 1810, in Bourbon Co., KY; p. 123. Occupation: carpenter, miller.

Samuel married Dorothy "Dolly" Harness[65], daughter of Johann Michael Ernest Harness and Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach, circa 1762, in Augusta Co., VA[69]. Born, 9 Oct 1743, Augusta Co., VA. Died, 1796, in Kentucky[70].

Samuel Hornback resided on the South Branch near Fort Seybert. He was a captain in the Revolution with the Virginia forces.

On April 20, 1778, Samuel and Simon Hornback and Samuel Cartwright[3] witnessed a mortgage of Mary Creamour[4] of Hampshire County to Simon and Mary Ahrsam on 385 acres, on the South Branch. On November 7, 1768, Mary Creymour was deeded this property by Simon and Mary Earsham.

On May 5, 1778, Samuel Hornback, who was a carpenter, received payment for the making of a coffin for Captain Jacob Reed[5]. Samuel was executor of the will of Cornelius Westfall[6] in 1783. In December of 1784 he was owed 8 shillings, 5 pence for the burial of Anthony Regar.

Samuel received a land grant in Hampshire County, Virginia, in 1782. He paid taxes that year for a family of six whites and one black. By 1784 he was taxed on seven whites. On September 17, 1783, Abraham Hornback, his father's grandnephew, sold him seventeen acres on South Branch River. That

3 There were a number of spelling variations for Cutright including: Curtright, Cartright, and Cutwright. Elizabeth Hornback, Samuel Hornback's sister, married Hendrick Kortright in 1739. The Kortright family resided on the South Branch by 1757. Peter may have been their son. The wife of Peter Cutright was said to be a Hornback. Peter Cutright was witness to a deed of Maunis and Lydia Alkier in 1765.

4 A Mary Craymore was by tradition believed to be the wife of Harmonas Alkier, Sr.

5 The Harness family was on the South Branch by 1739, and the Reid/Reed family may have joined them or accompanied them on their journey from Pennsylvania. The wife of Johann Michael Ernest Harness, Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach, had a half sister, Catharina Margaretha Dieffenbach, who married Johann George Rieth/Reed. Samuel Hornback's daughter, Anna Marie, married James Ried. There were eight wills of Reed proved in the Hampshire County Court, as well as numerous deeds involving George Reed and other family members.

6 Members of the Westfall family of New York settled on the South Branch of the Potomac. They were related to the Hornbacks through Judike Hornback, daughter of Joost Hornback, and granddaughter of Warnaar Hoornheeke, who married Jacob Westfall. Samuel Hornback's own wife, Dorothy Harness, had a nephew, Michael Harness, Jr., who married Catherine Westfall. These are only a few of the numerous interrelationships between these two families.

year Samuel purchased a one gallon keg at the estate sale of Conrad Slagel. On September 20, 1785, James and Rebecca Hornback sold nine and a half acres on the South Branch to his uncle, Samuel.

In 1787 Samuel and his cousin, Simon Hornback, and other family members journeyed to Kentucky. The trip to Kentucky was made down the Ohio River to avoid problems with the Indians. Samuel's granddaughter, Mrs. Samuel Ried Pearce, provided details of the journey of Samuel and Charles Hornback:

> A group of six or seven families including forty head of horses, cattle and sheep, left the following April from the South Branch. Samuel himself brought eighteen horses, four milk cows and forty sheep. At George Creek boats were built. The group landed at Maysville on the Ohio River on June 1st where their boats were sunk to keep the Indians from getting them. In July the party passed near Fort Harrod (Harrodsburgh), and in October arrived at Cutwright's station (present Clintonville) where the group lived while a mill was being built.

Samuel Hornback employed his carpentry skills in the construction of a log mill assisted by his son-in-law, John Reid, and John Reid, Sr. The road to Hornback's mill intersected the one leading to Strode's Fort which was built on the head of Strode's Fork of the Stoner waterway. The mill later burned.

Samuel first appeared on the tax lists of Bourbon County, Kentucky, in 1788. Two sons, one at of whom was at least twenty-one and another between sixteen and twenty-one, were in his family at that time. Samuel continued to appear in the tax lists of Bourbon County in the years 1789-1791. The 1792 tax list indicated he owned two blacks, had seven horses and twenty-seven cattle. In 1793 he had three blacks and was taxed on 300 acres of land. The 1794 tax list indicated these 300 acres were on Strode's Creek. By 1800 Samuel owned six blacks. After 1802 he no longer appeared on the tax rolls.

Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book C, page 605, recorded a sale by Samuel Hornback on July 19, 1796, of 100 acres to Ephraim and Nancy Holland for which they paid sixty pounds.[1]

On February 2, 1811, Samuel deeded his son, Adam, 77 acres on Strode's Creek. No wife signed this deed. On the same day he deeded his daughter-in-law, Mary, relict of Daniel Hornback, 77 acres on Strode's Creek, naming all the children of Daniel. These two deeds were recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book H, pages 124-126.

On June 1, 1811, Samuel Hornback deeded his son, John Hornback, 100 acres granted to him by Thomas Kennedy as recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book C, page 689. Michael Alkire was a witness to the deed son which was recorded in Deed Book H, pages 297-298.

On October 8, 1812, Samuel Hornback gave John Reed all "acquitments" and clearance to a tract sold by Reed to Hornback and recorded in Bourbon County. Kentucky Deed Book B, pages 302-6, part of a preemption of Benjamin Case and patented to Peter Case, heir at law to Benjamin Case. The witnesses to this deed were John Hornback, Sarah Ratliff, and William McElwain.

On April 5th of the following year Samuel Hornback deeded his sons, John and Adam, a 1/4th interest in his stone and grist mills on Strode's Creek and made them tenants in common in the sawmill known as Reeds and Hornbacks. Although only $1.00 was charged, the sons agreed to provide Samuel with flour and meal as needed for bread.

Samuel's will was proved at the May 1816 Bourbon County, Kentucky Court.

The children of Samuel and Dorothy Harness Hornback were:

i. Elizabeth[5] Hornback. Born, 4 Jul 1763, Hampshire Co., VA. Died, 4 Jan 1827, in Bourbon Co., KY. She married John Reed.

17 ii. Daniel Hornback.

iii. Adam Hornback. Born, circa 1766, Hampshire Co., VA. Died, 1831, in Nicholas Co., KY. He married Sabinah Parish, 6 Mar 1790, in Bourbon Co., KY[71].

Adam Hornback first appeared in Bourbon County, Virginia, tax records in the year 1791. Like his father and brothers, Daniel and John, he was raising cattle.

In 1803 he paid tax on 71 acres on Strode's Creek. This may have been the same property, 77 acres, which his father deeded to him on February 2, 1811. This deed was recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book H, page 124. Recorded in Deed Book I, page 208, was a deed dated April 5, 1813, to Adam and his brother, John, from their father, Samuel, granting them 1/4th interest in a stone and grist mill on Strode's Creek, and making them tenants in common in Reeds and Hornbacks saw mills.

The 1811 tax rolls showed Adam had acquired a slave and 78 1/2 acres said to have been located on Kennedy Creek, Strode's, or the Stoner waterway in different records. In 1818 his holdings had been reduced to 65 acres as the result of a sale on March 24, 1817, by Adam and Sabinah Hornback to John Hedges of 13 1/2 acres for 73 pounds, 1 shilling and 3 pence. This was a portion of the land deeded to Adam in 1811 by his father, Samuel, and originally patented to Peter Casey.

18 iv. Margaret Hornback.

v. John Hornback[72]. Born, circa 1770, Hampshire Co., VA. Died in Bath Co.. KY. He married[73], first, Mary Trumbo[72], daughter of Andrew "Andy" Trumbo and Margaretha Katherine "Grate" Harness, 1801[74]. He married, second, Mary "Polly" Norton, 8 Feb 1810, in Bourbon Co., KY. He married, third, Nancy Wiggenton, 16 May 1811, in Bourbon Co., KY. He married, fourth, Elizabeth Reed, 10 Sep 1846, in Bourbon Co., KY[75].

On October 5, 1882, John Hornback sold William M. Hornback lot 2 in section 19, township 28, range 31 of Hardy County, Virginia, in preparation for a move to Kentucky.

John became a resident of Bourbon County, Kentucky, where he first appeared on the tax rolls in 1791. By 1793 he was taxed on 100 acres and had 12 head of cattle. On March 29, 1811, Samuel Hornback, deeded his sons, John and Adam, 1/4th interest in his grist and sawmills on Strode's Creek. He also deeded John 100 acres, for love and affection. These deeds were recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Deed Book H, pages 166-167 and 297-298. Volume 36, page 94, recorded a deed to John Hornback from his brother, Adam, possibly John's share of the mills.

13. Jonathan[4] Hornback (Johannes[3], Warnaar[2], Joos[1]). Baptized, 1 Feb 1729/30, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[39]. Died, circa 1758, at Fort Seybert, Hampshire Co., VA[77].

Jonathan married Sara Vernooy, 21 Sep 1751, in Wawarsing, NY[9]. Baptized, 6 Feb 1731/2, in Kingston, Ulster Co., NY[39].

Jonathan's will was written on December 14, 1757, in Hampshire County, Virginia, but cannot be located at the courthouse in Romney. The will was probated on February 14, 1758. Jonathan was probably killed at Fort Seybert in 1758 when it was attacked by Indians.

Jonathan and Sara Vernooy Hornback had a son:

i. Benjamin[5] Hornback. Born, circa 1754, in Hampshire Co., VA[78]. Died, 6 Apr 1827, in Randolph Co., VA. Buried in Currence Farm, Randolph Co., VA, near Dailey. His first wife is unknown. He married, second, Lydia Currence, 1782[79].

Benjamin's father died when he was about four years of age. Because this branch of the family made its residence in Randolph County, Virginia, it will not be pursued in this chapter. Those who may be interested in further information are referred to Warnaar Hornbeck Descendants by Sayre and Hornbeck.

14. Simon[4] Hornback (Jacobus "James"[3], Warnaar[2], Joos[1]). Baptized, 2 Feb 1734/5, in Rochester, Ulster Co., NY[36]. Died, circa 1800, in Bourbon Co., KY[81].

Simon married Margaret "Peggy" Alkier, almost certainly a daughter of Harmonas Alkier and Mary Craymore/Craemer, circa 1759, in Hampshire Co., VA[82]. Born, circa 1739.

Simon Hornback, son of Jacobus Hornbeck and Margreta Helm, was born in Ulster County, New York, and baptized at Rochester, Ulster County New York, on February 2, 1735. The witnesses to this baptism were Zimon Helm, his uncle, and Annaatjen Seever.

Sometime prior to December 3, 1757, Simon was living on the South Branch of the Potomac River at which time he and his father made a purchase at the estate sale of Michael Stump.

About 1759 Simon married Margaret "Peggy" reported by many to have been a daughter of Harmonas Alkier, Sr., an early settler on the South Branch. Proof of this has not been found but it would seem to be true. See the Alkire chapter for further information regarding the family of Harmonas Alkire.

On April 11, 1776, Simon and his cousin, Daniel, were appraisers of the estate of Magdalena Harts. On April 20, 1778, Simon and his cousin, Samuel, as well as Samuel Cartwright were witnesses to a mortgage of Mary Creamour[1] of Hampshire County to Simon and Mary Ahrsam of Hampshire County for 385 acres on the South Branch. On March 18, 1779, Simon and James Hornback were assignees of Enoch Cornwell in regard to 135 acres on the South Branch in Hampshire County[80].

The Public Service Claims of Hampshire County, Virginia, indicated that Simon Hornback provided 175 pounds of flour and one cask on February 10, 1781, to the revolutionary cause. His service was recognized by the Daughters of the American Revolution on January 26, 1996.

Simon Hornback appeared in the 1782 Hampshire County tax records with a family of twelve whites. By 1784 there were thirteen whites in the family as well as a dwelling house and two other buildings[80].

Peter Cutwright, whose wife was a Hornback, provided the following information on the Hornback settlement. Simon Hornback settled about a mile above Cutwright's Station on a head spring of Johnson's Fork, near or over the present boundary of Bourbon and Clark Counties, which ran into Strode's Creek, then into the Stoner, and that into the Licking River. Hornback's Station was on the dividing ridge between the waters of the Licking and Kentucky Rivers.

Simon was the first of the family to go to Kentucky, establishing Hornback's Station there with his son, Abraham. In the year 1784 Simon received a land grant in Bourbon County. He first appeared on Bourbon County tax rolls in the year 1788 with two males, twenty-one and over, one male under twenty-one, and four cattle. By 1792 he had six horses and eighteen cattle. In 1793 he was taxed on 300 acres of land, and in 1794 he was said to have 200 acres on Johnston or Green Creek. Simon remained on the tax rolls through 1800.

In 1788 Simon Hornback and his sons, Abraham and John, as well as his cousin, Samuel, and a Jacob Hornback, who may have been his father. Jacobus Hornback signed a petition, #78, circulated in Bourbon County and addressed to the Virginia Legislature, requesting that a tobacco inspection building at the junction of the Hinkson and Stoner Fork of the Licking River be removed as it was obstructing river traffic. A second petition, #84, dated October 22, 1790, requested that the facility be relocated at the town situated upon Stoner Fork of the Licking River. This petition was signed by Abraham, John, Simon, and Samuel Hornback.

From the memoirs of Andrew Hornback came this account:

> At one time Simon was making salt on the Licking river with other settlers when they were attacked by Indians. The red skins outnumbered the whites who had to retreat from tree to tree, fighting as they went back home. One man killed three Indians in the engagement. They then obtained reinforcements and returned to their salt works.

On December 17, 1800, Simon wrote his will, recorded in Bourbon County, Kentucky Will Book B, page 114, and reproduced with original spelling and punctuation as follows:

[1] Mary Craymore was by tradition the wife of Harmonas Alkier, Sr., and mother of Simon's wife; however the obvious problem is that her name would have been Mary Alkier. Therefore the exact relationship is unknown.

Abraham enlisted in Muhlenberg's 8th Regiment of the Virginia Line on February 9, 1776, and served for a term of two years being discharged at Valley Forge by Captain Van Swearingen. He applied for a military pension on March 15, 1822.

Adam Alkier's first wife was Margaret Hornback, daughter of Samuel Hornback who died about 1812. His second wife was Barbara Sue Hornback, widow of Aaron Cherry and daughter of Simon Hornback and Margaret Alkier. See #25 for further information concerning Adam's second marriage.

By 1784 Adam and his brothers were inhabitants of Kentucky, for in that year Adam signed a petition to the General Assembly of Virginia.

Adam Alkier, with his brothers, John and William, first appeared on Bourbon County, Kentucky, tax rolls in 1789. It is possible Adam was in the household of his brother, John, who was listed on tax rolls the previous year. In 1793 Adam for the first time was taxed as an owner of animals, four horses and ten cattle. He appeared on the rolls again in 1794 but was taxed on no property. By 1796 he had increased his cattle to thirteen head. Adam was last on the tax rolls at this location in 1801.

On October 29, 1810, Adam Alkire appointed his brother, William, to be his attorney and to sign, seal, and acknowledge a deed of 56 3/4 acres to Samuel Scott, and twenty acres belonging to the heirs of Harmonious Alkire to Richard Smart.

Abraham Hornback was born in Hampshire County, Virginia, on October 21, 1761. The area is now in Hardy County, West Virginia. His father was Simon Hornback, and his mother was Margaret "Peggy" Alkier. It is said he was over six feet tall, slim, and bearded.

As a young man of fifteen Abraham served in the Revolutionary War for one hundred fifty-four days in Company P of the Virginia Militia organized in Hampshire County and was in service on September 27, 1777. The company was commanded by Captain James Parsons. Abram's uncle, Harmonas Alkier, Jr., was the company lieutenant. This service was recognized by the Daughters of the American Revolution in April, 1997.

On April 22, 1778, Abraham first appeared in Hampshire County, Virginia court records when he purchased a colt and a "bed of furniture" at the estate sale of George Rennick. He was on Hampshire County tax rolls in 1782 and 1784. In 1782 he had three horses and eight head of cattle. Two years later he had five horses and six head of cattle.

When he was about twenty-two years old, Abraham and his family moved to Bourbon County, Kentucky, in an area which is now Mercer County. It was on August 16, 1791, in Bourbon County, Kentucky, that Abram married Elizabeth Trumbo, daughter of Andrew Trumbo and Margaretha Katherine "Kate" Harness. Elizabeth was born February 14, 1773, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River in Virginia. Her parents had also removed to Bourbon County, and they first appeared on its tax rolls in 1789 as did Abraham Hornback. Perhaps the families had journeyed together to Kentucky from Hampshire County, Virginia.

The Hornback's first child was Margaret "Peggy", born February 14, 1793, and named for her paternal grandmother, Peggy Alkier. Seven other children were born to the Hornbacks before the death of their mother which occurred in September of 1810, at the birth of Tillitha.

As both Abraham and Abram he appeared on the tax lists of Bourbon County until the year 1802. He was the owner of one hundred acres on Green Creek until 1797. His property was reduced to fifty acres by 1800. Montgomery County tax rolls, which began in 1797, first listed Abraham in 1802 with 400 acres on the Licking River. When Bath County was formed from Montgomery County in 1811, Abraham was transferred again to its tax rolls. In 1813, as a result of the War of 1812, tax records began being organized in "Companies." Abraham Hornback was listed in the "Trumbo Company" as were the related Mappin, Bracken, Canterbury, and Trumbo families.

Abraham served in the War of 1812 as a private in the 2nd regiment of Kentucky Mounted Volunteers commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Jno. Donnaldson and in the company commanded by Captain Richard Menefie and Captain John Hornback. He volunteered at Owensville, Bath County, Kentucky, on the 15th of September, 1813. Abraham served for seventy-four days and was honorably discharged in Bath County on November 26, 1813. On November 20, 1850, his second wife, Elizabeth, applied for bounty land based on this service.

On September 20, 1817, Abraham married Elizabeth Mappin Bracken, widow of Robert Bracken. Charles Harper, a Baptist preacher, officiated at the wedding. Elizabeth was the daughter of James and Sarah Mappin. Sarah Mappin's will was probated on October 10, 1814, in Bath County. Two years after the wedding of Elizabeth and Abraham, Abraham's daughter, Dolly, married Walter Bracken, son of James and Sally Bracken. Abraham's son, John, married his wife's daughter, Abigail Bracken, in about 1818. In 1823 another son of Abram, Jesse, married Elizabeth Bracken, also a daughter of James and Sally Bracken.

Abraham last appeared in Bath County tax records in 1823. It is probable that members of the related families of Cantrell, Bracken, Bradley, Trumbo, and others made an exploratory trip to Illinois in advance of a permanent relocation. The day after his 64th birthday, October 22, 1825, Abraham and family, Abraham's married sons, John and Jesse and their families, as well as members of the Bracken family, arrived at Indian Point in Sangamon County after a thirty day journey in four covered wagons pulled by teams of oxen which hauled their supplies and household goods. The men, women, and children either walked behind the wagons or rode horseback. Four days later Abraham purchased at a federal land sale eighty acres in the west 1/2 of the SW 1/4 of section 15, of Indian Creek Township, an area which after his death became Menard County. A year later October 26, 1826, he made a cash entry, #2723, for eighty acres in the southwest 1/4 of section 13, at $80.00 per acre. He received a patent on December 5th.

SANGAMON CO. 1835

The Hornbacks were one of the first families to settle this area of Illinois. Though the Hornbacks shot game for their survival in the early years of settlement, eventually they farmed 325 acres. Abram made an addition to his land holdings on July 18, 1829, when at a federal land sale he purchased eighty acres at $1.25 per acre, in the west 1/2 of the NW 1/4 of the same section as his original purchase. The patent was issued on December 1, 1830, the winter of the "deep snow."

An account by a descendant of Abraham describing the early days in Sangamon County was as follows:

> The newcomers in Illinois in 1825 had very little money They husked corn and received two bushels in payment for a day's work. Abraham's son, Andrew Hornback, sat on his horse at one time and counted fifty-seven deer. Turkey and wild geese were plentiful and so were the Indians They would come frequently to the cabin to get something to eat and stay until they got it There was an Indian town at the mouth of Salt Creek which contained one thousand warriors According to the treaty the Indians had made with the whites, they had one more year to stay in the area. They then left but stopped at Rock Island.
>
> Horse flies were so thick that stock could not stay on the prairies in the daytime After a drizzly, cloudy day, the sun came out warm. A person could not ride three miles without killing a horse. The horses had to feed at night, and the pioneers hunted them in the morning They always carried a stick while hunting and sometimes killed four or five rattlesnakes during the morning
> At that time a cow was worth about $7.00, and a calf worth a dollar Pork was worth one cent per pound and corn five cents per bushel. They used to haul their wheat to Pekin and sell it for twenty-five cents per bushel. Oats bought ten cents at Beardstown, and it took three days to make the round trip. Butter was worth five cents per pound in Springfield, and eggs sold for four cents per dozen. A horse was worth from $30.00 to $40.00.

Abraham's daughter, Peggy Canterbury, moved to Sangamon County in the fall of 1826 with her husband, Asa. Abraham's daughter, Martha, wife of Elisha Bradley, had married in Bath County, Kentucky in August of 1824, and after the death of Elisha in about 1845, she and her family removed to Menard County.

Abraham died intestate on January 25, 1833, at the age of 71 years, 3 months, and 8 days. His wife was administratrix, and she, John S. Alexander, and John Hornback posted bond to the court. $22.00 was charged Abraham's estate for medical bills and $18.00 for his coffin.

In February of 1833 an appraisal of $307.75 was made of Abraham's personal property by Elijah Scott, Michael Killion, and Francis Rayburn. The estate auction listed the names of the persons who purchased each item. The goods consisting primarily of tools and animals: a heifer calf, a steer, seven head of sheep, a yoke of oxen, a cow and calf, another cow and calf, a filly, a three year old horse, a year old colt, and a two year old colt.

Abraham was the first burial in the Hornback Cemetery, and his grave was marked as a Revolutionary War soldier by the Daughters of the American Revolution. At one time Abraham killed a deer in the timber where the Hornback Cemetery is now situated. He told the family he wished to be buried there and laid off the cemetery for a family burying ground. It was not until November 5, 1862, that his son, Andy, deeded the land to the state of Illinois to be used as a burying ground for Hornbacks. their relatives, and no others. Abraham's second wife died on August 13, 1856, at the age of eighty-two. She, Abraham's son, John Hornback, and his daughter, Martha Bradley, were buried in this cemetery as well as numerous other descendants.

When Betsy Bracken Hornback's husband, Abraham, died, she attested that her son, Thomas W. Bracken, by her former husband, Robert Bracken, was heir to $52.00, which sum was put to interest for the use of Thomas W. Bracken twenty-five years previously. After her marriage to Abraham Hornback, the $52.20 and interest were taken by Abraham and kept by him until his death. Thomas had died about ten years previously without heirs, and the money had never been paid.

Townships of Menard County, Illinois

A. Michael Hornback appeared on the tax lists of Bourbon County, Kentucky, in most years between 1790 and 1820, the last year read by this researcher. In the year 1792 he was listed with 45 head of cattle. In the year 1796 he had 100 acres on the Flatlick waterway or the Johnson waterway. He acquired an additional 100 acres on the Hinkston or Green waterway. On February 1, 1817, his son, Michael, Jr., purchased for $1,000.00 the 100 acres on the Hinkston waterway.

He may have been the Michael Hornback who joined from Colville's Company on July 10, 1794, a company of mounted spies and guides under the command of Captain Joshua Baker. He served until October 21, 1794, and was at the Battle of Fallen Timbers which occurred on August 20, 1794.

Before September 16, 1816, Michael and Sally Hornback were living in Pickaway County, Ohio, as mentioned in a deed in Bourbon County, Virginia Deed Book M, pages 391-3. They resided at that location the remainder of their lives.

Barbara Hornback was called an infant orphan of Simon Hornback, deceased, at the April, 1801, Bourbon County, Virginia Court. She chose an older brother, Michael Hornback, to be her guardian.

Adam Alkier's first wife was Margaret Hornback, daughter of Samuel Hornback who died about 1812. His second wife was Barbara Hornback, widow of Aaron Cherry and daughter of Simon Hornback and Margaret Alkier.

By 1784 Adam and his brothers were inhabitants of Kentucky, for in that year Adam signed a petition to the General Assembly of Virginia.

With his brothers, John and William, Adam Alkier first appeared on Bourbon County, Kentucky tax rolls in 1789. It is possible Adam was in the household of his brother, John, who was listed on tax rolls the previous year. In 1793 Adam for the first time was taxed as an owner of animals, four horses and ten cattle. He appeared on the rolls again in 1794 but was taxed on no property. By 1796 he had increased his cattle to thirteen head. Adam was last on the tax rolls at this location in 1801.

On October 29, 1810, Adam Alkire appointed his brother, William, to be his attorney and to sign, seal, and acknowledge deeds from the heirs of Harmonious Alkire of 56 3/4 acres to Samuel Scott and 20 acres to Richard Smart.

Walter Bracken's father, James, was taxed on 140 acres on the Licking River in Bath County, Kentucky, in 1811. He had a male child under 21, probably Walter, and one slave. In 1813 Walter appeared on the tax rolls with one slave, apparently that of his father, and three horses. Walter continued on the rolls through 1818, the year of his wife's death. From 1822 to 1824 he was again listed with three children, but thereafter he was not a taxpayer in the county. At no time was he an owner of property in Bath County.

After removal to Sangamon County, Illinois, Walter purchased 80 acres in the E1/2 of the NW 1/4 of section 36 of Sugar Grove Precinct on October 30, 1827. This area became a part of Menard County in 1839.

John appeared on Bath County, Kentucky, tax rolls from 1819 through 1824 with 45 acres on the Slate. He and other family members relocated in Sangamon County, Illinois, arriving on October 22, 1825. He purchased a total of 320 acres of government land which he farmed until his death.

John Hornback served in the Sac and Fox War under Captain William F. Elkin in Duncan's Brigade of the 2nd Regiment of Mounted Volunteers which were discharged at Rock Island on June 4, 1831. On April 21, 1832, he enrolled as a second lieutenant in the Black Hawk War, in the Spy Battalion, Whiteside's Brigade of Mounted Volunteers, Illinois Militia, and was mustered out on May 28, 1832.

John Hornback first patented forty acres in Sangamon County, Illinois, on October 26, 1826. He added 80 additional acres on October 10, 1827. Both tracts were in the SW 1/4 of section 18 in Indian Creek Precinct which in 1839 become Menard County. He increased his holdings to 320 acres.

In addition to his farming enterprise, John was a mailman traveling by horseback between Springfield and Menard County on the Spoon River mail route.

Phyllis Moses provided the following information concerning John Hornback:

> John Hornback and the family of James E. Killion who married John's daughter, Mary, came to Menard County in 1825, settling west of Sugar Grove. The settlers all cleared land for farming, split rails, and laid fences to confine their livestock. Fur trapping provided their best means of securing cash. They ate plain food. Wild game was in abundance and a favorite addition to their fare was honey taken from

"bee trees." John's daughter, Sarah, had memories of "droves of deer and Indians camped on Salt Creek Bottoms." She also recalled trips to the mill where flour was "bolted" by hand.[7]

Elisha Bradley bought the hogs of James Bracken before his departure for Illinois. He may have fathered the two children of his wife's sister, Mary Elizabeth "Polly" Hornback. (See her name, #33.) Family lore surrounds the death of Elisha Bradley. Elisha had been imbibing too much Kentucky corn whiskey and wagered that he could swim the Licking River with his boots on. A family story, which may well be true, was that Polly Hornback remained with her sister Martha Bradley in Kentucky, when the family left for Illinois. It was discovered that Martha's husband was the father of Polly's first child, born in 1826, and to make matters worse, she was expecting a second child. Martha refused to keep Polly any longer, and she was forced to join her father in Illinois. While en route her second child was born, and after a confinement of three days in the wagon, she took her place walking with the other women in the party. "Aunt Polly" remained with her father until his death and never married.

Mary Hornback had two daughters:

i. Mary Jane[7] Hornback. Born, circa 1826, in Sangamon Co., IL. Died, 18 Feb 1864, in Cantrall, Menard Co., IL. Buried in Brittin Cem., Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL.

On October 25, 1826, Andrew contracted with his father to exchange a year of labor for 80 acres of land or $100.00 in cash. Jesse Hornback attested to the contract at the time of the death of their father in 1833.

In 1831 Andrew T. Hornback served in the Black Hawk War in the 2nd Regiment of Mounted Volunteers under Captain William F. Elkin. The regiment was discharged at Rock Island, Illinois, on June 4, 1831.

The Past and Present of Menard County, Illinois, page 380. provided the following information:

In his boyhood days he accompanied his parent to Illinois and afterward entered government land, breaking the wild prairie and felling the timber with which he built a log house...

...It continued the family residence for some time, but was afterward replaced by a substantial frame residence, in which Mr. Killion spent his remaining days. He suffered many of the hardships and trials incident to pioneer life, but as the years passed prosperity crowned his efforts and at the time of his death he was the owner of three hundred and forty acres of valuable land, from which he derived a good income. Both he and his wife were active and consistent members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, in which he served as deacon for many years. In their family were ten children...

Information from a descendant of James E. Killion, Jane Thomas, was as follows:

After their marriage they had nothing but willing hearts and industrious hands. Their first house was a rude cabin with one room, cat and clay chimney, puncheon floor, board shutter for a window, homemade table, and bed made of walnut logs. Cornbread was their chief staple. Notwithstanding all these inconveniences, these were their happiest days. The first barn her husband built. She spun and wove cloth to pay for the covering of the roof. In 1846 they moved to the place where Mrs. Killion now lives, having accumulated money enough to buy them a home.

The following biographical information came from Past and Present of Menard County, Illinois, pages 453-454:

> Robert Hornback was born in Menard county, on the old family homestead, November 14, 1828 being the eldest of a large family.[8] He was reared amid pioneer environment and assisted in the arduous task of developing the new farm which made the life of every frontier agriculturist a strenuous one. When only five and a half years old he plowed with one of the old time plows, then in general use.[9] Throughout his entire life he carried on the work of tilling the soil and remained upon the homestead until his death....
>
> ..Captain Hornhack proved his loyalty to his country during the Civil war hy active service on the field, enlisting on the 4th of August, 1862, as a private of Compny K, One Hundred and Fourteenth Illinois Infantry, under Colonel Judy. The rendezvous of the company was at Camp Butler, Springfield and regiment soon afterward proceeded to Memphis, Tennessee, remaining in the vicinity of that city until April 1, 1864, skirmishing, guarding railroads and scouting. At the expiration of that time order was received to join the forces under General Grant at Grand Gulf, Mississippi, proceeding from that point under General Johnston. The One Hundred and Fourth with several other regiments, came upon the rebels at Raymond, on the 10th of April and in the engagement that followed the Confederates were driven from their position. The Union soldiers followed their retreat and again a conflict occurred at Jackson, Mississippi, a pitched battle resulting in the forcing of the enemy from their fortifications and the capture of the city. On the 16th the hattle of Champion Hills occurred. Mr. Hornback, with his regiment, participating, and later he aided in hesieging the city of Vicksburg, until its capitulation, after a defense of two months, in which the cannon were seldom silent.
>
> The next move of the One Hundred and Fourteenth was in the advance to Jackson, where the two weeks' siege was followed by the surrender of the city. Captain Hornhack heing among the first to enter it, on the 16th of July, 1863. It was the month of Octoher, following, that he was promoted from orderly sergeant to captain and while in Memphis he was appointed provost marshal of the city, but not wishing to leave his regiment he remained with his command.
>
> Following various encounters with the troops under General Forrest, in the spring of 1864, the One Hundred and Fourteenth Illinois took part in the hattle of Guntown, Mississippi, June 10, 1864, and Captain Hornhack lost one half of his men and was himself wounded, but a month later when the regiment again met the same troops, the latter were hadly defeated. In August this regiment was transferred to the department of the Mississippi and pursued Price into Mississippi and Arkansas, taking part in the battle near Kansas City, in Octoher. After Price was forced to leave Missouri Captain Hornhack joined General Thompson at Nashville, and participated in the hattle resulting in the defeat of Hood. With his regiment he also took part in the siege and capture of Mobile and then gladly returned home, the war having ended, with victory perched upon the Union banners

A loyal and intrepid soldier, an honorable gentleman, reliable in business and trustworthy in all life's relations, the memory of Captain Hornback is revered and cherished by all who knew him

Several obituaries of Robert Hornback repeated much of the information above concerning Captain Hornback's wartime service. A Burlington paper included the conditions under which he entered military service:

> When the war began, Mr. Hornback, in view of his wife's delicate health and the presence of a houseful of little children, promised his wife that he would not go to the war; but his neighbors, having formed a company, urged him so strongly to become their captain - more than fifty of them calling on him together to press their requests, that he yielded and went out at the head of the company.

The article went on to describe the captain as, "a genial and pleasant man, [who] loved to talk of the war and his experiences therein." From another obituary it was learned that Captain Hornback was involved in farming and the raising and shipping of stock. It indicated he had died a few months after a paralytic stroke. Still a third obituary stated:

> All who knew the captain esteemed him as a gentleman, noble and upright in character, active industrious and energetic in his business transactions. As a thorough-going, self-made man, he was one of the pillars of support in this county.

The following biographical information was obtained from Past and Present of Menard County, Illinois, pages 379 through 381:

> In taking up the personal history of Truman C. Pond we present to our readers the life record of one who is widely and favorably known in Menard county, where he has long made his home. He was not yet nineteen years of age when on the 1st of August, 1861, he enlisted at Petersburg in defense of the Union as a member of Company A, Twenty-eighth Illinois Infantry. He was discharged September 4, 1862, on account of disability, having been wounded in the battle of Shiloh. On Friday, April 4, 1862, the enemy sent out a brigade to test the position of the Union troops. General Hurlbut's division was then put in line and moved forward to meet the advancing rebel column. The night was dark and the roads were muddy, but there occurred some heavy firing for a short time, after which the rebels fell back. The Twenty-eight Illinois Regiment moved out to the division for a mile and a half and then returned to camp. Early on Sunday morning on the 6th of April, the regiment was called out by the long roll and marched a mile to the front, where it was assigned to a position on the left of the line in a peach orchard. The enemy immediately fired upon this regiment, but was repulsed with heavy loss. The Twenty-eight held its position at all hazards. This it did until ordered back by General Hurlbut, who commanded the old fighting Fourth Division. The regiment lost heavily in killed and wounded, Lieutenant Colonel Kilpatrick being among the killed. Adjutant J. B. Meade was mortally wounded in that conflict and his horse was shot from under him. Mr. Pond was struck by a minnie ball and buck shot pierced his left hand and wrist.

He was also wounded in the left shoulder, where the ball still remains. He lay on cornsacks on a transport in Tennessee river for about three weeks and was then taken up the Mississippi river to Quincy, Illinois, where he remained in the hospital until September and because of these injuries he was honorably discharged and returned home. For three years thereafter he was a great sufferer as his wounds did not heal. At length, however, he recovered his health and turned his attention to agricultural pursuits....

...After his marriage Mr. Pond turned his attention to general farming and trading in stock. He made many trips to Missouri to buy cattle, which he drove overland to Menard county and here fattened for the market. He continued in active farming operations until 1881, when he turned his attention to the butchering business and shipping of stock, in which he now continues, making Greenview his headquarters. His business interests have reached extensive and profitable proportions, making him one of the leading representatives of the stock industry in Menard county....

...Mr. Pond has been quite active and influential in public affairs and his influence has ever been exerted in behalf of public progress and improvement. He has served as president of the town board for about thirteen years, and was filling that position when the waterworks system was installed, he giving personal supervision to that work in large measure. He has served as secretary of the board of education for two or three terms and endorses every movement which he believes will contribute to the general good, while already his efforts along many lines have proved beneficial to his town and county. Fraternally he is connected with the Odd Fellows Society, has passed through all the chairs of the local lodge and has been a delegate to the grand lodge. He also belongs to the Grand Army of the Republic, has filled all the offices of the post and has been a delegate to the state encampment. His activity along many lines touching general progress and improvement have made him a representative and valued citizen of Menard county and he has contributed in no unimportant measure to the substantial improvement and to the commercial, intellectual and material development of this part of the state.

Chapter XIX

THE MIESEN FAMILY

The Miesen family has been treated very thoroughly in the works by Lloyd Everett Miesen and Stephen Barthel. Lloyd was intensely interested in Miesen family history and traveled to many parts of the United States and to Germany to meet cousins and gather information and family pictures. In 1960 he wrote a work titled, As I Remember It, which contained Miesen family history as well as an autobiography. This volume, Asa Canterbury, has been dedicated to Lloyd and to his brother, John Hubert Miesen, father of the author.

A second volume with information concerning Miesen families produced by Thomas J. Boles in 1974 titled, Miesen Family Record, traced the descendants of Peter Miesen and included Mr. Boles' ancestry. Lloyd E. Miesen and Stephen Samuel Barthel contributed heavily to that work, and Lloyd was responsible for its publication. If you do not find your own Miesen family in this volume, I highly recommend the latter volume. The information therein has been computerized and is available in the ancestral file through local Family History Centers of the Church of Latter Day Saints.

Much of the material in this chapter was obtained from the research of Lloyd Miesen in the above mentioned volumes. The families of Lloyd and Hubert Miesen, their parents John Joseph Miesen and Jessie Canterbury Miesen, and their descendants may be found in the chapter titled, Descendants of Isaac T. Canterbury.

Henry Z. Jones, Jr., in his volume, Psychic Roots, explored the possibility of a "psychic dimension in the research process." He gave examples of coincidence and serendipity, hunches and intuition as playing a part in genealogical study. The following is a quote from pages 68-69 concerning the Miesen research:

> Stephen Samuel Barthel of West Jordan, Utah, had an experience he will never forget:
>
> One of the first people I met after starting to research my ancestry was Lloyd E. Miesen, Sr., of Portland, Oregon. He had sent my Great Aunt Amelia a nine-generation chart of the Miesen family, giving full names, dates and places of those people on it. Lloyd had been doing genealogical research since the 1930's, and promised all those he interviewed that he would share the information with anyone who was interested.
>
> While I was on a two year mission for my church in Germany, Lloyd put me in contact with a second cousin named Tom Boles of Mesquite, Texas. Tom was gathering data on the descendant families of our immigrant ancestor Peter Miesen and had assembled over 600 family group sheets. But Tom was quite ill, and wrote me that his chances appeared dismal for a recovery from a severe heart problem. Feeling a sense of urgency in getting together with Tom and examining those important genealogical papers, I flew from Germany to see him, arriving in America on 22nd November, 1972
> But the same evening I arrived, I received a late-night phone call from Tom Boles. He told me not to come to his home, as it was no longer there. A tornado had destroyed his trailer the night before and most of the contents. The only thing left on the cement slab was the manuscript to the 600+ family group sheets. To us it was a miracle!

> We eventually met, and Tom promised me that if anything should happen to him prior to publishing the manuscript, I was to get the records. Tom was Presbyterian, but he knew how important the genealogy was to me because of my membership in the L.D.S. Church. He knew I would take good care of it.

In the locations designated only as the Rhineland in church, birth, marriage, death, and burial records which follow, no country has been given. This was because of the very complex history of the Rhineland region in which the Miesen family resided which is now a part of Germany.

Now the ancestry of Lloyd and Hubert Miesen will be traced beginning with their grandfather, Johann Joseph Miesen.

First Generation

1. Johann Joseph[1] Miesen (Petrus[2], Joannes[3], Antonius[4], Nicolaus Jr.[5])[1]. Born, 27 Sep 1834, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Died, 2 Aug 1921, in Quincy, Adams Co., IL. Christened, 29 Sep 1834, in St. Laurentuis, Masburg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Burial in Forest Grove Cem, Richland Twp., Barton Co., MO[2]. Census: 6 Sep 1860, Perry, Pike Co, IL; p. 44. Census: 7 Jul 1870, Perry, Pike Co, IL; p. 2. Census: 17 Jun 1880, in Perry, Pike Co., IL; ED194 SH38[3]. Immigration: 12 Aug 1847, in New York City, NY[4]. Occupation: buggymaker.

Johan Miesen

John married[5] Marie Kemper[6], 7 Jan 1857, in Jacksonville, Morgan Co., IL[7]. Born, 7 Jan 1838, in the Alsace Lorraine region of France or in Prussia[8]. Died, 12 Jun 1898, in Boston. Barton Co, MO[9]. Burial in Forest Grove Cem, Richland Twp., Barton Co., MO. Census: 17 Jun 1880, in Perry, Pike Co., IL; ED194 SH38[10]. Immigration: circa 1843.

Marie's grandson, Lloyd Miesen, in his book As I Remember It, stated that his grandmother was born in the Alsace Lorraine region of France. In the census records of 1860 through 1880 her place of birth and that of both her parents was given as Germany or Prussia. It is fairly certain that Marie spoke German, as her husband certainly did, not having come to this country until aged thirteen.

It is said that Marie's father and brother both died in Germany, and that at the age of five her mother brought her to the United States. It was stated that her mother was a nurse in St. Louis, Missouri and died there during the great cholera epidemic. When Mary was orphaned at the age of six, she was reared by a Methodist minister. Since she and her husband were married in Jacksonville, Morgan County, Illinois, it is probable that this was her place of residence. Her name was written as Mary Kemples on the license and as Mary Kempis by the officiating minister.

In 1847, at about the age of thirteen, John Joseph Miesen, his father, and his brothers, Hubert and M. J., immigrated to America from their birthplace in Eppenberg, Germany. John's mother had died when he was only six years of age.

On October 23, 1865, at the age of thirty-one John became a naturalized citizen in Morgan County, Illinois. John had left his home in Mt. Calvary, Wisconsin, with his brothers, Hubert and M.J., at the age of seventeen. He went to Jacksonville, Illinois, where he served four years as an apprentice to a woodworker and blacksmith learning the trade of buggy and wagon manufacture.

After the death of their father in 1867, John and his younger brother, Joseph, became estranged from their brothers, Mathias, who had inherited the family farm as the eldest son, and M.J., who had returned home to care for his father. They never again contacted their brothers. John and Joseph changed the pronunciation of their name from Meesen to Mysen and gave up the Roman Catholic faith

On January 7, 1857, John married Marie Kemper. John and his brother, Joseph, settled in Perry, Illinois, where John built up a carriage and wagon construction business. John was a member of the IOOF Lodge No. 76 in Perry. The census records from 1860 to 1880 listed John's family giving his occupation as blacksmith. In 1870 his younger brother, Joseph, was living with the family, but in 1871 Joe went to Arkansas with his new bride. About 1885 the shop burned, and John, having no insurance, decided to retire.

Perry County Town Lots Deed Index Book I, page 89, listed the following land transactions made my John while living in Perry:

DATE	GRANTOR/GRANTEE	RECORDED
July 19, 1875	Lot 2, Robert Johnson, grantor	Book 87: p. 463
July 29, 1875	Robert Johnson, grantee	Book 4: p. 26

Jan. 18, 1884	Anna Bubb & husband, grantor	Book 33: p. 20
Nov. 21, 1885	Charles Sommer, grantee	Book 114: p. 3

In 1885 John moved his family to Boston, Missouri, and bought the "Gastel farm" located about one and a half miles south of Boston. His sons, Joe, George, and Bob, did most of the farm work as John was about fifty at this time. John's sons and daughters lived at home until they were married.

Marie died in 1898 leaving John a widower for the succeeding twenty-three years. In later years John lived in Quincy, Illinois, with his daughter, Lizzie Condat. In 1902 John visited his son, Joe John, in Doty, Washington. At that time he met his grandsons, John Hubert, and Lloyd, and took them fishing and blackberry picking. Lloyd recalled him as having "a sunny disposition" and a fondness for entertaining with jokes and stories. John's politics were Democratic, and he had no known church affiliation. He never drank or used profanity, but was soft spoken. In 1905 John lent each of his children $500.00. They were to pay him 6% interest until his death. When he died he left each of his heirs about $1500.00. John Joseph and his wife, Marie, were buried in the Forest Grove Cemetery, Richland Township, Barton County, Missouri. Their daughter, Essie, was also buried there.

Second Generation

2. Petrus[2] Meesen (Joannes[3], Antonius[4], Nicolaus Jr.[5])[27]. Born, 18 Jul 1795, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Christened, 18 Jul 1795, in St. Laurentuis, Masburg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland[28]. Died, 17 Mar 1869, in Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., WI. Burial in Capuchin Monastery, Mt Calvary, Fond du Lac Co, WI. Immigration: 12 Aug 1847, in New York City, NY. Occupation: farmer.

3. Petrus married Elisabetha[2] Lambrich (Joannes[3], Jacobus[4], Bartholomaus[5])[29], 6 Sep 1821, in St. Laurentuis, Masburg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Born, 12 Jan 1798, in Kalenborn, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Died, 14 Aug 1841, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland[36].

Petrus Meesen was born in Eppenberg in the Rhineland. The village consisted of a cluster of farm homes with a population of about two hundred persons. Considering the large size of families at the time, the number of actual homes would have been quite small. The farmers lived in a central location, and their plots of land were in the surrounding countryside, as is the European custom, thus conserving farmland.

The home of Johannes and Anna Maria John Meesen, parents of Petrus, was a single structure which contained living quarters for the family, a barn and chicken house for the animals, and a shed for tools and wagons.

About four kilometers distant from Eppenberg was the larger town of Masburg where the Roman Catholic church of St. Laurentuis was located. It was here the parish baptisms, marriages, and deaths were recorded. Both of these towns are about twenty-five miles west of Koblenz near Miesenheim and between the Rhine and Mosel Rivers.

Petrus married on September 6, 1821, an employee in his father's home, Elisabetha Lamprich. The couple had ten children, five sons survived childhood, whom Peter hoped to save from military service by coming to America. In 1847, six years after the death of his wife, Petrus and his three middle sons immigrated to America leaving behind on the Eppenburg farm the family of his eldest son, Mathias. Petrus' youngest son, Joseph John, then aged seven, was left in the care of Mathias. Before leaving for America Petrus sold his farm implements for 1,284 thaler and his furniture for 1347 thaler. He deposited the money in a bank at Mayan, a small town near Coblentz.

Before emigrating, son, Hubert, kept a diary, purchased May 3, 1847, in Cochem, Germany, and written in German, which contained copies of letters and other bits of family information. A copy of a letter written on December 26, 1847, translated into English and addressed to Joseph Rieder of Eppenberg, contained the following description of the journey of the family From Eppenberg to Mount Calvary:

On the 17th of June we left our home and went to Andernach. From there we went to Cologne on the 18th, and on the next day we took a train at Cologne which took us to Antwerp. There we went on board a ship which landed us at New York on August 12. We made the journey from New York to Albany by steamboat. From Albany to Buffalo we went by canal boat [Erie Canal], a tedious trip which required eight days. The same trip by railroad takes only two days. On the 21st we left Buffalo by steamboat, with Milwaukee as our destination, and arrived there on the 25th. In Milwaukee we had a stopover of almost two weeks because of the many immigrants there. My oxen cost me 100 Prussian thaler, my wagon cost 71. With my family I arrived in Calumet on September 7. I bought a stove for cooking and baking. It is equipped with all the necessary cooking utensils and cost me 23 thaler.

I bought a farm of 160 acres from the Territory for 1.20 thaler per acre. Eighty acres in woodland, the remainder pasture and meadow land. I have built a fair sized home, 26 feet long and 18 feet wide, with a good gable roof. My plow, without the wheels, cost me 20 thaler. I see the people here do not use wheeled plows.

There are 125 families in our county. Each family lives on its own farm. Wheat is usually harvested from the 12th to the 18th of each month of July. One bushel of wheat sells for 6 shillings, corn 2 1/2 and potatoes 2 1/2 shillings. If an immigrant comes here with 200 to 300 thalers, he has enough for a good start. If he has more than that, he is well off, but one can get along with even less.

When someone from home comes here, have him bring me 16 yards of woolen goods and I will pay him one thaler per yard. Also ask him to bring me two good workcoats. I will pay him two dollars per coat upon delivery. If one plans to come here, he should make no definite traveling arrangements before coming to Antwerp. Transportation is least expensive about the first of June. Take the train from Cologne to Antwerp and be careful to take a steamboat from New York to Albany. From Albany to Buffalo it is much better to ride the train than the canal boat. We found the canal boat much slower and more expensive because of the charge for baggage. Be sure to take a big ship on the ocean crossing, at least a three master.

I got all my information from Kreiser, an agent in Antwerp. Anyone coming to Calumet will be landed at Sheboygan, I will meet him there with my wagon.

Fond Du Lac County, Wisconsin

In 1847 Indians and white settlers alike occupied the land. The raw land in the prairie farm was cleared by felling the trees and burning them together with the stumps. Life was extremely difficult for the Miesen family in those early years while they were struggling to clear the land and increase the productivity of the farm. To raise cash for their survival the three sons were sent from home to work on neighboring farms.

Petrus was a mason as well as a farmer. He assisted in the construction of the Capuchin Monastery in Mount Calvary by hauling stone from his farm a distance of two to three miles. Although this building burned in the 1890's, in the basement structure of the present monastery can be seen the original stones. In addition to this contribution to his community, Petrus was a tax collector and road master.

Nine years later the eldest and youngest sons, Mathias and Joseph Johann, sold the family farm in Eppenberg and joined their father in Wisconsin. This journey took six weeks, and the usual overcrowding and disease aboard took the lives of many passengers. By this time the middle three sons had left home and relocated in Illinois where they had learned new trades.

As Petrus entered his declining years, the last five of which were spent in a wheelchair, only Mathias and the youngest son, Joseph John, still remained at home. Petrus wrote his other sons asking that one of the boys return home to help out with the farm. The boys drew lots and Hubert was the loser. He was entrusted with $100.00, a considerable sum of money at the time. and departed leaving behind his sweetheart. Hubert never arrived in Wisconsin and despite efforts to locate him was never heard from again. Whether he had skipped out, was robbed, or killed, could not be determined. M. J.. the middle son, married his own sweetheart and returned home to help care for his father.

When Petrus died on March 17, 1869, he was buried at the Mt. Calvary Capuchin Monastery. His grave, located just to the right of the cemetery entrance, was marked by a black oaken cross. Mathias and M. J. Miesen were also buried in the cemetery as well as many other of their descendants. The farm of Petrus Miesen was inherited by the eldest son, Mathias. Mathias' son, Mathias Jr.. purchased what remained of the farm, only nineteen acres of which had been cleared.

The children of Petrus and Elisabetha Lambrich Meesen were:

i. Hubert[1] Miesen[29]. Born, 20 Aug 1822, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Died, 23 Oct 1822, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland.

ii. Mathias Miesen[6]. Born, 8 Oct 1823, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem. Rhineland. Died, 24 Nov 1896, in Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., WI. Burial: 26 Nov 1896, in Capuchin Monastery, Mt Calvary, Fond du Lac Co, WI. Census: 5 Jul 1860. in Calumet, Fond-du-Lac Co., WI; p. 43. Immigration: 3 Sep 1856. in New York City. NY. Occupation: farmer. He married Margretha Ollig[29], daughter of Mathias Ollig and Anna Lambrich, 20 Nov 1845, in Kaisersesch. Kreis Cochem Rhineland.

Matthias, eldest son of Petrus Meesen, and his wife, Margreth Ollig. had been married a little over a year when his father decided to emigrate from Eppenberg, Germany, to America with three of his sons. Joseph John, the youngest son of Peter, aged seven, was left with Matthias and Margreth at the family farm at Eppenberg. Nine years later Matthias. his wife and five children, and brother. John Joseph, emigrated to join their father in Wisconsin. They endured a perilous and miserable sea voyage as described in a letter and recorded in the diary of his brother, Hubert, as follows:

> On the 25th of June, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, we left home and arrived in Neuwied on the 26th at 4 o'clock in the morning. At 5 in the afternoon. we left Neuwied by steamboat to Cologne. On the 27th, by train, we left Cologne for Dillamund. From Dillamund on the 28th, we left at 5 in the morning and arrived in Antwerp at 9 o'clock We remained in Antwerp from the 28th of June to the 16th of July. The weather was so bad that we did not start our voyage across the ocean until July 16th at 2 in the afternoon.

We traveled two days on the English Channel before we could see land. On the 8th, 9th, and 10th of August, we had storms. For a few days we had fair weather, but on the 15th a severe storm came up and lasted more than a week. The storm increased steadily in severity. I could not tell you what we went through. Late in the afternoon of the 26th the storm reached its height. We could neither sit up or stay in bed. The ship was tossed around like a ball. All we could do was to lie on the floor and pray. We prayed for an early end of the storm. The sky was covered with heavy black clouds. The thunderstorm was horrible from the first. All sails, except two small ones near the front of the ship were taken down. These were torn to a thousand pieces before they could be hauled down. The ship literally was buried by the waves. Nobody was permitted to remain on deck. Once, there was a terrible blow against one side of the ship which moved all furniture and luggage. With everybody screaming, the turmoil cannot be imagined. All we could do was to lie in the midst of our scattered belongings and cry out to God Almighty. When we had despaired of seeing the morning, the storm suddenly ceased. It was fortunate, for our ship was leaking in several places. We could not have held out much longer.

On the 2nd of S. [September] at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, we saw land. On the 3rd of September we landed in New York. We left New York by steamboat for Albany on the 4th of September; arriving in Albany on the 5th of September at 7 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon of the 5th, we left by train for Buffalo. On the 8th of September, we took a steamship from Buffalo to Milwaukee; from Milwaukee on the 15th of September to Calumet, arriving at Friedrich Bell's in Calumet on the 21st Matthias was enumerated in the Calumet, Fond du Lac County, Wisconsin census on July 5, 1860. His farm consisted of forty acres, only nineteen of which had been cleared. About 1888 Matthias' son, Matthias, purchased the farm for $1400.00, and added eighty adjacent acres. Matthias, Sr., died in 1896, after being widowed about twenty-six years. He suffered with "asthma" (emphysema?) the last years of his life, probably as a result of having worked in copper mines in Superior, Wisconsin, during the Civil War. He and his wife were buried in the same plot in the Capuchin Cemetery with his father and youngest son, John.

iii. Hubert Miesen[30]. Born, 5 Sep 1826, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland.

Hubert Miesen immigrated to Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., Territory of Wisconsin, in 1847, arriving at Calumet, Wisconsin, two days after his twenty-first birthday.

Hubert assisted his father to build their first home, clear land, and put in crops using the oxen they had purchased on the way to Mt. Calvary.

Hubert was the first to leave the family farm going to Jacksonville, Illinois. His brothers, M.J. and John Joseph, joined him. When their father was about sixty-one he asked that one of the boys return home to help him. The boys were all learning a new trade and drew lots to see who would take time off to go home. They took up a collection and sent Hubert with $100.00. In Chicago Hubert sent a card saying he was on his way, but he never arrived. He was never heard from again despite advertisements in papers to locate him. Whether he died, met with foul play, or left deliberately is unknown. The latter possibility would seem unlikely as he sent a card announcing his departure to his father and left his sweetheart behind in Illinois.

Hubert kept a diary from which the story of the journey to America was obtained. See Petrus Miesen, of whom Hubert was the third son, for these accounts. Below is a page from his diary:

iv. Mathias Joseph "M.J." Miesen[1]. Born, 23 Dec 1829, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem. Rhineland. Died, 5 Aug 1904, in Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., WI. Burial: 9 Aug 1904, in Capuchin Monastery, Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., WI[31]. Immigration: 12 Aug 1847. He married[16] Maria Anna Kommers[16], daughter of Adolph Kommers and Catherine Roehr, 9 Aug 1854, in Mt. Calvary, Fond du Lac Co., WI.

M. J., second son of Peter Miesen, emigrated from Eppenberg, Germany, with his father in 1847. He assisted in the construction of their first home and planting of the first crops.

His father's farm would not support the children and their families so M. J. joined his brother, Hubert, in Jacksonville, Illinois. His father had appealed for one of his sons to return home. After the disappearance of his brother, Hubert, M. J. who had a sweetheart, Anna Kommers, in Wisconsin, returned home. The couple was married in 1854 and assisted in the care of M. J.'s father who was in a wheelchair the last five years of his life. M. J. purchased a farm known as the "Charles Blatz Farm." He and Anna reared a family of thirteen children. M. J. organized and managed the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company in Mt. Calvary. M. J.'s funeral was one of the largest ever held in Mt. Calvary. He and his wife were buried in the Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

v. Johann Miesen[16]. Born, 23 Oct 1833, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Died, 18 Nov 1833, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland. Burial in St. Laurentuis, Masburg, Kreis Cochem, Rhineland[32].

vii. Joseph Johann Miesen[1]. Born, 1 Mar 1840, in Eppenberg, Kreis Cochem Rhineland[33]. Died, 16 Mar 1919, in Judsonia, White Co., AR. Census: 7 Jul 1870, in Perry, Pike Co., IL; p. 2[34]. Immigration: 12 Aug 1847, in New York City, NY. Occupation: blacksmith. He married[16] Harriet "Hattie" Hatfield[16], daughter of Roderick Hatfield, 30 Oct 1871, in Perry, Pike Co., IL.

Joe was the youngest of his father's seven sons. His mother died when he was only a year old. When his father decided to leave Eppenberg and come to the United States, he left Joe, then aged seven, with Joe's eldest brother and his wife who reared him until at the age of seventeen the family was reunited at Mount Calvary, Wisconsin. Joe lived at home until his brother, M.J., asked him to leave at the conclusion of the harvest work. He was sent forth with two silver dollars and thin, outgrown clothing. He had lived with a German speaking family and knew very little English. He had to walk to Perry, Illinois, where his brother, John Joe, and his new wife were living.

Joe was drafted in the Civil War and was sent with his company as a guard for an immigrant wagon train going to Utah. There he was stationed in Salt Lake City, Provo, and Camp Carson, now Carson City. He also served at Fort Douglas in Colorado. He was discharged in Illinois and made a visit home to his father, but soon realized there was no possibility of his staying on the farm as M. J. and his wife, Anna, were living there, and his father's mind had become very bad. He returned to Perry, Illinois, and joined his brother, John, in the carriage making business. He was located there, aged twenty-nine, in the 1870 census.

After his marriage to Harriet Hatfield in 1871, the newlyweds journeyed to Judsonia, Arkansas, by covered wagon. There Joe took up farming on a one hundred sixty acre homestead. He built a three room white farmhouse with a big fireplace. Later this house was expanded to seven rooms by adding a second story with two bedrooms, a parlor, and a big dining room. The farm had a good sized barn, granary, and corn crib as well as a vineyard. Harriet died when only thirty-nine, and her youngest child only three years of age. Joe reared his family of five alone.

Joe was known for his honest and upright character, always having a kind word for others. Joe was a devout Baptist after giving up his Roman Catholic religion.

ChapterXX

THE MORGAN FAMILY

This chapter will trace all descendants of William (Stewart) Morgan[11] except those of his daughters, Elizabeth Morgan who married Isaac T. Canterbury, and Emily L. Morgan who married Carlisle Harrison Canterbury. These daughters and their descendants are included in their separate chapters with their husbands.

The grandparents of William Morgan were Thomas and Johannah Morgan. The birthplace of Thomas Morgan is unknown; however, he grew up without formal schooling being unable to write his name. He may have been the Thomas Morgan who appeared on James Pickett's list of tithables in Orange County, Virginia, in 1739. On this same list were Robert Morgan and Thomas and William Jackson. Thomas Morgan and his son, were associated with the Jackson family throughout their residence in Virginia.

In order to follow the land records in Virginia it must be understood that Frederick County was formed in 1743 from Orange County, and in turn Hampshire County was formed in 1754 from Frederick. From Hampshire County, Berkeley County was formed in 1772. Hampshire and Berkeley Counties are now in West Virginia.

As recorded in Orange County, Virginia Deed Book 6, pages 324-325, on September 29, 1741, a Thomas Morgan mortgaged his "crop of corn and tobacco and one cow and one heifer markt with a crop and a slit in the right ear, the left with a single crop, and three sows and piggs, and three barrows[12] and one gun and four sides of leather and one calf skin, one small pott and one tubb and one piggin[13] and one table" to Isaac Smith for 3800 pounds of tobacco to be paid before 13 October next.

Whether or not this was the Thomas Morgan who was grandfather of William Morgan and father of John cannot be ascertained, as more than one Thomas Morgan resided in Orange County; however, it is certain that on January 3, 1763, William's grandfather, Thomas Morgan, received a warrant for 191 acres on Sleepy Creek on the north side of Warm Spring Road adjacent to "his own land" and that of Robert Rose. The survey for this property was made on April 26, 1763, by Robert Rose, the chain carriers being William and Thomas Jackson, and the markers, Thomas Morgan and his son. A patent was issued by Lord Fairfax on August 28, 1766, for these 191 acres[14]. On August 3, 1766, just twenty-five days previously, William Jackson, whose wife was Elizabeth, also had been granted 145 acres on Sleepy Creek.

As was indicated in the above mentioned warrant, issued on January 3, 1763, Thomas Morgan was already the owner of land on Sleepy Creek. The earlier tract contained 187 acres, 116 of which were granted to John Grier in 1769. The remaining 71 acres were sold in 1781 by Thomas' son, John, to William Neil. This William Neil (Jr.) was the son of William Neil and grandson of John Neil.

[11] Family tradition is that William Morgan's middle name was Stuart. No deed or other record has been found to confirm this. James Stuart, who witnessed a deed of John Morgan in Hampshire County, County, Virginia, in 1785 is the only known Stuart/Stewart associated with the family.

The Neils were a Quaker family as were many of the earliest settlers in Orange County. John and Lewis Neil had arrived in Orange County prior to November 4, 1735. John Neil's son, William, owned, in addition to the four hundred acre tract with a mill bequeathed to him by his father in 1750, 232 acres on the south side of the Great Cacapon River in Hampshire County, Virginia, which were patented to him on September 29, 1766[15]. William Neil's will was written December 10, 1778, and proved, March 2, 1779, in Frederick County naming four sons: Samuel, Lewis, William, and Thomas. William Neil bequeathed to his minor son, William, a 350 acre tract of land on Sleepy Creek in Berkeley County.

Thomas Morgan witnessed a deed on January 6, 1779, of John Larew to William Jackson for 137 acres on the Cacapon River. Between that date and April of the same year, Thomas Morgan's death occurred. His widow, Johannah, and his son, John, requested that a deed be issued in John's name for Thomas' 191 acre tract. The fact that John was the heir of Thomas Morgan was attested to two years later on February 9, 1781, by William Jackson and John Constant, father-in-law of John Morgan.

John Morgan, son of Thomas and Johannah Morgan, was probably born in 1747 as on January 8, 1800, he deposed before the Fleming County, Kentucky Court of Quarter Sessions that he was aged fifty-two. On the Great Cacaphon River, in present Morgan County, West Virginia, John Morgan, William Jackson, and John Constant were neighbors. John Constant is known to have lived at that location as early as 1748. John Morgan married Martha Constant about 1768, their first known child, Evan, having been born March 6, 1769. On November 21, 1771, John Morgan received a warrant for 308 acres on Wiggen's and Bennet's Runs at the foot of Sidling Hill. The survey was made on June 19, 1772, by Richard Rigg with the aid of chain carriers, William Jackson and John Constant.

Two years later John Constant sold William Jackson sixty acres on the Great Cacapeon. In January of 1779, William Jackson purchased 137 additional acres from John Larew with Thomas Morgan and John Constant acting as witnesses. The names of John Morgan and his father-in law, John Constant, were again linked when John Constant sold 200 acres to Jacob Constant on August 10, 1782, John Morgan and John Swaim acting as witnesses. On April 3, 1785, John Morgan was security for the settlement of the estate of Jacob Locks, and John Constant was a witness.

The 232 acre tract on the south bank of the Great Cacapehon Creek, patented on September 29, 1766, to William Neil, was conveyed to John Morgan on February 9, 1781, by the heirs of William Neil, Sr. At that time "Joanna Morgan, Widow of Thomas & mother of John," requested the deed be in her son's name[16]. This would make it appear that Joanna Morgan was an heir of William Neil. One hundred acres of this tract were later leased by John and Martha Morgan to "Jonathan Morgan (brother to said John Morgan)," on May 9/10 1785 for one hundred pounds. Witnesses to this lease/release were John Swaim, William Jackson, and James Stuart. The remainder of this 132 acre tract was leased three months later on August 8/9 to John and Ruth Bills for eighty pounds.

As previously stated John Morgan inherited from his father, the 191 acre grant of August 28, 1766, on Sleepy Creek. These 191 acres were disposed of in two separate parcels. Forty-five and 1/2 acres of this tract were sold by "John Morgan and Joanna his mother" to Jacob Kale of Berkeley County for one hundred pounds in a lease/release dated April 16/17, 1781[17]. His mark was affixed to the deed. Another deed previously had been made by "John and Joanna his mother" on April 16/17 of 1779, to Samuel and Elizabeth Neil, which conveyed to them 145 1/2 acres for two thousand pounds[18].

The original August 3, 1766, patent of William and Elizabeth Jackson, on Sleepy Creek, Berkeley County, also was disposed of in two separate sales. The first portion, a tract of 97 1/2 acres, was sold to the same Samuel and Elizabeth Neil on April 16/17, 1779[19]. The remainder of the tract, 47 1/2 acres, was transferred on April 16/17, 1781, to Jacob Kale who paid fifty pounds for the property[20]. The families of William Jackson and John Morgan, heir of Thomas Morgan, had disposed of their Sleepy Creek property on the same date.

Although no official record has been found, family lore is that John Morgan served in the Revolutionary War with General Anthony "Mad Anthony" Wayne who commanded forces in Pennsylvania. It is interesting to note that Lucas Hood whose father's first wife was a sister of Captain John Constant and thus a nephew of John Morgan's wife, served as a spy for Anthony Wayne and participated in the Battle at Fallen Timbers on August 20, 1794, near present day Toledo, Ohio. Although John Morgan's military service has not been proved, he did receive certificate #110 on January 31, 1781, from the Hampshire County commissioners for supplying thirty-one pounds of flour for troops of the American Revolution. These certificates could be used for payment of county taxes. Based on this service, the Daughters of the American Revolution recognized John as a patriot on April 26, 1996.

David Mitchell, a district tax recorder for Hampshire County, recorded in 1782 that John Morgan paid taxes on a household with nine members, only one of whom was aged sixteen or above. He had one horse and two head of cattle which increased to three horses by 1783. 1784 tax records indicated the family had increased to ten persons with an additional head of cattle as well as one dwelling and another building. By 1785, the last year in which John Morgan was found on the Hampshire Tax Rolls, there was an increase to four horses but only two head of cattle. In the same tax district during these years were John Constant, and Jonathan, Thomas, and William Morgan. John's brothers continued on the tax records through 1791. In 1792 only Thomas and William were recorded, but in 1793 all three were again residents. In 1794 Jonathan and Thomas were for the last time on Virginia tax rolls.

John Morgan's 308 acres at the foot of Sidling Hill were sold on April 18/19, 1785, to John Aikman for fifty pounds with John Constant, Jonathan Morgan, and James Stuart acting as witnesses. With the disposal of their Virginia property John and Martha were prepared to remove to Kentucky. In the spring of 1785 Constant's Station, located north of Boonesborough and established by Captain John Constant, Jr., brother of Martha Morgan, had been attacked by Indians. Captain Constant was shot in the leg and two of his young children were tomahawked. (Details of this attack may be found in the Constant Chapter) The families living there, Constant, Hood, Parvin, and Stamper, took refuge at Stroud's Station, one mile to the south. The Morgan family joined them there. Martha Constant Morgan's sister, Ruth, later married John Strode, Jr.

John and Martha Morgan settled on a tract of 250 acres on Woodrough Creek in Bourbon County. This area became part of Clark County when it was formed from Bourbon in 1793. Clark County tax rolls first showed John Morgan with 200 acres, but by 1796 he held 228 acres on Hood's Creek, a part of the patent of John Constant. In 1797 John Morgan was transferred to the tax rolls of newly formed Montgomery County which indicated he held the same 228 acres and 50 additional acres on the Licking River. In 1798 John, his sons, Evan and John Jr., and son-in-law, John Martin were no longer taxpayers. The families had removed to Ohio.

By April of 1797 the family of John Morgan, Sr., his sons, Evan and Isaac, and son-in-law, Harry Martin, together with other families had purchased land between the Little and Great Miami Rivers. The grantor, Judge Symmes, had not provided a deed nor a written receipt for the property, and had forfeited his claim. Volume III, page 29, of the Territorial Papers of the United States recorded a petition to congress dated July 13, 1799, by citizens of the Northwest territory. After a second petition was made to congress on October 22, 1800, the right of pre-emption was granted to the signers, who, having lost their purchase money, were extended credit for payment. On December 28, 1801, John Morgan of Hamilton County, Ohio, paid $83.00 at the Cincinnati Land Office as a first installment of purchase money and surveying expense for the NW 1/4 of S35, T3, RN6, containing one hundred sixty acres at $2.00 per acre. The tract was located near present Bellbrook in Sugar Creek Township of Greene County which formed in 1803. John's sons, Evan and John, Jr., filed on the same day for property in the same section. The names of John Morgan, Jr. and Sr., as well as John's sons, Evan and Isaac, appeared on a list of residents of Beaver Creek Township, Greene County, on May 10, 1803.

Another unconfirmed family tradition is that John accompanied his sons, William and Thomas to Sangamon County, Illinois, where he died in 1834 while living with the family of Thomas. John was said to have been buried in an old graveyard at Richland, twelve miles from Petersburg.

An excellent source for more detailed information concerning the descendants of John Morgan may be found in a series of well documented volumes by Gerald E. Collins and Ann Tuophy which may be found in many libraries. These works treated separately and in detail the known descendants of each son and daughter of John.

William Morgan was born in Hampshire County, Virginia, about 1784, the son of John Morgan and Martha Constant. When Willliam was aged six, his parents and paternal and maternal relatives moved to Bourbon County, Kentucky, which first opened for settlement after the Revolution. Between 1797 and 1799 the Morgans again moved to newly settling Hamilton County, in the Ohio Territory, an area which became Greene County in 1803.

It was in Greene County that William married Sarah Vance, daughter of Joseph Vance and Nancy Bradley on January 29, 1805, Joshua Carman, a Baptist minister, officiating. William's brother, Isaac, had married Margaret, daughter of Joshua Carman, in 1802.

Xenia Township of Greene County took an enumeration of white males over twenty-one in 1807. William, John, and Evan Morgan appeared on this list. On September 15, 1809, William took an oath as executor of the will of his brother, John.

William Morgan served in the War of 1812 as we know from the Biographical Review of Des Moines County, Iowa. He was often called "Colonel" Morgan which was probably an honorary title and not related to military service.

The first record of a land purchase by William Morgan was on October 28, 1811, when he still resided in Greene County. He made the first installment for purchase, at $2.00 per acre of one hundred sixty acres located in the NE quarter of section 13 of Jackson Township in an area southeast of Connersville, Fayette County, Indiana. Two receipts filed at the Cincinnati Receiver's Office, #16544 for $17.00 and #16609 for $63.00, constituted the first installment on this property. Sarah's brother, John Vance, purchased property in the same area on the same date. The History of Fayette County, Indiana stated that on March 17, 1814, William and Sarah Morgan became charter members of the "Old School" Baptist Church, later to be called the Franklin Baptist Church. Meetings were held at first in homes of members and later in a one-story log church. Four of the Morgan's daughters were born in Indiana.

By the time of the 1820 census William and Sarah were residents of Madison County, Illinois, which became Sangamon County the following year. William and Sarah were in the 26-45 age group and had two sons and six daughters at home. William's nearest neighbor was his brother, Jonathan. On September 19th of that year, William and Sarah Morgan of Fayette County, Indiana, sold William Thompson, also of Fayette County, the SE 1/4 of section 3, township 13, range 12E for $2,200.00.

On June 23, 1821, William Morgan was appointed as a judge in Richland Precinct, Sangamon County. According to the History of Sangamon County he was elected to be Sangamon County Commissioner in the years 1822 through 1825.

On Saturday, November 8, 1823, William Morgan purchased, for $1.25 an acre, one hundred sixty-one acres of public land in section 6 of Gardner Township at the land office in Springfield. which had opened only two days previously. By 1833 the Sangamon County tax records showed that forty acres of this property were owned by Rawley Morgan and James Marshall. Other Morgan family members who filed on November 8, 1823, were Thomas Morgan, Jonathan Morgan, and Evan Morgan. Two days later William purchased two parcels in section 1 of Cartwright Township at $1.25 per acre. These properties contained one hundred forty-seven and one hundred fifty-four acres. A fourth parcel was purchased on November 27th, in section 12 of Cartwright Township. William and his brother, Jonathan, were recorded as voters in Richland Precinct in 1824.

On the day after Christmas, 1826, William Morgan of Sangamon County was named as a commissioner to explore Vermilion County and designate a place to become the county seat of justice. On January 31, 1827, William Morgan, Zachariah Peters, and John Kilpatrick reported their choice of a site to be at the mouth of the North Fork of the Vermilion River at what became the county seat, Danville. This account was found in the History of Vermilion County by H. W. Beckwith, page 89.

The 1830 census of Sangamon County listed William Morgan and his wife, both 40-50 years of age. They had three sons and three daughters at home in this census. On April 2, 1831, William purchased an additional eighty acres at $1.25 per acre in section 12 of Cartwright Township. The patent was issued on September 16th of that year. In the year 1832, Springfield, Illinois, was incorporated, Abraham Lincoln being one of the trustees. It seems certain William Morgan was acquainted with our former president as they were both practicing law in 1830.

Once again the Morgans were to be pioneers in a newly opening section of the country. In 1832 William Morgan and his daughter, Sarah, went into Flint Hills[21], three miles south of what was to become Burlington, Des Moines County, Iowa. There they built a cabin and planted corn in preparation for the removal of the entire family. This area was part of the Black Hawk Purchase; however, the Indians were to retain possession until June 1, 1833. Since the Morgans and other families were in violation of the treaty, soldiers were sent by the United States government from Rock Island to burn the cabins and destroy the fencing and new crops. The corn crop and cabin of William Morgan escaped destruction as, being surrounded by a dense thicket, their improvements went undetected. In February of 1833 all settlers were driven to Big Island on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River and made to remain there until the Indian title was extinguished. When William Morgan became a member of the Hawkeye Pioneer Association formed in 1853, he signed his name in the signature book and put the date of his coming to Iowa as June 1, 1833.

On September 10, 1833, William returned to Iowa with his entire family. Four married daughters also settled in Flint Hills: Martha, who had married Joseph Bartlett Teas; Mary, wife of Charles Teas; Nancy, who had married Lewis Watters; and Mary Elizabeth, wife of Isaac Canterbury. William Morgan made a claim to half a section below Hawk Eye Creek. Additional cabins were built, rail fences erected, and corn crops planted at what later became the site of the present Union Depot of Burlington.

That same fall William's daughter, Matilda, became engaged to Dr. William R. Ross, a dealer in furs and other mercantile goods. William Ross had been widowed on June 23rd when his wife, Phoebe, and their two daughters died of cholera. Matilda and William could not be legally married on the west side of the river, so the bridegroom arranged for Judge Allen to meet them opposite Flint Hills on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River. The wedding party, relatives, and guests boarded a ferry flatboat and under a sycamore tree the marriage took place. The marriage celebration was held at the home of Judge Morgan on the west side of the river, every person, large and small, within ten miles being invited to the feast. That fall William Ross built the first cabin to be used as a school and for religious exercises. Ross was also the first postmaster of Burlington. He and Matilda lived to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The first winter in Iowa was very difficult, the settlers being plagued with cholera and extreme cold. At one point William and Sarah and others were forced to flee to Illinois across the frozen Mississippi River to escape Indians who were in violation of the treaty.

Among the first officials for the Black Hawk Purchase was William Morgan who was appointed chief justice for Des Moines County when it was first organized as part of the Territory of Michigan. Other family members were also active in the governance of the new territory. William's son-in-law, Joseph Teas, was elected as a delegate to the Michigan Legislative Council. The first court was held on April 13, 1835, at the log cabin of William Ross in Burlington. William Ross was clerk of court, and William Morgan was the presiding judge in a case involving theft. A packing box was employed for the judge's bench. On the county grand jury was William's brother, Jonathan Morgan. On the third day of the court, a petit jury was impaneled which included William Morgan's sons-in-law: Lewis Waters/Watters/Walters, Isaac Canterbury, and Alexander Hilleary. At the September term of the court Joseph B. Teas acted as prosecuting attorney at a murder trial. At the April, 1836, court, William Ross was again clerk of court. Court records and accounts are still in existence and published in the Iowa Journal of History and Politics by Benjamin F. Shambaugh.

Judge Morgan belonged to the Campbellite Church, also called the Disciples of Christ or Christian Church, of Des Moines County. The church met at Judge Morgan's home in the early days of the county. According to the beliefs of the church, no minister was necessary to conduct services.

In the Des Moines County court records was recorded a suit filed by William Morgan against Haywood Reed and Amos Ladd for failure to pay a promissory note for $100.00 issued September 19, 1837. The suit was recorded between June 22, 1838, and December 30, 1838. The plaintiff, William, was successful and recovered court costs and attorney's fees.

The 1840 census listed William, aged 50-60, and Sarah, 40-50, with one son, 20-30, another 15-20, and a third, 10-15. An unidentified female, 15-20, was also with the family.

Land records in Iowa provided much additional information about the Morgan children as well as further proof for the names of their grandparents. The following is a list of some of the property transactions in Iowa:

February 8, 1843 - William and Sarah Morgan, his wife, deeded John Bradley Morgan 65 acres in Des Moines County, section 25 of Union Township for $1.00 and natural love and affection.

February 15, 1843 - William and Sarah Morgan, his wife, deeded William Constant Morgan 75 acres/

March 21, 1843 - Joseph V. Morgan and Ann his wife, brother and sister of Matilda, wife of William R. Ross, sister of Joseph V. Morgan, convey Joseph Jeffers in trust, a parcel in section 13 of Union Township for Matilda Ross.

January 26, 1846 - Joseph Vance Morgan and Anna, his wife, sold Alexander Hilleary (brother-in-law of Joseph V. Morgan) for $2,100 a parcel in section 24 of Union Township.

February 8, 1849 - William and Sarah Morgan sold two parcels of land in Mahaska County to Andrew Rutter for $1,200. The property was located in sections 25 and 33, T74, R15

January 28, 1850 - William and Sarah Morgan of Wapello County sold Joseph V. Morgan of Marion County, Iowa, a parcel in S35, T74, R17, Mahaska County, for $500.00.

August 10, 1852 - William and Sarah Morgan of Mahaska County, Iowa, sold 120 acres to Thomas Sumner in S35, T74, R17.

In the 1850 census William and Sarah were recorded as residents of Oskaloosa Township, Mahaska County, Iowa. William was aged sixty-six, and Sarah was sixty-four. In their household was May I. Morgan, widow of their son, William Constant Morgan. Sarah's mother, Nancy Vance, aged eighty-five, was probably with the family. She was listed as Nancy Banks, probably in error, as in her will and on her tombstone she was still Nancy Vance. When Nancy Bradley Vance wrote her will on November 15, 1853, she bequeathed her daughter, Sarah Morgan, half of her clothing. On February 1, 1838, Sarah's father, Joseph Vance, died in McDonough County, Illinois. When the final settlement was made on March 19, 1855, William and Sarah Morgan received $88.87, as did each of the children of Joseph.

Oddly, William and Sarah Morgan have not been located in the 1860 census, but Sarah was buried in the Old Middletown Cemetery in Flint River Township, Des Moines County, Iowa, on September 10, 1861. Sarah was thus spared the grief of the deaths of three grandsons who died a few years later in the Civil War: Trevanian H. Teas, William R. Ross, and John J. Hilleary.

William Morgan died in 1866 and may have been buried beside his wife although no record remains in the vandalized cemetery. William's death date was recorded in the Biographical Review of Des Moines, County, Iowa. No will has been located.

Martha married Joseph Bartlett Teas[11], son of George W. and Lovey Teas, 13 Jun 1822, in Sangamon Co., IL[10]. Born, 4 Jul 1800, in Tennessee. Resided: 1833, in Black Hawk Purchase (Des Moines Co., IA). Census: 23 Oct 1850, in Bloomfield Twp., Davis Co., IA; p. 319. Census: 1860, Monroe Co., IA; p. 7. Census: 1870, in Albia, Monroe Co., IA, p. 423. Occupation: attorney.

Joseph B. Teas came to the area below present day Burlington, Iowa, when it was first opened for settlement in February of 1833. He had married Martha, the daughter of Judge William Morgan, in Sangamon County, Illinois, on August 1, 1824. When Joseph came to Iowa it was in company with his father-in-law, his brother, Charles Teas, and two brothers-in-law, Isaac Canterbury and Lewis Watters.

Joseph B. Teas was the prosecuting attorney at the second court session in southern Iowa beginning September 14, 1835. He prosecuted James P. Dinwiddie for murder but failed to get a conviction. That same year Major Joseph B. Teas and Jeremiah Smith, Jr., attended a meeting at Green Bay to organize the Wisconsin Territory. Joseph B. Teas, a councilman for Des Moines County, was chosen to represent Des Moines County when the first Legislature of the Wisconsin Territory met in the winter of 1836-37.

Joseph's wife, Martha, died on July 19, 1833, a few months after the family removed to Des Moines County, Iowa. With five children needing a mother, Joseph was remarried on February 7, 1834, to Mary Ann Birely. A daughter, named Mary Ann, was born to them on October 13, 1835, but Mary Ann, died in childbirth, again leaving Joseph a widower. Joseph married for a third time on August 2, 1836, to Julia Ann Edwards by whom he had ten children.

As well as the loss of two wives, Joseph lost three daughters in the family's first years in Des Moines County: Sarah Ann in 1834, Julia Adaline in 1835, and Martha Ann in 1838.

The children of Joseph and Martha Morgan Teas were:

Joseph and Mary Ann Birely Teas had a daughter:

vi. Mary Ann Teas. Born, 13 Oct 1835, in Des Moines Co., IA.

Children born to Joseph and Julia Ann Edwards Teas were:

vii. Katherine Teas. Born, 22 Sep 1837
viii. Lucinda Teas. Born, 11 Mar 1839.

xvi. Nancy Teas. Born, 17 Sep 1856.

At the time of the October 23, 1850 census, Emily Morgan, aged twenty-nine, and her daughter, aged eleven months, were visiting the family. She may have been Joseph's daughter, Emily Morgan, aged 19, who was visiting the family. Emily had been recently separated or divorced from her husband, Hiram Morgan.

3. Nancy[2] Morgan (William[1])[12]. Born, circa 1807, in Greene Co., OH. Census: 1830, in Sangamon Co., IL; p. 205. Resided: 1833, in Iowa. Census: 1840, in Des Moines Co., IA; p. 106.

Nancy married Lewis/Louis Waters/Watters/Walters[13]., probably the son of James Waters. Born, before 1808[14]. Resided, 1829, in Hire Twp., McDonough Co., IL. Census: 1830, in Sangamon Co., IL; p. 205[15]. Census: 1840, in Des Moines Co., IA; p. 106[16].

It is uncertain if his given name was Lewis or Louis and if his surname was Waters, Watters, or Walters .

Lewis Walters' name first appeared in a Springfield, Illinois, Court House Poll Book on August 2, 1824, with a note that he was under age.

Lewis Walters purchased property in Hire Township, McDonough County, Illinois, in the spring of 1829 on the northeast quarter of section 3. On November, 1830, He was included in a list of voters at Springfield, Illinois. In February, 1833, Lewis Waters entered the new Black Hawk Territory which had opened in present Des Moines County, Iowa, with his father-in-law, Judge William Morgan. On April 15, 1835, at the first term of the Des Moines County Court, Lewis Walters served on a petit jury.

Luther Waters purchased two tracts on February 2, 1835 in S13, T16, R7W. William Morgan had property in section 12 of this township. Luther was a great netter of quail in the winter.

The children of Louis and Nancy Morgan Waters were:

Charles Teas officiated at the marriages of his wife's brother, Joseph Vance Morgan, and her sister, Emily Morgan Canterbury.

Mary Morgan Teas received a mother's pension, #98506, based on the Civil War service of her son, Trevanian, who was killed September 12, 1862.

The children of Charles and Mary Morgan Teas were:

A Joseph Morgan was administrator of the estate of James Morgan, October 5, 1840. James had minor heirs: Miller, William, John, and Thomas. This information was obtained from Des Moines County, Iowa Probate Book A, pages 150 and 161; and Book B, page 218. Of interest are the names of the sons of James Morgan; the last three sons bore the respective given names of the paternal father, grandfather, and great-grandfather of Joseph Vance Morgan. It would seem nearly impossible, however, that Joseph could have been a brother of James, as William Morgan had only three sons based on census data from 1820 through 1840. A Joseph Morgan and his wife, Rachel. were also residing in Des Moines County by 1843.

Joseph Morgan obtained a land patent in 1838-41 in Union Township, Des Moines County, Iowa, where he built a log cabin in which his family lived until 1848. On January 24, 1848 Joe Morgan sold his property in sections 13 and 24 of township 69, range 3, and removed his family to Wapello County, and the following year took up residence in Marion County. On January 28, 1850, Joseph's parents sold him one hundred twenty acres of land in Mahaska County. Joseph's middle name, Vance, occurred in that deed. In 1858 Joseph V. Morgan and his wife, Anna, of Marion County sold these one hundred twenty acres back to William Morgan, of Mahaska County, Iowa, for $500.00. At the time of the 1860 census Joseph was again located in Mahaska County, but he and his wife are believed to have died in Marion County.

The children of Joseph and Anna Scott Morgan were:

i. male[3] Morgan. Born, before 1840, in Des Moines Co., IA. Census: 1840, in Des Moines County, Territory of Iowa, IA; p. 54.

12 ii. Sarah E. Morgan.

Occupation: railroad worker.

6. Matilda[2] Morgan (William[1])[32]. Born, 1817, in Fayette Co., IN, near Alpine[33]. Died, 25 Mar 1888, in Lovilia, Monroe Co., IA[34]. Census: 1850, in Wapello Co., IA; p. 485. Census: 1870, in Marysville, Union Co., IA; p. 199. Census: 1880, in Lovilia, Monroe Co., IA; ED 135.

Matilda married[35] William Richard Ross[36], son of William Ross and Nancy Chinn, 3 Dec 1833, in Warren Co., IL[37]. Born, 5 Dec 1804, in Lexington, Fayette Co., KY[35]. Died, 14 Oct 1885, in Albia, Monroe Co., IA. Buried in Woodlawn Cem., Lovilia, Monroe Co., IA[35]. Census: 19 Nov 1850, in Wapello Co., IA; p. 485. Census: 1870, in Marysville, Union Co., IA; p. 199. Census: 17 Jun 1880, in Lovilia, Union Twp., Monroe Co., IA; ED135 SH1,2. Occupation: doctor, trader.

Born in Fayette, Co., Kentucky, William Richard Ross began his medical practice in Indianapolis, Indiana, in the late 1820s. He and two brothers removed to Palmyra, Missouri, in 1829. By 1830 or 1831 he operated a general store in Quincy, Illinois. In 1833 a cholera epidemic took his first wife and two of his children. When the Black Hawk Purchase opened for settlement in June of 1833, William Ross and his father settled in Flint Hills. Exhausted from the move, his father, a veteran of the Revolutionary War who was sent from Scotland to America in defense of King George, was the first person to die in Des Moines County, Iowa.

In the fall of 1833 William R. Ross and Benjamin Tucker surveyed and platted the town of Burlington. In 1834 William enclosed 160 acres of prairie land with a stake-and-rider fence and on another tract he grew eighty acres of corn. The first Methodist supply preacher, Barton G. Cartwright, stayed with Mr. Ross and broke thirty acres of prairie in March of 1834, in addition to his preaching duties. That same year William organized and taught the first Sunday School.

William Ross opened a dry goods and drug store of logs, dealing with the Sac and Fox Indians for furs. His brother, Sulifand Ross, purchased the store from him in February of 1835. On April 13, 1835, the first term of the Des Moines County Court was held in the Ross cabin, and William served as Clerk of Court that year and again in 1836. William became the first law librarian, physician, postmaster, treasurer, and recorder for Des Moines County.

W. R. Ross was active in the development of Eddyville where he joined others who signed a petition dated February 19, 1850, for the erection of a bridge across the Des Moines River. It was completed in 1858. He was a supervisor in Monroe County, Iowa in 1869, representing Union Township.

A quotation from Our Park at the Top of the Hill, page 70, provided the following account of the Ross family in Iowa:

The Ross family lived in the claims cabin until 1835 when they moved into a new, two-story log cabin east of their pasture (North Hill Park). From the beginning, the Ross home in the claims cabin was the center of community social and political activity. The new home east of the pasture was probably as fine as, or more so, than any in the community for a few years.

It is quite incredible that the small cabins on the frontier, like the claims cabin of the Ross's, could accommodate so many people for social and political affairs. Perhaps the absence of much furniture which could be easily removed from rooms for parties, is one of the answers to the puzzle.

During the long, cold winter evenings of 1833 and 1834, the latch string was usually out at the Ross's; and the entire community came to work on cooperative projects, to smoke the peace pipes (calumets) with the Indians and to "swap yarns" about the good old days back east in Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana. They came to discuss local and national politics and to plan hunting parties to kill off some of the timber wolves that endangered the lives of the villagers. When the furniture was moved, there was more room for dancing, playing games and feasting.

In the larger log cabin, the Ross's provided space for activities of the Des Moines County government, as well as a community center for a growing population in the town. There is little doubt but that some social activities of the Wisconsin Territorial Government may have been held in the Ross home before adequate room was provided elsewhere.

The Ross family lived in other residences in other parts of North Hill and in Lower Town before leaving Burlington at some time after the middle of the century.

A centennial edition of the Albia UNION-REPUBLICAN dated June 11, 1959, contained the following article:

DR.WILLIAM ROSS FOUNDED CHURCH IN CABIN IN 1834

In May 1937, a marker was erected in the Woodlawn cemetery, Lovilia, for Dr. and Mrs. William R. Ross, founders of the first Methodist church in Iowa, which was located in Burlington.

Dr. Ross was cited as one of the outstanding characters of the earliest history of Burlington, then called "Flint Hills". He settled there in 1833, moving from Kentucky. He persistently asked Peter Cartwright of Illinois, "Fifty Years a Presiding Elder", to send a preacher-pastor to Iowa. This was done on April 27, 1834 when the first Methodist class was organized in the cabin of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Ross. A bronze tablet in the Lovilia cemetery now marks the event.

Dr. Ross was the first physician in Burlington, the first merchant, the first postmaster and the first surveyor. He donated two lots and a brick church was built on this site. The first four sessions of the Iowa legislature were held in this building.

Following the loss of this home because of the heavy debt incurred, Dr. Ross moved to an Indian camp up the Des Moines river where he was joined by a Mr. Eddy and the camp was named Eddyville. He served here as general practitioner until 1859 then moved his large family to Fort Scott, Kansas, where he remained for one year.

The family then returned to the vicinity of Eddyville and operated a farm and drug store. Later they moved to Lovilia where they operated a grocery store until he was forced to retire because of the loss of his eyesight. He died in 1885 and Mrs. Ross died in 1889.

In 1883 a semicentennial of the settlement of Flint Hills was held in North Hill Park, former home of the Ross family. There William and Matilda greeted a crowd of old settlers and celebrated fifty years of marriage.

A third biographical sketch of William Richard Ross appeared in Revolutionary War Soldiers and Patriots Buried in Iowa as follows:

...William Richard had been practicing medicine in Indianapolis, Indiana in the late 1820's, but, by 1829, both he and his brother Sulifand and possible another brother, Thomas, were all living in or near Palmyra, Missouri, where they were joined by their aging father. However, William R. and his father did not remain long in Missouri, for they were operating a general store in Quincy, Illinois in 1830 or 1831. Sulifand and his family soon joined them, and Sulifand remained at the store with his father, relieving William R. to continue his practice of medicine. In 1833, tragedy struck the family when there was an outbreak of cholera in Quincy. The wife and two children of William R. died in June and, in July, Sulifand lost his wife and infant daughter. Saddened, the brothers and their father decided to leave Quincy and locate farther west. Sulifand came as far as White's Landing in Hancock County, Illinois, where he remained, hut William R. and his father, lured hy the Iowa land which had heen opened to white settlement in June 1833 as a result of the Black Hawk Purchase, continued on. Locating at Flint Hills (the English translation for the Indian name Sho-ko-kon), they set ahout huilding cahins for a store and dwelling. However, William Ross [Sr.] fatigued hy the travel and exertion soon sickened and died - the first white person to die and he huried in Des Moines County. Some years later, in speaking of his father's death, William R. was quoted as saying, "Worn down with toil and age, and heing exposed to the inclemency of a new home, the old gentleman was carried off the same fall with chills and fever; and now lies heneath the sod on the topmost pinnacle of our city."...

...William Richard was one of the first white settlers in the area that hecame Burlington, Iowa, and was prohahly one of the most influential in organizing the town. Soon after securing his claim he was married (in Decemher 1833) to Matilda Morgan, the daughter of Colonel William Morgan. Because there was no judicial system in this yet unorganized area, the couple was forced to cross the Mississippi River and ohtain a license in Monmouth, Illinois, where they were married. During the winter of 1833-34, William R. was engaged in surveying the town and hy spring he was occupied in the affairs of the rapidly growing village and the soon-to-he-organized Des Moines County. He had heen commissioned the first postmaster and carrier, and assisted in the preparations for the first election in the fall of 1834, when he was elected clerk of court, treasurer, auditor, and recorder. He may also have heen practicing medicine Too husy to contnue with the general store, he sold his merchandise and huildings to hrother Sulifand. who had also remarried in Decemher 1833, and who hrought his family there to live....

...Before 1849, William R. Ross had also left Burlington, and was living in Eddyville when the Iowa Census for Wapello County was taken in 1850. At that time he was following his profession as a physician. Later, he hecame a druggist and operated a grocery and, still later, he was joined in the husiness hy his nephew, James Harvey Ross. Little more can he found concerning William Richard Ross Dying in 1885, he was huried in Woodlawn Cemetery in Lovilia, Monroe County, Iowa, where he prohahly had heen living.

Matilda Morgan Ross lived two and a half years after the death of her husband. Her obituary, which was published in the Burlington HAWK-EYE, was written by her niece and namesake, Matilda Ross:

MATILDA MORGAN ROSS

The ranks of the pioneers of Burlington are gradually heing thinned out. Another of the numher, in the person of Mrs. Matilda Ross, has gone. Mrs. Ross was the widow of the late Dr. William R. Ross, the first post master of Burlington. Mrs. Ross was horn in Sangamon county, Ills., in 1817, and died at Lovilia, Iowa, March 25, 1888. She came with her father and family to Iowa in 1833, and on the third of Decemher of that year the marriage of herself and Dr. Ross occurred, on the east hank of the Mississippi, under a sycamore tree, Judge Allen, of Monmouth coming there to perform the ceremony. This was the first marriage in Burlington. Aunt Matilda, as the writer knew her, was a gentle Christian woman, full of graces which adorn her sex, kind to all, with a loving word to the afflicted. She lived a long, useful life. and saw Burlington grow from a log hut to a city of 30,000 people, and Iowa from a wilderness to a thickly settled, prosperous state. What a history was stored up in her memory. The old pioneers will drop a tear to the memory of one who was among the first to hrave the perils of a settlement among the wilds, and we younger ones can look to her example as an encouragement to he faithful and true. Mrs. Ross was a life-long and consistent memher of the M. E. Church. Her hushand and eight children preceded her to the grave. The four surviving are Mr. C. C. Ross of Monona county, Iowa, Mr. G. C. Ross of San Diego, California, Mrs. N. Niniver of Oskaloosa, Iowa, and Mrs. Amanda Mitchell of Hamilton, Iowa.

Page 250 of the Biographical Review of Des Moines County, Iowa gave the following account of Alexander Hilleary:

> Alexander Hilleary was a native of Virginia, whence he emigrated when a young man to Ohio, and later to Burlington, entering government land here in Burlington and Union townships, where he acquired almost seven hundred acres of the finest agricultural lands in the Mississippi valley. After coming to Iowa he spent the remainder of his life on these farms; and as he had been a farmer all his life, he still continued this occupation, in addition devoting much attention to fruit growing on an extensive scale.

The History of Des Moines County, Iowa, pages 641-2, provided this additional biographical information:

> Alexander Hilleary, a native of Virginia, born in 1809; in 1827, removed with his parents to Harrison Co., Ky.; thence to Quincy, Ill., in 1831; during the Black Hawk war in 1832, he entered the service and served during the greater part of that war; in 1833, he left Illinois and came to seek his fortune in the new country of Des Moines Co.; after traveling about, located in Burlington Tp., his present home. Dec. 2, 1834, Mr. Hilleary and Sarah Morgan daughter of the late Judge Morgan, were joined in marriage under circumstances similar to those which marked the first wedding in this section, that of W R. Ross and Mrs. Hilleary's sister, Matilda. The laws of the Territory of Michigan had not been fully enforced here when Mr. H. wished to marry, and to avoid future trouble, he secured the services of a Monmouth official; obtained a marriage license at that place, and arranged to take his expectant bride and the wedding party across the Mississippi on a flatboat. On the day above named, the ceremony was duly solemnized under a tree on the Illinois shore, and the happy couple returned to Burlington. ...Mr Hilleary is one of the pioneers of Burlington Tp.; he well remembers the hardships and trials of the early pioneers. Acts with the Republican party; is a member of the Christian Church. He started in life poor, and all his property, which he is now enjoying in peace and comfort, was acquired by his own exertions.

Alexander Hilleary served on a petit jury on April 15, 1835, during the first term of the Des Moines County court. On January 24, 1848, Joseph Vance Morgan and his wife, Anna, sold Alexander Hillary two tracts in sections 13 and 24 of Union Township, as recorded in Des Moines Co., Iowa Deed Book 10, page 123.

On April 12, 1890, the Burlington POST published an interview with Alexander Hilleary. In this article Mr. Hilleary stated he had come to Flint Hills on October 10, 1833. He arrived on a steamer, The Warrior, from the lead mines at Galena. At the time of his arrival only four families were living in present Burlington: S. S. White, Dr. W. R. Ross, the McCarver family and the Van Branigan family. Mr. Hilleary's future father-in-law was living below Hawkeye Creek. Mr. Hilleary chose his farm in section 18 and returned to Quincy for his father and brothers, James and Jackson, who helped him erect a house and to fence his land. He remained on his original homestead for fifty-seven years. His brothers made their own claims in Union Township and lived there the balance of their lives.

Sarah Morgan Hilleary died August 29, 1877. The Burlington DAILY GAZETTE of Thursday, August 30, 1877, published the following obituary:

Obituary

Below are excerpts from the History of Marion County, Iowa, and Its People, pages 70-72, which provided biographical information for John L. Morgan:

> John L. Morgan is a veteran of the Civil War and a well known and highly respected resident of Marion county, making his home in Hamilton....He enlisted for service in defense of the Union, joining Company C, Seventh Iowa Infantry, with which he served for four years. He participated in the battle of Belmont, Missouri, of Fairfax, Georgia, and also in the battle of Atlanta and the siege of that city. After its capitulation he started with Sherman on the march to the sea. During his long service he was twice wounded and at Belmont, Missouri, was captured and held a prisoner of war for eleven months. He was mustered out at Davenport, Iowa, in 1865, after which he returned to his home in Marion county, settling upon a farm here. He has remained a resident of this county with the exception of a period of eight years spent in Nebraska. His work as a farmer has been attended with a large and gratifying measure of success. He has recognized opportunities and improved them to good advantage, and as the years have gone by his labors have brought to him a well merited reward....

... Mr. Morgan is well known as a prominent and influential member of Hamilton Lodge, No. 78, I.O.O.F., in which he has filled all of the chairs. He likewise holds membership with the Knights of Pythias, and his wife is connected with the Pythian Sisters. His political endorsement is given to the republican party, but he never seeks nor desires political office. He has served, however, for a number of years as school director and the cause of education finds in him a stalwart friend who believes in the employment of competent teachers and the utilization of progressive methods in the conduct of the schools. The spirit of advancement actuates him in all things and has made him therefore one of the leading farmers of the community. He is, moreover, one of the pioneer settlers, having been a resident of this county for sixty-five years, in which period he has seen it emerge from the conditions of frontier life and take on all of the evidences of a modern and progressive civilization. He can remember a time when wild game was quite plentiful and when much of the land in this county was still unclaimed and uncultivated. Comparatively few wagon roads had been laid out and only here and there was a cabin to indicate that the work of civilization had been begun. As the years passed on he bore his part in advancing the county and its best interest, and he has left an indelible impress for good upon the development of this section.

The Biographical Review of Des Moines County, pages 250-1, provided for us the following biography of Samuel Abbot Flanders:

> Samuel A. Flanders, in whose life record there is much that is worthy of emulation, and whose memory is dear to the hearts of a large circle of friends who knew and honored him during his active life, was one of the noble figures in the history and development of this section of Iowa, being known throughout Des Moines county as one who was singularly devoted to all that might conduce to the moral and ethical advancement of mankind, as well as being always among the first to aid any movement for the material upbuilding of the community in which he made his home He was born in Concord, N H., May 23, 1832, a son of Jacob and Huldah (Abbott) Flanders, his grandparents being Richard and Mary Chandler (West) Flanders and Samuel and Mary (Story) Abbott....
>
> Samuel A. Flanders entered the schools of Concord at the usual age and was well educated, he fitting himself for the profession of teaching, which he followed for some time after completing his studies. At the age of twenty-two, however, he felt an ambition to enter into the larger life of the West, then first opening to the world its magnificent field of opportunity, and came to Burlington. Here he taught for a time in district schools near the city, and here on Oct. 24, 1854, he was united in marriage to Miss Martha A. Hilleary, who was born near Burlington April 12, 1837, a daughter of Alexander and Sarah (Morgan) Hilleary....
> ...When the Civil War broke out, Mr. Flanders enlisted in Company D, First Iowa Cavalry, and was wounded in Lafayette county, Missouri, Sept. 24, 1861, for which he drew a small pension. March 11, while at home, Mr. Flanders was besieged by non-union men for taking a copperhead pin from one of their number. These nonunionists threatened to moh him if he did not give up the pin. This Mr. Flanders refused to do, telling them he looked upon the pin as he did upon a rehel flag. When Mr. Flander's Union neighhors heard of these threats, they came at once to his home, and offered to stand by him to the very last. The mob did not venture to come themselves, hut sent an officer to speak for them; but when he saw Mr. Flanders was so well protected, he retired at once, and advised the mob to he off as soon as possible. Mrs. Flanders has the pin in her possession to-day.

Upon his marriage Mr. Flanders purchased a farm of one hundred and thirty acres in Augusta township, where he devoted his time to farming for a period of fifteen years, at the expiration of which time he sold it and removed to Union township, where he hought a farm of fifty acres. This he made his home during the rest of his life, and as he had learned the trade of carpentering in his hoyhood, working at it in the intervals of teaching school, he built on the land a fine home, doing the work himself....

...Mr. Flanders was very successful as a farmer and in a material way, hut he did not allow his mind to he absorbed by the pursuit of business to the exclusion of higher interest, and was a faithful member and worker in the Baptist church in Augusta township, for several years holding the office of deacon. Mrs. Flanders is also identified with the Baptist church, holding her membership in Burlington, and since the death of her husband has shown herself a woman of ability in matters of business as well as a lady of most estimable character, she having purchased an addition of forty acres to the farm, from which she draws a handsome revenue. The portion devoted to fruit growing she manages personally, and the remainder she rents. Her home is the center of a profuse hospitality, and she has many friends who value her for her social gifts and fine personality....

...Mr. Flanders' death was the occasion of deep and widespread regret, for he was an upright and honorahle man in every respect, and won the esteem of all and the love of many. In his family he was a kind and devoted husband and father, his best characteristics heing reserved for those of his own household; and yet he was hroad and humane in his sympathies, charitahle, kindly, and ever devoted to the performance of duty as he saw it. Of him it may be truly said that none knew him but to love him, none named him but to praise.

The obituary of Samuel Abbott Flanders was as follows:

Samuel Abbott Flanders was born in New Hampshire in 1832. He came from there to Des Moines county in 1854 and has since resided here continuously. In the autumn of the same year he married Miss Martha Hilleary, eldest daughter of Alexander Hilleary, one of the earliest settlers of Des Moines county, and who now lives about three miles south of town. They soon after settled on a farm in Union township and have resided in that township ever since. In the spring of 1861 Mr. Flanders promptly responded to the call of his country for volunteers and enlisted as a private in Company D, First Iowa cavalry, under Capt. P. Gad Bryan. Within the first year of his service, while engaged in a skirmish, he received a severe wound in the shoulder from the effects of which he never fully recovered, and on account of which he received a pitifully small pension. In a subsequent engagement his horse was killed under him. He served gallantly and faithfully until his regiment was disbanded at the close of the war. In the autumn following, the repuhlicans of Des Moines county selected him to represent them in the state legislature, at the approaching session. He filled his chair in that assembly with credit to himself and his constituents.

Mr. Flanders identified himself with the repuhlican party at its inception, and has faithfully adhered to that organization ever since. When total prohibition of intoxicants became an issue with the people, he espoused that cause with the earnestness and enthusiasm that were characteristic of his impetuous nature. In all associations with his fellow men he was a man of positive ideas, standing as firm as the granite hills and mountains of his native state in all cases where he helieved he was in the right.

The surviving family comprises the stricken widow and six children; one son and five daughters, the youngest of them twelve years of age.

The funeral will he held to-morrow at 10 a.m. from the family residence. The interment taking place at the Aspen Grove cemetery of this city.

Martha Hilleary Flanders survived her husband by nearly forty-four years. A Burlington newspaper published the following obituary for Martha Ann Hilleary Flanders:

The following obituary for Albion Parsons appeared in the Burlington HAWK-EYE:

A LIFE OF LABOR ENDED.

Mr. Albion Parsons Dead--A Brief Review of His Life

A few minutes past nine o'clock yesterday morning, the brief illness which prostrated Mr. Albion Parsons only one week ago last night, terminated in his death. On last Wednesday evening, as already stated in THE HAWKEYE, he went home from the store in good spirits and apparent good health. In the night he was taken with a chill and general feeling of discomfort. The morning found him suffering from severe congestion of the right lung. The disease strengthened its hold upon him, and hy Tuesday evening hoth lungs were hadly affected. It was found impossihle to stay the disease or relieve the severe pain he endured. Death came after hours of his keenest suffering and gave him the release the men of skill could not.

Mr. Parsons was horn Octoher 16, 1831, at Parsonsfield, Maine, some thirty-four or thirty-five miles from Portland, and was the son of Thomas and Hannah Parsons. The family was composed of four sons and two daughters. Of these children all are now dead except Mr. C. B. Parsons of our city, and Mr Oscar Parsons, of Ottumwa.

Mr. Parsons lived at Parsonsfield till 1850, when he sought employment in Chelsea, Massachusetts, remaining there ahout a year, at the end of which time he came west, arriving in Burlington in August, 1851. He at once entered the employ of the firm of Copp & Parsons, of which the memhers were Mr. Joshua Copp and Mr. T. L. Parsons, still a resident of our city and uncle to Mr Alhion Parsons. With this firm and its successors, Copp, Parsons, & Co., T. L. & C. B. Parsons, C. B., E. A. & A. Parsons, and finally C. B. Parsons, he continued his connection save a term of ahout two years, 1855 and 1856, when he conducted a general store at Pleasant Grove. Although successful in this venture, Mr. Parsons was not well pleased with his situation and returned to Burlington, entering the store then under the firm of T. L. & C. B. Parsons, in the capacity of a clerk, which position he retained until his death preferring it to any participation in the management of the husiness.

He was first married on Decemher 4, 1859, hy Rev. P. P. Bishop, second pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, to Miss Lizzie Hilleary, daughter of Mr. Alexander Hilleary. Mrs. Parsons died on the 24th of August, 1865, leaving hehind her a little daughter, now Miss Ella Parsons. On the 6th of June, 1866, Mr. Parsons was married to Miss Mary Hilleary, a younger sister of his first wife. This lady survives him together with her only child, a son named Louis, some nine or ten years of age.

Mr. Parsons joined the First Baptist church of Burlington and was haptized hy Rev. Dr. G. J. Johnson on the 22nd day of Fehruary, 1854. Ever since the autumn of 1862 he has held the positions of deacon and treasurer of this church and has discharged the duties of those offices with unswerving fidelity to the interest of the cause. He was also for many years and until his death a trustee of the Burlington university to which he devoted much attention.

Mr. Parsons was noted for his quiet, sedate, unimpassioned manner, his entirely sober, conscientious and upright character and his warm and constant devotion to his church. He was a man of extreme modesty, mingling hut little in society and taking no part in the husy affairs of men or in politics. He devoted his entire time to his church, his family and his husiness. In him our city mourns a friend to humanity, an upright man and a warm hearted Christian gentleman.

The funeral will he held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from his late residence at No. 927 Jefferson street with further services at 10:30 at the First Baptist church. We have been provided with the following biographical information about Daniel Flanders by the Biographical Review of Des Moines County, Iowa, pages 256-7:

> A prosperous and progressive farmer of Union township, Des Moines county, Iowa, is Daniel J. Flanders, who was born in this township March 6, 1861, a son of Samuel and Martha (Hilleary) Flanders, and received his preliminary education in the district schools. Later he entered Elliott's Business College at Burlington, Iowa, where he engaged for a time in a course of commercial study, comprising a mastery of business forms and principles, and after the completion of his education he remained at his father's home until attaining his majority. In 1882, at the age of twenty-one years, he went West as a fireman on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Railroad, and about 1887 was promoted to the position of Engineer, which he occupied until 1899, when he resigned and began farming operations. In the year 1900, however, he again went West, becoming an engineer on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, running out of Pueblo, Colo., the route including the famous Grand Canyon and the "hanging bridge." After a stay of several months he returned to Iowa, and purchased a tract of eighty-three acres of fine agricultural land in Union township, southwest of Burlington. A portion of this he afterward sold, and purchased a farm of seventy-one acres, but to the latter he has added until he now owns in all ninety-three acres, largely timber lands. Here he carries on general farming and the usual amount of stock-raising.

Mr. Flanders maintains an abiding interest in public affairs, but is strictly nonpartisan in his political views, giving the sanction of his ballot to the man he esteems best fitted for public office, regardless of narrow lines of party affiliation. His fraternal relations connect him with Aldebaran Court, Tribe of Ben Hur, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and he is also identified with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Cedar Rapids, Lodge No. 159. As an engineer he has an enviable record for efficiency, and is widely known among railroad men throughout the West; while as a man and a citizen he takes high rank in the community in which he now resides, and in which he has always been known.

In that city he has taken a constructive part in the development of the Northgate project, and in the management of the Seattle Symphony. He is also a leader in dry goods dealers' groups.

A veteran of naval service in World War II, Mr. Segner entered the line of duty as an ensign in April 1942. In January 1943, he went to Africe, with the first group of small landing craft to establish beachheads on the northern coast of the continent. He was later attached to the staff of the commander of all naval forces in the Mediterranean, and participated in all major landing operations at Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, and Southern France. He was later named flag secretary and aide to the amphibious commander in Europe, serving in that post until December 1945, at which time hostilities had ceased. Milo H. Segner then went on the inactive list with the rank of lieutenant commander, in January 1946. He had received the Bronze Star for his outstanding work in the direction of ships during the submarine and air attack off Algiers, and for his outstanding supervision of radar jamming during the Southern France invasion.

Chapter XXI

Isle of Wight and Nansemond Counties of Virginia were the sites of the earliest American homes of the Page family. Thomas Page purchased property in the spring of 1657 on the Rappahannock River in Isle of Wight County. In the year 1628 a Joseph Paige witnessed a land grant, but his connection, if any, to Thomas Page is unknown. The Page family and those families with whom it intermarried, Hastings, Edgerton, Powell, etc., were Quaker.

The family of Thomas and Alice Page attended the Chuckatuck Monthly Meeting in Nansemond County which maintained the earliest Quaker records in Virginia dated from 1672. Because meetings had been abandoned due to persecution by the crown, in that year George Foxx, who had founded Quakerism in 1652 in Westmoreland, England, ordered in a letter from Pennsylvania that the Friends of Virginia were to hold men's meetings quarterly.

The Church of England was the established religion of the colony of Virginia and as such was much disturbed by the Quaker movement. A quote from Colonel Byrd on a visit to Colonel Andrew Meade of Nansemond County in 1728 regarding this sect revealed the scorn prevalent for the Quakers:

> We passed by no less than two Quaker meeting houses. That persuasion prevails much in the lower end of Nansemond county, for want of ministers to pilot the people a decenter way to heaven.

The royal government was determined to stamp out the Quaker movement. Members had their meetings broken up and their tobacco crops confiscated for "priests dews or tithes and church rates." Other members had their servants, personal property, and cattle confiscated. Still others, men and women, were whipped and imprisoned. It seemed the life of a Quaker, though not easy, was one of great determination.

The Society of Friends was an exclusive group which condemned marrying outside the denomination, known as "marrying out of unity," and dismissed offenders from the congregation and sometimes disowned them. Often those dismissed appeared in successive records indicating forgiveness could be obtained for their offenses. Dismissals were made for involvement in military activity of any description, disorderly conduct, use of "gross language," horse racing, disturbing a religious meeting, buying, hiring, or selling a Negro, dancing, card playing, and "lack of plainness." Marriages were attended by the family and by those who attended the regular Quaker assembly. The right hand list of witnesses' signatures gave the names of the parents of both parties followed by other close family members in order of relationship. First were parents of the groom, then parents of the bride, followed by children and siblings.

The Society of Friends did not employ our names for months because of their origin in ancient pagan religion, as for example, March named for the god, Mars. Instead months were numbered one through twelve. Before 1752, when the Julian calendar was still in use, the first month of the year was March and therefore the numbers lagged our present day Gregorian calendar by two months; therefore, the Quaker dates presented as, for example, "1679, 4, 11", would be "June 11, 1679" in our dating practice.

Records of transfers were made at the home meeting and also at the receiving meeting, both of which dates are of enormous value in tracing families who moved from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, or Virginia, to North Carolina. In addition detailed records were recorded of births, deaths, and dismissals from the society for violation of its very strict rules of behavior.

Toward the middle of the 17th century Quakers and other Anglo-Saxons began the settlement of Albemarle Sound which in 1691 became part of the colony of North Carolina. Disputes remained about the boundaries between Virginia and North Carolina until 1729 or 1730. Several tribes of Indians, including the Maherine and Tuscarora tribes, attacked the early settlers. It was into this area, which became Bertie County in 1722 when it was formed from Albemarle County, that John and Hanner Page and his brother, Thomas, settled. Over the succeeding years their descendants of John migrated to the central portion of North Carolina in what is now Wayne County.

In attempting the extremely difficult task of sorting out the various descendants of Thomas and Alice Page who went into North Carolina, the land and court records reproduced in an impressive compilation of records by Jesse M. Page, Jr., The Page Family in North Carolina, 1685-1850, has been of great benefit. In some cases the author has come to some different conclusions from those of John Buford Page in his book, Early Page Families. These have been pointed out within the text which follows.

First Generation

1. Thomas[1] Page. Died, 1721, in Isle of Wight Co, VA[1]. Occupation: tailor, shoemaker.

Thomas married Alice, surname unknown. Died, after 1720.

Thomas and Alice Page were residents of the Isle of Wight County, south of the James River in Virginia. On April 21, 1657, Thomas was deeded 281 acres on the south side of the Rappahannock River between the branches of a creek. Five years later on February 20th, Thomas Page purchased 600 acres on the south of the Rappahannock River adjoining the property of Howell Powell. On April 3, 1667. Thomas purchased two additional large tracts in the same location, one of 783 acres and another which was one-third of a 3,075 acre tract.

The following year Thomas Page began acquiring land in Nansemond County, south of Isle of Wight County, on the North Carolina border. On October 13, 1688, Henry and Elizabeth Hearne of Isle of Wight County assigned title to Thomas Page of 133 acres of land in the Upper Parish which had been patented to the Hearnes on April 22, 1670, for transporting three persons from England. No mention was made of a purchase price leaving open the possibility of kinship between the two families. A week later on October 20th, Thomas was deeded 290 acres in Surry County which lay north of Isle of Wight County.

The border between Nansemond County, Virginia, and North Carolina was not established until 1729 or 1730. It seems that some of Thomas' property was located in Perquimans Precinct, Albermarle County, North Carolina. This is known from the fact that the birth of his son, John, was registered in Perquiman Precinct in 1685. No land records for Thomas have been found in that precinct.

A number of years later on February 25, 1703/4, Thomas Page acquired additional land in Nansemond County with the purchase of 170 acres from Mark Alsbury located on Currowaugh Swamp and adjacent to Robert Carr and Thomas Mann. William and Mary Parker and J. Gay were witnesses to the deed. On December 16, 1714, Thomas made a purchase of 284 acres at the head of Cabin Swamp located on Sumerton Creek in Nansemond County.

Surry County, Virginia Court Records Book II, page 19, indicated that William Rogers, orphan of Richard Rogers, was apprenticed to Thomas Page on June 15, 1681.

William Brasie wrote his will on January 22, 1699, in which he named "Thomas Page, taylor of Nansemond" as one of his legatees. Brasie did not appear to have a family of his own. This statement and the set of shoemaker tools mentioned in his will, tell us Thomas was a tailor and at least had skills in making shoes.

Thomas and Alice Page were active members of the Quaker congregation of Chuckatuck in Nansemond County which was organized in the year 1672. Meetings prior to this time, and afterwards, were held in the homes of members but were outlawed by the civil government even though most prominent men of the area were Quaker or related to them by marriage. The first records of this congregation began in 1673. In 1680 the birth of Thomas, Jr., was recorded and in 1682 that of Rebeckah Page. Thomas was a witness to at least nineteen weddings which took place between 1683 and 1707. In 1702 He was also a delegate to the first recorded meeting of the Virginia Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Although it would appear from the preceding land records that Thomas Page had removed to Nansemond County, his will was presented to the February 1720 court in Isle of Wight County. It read as follows:

This Day of Febuary in year 1719 I Thomas Page, of the Isle of Wight County, being at Present very well & perfect in sence and memory praise be unto God for ye same & Calling To mind ye uncertainty of This Life, doe Constitute this, my Last Will and Testament in manner and forme following Commiting my sole to God, my Creator & my body to ye Earthe to have a Christian Like buriall by my Executor, John Page.

Thomas Page, son of Thomas and Alis Page, came with his family to Bertie County, North Carolina, and in 1731 purchased 284 acres on Cold Quarter Marsh. In 1732 a deed was assigned "from John Boude to Thomas Page, Sr."

The following land transaction was made by Thomas Page (Jr.) after the death of his father. In 1741 a portion of Bertie County had become Northampton County. On November 10, 1752, Thomas Page sold John Lawrence, whose relationship to Thomas' wife, Isabella Lawrence Page, is unknown, 444 acres described as being on both the west side of the Chowan River, Indian Creek, and on Nottaway River. Because the tract contained houses, buildings, and rentals, the purchase price of two hundred fifty pounds was quite high. This sale was witnessed by John Page, Nicks Maget, and James Many and was recorded in Northampton, North Carolina County Deed Book 2. page 90.

The children of Thomas and Rebecca Page were:

i. Thomas[3] Gay.
ii. John Gay. He married Miss Lawrence, daughter of Robert Lawrence and Jane, widow of Henry Gay.
Edgecombe Precinct, Edgecombe County, North Carolina, recorded a deed from John Gay to Joseph Pitman for 240 acres on the Tar River dated February 10, 1750/1.
iii. Charles Gay.
iv. Mary Gay.
v. William Gay.
vi. Edmond Gay.
vii. Jonathan Gay.

4. John[2] Page (Thomas[1]). Born, 19 Feb 1685/6, in Old Albermarle Precinct, NC[10]. Died, 1740. in Bertie Co., NC[11]. Occupation: miller, planter.

John married Hanner, surname unknown. Died, before 1742, in Bertie Co., NC.

The birth of John Page, Sr., son of Thomas and Alice Page, was not recorded in the records of the Chuckatuck Monthly Meeting but was recorded in Perquiman Precinct, Albermarle County North Carolina records. This indicated that Thomas and Alice had ventured from Nansemond County across the present border of Virginia into what is now North Carolina.

Sometime after the conclusion of the Tuscarora War in 1713, John and his wife, Hanner, migrated south to the Albermarle Sound region, of North Carolina. By this time most of the hostile Iroquois Indians had been driven from the area; however, continued watchfulness was necessary and therefore in 1720 John served in Captain Robert Patterson's Company which patrolled both sides of Moherin Creek to the Mohering River (Roanoke River).

In 1720 John witnessed a deed made by Barnabe Mackinne, Jr., who resided on the south side of the Moratuck River on Conocannar Swamp and Beaver Dam Swamp. Noticing the many references to "swamp" in North Carolina deeds, brings to mind the following account recorded in Old Churches, Ministers, and Families of Virginia by Bishop William Meede. In this volume Colonel Byrd repeated the testimony of John Blair, an itinerant missionary in North Carolina in the early 1700's, providing for us a glimpse of the primitive living conditions of the time:

> ...They were compelled to lie oftentimes whole nights in the woods, and to live for days together upon no other food but bread moistened in brackish water, journeying amid deep swamps and along broken roads through a wild and desert county, and finding themselves at the distance of every twenty miles upon the banks of some broad river, which they could only cross by good boats and experienced watermen....

John Page was named executor of his father's estate in his 1720 will. He was bequeathed all his father's land and nearly all the remainder of the estate in Virginia.

In 1721 John and Hanner were taxed on 300 acres in Albermarle County, North Carolina.[23] On July 13th of the following year, John Page purchased the same 320 acres, "at present in the actual possesion of the sd John Page," from Thomas and Catherine Busby, John Page, Jr.'s, father-in-law. The property was located on the north side of the "Morrattok" River on Jumping Run and the purchase price was sixteen pounds. The Moratuk was between the mouth of the Chowan River and the Roanoke River. In the same year that John acquired the property, this portion of Albermarle County became Bertie County.

On March 26, 1723, John was granted a patent for an additional 320 acres, again on the north side of the "Maherine" River, bordering Horse Pasture Creek and Dogwood Neck. These 320 acres were sold on November 9, 1725, to Samuell Garlen (Garland)[24] for "a valuable consideration already reserved." His wife, "Hanner," was mentioned in this deed which was witnessed by Nedham Bryan. John Portis, and Thomas Busby. On February 8, 1724/5, John witnessed a deed of Richard and Elinor Bradwell to William Wilson for a property in Urah Meadow and Fish Meadow.

23 Also appearing on the 1721 tax rolls was a James Page with no property, possibly another son of John Page, Sr., who may have died before his father's will was written. On August 13, 1723, James Page purchased eighty acres from Nicholas and Elizabeth Sessions. James continued to be mentioned in Bertie County court records through 1730 when he sold another property and called himself a joyner (a finish carpenter).

24 Samuel Garland was a son of John Garland who died in Nansemond County, Virginia, in 1727. In John Garland's will, dated March 9, 1726/27, and proved, May 22nd, John Garland left his plantation in Carolina, "bought of John Page," to his sons: John, Samuel, and Joseph. This 1725 deed was to Samuel Garland, not John Garland, indicating the presence of still another deed. Samuel's wife was Abigail as known from deeds for tracts sold to Arthur Benn of Newport, Isle of Wight, and to John Portis, both of which were recorded at the November 1725 Bertie County Court. The original patent for the latter deed was granted to Samuel Garland on November 7, 1723.

On February 9, 1728, John purchased 160 acres at Cashie Swamp for only five shillings from Henry Rhodes and his wife, Elizabeth. The low cost of this tract causes it to have the appearance of a kinship transaction. This deed mentioned "Busbee's line" which is significant in that John Page, Jr., married Elizabeth Busby, daughter of Thomas Busby.

The 1732 Bertie County P&QS Minutes, page 32, mentioned a deed of John Spivey to John Page. Many years later in 1783 Nathan Page, grandson of John by his son Samuel, and Nathan's wife, Judith, sold 200 acres on the north side of the Roanoke River to John Dodrell. Within the deed it was stated that the land was purchased by John Page from John Spivey in 1732. John and Judith sold 160 acres in the fork of Jumping Run near "Pages old mill" providing us the occupation of John Page, Sr.

The next reference to John Page in Bertie County records was on February 13, 1738/9, when the will of George Williams was proved by John and Thomas Page. Also in that year John was appointed as an overseer of "ye road from Sandy Runn to Maclin Gardinors." It has been assumed that these references were to John Page, Sr., as references to his son were always referred to as John Page, Jr. before the death of his father in 1740.

John Page, Sr., died when only fifty-five years of age. On May 13, 1740, the will was proved by the oaths of Thomas Page, Samuel Page, and JCL Danll and the executor was qualified. The estate inventory was made on July 20th and submitted to the court by Ursilla Pell, executrix, on November 6. 1741. John's last will and testament was exhibited and again proved by the oaths of Sam'll Page, Thomas Page, and Uriella Page [Pell] on May 3, 1741. The final estate settlement did not occur until August of 1742. George Pell was asked by the court to give security of 500 pounds, but failing to do so, Thomas Page gave security and was appointed guardian for the orphans of John Page.

8 ii. John Page , Jr.
9 iii. Samuel Page.
iv. Uriella Page. She married George Pell, before 1742, in Bertie Co., NC[12].

5. Mary[2] Page (Thomas[1])[13]. Born in Isle of Wight Co, VA.

Mary married William Powell, 14 Apr 1700, at Chuckatuck Moonthly Meeting, Nansemond Co., VA[14]. Died, Mar 1735, in Nansemond Co., VA[15].

The children of William and Mary Page Powell were:

i. William[3] Powell.
ii. Joseph Powell.
iii. Benjamin Powell.
iv. Martha Powell. She married Samuel Redlehusk.
v. Rebecca Powell. She married Mr. Wilkinson.
vi. Mary Powell. She married Mr. Holland.
vii. Rachel Powell.
viii. Alice Powell.
ix. Lydia Powell.

Third Generation

6. Thomas[3] Page (Thomas[2], Thomas[1]). Died, Dec 1785, in Bertie Co., NC[16]. Occupation: planter.

Thomas married Sarah "Sally", surname unknown. Died, after 1790. Census: 1790, in Bertie Co., NC; p. 361.

Thomas Page, son of Thomas and Isabella Lawrence Page, accumulated a great deal of property during his lifetime as is known from his will and other land records. He owned land on Jumping Run where his father, Thomas, and uncle, John, had settled.

Thomas was first noted in Bertie County on March 11, 1740/41, when he received a land grant, #408, for 144 acres on the south side of the Chowan River on the line of William Gray. The Notoway River is also mentioned in this deed which required him to cultivate three acres for every hundred within three years. Thomas was raising cattle in 1741 for he had the Bertie County court register a brand, TP, and a "crop'd under half moon under his Rt. Ear & a Swallow Fork in ye Left Ear."

In 1743 a deed of sale from Nathan Rowland to Thomas Page was acknowledged in court. the nature of which was not stated.

A work by John Buford Page titled Early Page Families, page 28, stated that Thomas Page had died on May 29, 1744, and that a "judgement against his estate was issued from Edgecombe county, North Carolina for the sum of seven pounds, nine shillings, and four pence; also for sundry goods, wares, and merchandise purchased from Edward Buxton (also deceased)."

The assumption of his death was based on several Craven County court documents one of which, dated May 29, 1744, directed the sheriff to take "the body of Thomas Page, late of Craven County (if he be found in your Bailiwick)"...and "have him before our Chief Justice and his assistant at the next Court house in Edenton on the last Tuesday in July next." This surely did not refer to a dead body or a late, meaning deceased, person, but to a former, or late, resident of Craven County.

Still another entry dated August 20, 1744, referred to "Edward Buxton Deceased against Thomas Page late of Craven County" and "that an attachment issue against the Deft Estate for the Damages afd so as to Compele him to be & appear &c we therefore Command you to attach the goods & Chattles of the Said Thomas Page if to be found in your bailiwick." Again, Thomas was very much alive not deceased the preceding May!

Also, these records would seem to refer to Thomas, the son of John Page, Sr., whose other sons, Jesse and John, Jr., had moved west to the Craven County area. Another indication that this was Thomas, the son of John Page, Sr., is that after Johnston County was formed from Craven County in 1746, Thomas Page was referred to in a 1748 deed as a neighbor of John Page, Jr., who was his brother.

Still alive and well in Bertie County in 1753, Thomas Page received land grant #756 which contained 526 acres on the lines of Colonel Benjamin Hill, William Hill and Gristock's line. This grant was mentioned in a sale made September 8, 1753, to William Poythriss of 100 acres for a purchase price of ten pounds. On the same date 200 acres were sold to Aaron Elis for 10 pounds, ten shillings. These deeds were recorded in Bertie County, North Carolina Deed Book H, pages 43 and 80. Many years later the 1780 through 1785 tax records indicated Thomas was taxed on 520 acres of land, three horses, and six head of cattle. He also had on hand nine pounds, four shillings.

Bertie County records indicated Thomas served on a jury in August of 1765. Other records were of purchases Thomas made at the estate sale of James Dodrel (Dodrill) on September 6, 1777, and at the estate sale of Jesse Harell on June 5, 1779. Once again, in May of 1783, he made a purchase at the estate sale of Richard Hays.

On August 26, 1785, Thomas and Sarah Page sold Edward Acree seven acres in the fork of Jumping Run in Bertie County for six pounds, ten shillings. This was noted to be a portion of Thomas' 1853 grant. On the same date Thomas wrote his will. His bequests were as follows:

> Item I give and Bequeath unto my son Thomas Page his Heirs and Assigns for Ever one feather Bead and furniture and Bead Stead the same that I generally ly on > Item I give and Bequeath unto My Son Soloman Page his heirs and Assigns for Ever the Land and Plantation Whereupon he now lives it being the Land I Purchased of John Page
> Item I lend unto My Well Beloved Wife Sarah Page During her Natural Life one Third part of the Land and Plantation Whereon I now live
> Item I give and Bequeath unto my Son Joshua Page to him and his Heirs and assigns forever the Land and Plantation whereon he now lives and all my Land on the west Side of Jumping Run Joining my said plantation before mentioned
> Item I Give Devise and Bequeath unto My Daughter Catherine Page her heirs and Assigns for ever the Land and plantation whereon Samuel Page now lives on Containing one Hundred Acres
> Item I Give Devise and Bequeath unto my Daughter Ann Page her Heirs and Assigns forever one Hundred Acres of Land joining the said Land given to my Daughter Catherine Page
> Item I give Devise and Bequeath unto my Daughter Mary Page to her Heirs and Assigns for Ever the Land and Plantation Whereon She now Lives and All My Land liing on the East Side of Jumping Run to the warton fourke of the Said Run
> Item I Lend unto My Well Beloved Wife Sara Page all My house Hoald goods and Moaveble Estate Except the Beed & furneture Before mentioned During her Naternell Life and After her Death I Give unto my affoure Mentioned Children all My Estate Lent to My Wife Sarah Page To Be Equaly Devided Amonst them Share and Share Alike And Lastly, I Nomenate Constitute Appoint and ordain My Son Soloman Page and Joshua Page Executors to this my Last Will and Testament....

A codicil to the will, dated December 22, 1785, provided his son, Joshua, daughters, Catherine and Ann, and wife, Sarah, an equal division of the corn in his possession. Witnesses to the codocil were George Williams, Tobias Butlar, and John Dodrill.

An inventory of the estate of Thomas Page was made in December, 1785, by his son, Solomon. The will was proved at the February term of the Bertie County Court by the oaths of George Williams and John Dodrill. Thomas' sons, Solomon and Joshua, were married in Bertie County shortly after the death of their father, on May 16, 1786, and October 9, 1787, respectively. These sons remained on Bertie County tax rolls.

The eldest son, Thomas, Jr., had been married in 1778 prior to the death of his father, and by 1780 he resided in Craven County, South Carolina. In the will of his father, Thomas, Jr. received little in the way of a bequest. It would seem possible that having been the first of the sons to marry, he had received other property before the will was written.

The children of Thomas and Sarah Page were:

i. Thomas[4] Page. Census: 1790, in Bertie Co., NC; p. 361. Occupation: planter. He married Elizabeth Averit, 21 Sep 1778, in Bertie Co., NC[17].

In 1778 Thomas Page, Jr., was taxed 11 shillings, 10 pence in Bertie County on two mares and two cattle. His marriage bond was issued September 30, 1778, with George Wair as bondsman.

Apparently Thomas Page and his bride removed to Craven County, South Carolina for Thomas sold John Dodrill of Bertie County, North Carolina, for 1,000 pounds, a tract of 200 acres on the north side of the Roanoke River which had been granted to John Blunt, Jr., in 1720, and which "decended to the said Thomas Page."

ii. Solomon Page. Died, before 1813. Census: 1790, in Bertie Co., NC; p. 361. Military service: 1782, in 10th Regiment, Bariley's Company, NC Regulars. Occupation: planter. He married Sarah Hayse, 16 May 1786, in Bertie Co., NC.

Edward Aires sold Solomon Page, 172 acres on Thomas Page, Sr's. corner for only 5 shillings on April 22, 1786, as recorded in Bertie County, North Carolina Deed Book N, page 356. On the following May 16th, Solomon married Sarah Hayse. Another land transaction was made with Edward Acree on November 20th when Solomon and his brothers, Thomas and Joshua, sold him two tracts, one containing 31 acres and the other 20 acres. The purchase price was twenty pounds, and the sale was recorded in Deed Book O, page 144. On page 150 of that volume was recorded a sale for ten pounds made the following day by Solomon and his brother, Thomas, to their brother, Joshua, of a tract of undetermined size on the line of their sister, Ann Page, and Acree's corner. John Acree was a witness. Solomon was the owner of four slaves at the time of the 1790 census. Besides his wife, he had a son under 16 years of age.

iv. Catherine Page. Census: 1790, in Bertie Co., NC; p. 361.

Catherine Page inherited from her father twenty acres of land in Bertie County which she sold to George Northam on February 22, 1790, for six pounds.

v. Ann Page.

vi. Mary Page. Resided: 26 Aug 1785, in Jumping Run, Bertie Co., NC.

Mary Page inherited a tract of land in Bertie County, North Carolina, from her father. She also purchased from her brother, Solomon, 31 acres on Jumping Run for twenty pounds on February 16, 1790.

This may have been the Molly Page whose will was written November 19, 1813, and proved at the May Court of Bertie County in 1814. Her bequests were as follows:

> to Solomon Page, son of Sally Page, a cow and calf > to William Page, son of Joshua > to Meridith and Sally Page, all my money

7. Thomas[3] Page (John[2], Thomas[1]). Born, 7 Dec 1704, in Isle of Wight Co, VA[3].

It is most difficult to sort out the various Thomas Pages in Bertie County and the Craven/Dobbs/Johnston/Wayne County vicinities. The land and other records of a Thomas Page in Bertie County have been assigned by the author to Thomas and Isabella Page, son of Alice and Thomas Page, or to his son, Thomas Page, Jr., who married Sarah and died in 1785. The following records in Craven County, which in succeeding years became the counties of Johnston in 1746, Dobbs in 1758, and Wayne in 1779, have been assigned to Thomas, son of John Page, Sr., who died in 1740.

As early as May 21, 1741, Thomas was granted 200 acres, #247, on the south side of Little River in Craven County, opposite to his own plantation. A second grant, #299, was granted on August 4, 1741, for 300 acres on the north side of Little River about three miles below Robert Raiford "being the land he now lives on." These two deeds were recorded in SSLGO Book 5, pages 299 and 235.

By 1744 Thomas was referred to as Thomas, Sr., in two Craven County grants, #299 and #247, both dated November 20th, indicating that his son, Thomas Jr., and come of age. One of these properties contained 300 acres and was on the south side of Little River beginning at a red oak below Butlers. The second patent, dated November 10, 1744, concerned 300 acres beginning at a white oak and adjoining Robert Butler. This property, which was then in Wayne County, was sold on March 21, 1799, by John, the son of Thomas, Sr.

Several Craven County court documents issued in 1744 were directed to the sheriff of Craven County by authorities in Edgecombe County. It appears that an Edward Buxton had died in Edgecombe County and that Thomas Page in 1743 was in debt to him for seven pounds, nine shillings, and four pence. Thomas Page was being sued for sixty five pounds, and the sheriff was requested, twice, to force Thomas to appear before the Chief Justice in Edenton, Chowan County, firstly on the last Tuesday in July of 1744, and secondly on the last Tuesday in October.

The unfortunate Thomas, apparently having not appeared, the High Sheriff of Craven County, James Makilwean, seized "one horse, one feather Bead, one Rugg, two blankits, three Dishes, three Bassons, and fore phals, one pr hand milk thons, and one wooling whell."

In 1748 Thomas was referred to as a neighbor of his brother, John Page, (Jr.), in a Johnston County land grant description.

A fire destroyed two of Thomas Page's deeds recorded in Johnston County, North Carolina Deed Book 2. The first of these deeds was executed circa 1752 when Thomas sold property to Robert Butter. The second deed, dated circa 1754, was from Thomas Page to Robert Fellows. Fortunately more detail is known regarding this second deed from Wayne County, North Carolina Deed Book 1, page 178, wherein a deed from John Fellows to his brother, Robert Fellows, referred to a parcel "being in Wayne County but formerly Dobbs County containing by estimation one hundred and fifty acres being the one half a piece or parcel of land granted by patent to John Page and by him conveyed to Samuel Tomlinson and from him to Robert Fellows, Senr." This identified Thomas as an heir of John Page, Sr.

On July 1, 1758, Thomas Page was granted a fifty acre patent on fifty acres on the south side of Little River in Johnston County as is known from a March 21, 1799, deed of sale in which Thomas Page's son, John, sold the property to Richard Cox.

Thomas Page had two sons:

i. John[4] Page.

John Page was the owner of 490 acres and two slaves by the time he appeared on the tax rolls of Wayne County in 1786. He was on jury and grand jury lists from 1788 through 1794.

John Page and Michael Fulghum were the executors of the estate of Jacob Page, his cousin, who died in 1789.

A land grant, #394, was issued to John for 100 acres on January 5, 1789. The property was located on the south side of Little River.

Richard Cox[1] purchased for 750 pounds three tracts from John Page which were recorded in a single deed in Wayne County dated March 21, 1799. The first was for 300 acres on the south side of Little River in Craven County, originally patented to his father, Thomas Page, on November 20, 1744. The second was for 50 acres on the south side of Little River in Johnston County, originally patented to Thomas Page on July 1, 1758. The third tract was for 100 acres on the south side of Little River which had been patented to John Page on November 17, 1790.

8. John[3] Page, Jr. (John[2], Thomas[1]). Born, before 1707, in Nansemond Co., VA. Died, 1760, in Bertie Co., NC[18].

John married Elizabeth Busby, daughter of Thomas and Catherine Busby. Resided, 5 Oct 1779, in 96th District, Granville Co., SC.

On August 6, 1728 John Page, Jr., was granted 170 acres on the east side of Cashie Swamp. The deed, witnessed by John Duffield and John Page Sr., stated:

> I Thomas Busby do send greeting know ye yt I the sd Thos Busby of Bertie prec't planter for and in consideration of Love good will and afection wch I have and do care toward l my Loving Son-in-law Jno Page Junr of the same precinct.

The parents of John's wife, Elizabeth Busby were Thomas and Catherine Busby. They resided on Cashie Swamp as early as 1724/5, at which time Thomas Busby was mentioned as a neighbor or witness in various deeds. In November of 1725, Thomas purchased, for ten pounds, 170 acres on the east side of Cashie Swamp from Henry Rodes.

On February 22, 1729, Thomas Busby witnessed the will of George Clements whose wife was Susanna.

As previously mentioned, on July 13, 1721, John Page, Sr., had purchased 320 acres, "at present in the actual possesion of the sd John Page," from Thomas and Catherine Busby. The property was located on the north side of the "Morrattok" River on Jumping Run, and the purchase price was sixteen pounds.

Thomas Busby's last will and testament has not been located; however, it was mentioned first in a Bertie County deed by Theophilus William to Jethro Butler dated September 10, 1742, which was for 500 acres "...to be laid out according to the Will of Thomas Busby..." on the NE side of Marattuck River at Beaverdam Branch. Again the will was referred to in Edgecomb County, North Carolina Deed Book H, page 208, in an August 11, 1754, deed of William Smith, Jr., of Edgecomb County, parent of Bertie County, to Frederick Homes for 100 acres on the Ronoak adjacent to Beaverdam Branch. The deed stated that the, "...tract was will'd to said Wm. Smith Junr by Thomas Busbee in this last will and Testament."

Elizabeth Busby's, will was recorded in Bertie County and dated January 22, 1738/9. She left "my plantation liing on the North side of Roneoake River" to Theophilus Williams. Also mentioned was Hester Williams, daughter of Theophilus, and her grandson, Jesse Page, who was to receive one cow and calf.

From the previous documents it can be assumed that three children of Thomas and Catherine Busby were:

i. female Busby. She married Theophilus Williams.
ii. Catherine Busby. She married John Page, Jr.
iii. female Busby. She married William Smith, Jr.

John Page, Jr. and his brothers, Thomas and Samuel, moved a little farther west into an area on Little River which was Craven County until 1746 at which time it became Johnston County. In 1758 the area was absorbed into newly formed Dobbs County and finally became Wayne County in 1779. Little River, on which the brothers had property, flowed into the Neuse River. In 1722 Bertie Precinct was taken from the original Chowan County, the dividing line between it and Craven County was the Contentnea Creek. It wasn't until 1759 that Bertie County was formed from the southeast portion of Bertie Precinct. This area contained the Cashey River area where John Page, Sr., first purchased property from Thomas Busby.

John Page, (Jr.), was first located in Craven County when he proved the Last Will and Testament of Louis Thoms on March 16, 1730/31. He was appointed overseer of "ye road from Sandy Runn to Maclin Gardinors..." in 1739.

On October 10, 1748, Johnston County recorded that John Page had been granted 300 acres on the north side of Little River beginning at a water oak and near the line of Robert Raiford, and a white oak at the corner of Thomas Page. When John died in 1760, this property was inherited by his son, Jacob, who sold it in Wayne County on April 10th, 1787.

On October 10, 1748, John Page was given a land grant for 300 acres of land in Johnston County, formed from Craven County in 1746, on the north side of Little River beginning at a "Water Oake" near Robert Rafords line. Mentioned in the deed was his brother, Thomas Page's corner.

John Page left no will when he died in 1760. His wife, Elizabeth, administered his estate and was guardian of their two minor children, William and Moring. An estate sale of perishable items was permitted by the court and held at the home of the deceased. His estate was settled in Bertie County in 1764.

Elizabeth remarried William Holmes and settled with her minor children, William and Moring, in the 96th District of Granvill County, South Carolina, before 1779.

i. Samuel[4] Page. Born, before 1739, in Dobbs Co., NC[19].

Because of the great number persons named Samuel Page in Bertie County, with some uncertainty the following transactions have been assigned to Samuel, son of John and Elizabeth Busby Page.

On September 6, 1786, Micajah Packer of Wayne County sold Samuel Page of Bertie County, 175 acres on the north side of the Neuse River for twenty pounds. On December 2, 1787, Samuel Page of Wayne County sold John Seemore the same 175 acres for forty-five pounds. This deed was witnessed by Henry Johnson and Frederick Jordan.

ii. Jacob Page. Born, before 1739, in Bertie Co., NC. Died, Oct 1789, in Wayne Co., NC[20]. Occupation: planter. Jacob married Sarah Hastings, daughter of Joshua Hastings and Ann Edgerton, Jan 1786, in Wayne Co., NC[21].

Jacob, son of John and Elizabeth Busby Page, Jr., did not marry until February of 1786, making Jacob at least fifty years of age, His wife, Sarah Hastings, was dismissed from the Contentnea Monthly Meeting of the Society of Friends for marrying out of unity. Contentnea was located fifteen miles north of Goldsboro in Wayne County. See the Hastings Family chapter for details on the ancestry of Sarah Hastings.

In the year of his marriage Jacob paid taxes on 260 acres in Wayne County. There was one free poll and one black poll in his household making him a slave owner.

A Jacob Page witnessed the will of Thomas Barron written on July 23, 1776, in Edgecombe County, Virginia. In the will Thomas' wife was identified as "Mourning Page." Of interest is that the sister of Jacob Page was "Moring."

After the death of Jacob's father who died intestate in 1760, Jacob inherited 150 acres on the east side of Little River in Wayne County beginning at a Water Oak near the line of Robert Raiford. Jacob sold this property on April 10, 1787, to Michael Fulghum for ninety-five pounds. Within the text of the deed the property was stated to have been "part of a Patent Granted to John Page Jr." The witnesses to the deed were William Fellows and Barnaby Hamilton. The deed was presented to the April Court of 1787.

On October 18, 1789, a warrant was granted to Jacob Page for the following survey:

> ...To the Surveyor of Said County Greeting You are herehy required to lay off and Survey for Jacob Page a Tract of Land containing Two hundred Acres lying on the East Side of Little River, including the plantation his Father died on Joining William Sassers & John Pages lines, being an Entry made hy the said Page in the former Entry Takers office & Caveated by Phillip Raiford since which he has withdrawn his Caveat and certified the same to me....

Pursuant to the above survey, land grant #312 was issued to Jacob Page for 151 acres on July 11, 1788, but recorded posthumously on April 2, 1790. The property began "at a black gum at Lacers Carfare's Corner." Also mentioned in the deed was the line of Brewer and the corner of Michael Fulghum. The purchase price was ten pounds per 100 acres. This grant was recorded in Wayne County, North Carolina Deed Book 65, page 195.

The properties of Jacob Page were sold by means of several transactions. The first was an indenture dated November 10, 1804, in which Mary Page, just turned seventeen, sold James Boycott sixty acres, for sixty pounds, located on the east and side of Little River beginning at a pine and blackjack near Nikkei Branch with mention of Fulghum's corner. The deed was witnessed by John, James, and Jesse Boycott.

On August 24, 1809, two separate deeds were recorded. Mary and Samuel Eliott, residents of Randolph County, sold Richard Cox of Wayne County, husband of Mary's aunt, Easter Hastings Cox, for a purchase price of $280.00, a tract described as being on the east side of Little River, beginning at a black gum at Lacers Crawford's corner on the river bank, containing 172 acres "by patent granted to Jacob Page baring date the 11th day of July 1788."

On the same date Anthony Fulghum of Wayne County paid $240.00 to Samuel and Mary Elliott for two parcels containing a total of 87 1/2 acres. One tract began at a red oak of the river bank with mention of Brewer's corner, and the second at a pine and black Jack. Both the Cox and Fulghum purchases were witnessed by R. W. Kinne, James Everitt and P. Collier. Despite the will of Jacob Page which had provided for the "sufficient schooling" of his daughter, Mary, she had to affix her mark to the deed. Apparently reading and writing were not considered essential to schooling or else Jacob's wishes were disregarded.

Jacob died at an early age, as did his father and grandfather. His only child, Mary, was yet an infant. His will was written on the 26th day of the fourth month of 1789. It read as follows:

> In the Name of God Amen I Jacob Page of Wayne County and province of North Carolina being very weak in Body but in perfect mind and memory have thought proper to make and ordain this my Last will and testament in manner and form as follows

This will was proved at the October 1789 court of Wayne County by Robert White, Mikel Fulghum, and John Page. At the July 1794 Wayne County Court it was "Ordered that John Kenady[25], Robert Fellow[26], and Wm. Hook should be appointed to settle the account current of the estate of Jacob Page."

An estate inventory was presented to the court in October 1789 by Jacob's executors, Mike Fulghum[27] and John Page, son of his uncle, Thomas Page. In July of 1794 John Kenady & Robert Fellow & Wm Hook were appointed to settle the account of the estate of Jacob Page.

25 John Kennedy died on January 31, 1825, at the age of seventy-five, and his wife, Elizabeth, died December 24, 1836, at the age of eighty. They had two sons, Thomas and John.

26 Quaker records of Contentnea Monthly Meeting provided birth dates for the ten children of Robert and Rachel Fellows who were married December 13, 1783. Rachel died on March 13, 1916.

27 The Fulgham family, with given names Michael, Anthony, Nicholas and John, was in Isle of Wight County as early as 1643, when Anthony Fulliambe and Silvester Thacker were granted 100 acres on Pagan Point. He also patented 500 acres in 1650, and 1600 acres on July 12, 1665. It is possible that he, John Marshall, and William Boddie had transported a colony of settlers to Virginia from Yorkshire and Derbyshire.

Please note Michael Fulghum was executor of the 1789 will of Jacob Page as well as a grantee on August 24, 1809 of Anthony Fulghum of Wayne County who was acting on behalf of the property of Samuel and Mary Page Elliott.

Jacob and Sarah Hastings Page had a daughter:

i. Mary Page. Born, 12 Feb 1783, in Randolph Co., NC. Died, 18 May 1864, in Middletown, Danville Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. Buried in Elliott Cem., Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. She married Samuel E. Elliott. For descendants and details concerning this family see the Elliott Family chapter.

11 iii. Jesse Page.

iv. Moring Page[22]. Born, before 1758, in Craven Co., NC[23]. Resided, 1779, in 96th District, Granvill Co., SC.

v. William Page[24]. Born, before 1760, in Craven Co., NC[25].

9. Samuel[3] Page (John[2], Thomas[1]). Born, before 1729, in Bertie Co., NC. Died, before 1792, in Cashy Swamp, Bertie Co., NC[26]. Residence: 1764, in Dobbs Co., NC.

Samuel married Mary, surname unknown. Died, after 1795[27].

Because both John Page, Sr., and John Page, Jr., had sons named Samuel, it is very difficult to be sure to which Samuel each deed referred. Although the father may be in error, the sons of Samuel, Samuel, Jr., and Nathan, are a certainty.

Samuel Page was the owner of 330 acres near Cashey Swamp, Bertie County, North Carolina, sold on October 6, 1750, to Edward Harrell for thirty-seven pounds. The property was defined as a portion of a grant to Henry Rodes in 1723.

In 1758 Samuel Page was deeded 280 acres on Wattom Thorou Fan in Bertie County by James Boyte of Edgecombe County for 5.1.3 in Virginia money. In 1765 he was assigned "to work on the road from Hertford line to Wattom Road at the Indian Path." In 1764 he signed a citizens' petition for the establishment of the town of "Cashy."

Tax rolls between 1755 and 1770 refer to "Samuel Page & sons Nathan Page & Samuel Jr." The 1770 lists included Samuel and for the first time, Samuel, Jr.

Samuel Page made a purchase at the estate sale of Solomon Freeman on March 27, 1778, in Bertie County. In 1785 he made a purchase at the estate sale of Curby Moody.

The August 1792 Bertie County Court was requested by Mary Page, widow of Samuel, to award her a one-third share of 170 acres on "Cashy Swamp" which was at that time in the possession of James Wood. She sold the property in 1795.

The children of Samuel and Mary Page were:

ii. Nathan Page. Born, circa 1747, in Bertie Co., NC[28]. Resided, 1786, in Bertie Co., NC. He married Judah, wife, surname unknown, before 1774[29].

On June 20, 1767, Nathan Page purchased from Jonas Wood for thirty-five pounds a tract of 400 acres bordering the line of John Harrell. The deed was witnessed by Joseph Wood. Beginning in 1769 and continuing through 1774 Nathan appeared on Bertie County tax rolls.

On January 1, 1774, Nathan and Judah Page sold Jesse Jones 100 acres of his 400 acre tract for fourteen pounds. Witnesses to the deed were Samuel Dunn, John Jones, and Samuel Dunning. Nathan and Judith Page sold Moses Purvis the remaining 300 acres on June 6th of that year for forty pounds. Witnesses were James Purvis, Jun., Nathan Hodges, and Absalom Carney.

On August 26, 1774, Nathan Page and Samuel Granberry witnessed two deeds by which Nathan's brother, Samuel Page, acquired from Arthur Brown 350 acres in Bertie County located on the lines of William Granberry, James Harrell, and Abram Holland. The property was originally entered and surveyed by Dempsey Holland in 1762. When Samuel Granberry died, his estate records dated December 10, 1774, indicated money had been paid to his estate by Nathan Page.

Nathan held 360 acres which he had inherited from his great-grandfather, John Page, Sr., who purchased it in 1732. He sold this in two parcels: 200 acres in 1783 and 160 acres in 1786. After this sale Nathan and Judah no longer appeared in area records although their sons, Nathan, Jr., and Solomon did.

Fourth Generation

10. Joshua[4] Page (Thomas[3], Thomas[2], Thomas[1]). Census: 1790, in Bertie Co., NC; p. 361. Occupation: planter.

Joshua married Elizabeth "Sally" Montgomery, 9 Oct 1787, in Bertie Co., NC[30].

In the year 1787 Joshua Page was taxed on 24 acres and in the following year on 250 acres. On July 10th of that year Joshua had received Bertie County land grant #1015 for 207 acres on the main run of Jumping Run Swamp. The property adjoined his brother, Solomon Page.

At the time of the 1790 census, Joshua and Sally had two sons under sixteen years of age. On May 1st of that year Joshua sold Jeremiah Dunning 45 acres of his holdings on Little Branch for 50 pounds, eight shillings. After this sale his tax for the year was on 193 1/2 acres.

Joshua and Elizabeth Montgomery Page had a son:

i. William[5] Page. Born, before 1813, in Bertie Co., NC[31].

11. Jesse[4] Page (John , Jr.[3], John[2], Thomas[1])[32]. Born, before 1739, in Bertie Co., NC. Resided, 1763, in Black Creek, Johnston Co., NC.

Jessie married Ann, whose surname is unknown

Jesse Page received a land grant on January 1, 1763, for a 517 acre tract in Johnston County, North Carolina, located on both sides of Black Creek near the corner of William Eason and adjacent to the line of the Earl of Granville. A yearly rent of twenty shillings, eight pence was due to Granville. On January 17, 1764, he and his wife, Ann, sold William Smith, Sr., a tract for five pounds. On April 21, 1767, Jesse registered a cattle mark in Johnston County. On November 28, 1769, and again on March 10, 1770, Jesse was named overseer by the court of the road "in room and district of John Harrell."

In 1780 Jesse acquired another 100 acres in Wake County but on the Johnston County Line. The property was on both sides of Champion Branch of Black Creek. Seven years later still another 200 acres were granted on the north side of the south prong of Black Creek in Wake County. Wake County had been formed in 1770 from Johnston, Cumberland, and Orange Counties.

The 1787 tax lists indicated that Ann and Jesse Page had eight sons and three daughters living at home. Two of the sons were deaf. By 1790 another daughter was added to the family.

The identified children of Jesse and Ann Page were:

i. John[5] Page. He married Mary Johnson, 29 Oct 1788, in Johnston Co., NC[30].
ii. William Page[33].
William was declared exempt from paying taxes in Johnston County in August of 1779 due to being "deft and dumb" and "incapable of performing public duties".
iii. Frederick Page. He married Matt Jones, 28 Dec 1782, in Johnston Co., NC[34].
On December 30, 1779, Frederick Page was granted 200 acres on both sides of Black Creek bordering the line of William Eason.
iv. Lemuel Page.
Lemuel Page served in the revolution. In 1798 he resided in Jefferson Co., GA.
v. Tobias Page. He married Polly Johnson, 19 Sep 1794, in Johnston Co., NC[30].
vi. Thomas Page. He married Elizabeth Addams, 11 Feb 1789, in Wake Co., NC[30].
vii. Jesse Page. He married Tabitha Lambert, 8 Nov 1800, in Wake Co., NC[35].
x. female Page.
xi. female Page.

12. Samuel[4] Page, Jr. (Samuel[3], John[2], Thomas[1]). Born, circa 1746, in Bertie Co., NC[36].

Samuel married, first, Priscilla Harrell, daughter of James and Grace Harrell, circa 1765, in Bertie Co., NC[37]. Died, before 1778, in Bertie Co., NC. He married, second, Chris Chaina, surname unknown, before 1778, in Bertie Co., NC[38]. Her name appeared in documents quaintly as Chris Chaina, Chrischaina, and Christiana.

Samuel Page, Jr., first appeared on Bertie County tax rolls between 1767 and 1770. His first property purchase occurred on June 25, 1774, when he acquired 200 acres on Wattom Pocosin in Bertie County with mention of James Harrell's line and Wattom meadow in the land description. The grantor was William Granberry who was paid fifteen pounds for the tract. The original grant was made on June 20, 1761, to Dempsey Holland. Nathan Page, Jr., and William Rutland, Jr. and Sr., witnessed the transaction.

Two months later, on August 26th, he made a second purchase from Arthur Brown for 13.6.8 of 150 acres located on the lines of Abram Holland and Granberry. The property was part of a Dempsey Holland survey. Witnesses to the deed were Samuel Granberry and Nathan Page.

William Granberry repurchased the land he had sold Samuel on November 26, 1777, for twenty pounds. Mary Granberry and Edward Gray witnessed this deed. The 150 acres purchased from Arthur Brown were disposed of by Samuel and his second wife, Chris Chaina, in two parcels. The first sale, for four pounds, ten shillings, to Henry Harrell on May 18, 1778, was of fifty acres on William Granberry's line, witnessed by James and Joel Harrell. On August 2nd of the following year a second sale was made to Reubin Norfleet, for 300 pounds, of 100 acres bounded by the lines of William Granberry, Henry Harrell, and Abraham Holland. The latter deed was witnessed by Thomas Rhodes and Willis Callum.

That his first wife was a daughter of James and Grace Harrell, Sr., is known from the will of James Harrell in which James bequeathed "unto my two Grandsons Silas Page and Allen Page sons of my daughter Prisilla to their heirs and assigns one fether Bed a peace to each of them and one cow and calf a peace to each of them." James Harrell, Sr., also had daughters: Sarah, Elizabeth, Mary, and Grace; and sons: James and Joel, who witnessed the above deed, and Arthur and Willis.

i. Silas[5] Page. Born in Bertie Co., NC.
Silas Page made a purchase at the estate sale of James Harrell on December 24, 1784.
ii. Allen Page. Born in Bertie Co., NC.
iii. Ephraim Page. Born, 1765, in Bertie Co., NC.

Chapter XXII

THE TRUMBO FAMILY

Seven members of the Andreas Trum family and six members of the Nicholas Trombohr family emigrated in July of 1709 from Wurttemberg, Germany, and settled in Hunterstown, New York. By 1728 the Trum family resided in Franconia Township of Philadelphia County which since 1784 has been in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. On March 27th of that year, Andreas Trum purchased 250 acres for fifty-five pounds, seven shillings, from John Budd and Humphrey Murrey. It is believed, but not positively proved, that H. Jacob Trumbo, grandfather of Elizabeth Trumbo Hornback, was a son of Andreas Trum. At any rate it is known the family was German speaking and lived and associated with the Harness, Hornback, and Alkire families who also had German or Dutch origins.

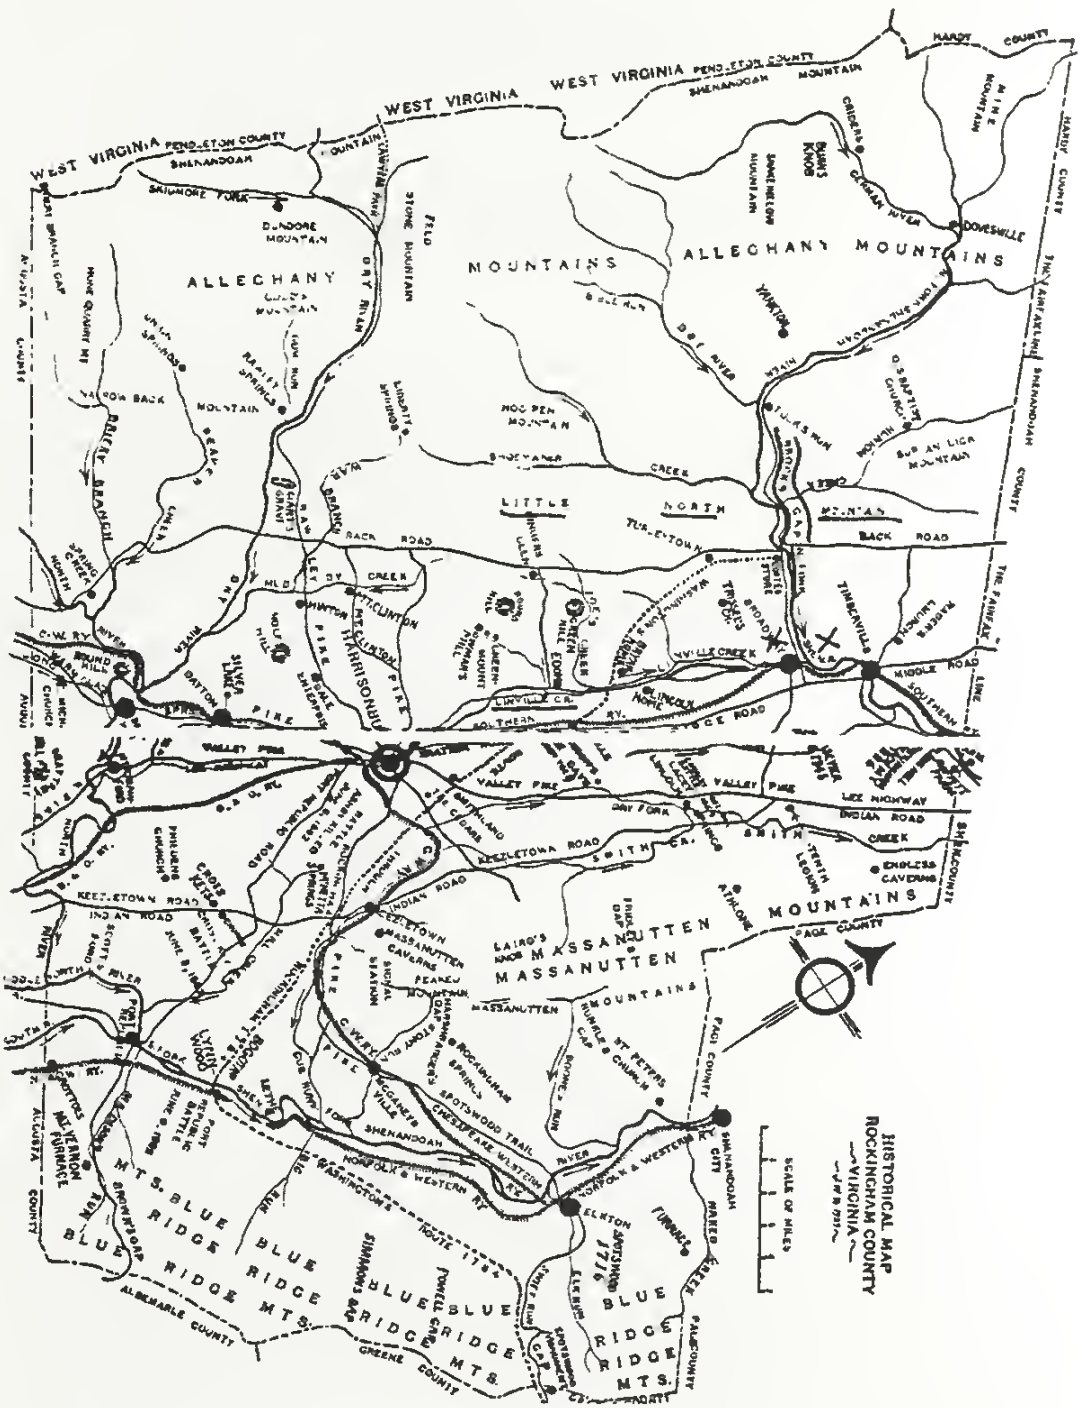
The Trumbo family was Lutheran with baptisms recorded at St. Paul's Lutheran Church where in various records the name was spelled Trumbo, Trumbourger, Troumberger, Trum, Trombole, Trumbor, Trombohr, Trombauer, Trumborn, Trumbeau, Dumbach, Drumbore, Trumpo, and Trumbore. The latter spelling is favored by the present day Pennsylvania branch of the family.

Augusta County, Virginia, was formed in the year 1738. In 1739 Jost Hite, Robert McKay, and their partners received a grant of 7,009 acres in the Linville Valley. Migrants followed a route through the Valley of the Potomac crossing the present counties of Shenandoah and Rockingham through mountain passes. The family of H. Jacob Trumbo settled on Linville Creek which flowed into the North Fork of the Shenandoah River above Brock's Gap in Little North Mountain, the lowest pass in the Allegheny Mountains.

By the year 1748 the first records of the family of H. Jacob Trumbo appeared in Augusta County when its first records were recorded in November of that year. Before that time records of the area were kept in Orange County because of the sparse population in Augusta County. The majority of early settlers in the area were Scotch-Irish, but it was the first German settlers who built log homes, fine, large barns, and maintained German speaking communities through the middle of the nineteenth century. This area of Augusta County became Rockingham County in 1778.

In 1750 the family of Squire Boone, father of Daniel Boone, which also resided in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, began its journey south arriving in North Carolina in 1751. In transit they spent about a year in the Linville Creek area, six miles north of Harrisonburg. Some members of the Bryan family, which married into the Boone family, also resided in the Linville Creek area before removal to North Carolina. It is nearly certain these families were acquainted. Another resident on Linville Creek at this time was John Lincoln whose great grandson, Abraham, became president. George Trumbo, son of H. Jacob, had some dealings with John Lincoln, great uncle of Abraham.

Into this geographical and historical setting the family of Andrew and Kate Harness Trumbo, parents of Elizabeth Trumbo Hornback, has been introduced.



Rockingham County, Virginia

First Generation

1. Andrew "Andy"[1] Trumbo (H. Jacob[2], Andreas[3], Nicolas[4])[1]. Born, 22 Apr 1743, in Franconia Twp., Philadelphia Co., PA. Died, 15 Oct 1827, in Bath Co., KY, near Wyoming. Buried in Clintonville. Bourbon Co., KY. Occupation: weaver.

Andrew married[3], first, Margaretha Katherine "Grate" Harness[4], daughter of Johann Michael Ernest Harness and Maria Elisabetha Dieffenbach, 22 Apr 1768, in Augusta Co., VA. Marriage(2): 22 Apr 1769. Born, 16 May 1749, on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Augusta Co., VA. Died, 6 Aug 1792.

Andrew married[3], second, Martha, widow of Charles Ratliff[3]. Marriage license, 22 Mar 1796, in Clark Co., KY. Born, 12 Feb 1755. Died, 2 Jan 1846, in Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co., IL. Burial in Kern Cem., Fancy Creek Twp., Sangamon Co, IL.

As early as August 10, 1761, eighteen year old Andrew Trumbo witnessed the sale of 100 acres from Barbary Raider to Mathias Raider. In May of 1766 Andrew again witnessed a land sale by Rudolph and Cathrine Mauk to Michael Hober.

Andrew Trumbo made his first land purchase on August 15, 1766, obtaining from Nicholas and Catherine Cain of Albermarle County, Virginia, a tract of 100 acres, for which he paid 32 pounds. The property was located on the North River of the "Shanand" in Augusta County, Virginia, within the gap of the mountains. This was probably Brock's Gap where his father, H. Jacob Trumbo, resided. This deed was recorded on November 8, 1774, in Augusta County, Virginia Deed Book 12, page 503. Andrew appeared in Augusta County vestry records in the years 1767-8.

Andrew Trumbo met his wife, Margaret "Kate" Harness, while one of seventy-five temporary guards for Fort Harness. Kate's father, Michael Harness, had built his fort about three miles south of Moorefield on the South Branch of the South Fork of the Potomac River in present day Hardy County, West Virginia, in the year 1739. Kate and Andrew were married on April 22, 1768, Andrew's twenty-fifth birthday. Andrew earned a living for his family as a weaver and, according to family lore, had eyebrows two inches long.

After his marriage on May 11, 1771, Andrew purchased, for 240 pounds, 600 acres on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac from Mary, widow of James Wood. The transaction was recorded in Augusta County, VA Deed Book 17. This tract was a portion of a patent of 2400 acres which had been made to Wood in 1750.

According to the testimony of Andrew's son, George Trumbo, in the Draper Papers, when George was about four years old, (1773-4), the family had to "fort up" for about a week. At this time Indians were endangering the area during Dunsmore's War. The refuge for the family was almost certainly Harness' Fort. Andrew and Kate's daughter, Elizabeth, was born during this period.

Kate Trumbo was left alone with five children under eight years of age while Andrew served his country during the American Revolution. He participated in the McIntosh Campaign in 1777-78 in one of three companies under General Lachlan McIntosh which built Fort MacIntosh on the Ohio River, thirty miles south of Fort Pitt, present day Pittsburgh. The army then crossed to the west side of the Muskingum River and built Fort Laurens in central Ohio. His service was acknowledged as a patriot by the Daughters of the American Revolution on April 13, 1995.

On August 22, 1781, Andrew and Margaret Trumbo sold Peter Harness, one of Kate's brothers, 232 acres on the South Branch. This property seems to have been a portion of the 1771 purchase mentioned above. The 1782 tax rolls of Hampshire County, Virginia, showed eight whites in Andrew's family. By 1784 he was taxed on nine whites, one dwelling, and one other building.

George Trumbo gave the following testimony to describe the family's migration to Kentucky:

> We came to Kentucky in 1787. We started on September 28 but went back and came out again in June 1788 when I remained. I came right to Curtwright's Station where six or seven houses had been built that spring close on the head of Green Creek. Strode's Station was six miles off right between us and danger in a manner....
>
> ...The families included Thomas Longworth, Abraham Coffman, Samuel Hornback, Peter and R Cartwright, and my father, Andrew Trumbo....Indians never troubled them there; nobody was killed and no horses stolen. Indians came over onto the waters of Spatterdock, but Strode's men found out they were there, and they got to do no mischief. Nobody lived on Spatterdock then or for several years afterward. It was between us and Strode's Station.

The family of Andrew Trumbo first appeared on the Bourbon County, Kentucky, tax rolls in 1789. After the harvest in 1788 the young men at the station began erecting cabins and digging a mill race for Samuel Hornback. Of the families at Cutwright's Station, the Trumbo's daughter, Elizabeth, married a nephew of Samuel Hornback, Abraham Hornback, in 1791, and the youngest daughter, Dolly, married John Cutwright in 1801.

Andrew Trumbo again appeared on the tax rolls of Bourbon County in 1790, 1792, and in 1794, by which time he had 103 acres on Green Creek and had increased his livestock to four horses and eighteen cattle. Andrew's wife died on August 6, 1792. Andrew obtained a license on March 22, 1796, to marry his second wife, Martha, widow of Charles Ratliff.

Andrew held 600 acres on Slate Creek in Clark County in an area which became Montgomery County in 1797. On March 28, 1800, he made a land purchase in Bourbon County from Charles and Patty Smith, Sr. The tract was located near the village of Clintonville, originally the location of Cartwright's Station which is presently located at the intersection of Thatcher's Mill Road and the Paris-Winchester Pike. By 1809 Andrew's Bourbon County property had increased to 168 acres.

In 1810 Andrew appeared in the Bourbon County census. At that time his household was composed of his second wife, one son, Adam, a daughter, Margaret, and himself. 1810 tax records indicated he held four slaves. On June 22, 1812, at the age of sixty-nine, Andrew sold 200 acres to his two youngest sons, Isaac and Adam, for 100 pounds, retaining the right to the "quiet and peaceable possession of the said land and premises during his natural life," therefore, Andrew was no longer taxed on real estate in Bourbon County, but only on his black slave. Andrew continued to be listed on Bourbon County tax rolls through 1816.

In 1817 Andrew was transferred to the tax rolls of Bath County together with his sons, John and Jacob. He was taxed on 196 acres on Slate Creek and for one slave. By 1819 Andrew had two tracts, 192 acres on the Slate and 120 acres on the White Oak, as well as on nine slaves. The following year only one tract was listed containing 176 acres. By 1824 he held only 45 acres, nine slaves, and three horses with a total value of $4,550.

Andrew died on October 15, 1827, at his home near Wyoming in Bath County, Kentucky. No will has been located. His widow, Martha, died in 1846 in Sangamon County, Illinois, where her daughter and other family members had removed.

i. George A. Trumbo[5]. Born, 29 Sep 1769, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort Seybert, VA. Died, 20 May 1851, in Wyoming, Bath Co., KY. Buried in Trumbo Cem., Wyoming, Bath Co., KY. He married, first, Susannah Coffman, daughter of Abraham Coffman, 17 Sep 1789, in Lincoln Co., KY. Marriage license, 2 Sep 1789, in Lincoln Co., KY[6]. He married, second, Isabella Bonkar, 9 Jan 1819, in Fayette Co., KY.

George A. Trumbo, eldest son of Andrew Trumbo, accompanied his family to Bourbon County, Kentucky, in the year 1788. The Trumbo family lived at Cutwright's Station. George's father refused to give permission for George, who was underage, to marry; therefore, George and his "wife" removed to Noke's Station on Noke's Fork of Dick's River and two miles from the Crab Orchard. A child was born to them, and when George reached legal age, they were married.

Details of this situation came from the testimony of W. Boyd in the Draper Papers. Noke's Station was occupied by George Nokes, his son, Benjamin Nokes, and Ben Haggard. The valuable testimony of George, himself, provided us with the following information about his experiences when the Indians attacked Noke's Station:

> We had heen there eight or nine months when on the 14th day of June 1789, in the night, the Indians attacked us. They came up to Ben Noke's cahin, pushed open the door, and shot him thru the hody and his sister Betsy Nokes thru the arm Nokes was sitting on the hed. The hall went in under one arm and out under the other. He got up and walked to the fire place and raised up to get his gun But he could not do it and fell hack dead. His sister was sitting on the other side of him. The hall went thru her arm not hreaking the hone. Noke's wife went to run out and they struck at her, hut only touched her hack. When she ran, she had to jump a fence. As she did so they grahbed at her She jumped another fence, and at that the Indian cut her as she jumped so that you could see the mark. She fell on her hands, not much hurt, and so got off and ran to her father-in-law's house. The sister crept under the hed and so escaped without further injury. Ben's children were in hed The Indians pulled the sheet out from under them and never touched any of them George Nokes fired his gun toward them from his opened door
> We heard the alarm in our cahin and did not have any idea of the Indians' strength. We rushed out of our cahin and an Indian came after us He outran me and came heading me round a tree with his tomahawk lifted up. I fired when he was almost within touching distance. As I fired he drew hack and cried "Woo. Woo" and immediately two guns fired hehind me
>
> I did not have time to pick up my child. I had dropped it to fire at the Indian that was heading me. It was killed. My wife ran into a little hriar thicket I pressed on to English's Station a mile off. There I got a horse and went on to the Crab Orchard, two miles on.
>
> Haggard that lived on the outside of our station had slipped away and he and his family had gotten to the Crah Orchard hefore me. Fifteen or twenty men were at our station within an hour and thirty minutes after the attack. Next morning the Indians were pursued to a thicket so close that a dog could not get into it, and there they left them. George Nokes left the station the fourth day after the attack but went back again. I left there the second day afterward and never returned.

George Trumbo served as a guard in John Petty's company at the iron works at Bourbon Furnace from May to July of 1791. This furnace produced the munitions used by Andrew Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans during the War of 1812.

When Morgan's Station, built by Ralph Morgan, was attacked on Easter Sunday of 1791, George Trumbo joined Samuel Hornback's company to go to the aid of its inhabitants but arrived too late to be of assistance.

As a young man George first appeared as a separate household on the 1792 tax rolls of Bourbon County with three horses and six cattle. In 1793 the tax list indicated he had 100 acres, and by 1794 he had 600 acres on Green Creek. The 1796 rolls indicated he had reduced his acreage to 102 acres on Green Creek. In 1812 George was taxed on only sixty-five acres.

Adding to his holdings on January 2, 1817, George purchased all the rights in a twenty acre tract on Green Creek held by Samuel and Rachel Cartright and Levi and Betsy Crose for $20.00. In 1823 George had been transferred to Bath County rolls where he was taxed on 120 acres on White Oak waterway. He continued to live in this area and was taxed on tracts of 130 and 100 acres until 1833. At that time his holdings had declined to 60 acres.

ii. Mary Trumbo[5]. Born, circa 1770, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort Seybert, VA. Died, before 1827. She married[3] John Hornback[5], son of Samuel Hornback and Dorothy "Dolly" Harness, 1801[7]. This family is discussed in the Hornback Family chapter.

iii. Elizabeth Trumbo[5]. Born, 14 Feb 1773, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort Seybert, VA[8]. Died, Sep 1810, in Montgomery Co., KY. She married[9] Abraham Hornback[10], son of Simon Hornback and Margaret "Peggy" Alkier, 18 Aug 1791, in Bourbon Co., KY[11]. Marriage license, 18 Aug 1791[12].

This family and many of its descendants are found in the Hornback Family chapter. Margaret's father was identified on her request for a marriage license.

iv. Jacob Trumbo[5]. Born, 12 Aug 1774, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort. Seybert, VA. Died, 21 Feb 1831, in Wyoming, Bath Co., KY. He married Deborah Alkier, daughter of Harmonas Alkier and Lydia Patton, 2 Apr 1798, in Bourbon Co., KY[13].

It would appear from the first Montgomery County, Kentucky, tax records of 1797 that Jacob and his brother, John, had split the 300 acres on the Slate Creek, formerly in Clark County, owned in 1794 by their father. By 1808 Jacob had acquired an additional 200 acres. He and John remained on the Montgomery County tax rolls through 1810.

In 1811 when Bath County was formed from Montgomery, Jacob was transferred to its rolls with the same 150 acres on Slate Creek. By 1819 he had acquired an additional 100 acres, both properties described variously as being on White Oak or Slate waterways. In the years 1823 and 1824 Jacob was taxed on an additional 150 acres. From 1825 until his death in 1831 Jacob held two tracts, one of 150 acres on the Slate waterway, and another of 155 acres, sometimes described as being on the Licking River and sometimes as on Indian Creek.

Jacob and Deborah Alkier Trumbo had a son:

i Andrew Alkire Trumbo. Born, 13 Sep 1799, in Montgomery Co., KY. Died, 11 Aug 1871, in Franklin Co., Ky. He married Eloise Triplett, 24 Oct 1821. Born, 18 Feb 1804, in Montgomery Co., KY. Died, 17 Aug 1874, in Franklin Co., KY. He had a son John and a daughter, Mrs. Annie Lacy.

v. John Trumbo[3]. Born, 12 Oct 1776, on the South Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort Seybert, VA. Died, 30 Mar 1856, in Bath Co., VA. Census: Jul 1850, in 1st District, Bath Co., KY; p. 62. He married Sarah Atchison, 29 Oct 1795, in Montgomery Co., KY. Born, 15 Jul 1778. Died, 23 Oct 1853.

John Trumbo was listed only once on Bourbon County, Kentucky tax rolls, in 1794, with 300 acres on Slater Creek in "Clark County." John's father, Andrew, had property at the same location.

The first tax rolls of Montgomery County, formed in 1797 from Clark County, listed John holding 150 acres on Slate Creek. He continued on these rolls through 1808. In 1811, when Bath County was formed, John was found transferred to its tax lists. There he remained through 1815 with the same 150 acres. In 1817 he was taxed on 165 acres and in 1818 on two tracts of 165 and 100 acres. From 1820 through 1824 his tax was on 187 acres. By 1825 his holdings were reduced to 147 acres on the Slate waterway and in successive years, 140 acres. In 1833 he acquired an additional 50 acres on Indian Creek and two lots in Carlisle. Jacob remained in Bath County until his death in 1856.

The children of Jacob and Sarah Atchison Trumbo were:

i. Isaac Trumbo. Born, 6 Sep 1796, in Frankfort, KY. He married Elizabeth Keithley.

ii. Elizabeth Trumbo. Born, 2 Jul 1798. She married, first, Mr. Johnson. She married, second, Moses Snedegar.

iii. Nancy Trumbo. Born, 10 Aug 1800. She married George Warren.
iv. Sarah Trumbo. Born, 24 Mar 1803. She married, first, William Snedegar. She married, second, Mr. Conyers.
v. Margaret Trumbo. Born, 8 Oct 1805. She married Isaac Snedegar.
vi. Dorothea Trumbo. Born, 22 Dec 1808. She married William Cassity.
vii. Deborah Trumbo. Born, 24 Feb 1811. She married James F. Jones.

??? vi. Andrew Trumbo[5]. Born, circa 1779, on South Fork of South Branch of the Potomac River near Fort Seybert, VA. Died, 1838, in Bath Co., KY[14]. Resided: 1828, in Indian Creek Precinct, Sangamon Co., IL[15]. He married Jane Holiday.

Andrew Trumbo, Jr., first appeared in Bourbon County, Kentucky, tax records in the year 1804 with fifty acres on Green Creek. By the following year he had one hundred acres and four horses. By 1810 Andrew had acquired between 480 and 485 acres, described as being on Cypress Creek, but on Trace Waterway in Union County when the latter county was formed from Henderson County in 1811. Andrew reappeared again on Bourbon County tax rolls on Slate Creek in 1819, and continued there in most years through 1834 (the last year read by the author). It was indicated that he owned two lots in Owingsville, 206 acres on Slate Creek, and 100 acres on the Licking River in Morgan County, which was formed in 1823 from Bath County.

Andrew appeared for the first time on newly formed Bath County tax rolls in 1819 when it was formed from Montgomery County, but he held no property in Bath County until 1825. From then until his death Andrew held two town lots in Owingsville. In 1833 he was still on Bath County rolls, but his property was stated to be 155 acres on the Slate Waterway and 100 acres on the Licking River in Morgan County. The former tract was listed as 100 acres the following year Andrew, Jr., died in Bath County in 1838. The following was the will of Andrew Trumbo, Jr.:

> In the Name of God Amen I Andrew Trumho of Bath County and Commonwealth of Kentucky considering the uncertainty of this mortal life and heing of Sound mind and perfect memory hlessed he Almighty God for the same. Isaac and his brother, Adam, purchased all the rights of Samuel and Rachel Cartright and Levi and Betsy Crose in 178 1/2 acres on Green Creek on January 2, 1817. Tax records of Bourbon County indicated that Isaac was holder of acreage variously described as between 165 and 210 acres on Green Creek.

v. Mathias Trumbo. Born, circa 1788, Brock's Gap, Rockingham Co., VA. He married, first, Rebecca Grove.

Jacob and Hannah Hawes Trumbo had two children:

vi. Elizabeth Trumbo. Born, 21 Aug 1791, Augusta Co., VA. She married Richard Custer, Jr.
vii. Jacob Trumbo. Born, 1 Mar 1796, Augusta Co., VA. He married Elizabeth Snyder.

Second Generation

4. H. Jacob[2] Trumbo (Andreas[3], Nicolas[4])[20]. Born, circa 1714, in Rhenish, Palatinate. Died, 1790, in Brock's Gap on the North, Fork of the North River, Rockingham Co., VA[21]. Passenger List: Jul 1709[22]. Immigration: 1709, at Hunterstown, NY[23].

5. H. Jacob married Mary, surname unknown. Died at Brock's Gap, North Fork of the North River, Rockingham Co., VA.

H. Jacob Trumbo was born about 1705 in the Rhenish Palatinate. It is believed, based on emigration records, but not positively proven, that his parents were Margaretha Magdalena and Andreas Trum.

On May 19, 1739, Jacob and his probable father, Andreas, were naturalized in Philadelphia. The following year Jacob's brother, Andrew, was also naturalized, probably having become of age.

Many residents of Montgomery and Bucks Counties in Pennsylvania became the pioneer settlers of Augusta County, Virginia, the parent county of Rockingham County which was formed in 1778. In the year 1748 the first records of Jacob Trumbo were recorded in Augusta County. The first evidence we have of Jacob's land ownership was a deed dated June 24, 1752, in which he purchased 400 acres on the North Fork of the North River of the "Shenando" above Brock's Gap, the lowest pass in the Shenandoah Mountains, from the patentee, Cornelius Murley, and his wife, Arstas. The tract was on Linville Creek as it entered the North Fork of the Shenandoah River. The deed markers included black oak and pine trees. The deed was recorded in Augusta County, Virginia Deed Book 4, page 380. On May 18, 1773, this property was sold to Michael Hover.

Linville Creek was named for the Linville family whose daughter married Joseph Bryan, father-in-law of Daniel Boone. It is now located in the northern part of Rockingham County about six miles north of Harrisonburg. It is a small stream eighteen or twenty miles in length bounded by land of excellent quality. It empties into the Little Shenandoah River.

On September 2, 1754, Jacob witnessed a deed of Jacob Bear for 400 acres on the South Fork of the North River of the "Shenando". A close affiliation with Jacob Bear seems to suggest a relationship to the Bear family. Numerous members of the Bear clan came to America from Switzerland and settled throughout Pennsylvania in the eighteenth century but particularly in Lancaster County. In this deed Jacob's surname was spelled Trombar, as it is found in the Pennsylvania branches of the family. The deed was recorded in Deed Book 5, page 192.

On November 19, 1760, Jacob Trumbeau and Jacob Bear were added to the tithables of Augusta County, Virginia, as recorded in Order Book I, page 432. By 1761 Jacob Trumboe was the holder of 420 acres in militia district 7. Jacob Trumboe, Sr., was also listed that year in Captain John Ruddell's Company, No. 11, as one tithable with four horses. In that same year Jacob witnessed the sale of a tract of 100 acres, priced at twenty pounds, to Matthias Raider by Matthias and Barbary Raider.

On August 15, 1766, Jacob added to his holdings 100 acres purchased for thirty-two pounds on the "North River of Shanand, within the gap of the mountain" from the 1747 patentee, Nicholas and Catherine Cain. This deed was recorded in Augusta County, Virginia Deed Book 12, page 503.

In 1768 Andrew was named administrator of the will of Isaac Bracphil when it was proved on November 14th. On April 11th of the following year Andrew made purchases at the estate auction of Isaac Brackfield.

When the will of Adam Reader, who died on May 19, 1778, was proved, Adam Reader, Jacob Trumbo (Jr. or Sr.?), Jacob Bear, and Abraham Bird were qualified as witnesses.

The Rockingham County, Virginia Minute Book, 1778-1786, recorded that Jacob Trumbo was impaneled to serve on a grand jury on the following dates:

May 24, 1779
May 24, 1784
November 22, 1784
November 28, 1785

The same source noted that on March 28, 1785, a motion of Jacob Trumbo ordered that Robert Deason be bound. His brothers, William, Daniel, and Mort were also bound to other persons. Robert was probably between nine and twelve years of age and an orphan.

Rockingham County in 1790, Jacob Trumbo (Jr.) posted an executor's bond for his father's estate. Sureties were William Dunlop and Jacob Custer.

The children of H. Jacob and Mary Trumbo were:

i. Elizabeth[1] Trumbo[3]. She married[3] Mathias Rhinehart[3], before 1765.

1 ii. Andrew "Andy" Trumbo.

iii. Margaret Trumbo[3]. Born, 16 May 1745, in Brock's Gap, N Fork, N River, Rockingham Co., VA. She married John Gray. Resided in Georgia.

iv. John Trumbo[3]. Born, circa 1747. Died in Pittsburgh, Allegheny Co., PA. He married[3], first, Mary Custer. He married[3], second, Sarah, surname unknown.[3]. He married[3], third, Eunice, surname unknown[3].

He appeared on Montgomery Co., KY tax lists in 1800 and in the 1810 census at the same location

2 v. George Trumbo[24]. Born, 1750, in Brock's Gap, N Fork, N River, Rockingham Co., VA[25]. Died, 1830, in Texas[25]. He married[3] Margaret Rockefeller Oats[3] in Hampshire Co., VA.

George Trumbo was first mentioned in the records of Augusta County, Virginia, when he made a purchase from the effects of Isaac Brackfield on April 11, 1769. He appeared on the 1784 tax rolls of Hampshire Co., Virginia with a family of 8 whites, 1 dwelling, and 3 other buildings. By 1800 he was on the tax rolls of Bourbon County, Kentucky.

On March 20, 1779, Josiah and Edith Davison of Rockingham County, sold George Trumbo of Hampshire County, 170 acres on the South Branch. On the same date the Davisons also sold 160 acres on the South Branch in Hampshire County. to George Cowger. George Trumbo's younger brother, Jacob, married Elizabeth Haas after 1788. Her first husband was George Cowger.

Hardy County, which succeeded Hampshire County, recorded two land sales by George W. Trumbo. The first was on May 2, 1785, to John Lewis for the north 1/2 of the NW 1/4 of section 33, township 29, range 32. The second was on December 5, 1785 to E. P. Madison for property in section 5, township 28, range 31.

A History of Pendleton County, West Virginia, provided the following biographical information:

> George was a large landholder below Fort Seybert and was industrious and thrifty. He divided the homestead among the four sons who chose to remain and gave money to the four who chose to go West. Andrew [George's son] moved to Texas late in life.

vi. Dorothy "Dolly" Trumbo[26]. Born, circa 1753, in Brock's Gap of the North Fork of the North River, Rockingham Co., VA. Resided in Georgia.

3 vii. Jacob Trumbo[3].

Third Generation

6. Andreas[3] Trumbore[3]. Born, 1688, in Rhenish, Palatinate. Died, after 1754, in Franconia Twp., Philadelphia Co., PA. Passenger list: Jul 1709[29]. Immigration: 1709, at Hunterstown, NY[23].

7. Andreas married[3] Margaretha Magdalena, surname unknown, before 1714[30]. Born, 1692.

The children of Andreas and Margaretha Magdalena Trumbore were:

3 i. H. Jacob[2] Trumbo.

ii. Andrew Trumbore/Drumbor[3]. Died in Franconia Twp., Philadelphia Co., (Montgomery Co.), PA. Passenger list: Jul 1709[29]. Immigration: 1709, at Hunterstown, NY[31]. He married[3] Louise, surname unknown[3].

Chapter XXIII

THE VANCE FAMILY

The Vance family appears to have originated on the continent of Europe as the de Vaux family at Les Baux in southern France[28]. The ruins of this middle ages castle and a restored town below the castle walls are now a tourist attraction. In 1066 three sons of Harold de Vaux, Hubert, Rundolph, and Robert, came to England. Hubert settled in Cumberland near Carlisle. His son, Robert, founded and built Lanercost Priory at Brampton. The original church still stands and is in use. Robert remained in the Norfolk area and that family founded Pentney Priory, and the ruins still stand. Later generations dropped the "de" in their name.

The Scottish branch of the de Vaux family seems to have descended from Rundolph, a grandson of Hubert de Vaux. They founded the Vaux of Dirleton line. In 1384 a descendant of the Dirleton branch moved to the Wigtonshire, Galloway area, and founded what is known as the Vaux/Vaus of Barnbarroch line.

The first of the family in Ireland was the Reverend John Vauss or Vans, an Anglican clergyman affiliated with the Church of Ireland and a 1605 graduate of St. John's College, Cambridge[29]. He served for many years in Kilmacrenan. At some point during the Commonwealth Period (1650-1660) he absented himself from Ireland evidenced by the fact he was not listed in the 1659 census. In 1660, in order to reinstate himself with the Church of Ireland, the Rev. John produced his Letters of Institution dated 1615 when he first became a rector of Kilmacrenan, Diocese of Raphoe, Donegal in order to reinstate himself. On October 22, 1661, he wrote his will which was probated on July 26, 1662, but burned in a 1922 fire in Dublin. His will was sealed with the Barnbarroch Arms thus tying him to the family in Scotland. It is believed at this time that the Reverend John Vans' father was a natural son of Sir Patrick Vans. He is not to be confused with Sir Patrick's legal heir, Sir John Vans. The Reverend John's grandson, Patrick Vance of Lifficulty, Donegal, was the first to adopt the Vance spelling.

A descendant of the Reverend John was John Vance of Coagh, Ireland. He was the father of one of several Andrew Vances who were in the United States in the 1700s. It is generally accepted that Elizabeth Vance, daughter of John Vance of Coagh, was the grandmother of President Andrew Jackson.

The wife of our Joseph Vance, Nancy Bradley, was born and reared in Washington County, Virginia, which has led researchers to seek Joseph Vance's roots in that location. It is believed there were three men by the name of Joseph Vance at that location, one being the son of Samuel and Sarah Colville, and one the son of John and Jane Black Vance. Our Joseph's father has not been identified.

After leaving Washington County, Virginia, Joseph and Nancy Vance settled in Kentucky. Extensive effort has been made to determine the exact Kentucky county in which they resided. It has been possible to eliminate a number of the Joseph Vances who were residents of Kentucky before 1801, by which time it is certain that Joseph and Nancy had removed to Ohio. Below is an accounting of the various Joseph Vances of Kentucky. The first five must be eliminated, but the sixth may have been our Joseph.

1. Mason County - Joseph Vance died, August 1807. James Vance executor.
2. Mason County - Joseph C. and Sarah (Wilson) Vance sold Peter Vaeatn 217 acres, part of a 1,000 acre survey opposite the mouth of Salt Lick.
3. Fayette County - Joseph Vance died, circa January 5, 1807. Only son, William. David Vance received two grants of 1,000 and 214 acres on the South Fork of the Elkhorn in 1783 and 1784.
4. Woodford County -Woodford County was formed from Fayette County in 1789. Possibly the same Joseph as #3. Joseph Vance and David Vance on tax rolls in 1790 and 1791 in a district north of South Elkhorn, near Lexington.
5. Scott County - Joseph Vance, born 1755, received a pension in 1818. Scott County was formed from Woodford in 1792.
6. Lincoln County - The Kentucky Certificate Book, 1779 to 1780, recorded the following:

   1. "William Casey by Joseph Vance" claimed a preemption of 400 acres in the district of Kentucky on "Acc't of making an Actual settlement in the Month of Jan'y 1779 lying on the waters of Hanging Fork and Dicks River adjoining the lands of Sam'l Briggs on the North side to include an improvement made by James McPheran satisfactory proof being made to the Court they are of Opinion that the s'd Casey has a right to a preemption of 400 Acres of land to include the above location."
   2. "Joseph Vance, Assee of James McPheran this day claimed a settleme't & preempt to a tract of Land in the district of Kentucky on Acc't of the s'd McPheran raising a Crop of Corn in the County in the year 1776 lying on the Waters of Green River adjoining the lands of Sam'l Briggs on the South to include McPhersan, improvement satisfactory proof being made to the Court they are of Opinion that the s'd Vance has a right to a settlem't of 400 acres of land to include the above location and the preempt'n of 1000 Acres adjoining & that a Cert issue accordingly."

   Joseph received Land Office Treasury Warrant, No. 1162, for the survey of 1,000 acres for which he paid 400 pounds on August 30, 1780. A land entry of 1,000 acres was subsequently made February 28, 1781, on a dividing ridge between Hanging Fork and Green River. The lines of Wm Montgomery, Ben. Potts, and Saml Briggs were mentioned in the description. An actual survey was made on October 15th and November 27th of 1798, showing actual acreage of 930. A witness to this survey was John Martin Jr., with John Martin, Sen., marker and survey director. A deed was issued on November 9, 1801.

   The property was sold by Joseph Vance of Greene County, Ohio, on August 17, 1805, to John L. Martin. Joseph C. Vance was by this time a resident of Champaign County. A connection between the Joseph Vance and Martin families is know in that on August 24, 1819, John Vance, son of our Joseph Vance, married Nancy Martin, daughter of Harry Martin and Sarah Morgan.

   With the exception of the year 1795, when Joseph Vance appeared on the rolls with no waterway indicated, the only Vance in tax records for Lincoln County was George residing on Dicks River from May 25, 1789, through July 25, 1805. None of the descendants of our Joseph Vance had a given name, George, making it appear that if George and Joseph were related, this Joseph was not ours.

   There were also Bradley connections to Lincoln County. Nancy Bradley's father, John, was a veteran of the Revolution. He authorized Alexander Breckenridge to sell two tracts on Green River on September 20, 1791, one of 400 acres and one of 639 1/2 acres.

From Kentucky Joseph and Nancy Vance removed to Hamilton County in the Territory of Ohio which subsequently became Greene County in 1803. There they settled near Bellbrook in Sugar Creek Township. Unfortunately for researchers, Joseph C. Vance also settled in Bellbrook, and because his son became a governor of Ohio, history books have intermingled the records of the two Josephs giving Joseph C. Vance credit for most references to a Joseph Vance in county records. It has been possible to sort out at least a portion of the records as Joseph C. Vance removed to Xenia, Ohio, by August 3, 1803, when he was named Director of Xenia, and from thence to Champaign County where he settled by February of 1805.

Another problem which has arisen for Vance researchers is finding proof of the Revolutionary service of Joseph Vance. Once again more than one Joseph appeared in the Virginia military records.

1. Private Joseph Vance enlisted for two years in Captain Michael Bowyer's Co. on August 2, 1776. He had continued service until November 15, 1783. He was of the 4th, 8th, and 12th Virginia regiments commanded by Colonel James Wood[30]. He received a pension in 1818 or 1819.
2. Private Joseph Colville Vance served in Captain Saul Vail's Company of Colonel Morgan's Rifle Regiment. He was the Joseph C. Vance of Greene and Champaign Counties of Ohio.
3. Private Joseph Vance, born 1750 in Winchester, Virginia, and died May 6, 1832, at Cross Creek, Washington County Pennsylvania.
4. Joseph Vance who served in Captain Simpson's Company of Augusta, Virginia.
5. Private Joseph Vance with military card #1096.
6. Private Joseph Vance received land warrant #938 dated June 20, 1783, was for 100 acres. indicating it was for three years of service. On May 7, 1794, Joseph sold Andrew Vance 740 acres in the Virginia Military District, located on O'Bannon's Creek, Goshen Township, Clermont County, Ohio, from military warrant, W2349. Survey #2406 of Andrew Vance on September 28, 1798, was for 200 acres of land on two military warrants, #966 and #938. Captain Thomas Merriwether of the 1st Virginia State Regiment signed the application for military warrant #938.
7. Private Joseph Vance with military cards #1033, 1037, and 1071. He enlisted on November 28, 1776, in Captain Peter Bryan Bruin's Company of the 11th VA Rifle Regiment of the Continental Troops, commanded by Colonel Daniel Morgan. Joseph Vance was also in November of 1779 in Captain William Johnston's Company of the 7th VA Regiment, designated from the 11th on September 14, 1778, and possibly saw service in the 8th Regiment.

   Bryan Bruin was a merchant of Winchester, Frederick County, Virginia, in 1760. He owned property on Cedar Creek and Turkey Run in Shanandoah County as did and Andrew Vance in 1778. This gives rise to the possibility that #6 and #7 are one and the same, and that our Joseph grew up in this same area and knew both men.

Readers are directed to The Vance Family Association[31] which produces a fine quarterly newsletter which shares Vance data, historical background, and as a service to members, maintains a genealogical record of Vance families. In addition it has organized tours of historical family sites in Europe. Membership in this association is highly recommended.

We will now continue with the family of Joseph and Nancy Bradley Vance.

In 1776 Joseph Vance had military service in the Revolutionary War. Joseph's name and the date, 1776, as well as the name of his son, James, War of 1812, and grandson, Zachary Taylor Vance, Civil War, were painted on a powder horn said to have been carried by Joseph Vance during the Revolution. The following article and picture were from the Eddyville TRIBUNE, Friday, November 9, 1894:

> Mrs. Homer Rhodes[32] of Little Rock, Arkansas arrived here Wednesday and will make a two week visit with Mrs Samuel Vance[33] and family. Mrs Rhodes brought from her Arkansas home a powder horn of the old style that was carried by Joseph Vance through the Revolutionary War of 1776 and then through the War of 1812 by James Vance, son of Joseph Upon it is painted the Battle of Lexington and the Bunker Hill monument It is a relic highly prized and is now the property of James Vance

The formula used to award bounty lands to Virginia privates was 100 acres for a three year enlistment or service until the end of the war. 400 acres were allowed for a private who served throughout the war. His service in the Revolutionary War was also reported in the Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois, Volume II, page 1164, published in 1912. At this time it is believed Joseph may have served in Colonel Daniel Morgan's regiment under Captain Peter Bryan Bruen.

Joseph Vance married Nancy Bradley daughter of John and Sarah Lillard Bradley of Washington County, Virginia. According to a biography of John E. Vance, grandson of Joseph and Nancy, Nancy's parents opposed the marriage, so the young couple eloped and went to an area near Cincinnati, Ohio, at a time when only two houses were there. Their only furniture was a frying pan and aside from wild game, their only provisions were cornmeal and salt.

Before moving to the territory of Ohio, Joseph and Nancy settled in Kentucky, probably in Lincoln County. On May 8, 1792, a new militia law was passed by congress requiring all able-bodied white male citizens between eighteen and forty-five to be enrolled in each state's militia. Each man was required to furnish a musket or firelock, bayonet, and belt. The name of a Joseph Vance was found on the payroll of a Kentucky company commanded by Captain John Dyall which served from March 22nd until March 29, 1792. Our Joseph Vance being thirty-nine years of age at the time was either in this company or another in Kentucky.

Joseph Colville Vance (1759-1809) was the father of Joseph W. Vance (1781-1852), who became a governor of Ohio. Joseph C. Vance settled on a tract located in a portion of sections 31 and 32 of T3, R5, presently Main Street of Bellbrook[34]. He is said to have been the Joseph Vance with his brother, John Vance, who appeared in the Hamilton County tax list of Dayton Township in 1798. This differs from an account in the History of Greene County, Ohio, Volume I, by Broadstone, page 243, which stated:

> In the spring of 1797 when Daniel Wilson was returning here to settle permanently, he overtook Joseph C. and David Vance in the valley south of where Lebanon now stands. The Vance brothers were on their way up to the valley of the Little Miami to find homes in this new country.

It also differs from an article published in the Vance Family Association newsletter, April 1992. page 42, from research of Margaret Vance Webb titled "History of Vanceburg, Kentucky," and the research of Gladys Mecum "Vanceburg, Ky. Newspaper, 200th year celebration." An excerpt from that article follows:

> ...There was a lot of activity around the salt wells on Salt Lick Creek, near where Vanceburg would be established....On June 30, 1797, Marshall sold to Moses Baird and Joseph C. Vance a tract of 55 acres on the east bank of Salt Lick Creek. Baird and Vance soon afterwards laid out the town, which they named Vanceburg, and began selling lots to interested persons.
>
> A few years later Marshall learned that a dreadful error had been made. He did not have clear title. He then had to make settlement with Baird and Vance, and they in turn, had to make valid deeds to the persons who had bought the lots....
> ...Joseph Colville Vance left the town that was named for him in 1801, moving near Clifton, Ohio Four years later he moved to Urbana, Ohio where he lived the remainder of his life.

These accounts seem to be in direct contradiction as Joseph C. Vance was traveling to the Little Miami in the spring of 1797 and also in Vanceburg, Kentucky, purchasing property and selling lots in June of 1797.

John Vance was named as the father of Joseph C. Vance in the following account on page 173 of the same volume; however, his actual father was David Vance.

> In the spring of 1797 the Wilson settlement received a valuable addition to their number in the person of John Vance, the father of Joseph C. Vance, one of the earliest officials of the county, who settled on the present site of Bellbrook.

It would seem that it may have been our Joseph Vance with a John Vance was traveling to the Little Miami in the spring of 1797.

Dated 1801 was a "Memorial of sundry Inhabitants being Purchasers and settlers on the Lands Originally Contracted for by John Cleves Symmes Between the two Miami Rivers in the Territory of the United States North West of the Ohio." Among the list of subscribers and listed in sequence were John Morgan Sr., John Morgan, Jr., John Vance, and Joseph Vance[35]. Joseph Vance and John W. Vance were subscribers on January 26, 1802, to a memorial of John Cleves Symmes. On the same list was Joseph C. Vance who removed to Champaign County, Ohio, about 1805 to an area near Urbana where he died in 1809.

Greene County history books indicated a connection between James Clancy and Joseph C. Vance. A quote from Broadstone's Greene County 1803-1908, provided the following information concerning James Clancy:

> At Bellbrook the settlement was made at a very early period. The father of Dr. James Clancy. from Kentucky, settled here in 1786-7, purchased the land that became the east side of the village. and built a log cabin on the site of the present Bellbrook Inn, where he "kept tavern" for a number of years. building another tavern on the same site in 1797 which was a large two-story frame. In this building was also kept the first store and it is related that Joseph C. Vance (who, after laying out Xenia went to Champaign County and whose son Joseph was elected governor of Ohio in 1836) also kept tavern in this building about 1797.

A contradictory account of James Clancy and Joseph C. Vance came from Robinson's History of Greene County:

> In the early spring of 1797 Daniel Wilson as he was returning to settle permanently on land near the village of Clio, which he had previously entered, overtook Joseph C. Vance and John Vance in the valley south of where Lebanon now stands. They were on their way to this locality, and hence were the first settlers where now is located the town of Bellbrook. Joseph entered the land extending along the east side of what is now Main street, Bellbrook, being part of Sections 31, 32 (3.5).[36] He erected a log cabin on that site....
> ...This was the building that James Clancey a few years afterward purchased of Joseph C. Vance, and ran his first tavern[37] - the place whereon the organization of the county into townships was selected as the place of holding elections, and where on the aforesaid occasions would assemble the pioneers, from one-half mile east of the present village of New Burlington to the Montgomery county line on the west to cast their ballots for the men of their choice for the different offices. And in that cabin was the place where Rev. Robert Armstrong, the pioneer associate preacher, preached the word of life in the fall of 1804, and on that occasion was for the first time sung the beautiful songs of the sweet singer of Israel, in that part of Greene county. Among the number on that occasion was Gen. Joseph C. Vance and family. John Vance[38]....

James Clancy on December 30, 1802, purchased land at the Cincinnati Land Office in S31, T3. R6, in Hamilton County, Ohio, as recorded in Deed Book B, page 50. On the very same date. John Vance purchased property in S18, T4, R5, recorded in Deed Book B, page 50, and Joseph Vance purchased property in S32, T3, R6, also recorded in Deed Book B, page 50. This shows that these three men made their purchases together as they were even recorded on the same page! This and the preceding paragraph establish a certain connection between our Joseph Vance and James Clancy. On December 30, 1802, Joseph Vance and James Clancy pre-empted a claim at the Cincinnati Land Office for 404 four acres in S32, T3, R6, located in Sugar Creek Township, Greene County, Ohio. The land lay west of the Little Miami River near the present town of Bellbrook. Payments were made on this property on July 26, 1805, January 28, 1806, and again on July 23, 1807. On the exact same date a John Vance entered his claim at the Cincinnati Land Office in S18, T4, R5. Our Joseph's son, John, was only thirteen years of age at this time. This coincidence of dates together with the contradictions in Green County histories leads us to wonder who this John Vance was.

On February 18, 1812, Joseph Vance and James Clancy received a grant of 404 acres at the south end of S32 in T3, R6,as tenants in common, having proved they had made full payment. The 35 John Morgan was the father of William Morgan who married Sarah Vance, daughter of our Joseph Vance.

36 Note that the land purchase of James Clancy and our Joseph Vance also was located in section 32.

37 Joseph Vance had an inn for sale and lots on October 11, 1804.

38 John Vance was said to have left Greene County before 1802 and to have gone with a company of surveyors, known as "The Kentucky Company," to Sandusky, Ohio before the War of 1812. John Vance also owned land in Clark and Licking Counties where the family lived at the time of the death of John in 1814.

patent was recorded on September 21, 1815. In 1814 James Clancy. and wife, and Joseph Vance. and wife, deeded 35 acres to William Rogers whose wife was Rebecca.

On September 16, 1815, James and Nancy Clancy purchased from Joseph Vance for $357.00 a parcel of land containing 178 1/2 acres, part of the south end of S32, T3, R6. Witness to the deed was William Snodgrass, husband of Joseph and Nancy's first child. Mary. On September 16, 1815, Joseph and Nancy Vance purchased 188 1/2 acres in S32, T3, R6 from James and Nancy Clancy for $357.00. Witnesses to this deed were William Snodgrass and James Clancy, Jr. These two transactions, less the sale to William Rogers in 1814 of 35 acres, created a legal split of the original land purchase.

On August 11, 1805, Joseph Vance of Greene County sold John L. Martin, Sr.,[39] of Bourbon County, Kentucky, for five shillings, a 930 acre tract of land on the dividing ridge between Hanging Fork and Green River[40] in Lincoln County, Kentucky. The introduction to this chapter detailed the history of this property.

It may have been our Joseph Vance or the Joseph Vance residing in Caesar Creek Township, who in 1814, according to Greene County records, became a partner with: John Hivling of Greene County, Hugh Glenn of Hamilton County, Samuel McCullock of Champaign County, and William Oliver who was then a special commissary for the Northwestern army of the United States. In 1818 Joseph Vance sued the other partners claiming they had closed him out, would not show him the books, and made profits he wasn't told about. A long listing of supplies purchased for the army was given in evidence. In 1822 the court ruled against Joseph Vance.

On October 7, 1817, after the death of Nancy Vance's father, John Bradley. Joseph and Nancy Vance, of Greene County, Ohio, authorized Nancy's brother, Reuben, of Washington County. Virginia, to act as their attorney for any property, money, or land due to them. A second document on September 11, 1818, granted Reuben Bradley a tract of land in Washington County, Virginia. Three days later. Abraham Bradley, brother of Nancy, and John Gibson, justices of Washington County, Virginia. examined Nancy Vance, as was customary, to be certain her husband had not pressured her to agree to the sale of the property.

At the time of the 1820 census Joseph and Nancy still were residing in Sugar Creek Township. While in residence in Ohio three children were added to the Vance family. Eight of their children were married in Greene County.

Before the 1830 census was taken Joseph and Nancy had removed to Morgan County. Illinois. where they lived on property next to their son, Abraham. Abraham had purchased a total of 240 acres between November 17, 1823, and July 27, 1830. The two 1823 purchases were at that time made in Sangamon County in an area which became Morgan County later that year. This land was located in sections 11, 12, and 14 of T15N, R10W near Jacksonville.

In 1833 the Jacksonville area was devastated by an outbreak of cholera which claimed the lives of three of the children of Joseph and Nancy: Abraham, Bradley, and Martha Vance Gest. During this epidemic over half the population fled the area. It is probable that Joseph and Nancy were among them. going to McDonough County where son, John, was located. John had purchased property there as early as 1835. On February 1, 1838, Joseph Vance died in Blandinsville Township, McDonough County, Illinois. His son, John, was administrator of his estate.

In the 1850 census a Nancy Banks was with the family of William and Sarah Morgan, the son-in-law and daughter of Nancy Vance, in Mahaska County, Iowa. This Nancy Banks is believed to have been Nancy Vance, a casualty of the numerous errors made by census takers. By the time of the Illinois 1855 census Nancy was living in Morgan County, Illinois, with John and Elizabeth Sturges, her son-in-law and daughter.

41 Brother of Nancy Vance's son-in-law, William (Stewart) Morgan

Much of the following biographical information was provided from the research of Rosalie Vance Woerdeman, great-great-granddaughter of John Vance.

John Vance was born January 14, 1789, in Kentucky, the eldest son of Joseph and Nancy Bradley Vance. His parents had removed to Ohio in about 1800 when it was still part of the Northwest Territory. That John Vance had military service in the War of 1812 is known from his application for bounty land, and the application of his wife, Nancy, for a widow's benefit based on John's service. He applied for bounty land on March 4, 1855, at which time he was aged sixty-six. He described his service record as having been a private in a company of independent riflemen commanded by Ammi Maltby. John had volunteered August 25, 1812, at Xenia, Greene County, Ohio, for a period of six months unless sooner discharged. He remained in service until September 29, 1812, when he was honorably discharged at Urbana, Champaign County, Ohio, receiving $7.93 for his services.

John declared he had volunteered again in May 1813 at Fort Menary in Ohio as a private in the company commanded by John Davis under General Duncan McCarther. From there he marched to Fort McCarther and continued in actual service for about one month until discharged at Urbana, Champaign County, Ohio. He also stated he had previously received a warrant for forty acres but had sold the warrant, the number of which he could not remember.

Nancy Vance's pension application stated her husband had served under Captain Ammi Maltby from August 25, 1812, until September 29, 1812, and under Captain Davis from May 3 through 20 of 1813. Her pension was admitted January 20, 1879, with an allowance of eight dollars a month from March 9, 1878.

On October 11, 1811, prior to his war service, John purchased 100 acres in the SE 1/4 of section 3, Connersville Township (T14N), Fayette County, Indiana, paying $2.00 per acre. He made two payments at the Cincinnati Land Office of $17.00, receipt #16546, and $63.00, receipt #16603, which together constituted the first installment of the purchase money. After his military service, on December 25, 1813, John purchased an additional tract in the NE 1/4 of S32 in Connersville Township. Prior to 1819 he had a grist mill on Williams Creek, three to four miles below Connersville.

On August 24, 1819, John married Nancy Martin, daughter of Henry and Sarah Morgan Martin. (The Morgan family has been treated in a separate chapter.) Henry Martin died on September 9th about two weeks after his daughter's marriage. Nancy's mother then returned to Greene County, Ohio. The first four children of John and Nancy Vance were born in Fayette County, Indiana.

On October 24, 1824, John and his wife, Nancy, sold James Vance 106.77 acres described as part of the NE 1/4 of S32, T14, R12, recorded in Fayette County Deed Book B on page 321. Again on May 1, 1827, they sold 46.35 acres with the same description to Richard Arnold as well as 6.78 acres in the NW 1/4 of the section to James Vance and Richard Arnold. The former deed was recorded in Book C, page 409, and the latter on page 569 of Book J. On September 15, 1826, John Vance patented three tracts in the NW 1/4 of S30, T17, R9, in Cass County Indiana, totaling 164.4 acres.

A quote from The History of McDonough County, Illinois , page 85, provided further biographical information:

> In the spring of 1826 John Vance came to this County and locating at what was long known as Job's Settlement, put up a cabin, and breaking up the virgin soil, put in a crop. All that summer he toiled to get his farm in shape and in the fall he returned for his family, which he had left behind him, and bringing them with him landed them in his cabin in what is now Blandinsville Township, December 24, 1826 Mr. Vance removed from here to Iowa in 1854 and died there in that state in 1866

Preceding the family to a new location was standard practice for family men moving into frontier conditions. It was necessary to erect a home and put in crops so a family with young children could survive in a new location. Page 95 of the same volume continued:

> The first white child born in this County was James, son of John Vance, who was born May 18, 1828, on Section 30, at what was then known as Joh's Settlement. now Blandinsville.

In December of 1830 the "Big Snow" brought four feet of snow which remained on the ground until April, causing the death of both wild game and domestic animals. That same year the Sauk Indians were driven away by the settlers. The Black Hawk War ensued. A militia from McDonough County was organized in June of 1832 to drive the Sauk and Fox Indians from the territory. John's brother. James, was colonel of the local militia.

John and Nancy were charter members of the oldest church in Blandinsville Township, the Christian Disciples of Christ, organized in 1831. On June 2, 1832. the Vance's triplet sons were born and died. They were the first burials in Liberty Cemetery which adjoined the church. Nearly sixteen year old, Elmira, died on June 15, 1840, and in 1841 three year old, Nancy Ann, and year old, Elizabeth. also died. All the surviving children except the youngest, Joseph Henry Vance, were married in McDonough County. The only surviving daughter, Sarah, remained in McDonough County with her husband, John T. Haggerty, when her parents removed to Iowa.

While still in McDonough County, John Vance and two of his wife's brothers. Charles and Rolly Martin, were on a roster of men from McDonough County during the Mormon War which began on June 23, 1844. From The History of McDonough County, Its Cities, Towns, and Villages by S. J. Clark, pages 91 and 92, came the following fascinating account:

> Some time in the year 1845 or 1846, a party of Mormons departed from Nauvoo in search of a young man whom they thought had done them an injury. The young man fled to the house of John Vance, Esq., living near Blandinsville, and as the Mormons were in close pursuit, jumped into hed, covered up, and told Mrs. Vance to tell the party he was her son. Quick as a flash she took in the situation, and seizing a white handkerchief, she wet it and laid it over his head. When the Mormons came in she requested them to he very quiet, for her son was in a high fever. Observing the young man in hed, they pursued their search as quietly as possihle, and soon retired. The young man afterwards remarked, it was no sham about his heing in a high fever. for he well knew if his identity had heen discovered, his life would not have heen worth a farthing.

Sixty-three year old John and his wife sold their land in McDonough County. and they and their sons removed to Mahaska County where John's brother, James had lived since about 1843. In January of 1855. the couple bought lots one, five. and six in block ninety-five, and lot four in block eighty-six in Eddyville, Wapello County, Iowa, paying a total of $236.00. They sold lots five and six on July 3, 1860, to Charles Baumbaum for $125.00. On lot four they erected a ten room, two story brick house where John lived the remainder of his life. Their son, Joseph H. Vance, purchased lot six in block eighty-six on July 2, 1864, and became a close neighbor. John and Nancy also purchased for $500.00 forty-five acres in Mahaska County from C. T. and Sarah Smith on August 20, 1856.

John died on December 1, 1866, leaving the following will:

FIRST - I give and hequeath to My Son Joseph H. Vance Five Dollars to he paid at my death.
SECOND - I give and bequeath to My Son O. C. B. Vance Five Dollars to be paid hy My wife at My death.
THIRD - I give and hequeath to Evaline Elmira Vance & Cordelia Vance Daughters of My Son Abraham C. Vance Each the sum of two dollars and fifty Cents said Money to he paid hy My wife Nancy Vance at My death.
FOURTH - I give and bequeath to My Daughter Sarah Haggerty the sum of Five dollars to he paid hy My wife at My death.
FIFTH - I give and hequeath to My Son James M. Vance the sum of Five dollars to be paid at My death.
SIXTH - I give and bequeath to My Wife Nancy Vance a Certain tract or parcel of Land to wit: the North East quarter of North West quarter of Section number Twenty Nine (29) in Township number Seventy Four (74) North of Range fifteen (15) West, the Said Tract of land Containing Forty-four & 80/100 acres, SEVENTH - I give and bequeath to My Wife Nancy Vance Two (2) Lots Numher four (4) in Block Eighty-Six (86). Also lot one (1) in Block Ninety Five (95) in Eddyville.
EIGHTH - I give and hequeath to My Wife Nancy Vance all personal property - I also give My Wife Nancy Vance full control to sell all or part thereof of the above descrihed land and to make use of the Money or proceeds thereof as She May deem best - also to Sell Said aforesaid lots and to use the Money and to put it to such use as she pleases LASTLY - I hereby appoint My Wife Nancy Vance Executrix of this My last Will. In Witness Whereof I have hereunto set my hand this Fourth (4) day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-five (1865).

The will was signed with John's Mark and witnessed by A. K. Finch. Miss Mary Jane Colvin, Miss Mary Jane Nixon, and Thomas Nixon. It would appear from this X that John could not write; however, both he and his brothers could. John's signature had a very distinctive V and appeared on a number of other documents as shown below:

John's tombstone at the Highland Cemetery in Eddyville, Mahaska County, Iowa, reads:

FAREWELL DEAR WIFE AND CHILDREN ALL
FROM YOU A FATHER CHRIST DOTH CALL MOURN NOT FOR ME TIS ALL IN VAIN TO CALL ME TO YOUR SIDE AGAIN
MY COURSE IS RUN, MY DAYS ARE SPENT GO HOME MY FRIENDS AND BE CONTENT
GO HOME DEAR FRIENDS AND DRY YOUR TEARS
I MUST LIE HERE TILL CHRIST APPEARS

After his death Nancy sold the forty-five acres in Mahaska County, just north of Eddyville, to Andrew Baker for $1,000.00. On March 9 1870, Nancy sold lot one, block ninety-five to Caesar Whited for $350.00. Finally on December 2, 1874, Nancy sold her beautiful home to her daughter and son-in-law for $1,000.00, and went with them to Macomb, Illinois. Six months before the sale the following notice appeared in the Eddyville ADVERTISER:

Mrs. Nancy Vance's dwelling caught fire on the roof Saturday and at one time it was feared that it could not he extinguished, hut the well directed efforts of several citizens were successful and the loss is hut slight.

From the Macomb JOURNAL, Thursday, May 19, 1881, edition, came the following obituary for Mrs. Nancy Vance:

Sudden Death of an Old Resident of McDonough

About 3 o'clock this morning her grand-daughter, Mrs. Cochrane, heard her moan, and calling her father that gentleman went to Mrs Vance's room and asked her what was the matter. She complained of shortness of hreath, sat up in hed, and asked for a drink of water It was given her, and she lay down apparently feeling easier. Mr Hagerty went hack to hed, hut not to sleep. Inside an hour he arose, as was his usual custom, and went out to do his usual morning work. Before going, however, he looked into his mother's-in-law hedroom, hut seeing her laying quietly, supposed her asleep. When he came in from work he went again, this time speaking to her. Not receiving an answer he went to her hedside and found her dead. It is supposed that her death was simply from the cessation of her life-machinery consequent of old age

Until 1843 Eddyville, located on the Des Moines River, was known as "Eddy's Trading Post" a short distance from Hard Fish's Indian village. In 1843 the town was formally laid out and renamed Eddyville. In May of 1843, "The New Purchase" was opened creating a wave of homeseekers, including James Vance, desiring to settle in what promised to be a rich agricultural area. These settlers lived in truly pioneer conditions. The nearest grist mill was eighty miles away creating a problem in keeping a sufficient supply of wheat flour on hand. Saulk and Fox Indians were still roaming through the land though considered on the whole, harmless.

On July 3, 1846, James Vance patented 155.99 acres just north of Eddy's Trading Post, in the NW 1/4 of S31, T74, Mahaska County. In the 1850s he held 200 acres in S30 of T74 and 9 acres in S19. He brought with him from his militia days in Indiana a small cannon which for years was used at political rallies and election parties as well at Fourth of July celebrations. On May 14, 1844, he became a member of the first grand jury. On February 19, 1850, he signed a petition for the erection of a toll bridge across the Des Moines River at Eddyville. The bridge was built at a cost of $35,000.00 and dedicated in August of 1858.

On September 13, 1852, James obtained a land warrant from the Fairfield Land Office, Iowa, for the SE 1/4 of NE 1/4 of S12, R16, T74 based on his service in the War of 1812.

James died on August 30, 1866. His funeral arrangements were arranged by Levi Baldwin. His wife applied for a widow's service pension on February 22, 1879. in which James personal description indicated that he was 6' 2" in height and had black hair, blue eyes, and a fair complexion.

Upon her death the estate was to be divided among his brothers and sisters. Mary protested this will but later withdrew her objections; she felt the costs of fighting it in court would leave her worse off.

Executor of the estate of Abraham Vance was William Snodgrass. husband of Abraham's sister, Mary. The executor was sworn, August 8, 1833. The estate inventory listed lots 64 and 65 in Jacksonville, a tract of land in the W 1/2 of the SE 1/4 of S29, T19N, R10W containing eighty acres. Chapter XXIV

THE WELCH FAMILY

Despite studies of Welch families in the counties of Hampshire and Frederick in Virginia, the parents of Dennis Welch, the earliest ancestor of this surname, have not been found.

Since Dennis married Margaret Dyer in Frederick County, the family of Edward Welch who married Fanny Turner on October 4, 1789, in Frederick County would be a possibility, however, nothing more is known of Edward. Since Dennis was born before 1790, it is unlikely this couple were his parents.

James Welch owned property on the Opechon waterway and was listed in the census of 1810, but no son was in the family; Dennis Welch was still unwed and not in the census either. In 1820 James was no longer in Frederick County. It is interesting to note that Dennis Welch named his first son, John, possibly for the father of his wife, and his second son, James.

In neighboring Hampshire County many Welch families were living. Although there were many who had the similar given name, Demsey, a study of the records of these families do not link us to Dennis.

We will now continue by tracing the known descendants of Dennis and Margaret Dyer Welch. Margaret Dyer's ancestry has been treated in a separate chapter.

First Generation

1. Dennis[1] Welch. Born, before 1790, in Virginia[1]. Died, after 1840, in Washington Co., IA. Census: 1820, in Madison Twp., Fayette Co., OH; p. 9. Census: 1830, in Madison Twp., Fayette Co., OH; p. 289. Census: 1840, in Marion Twp., Fayette Co., OH; p. 13.

Dennis married Margaret "Peggy" Dyer, daughter of John Dyer II, 22 Dec 1813, in Frederick Co., VA[2]. Born, circa 1793, in Frederick Co., VA[3]. Died, after 1860, in Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA. Census: 17 Sep 1850, in Washington Co., IA; p. 551. Census: 31 Jul 1860, in Union Twp., Des Moines Co., IA; p. 238[4].

Dennis Welch was born between 1780 and 1790. Dennis and Margaret Dyer were married in Frederick County, Virginia, on December 22, 1813, she being the daughter of John Dyer of that county and his second wife.

In Fayette County, Ohio, on November 9, 1818, Jesse Woodson of Powhatan County, Virginia, sold Dennis Welch 143 1/4 acres on the bank of Deer Creek, military survey #470, at a purchase price of $324.75. On the 23rd of that month, Dennis sold John and Nancy Gilmore for $10.00, a small tract of land by a sawmill which had been built by Jesse Woodson. In the 1820 census Dennis and Margaret were enumerated in Madison Township of Fayette County, Ohio. At that time their family consisted of a son and two daughters, all under ten years of age.

Dennis and Margaret continued to live in Fayette County through the 1840 census at which time they were residents of Marion Township. In the family there were three males, aged 0-4, 15-19 and 30-39, and four females, aged 0-4, 5-9, 10-14, and 15-19 in addition to Dennis, aged 50-60, and Margaret, aged 40-50.

Deeds executed in Fayette County after the original purchase were as follows:

November 8, 1837 - Dennis and Margaret Welch to Joseph Sharp; total purchase price of $2,000.00; 118 3/4 acres, part of a military survey of Richard James (Gohare), land entry #470; land description included Deer Creek and a mill race. Both parties signed with their marks.

September 1, 1845 - Danis and Margaret Walch of Fayette County to Samuel Greenlee: purchase price of $348.70; land description included Batey's line: 42 1/2 acres part of survey #8243, originally 266 and 2/3 acres on the waters of the North Fork of Paint Creek. Both parties signed with their marks, witnessed by Madison Dyer and Jacob Troxel.

September 1, 1845 - Dennis Welch sold James Manary 84 acres, part of survey #8243: purchase price of $651.00

On November 10, 1845 John Dyer Welch and wife, deeded his father Dennis Welch, the following 110 acres of land in Washington County, Iowa, W 1/2 of the NW 1/4 of section 34, T75N, R6W containing 80 acres; 10 acres of the N end of the SW 1/4 of S34; 20 acres in the N 1/2 of the SW forty of the NE 1/4 of S27.

The following day Dennis Welch purchased from the U.S. government, for $50.00, 40 acres in the NE 1/4 of SW1/4 of S27, T75N, R6W in the District of Fort Des Moines, Iowa, land grant #11985 recorded in Volume 24, page 312. Patent dated January 1, 1847.

Before August 15, 1848, Dennis Welch died, and his property described above was divided into 8 shares held by:

John Dyer Welch
Madison and Eveline Dyer
James Welch
Isaiah Welch
Charles R. and Rachel Ristine
Margaret Dyer Welch - her dower right consisted of what appears to have been 3/8 shares, judging from the sale price. Sarah Welch was still a minor.

The property eventually came into the hands of James and Hannah Matthews. James was born about 1803 in Ireland and was a neighbor of the Welch family as early as 1849. The deeds of sale proving this were as follows:

August 15, 1848, John Welch, and wife, deeded James Welch of Washington County, no purchase price indicated, their undivided 1/8 part of the W 1/2 of the NW 1/4 of S34. J Crawford John's will was opened and read on September 2, 1867, and proved on October 7th. He was buried in the Old Middletown Cemetery.

According to testimony of John Van Dyke and Horatio W. Cartwright, both neighbors of John in Union Township, Des Moines County, Iowa, Mary Welch left the township in 1870. This must have been after the 1870 census was taken on June 22 of that year. At the time of the 1880 census Mary Welch was head of household, living in Doyal Township, St. Clair County, Missouri. With her was her daughter, Ellen, and son-in-law, Thomas Cunningham, and their children, as well as Mary's youngest daughter, Jessie.

Mary Welch was living in Hastings, Las Animas County, Colorado, with or near her daughter and son-in-law, Annette and Leander Rinker on August 9, 1890 when she applied for a Dependent Mother's Pension, #469165, based on the death of her husband and the death of her son. James. She received $12.00 a month until her death which occurred on July 31, 1904.

The children of John Dyer and Mary Elizabeth Elliott Welch were:

James Dyer was a private in Company K of the 14th Regiment of Iowa Infantry Volunteers commanded by William J. Campbell. He was mustered into service at Davenport, Iowa, on November 6, 1861. He died of typhoid fever in an auxiliary hospital in Savannah, Tennessee, on March 25, 1862. He was nineteen years of age at the time of death, and 8 1/2 inches in height with light complexion. brown eyes, and dark hair.

A statement in the mother's pension file made by his mother, Mary Welch, was as follows:

> Concerning the manner of the death of my son James Dyer Welch I will say that I was informed by two members of his company that he (my son) was at the Battle of Fort Denelson in Feby 1862 - That during & after this Battle he lay out in rain & snow on the frozen ground & contracted Fever While so suffering he marched to Savannah Tenn & was very sick all the way. As soon as he arrived at Savannah he was sent to the Hospital but it was too late - the march had been too much for him in his condition & he died in the Hospital. The comrades who gave me this information were with him during his sickness. I had written to them but cannot receive any word from them & am therefore unable to furnish further testimony.

Fort Donelson National Military Park in Tennessee now memorializes this 1862 battle. General Ulysses S. Grant was first brought to prominence as a result of this battle which opened the Tennessee River to Union troops.

Marquis L. Welch enlisted on March 24, 1862 at Fort Madison, Iowa, in Company D, 7th Division of the Iowa Infantry. He served as a private until his discharge at the expiration of his term of service on March 27, 1865, at Goldsboro North Carolina, following which he was provided transportation to Middletown, Des Moines County, Iowa. During his period of service he was wounded twice, first at the Battle of Corinth in Mississippi, where he received a wounded wrist on October 4, 1862, and after which he was absent from service apparently until September of 1863. On August 11, 1864, he was wounded in action, after which he was hospitalized in Nashville, Tennessee. On August 27, 1863, Samuel received a gun shot wound to the mouth, injuring his tongue, while participating in the Battle of Little Rock, Arkansas, at Bayou Metoe. He was hospitalized in the Brownsville Hospital.

A report from the U. S. General Hospital at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri stated that he was "incapable of performing the duties of a soldier due to chronic diarrhea and general debility." He was mustered out of service on October 6, 1865, at St. Louis, Missouri. His military records tell us he was five feet, seven and a half inches tall, with brown eyes and black hair. His complexion was fair.
